FIGHT FOR HOME RULE

Gladstone to Introduce the Bill Monday.

DEBATE ON THE ROYAL ADDRESS.

Balfour's Drastic Comments on the Outlined Plans of the Government—Vigorous Reply of the Premier—Salisbury's Attack on the Irish Policy.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The early evening was passed in the House of Commons in giving notices of motions. Notice that Mr. Gladstone would introduce his Home Rule bill on next Monday elicited prolonged Liberal cheers.

At 8:30 o'clock George Lambert, Liberal, rose to move the address. He spoke to empty benches, as did also Mark Beaufoy, Liberal, who seconded his motion. The House filled like magic, however, when Arthur J. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury in the last Salisbury Cabinet and now leader of the Unionist opposition, arose, somewhat languidly, and, amid a storm of opposition cheers, began in a sneering tone a general criticism of the government.

He congratulated the Cabinet upon the abandonment of the policy to abandon Uganda—the policy which had been so fervently recommended by the Chancellor of the Exchequer (Sir William Harcourt) before he attained his present office.

He trusted the government would at their earliest convenience let Parliament know the causes which led to the recent troubles in Cairo. Among the causes were undoubtedly rash utterances made by the Prime Minister and the Chief Secretary for Ireland, when they were in the opposition. Both were to blame for raising hopes which certainly would be productive of future difficulties.

Mr. Balfour then denounced the Evicted Tenants' Commission as unfairly constituted, that they were incapable of presenting a trustworthy report. He demanded that the Home Secretary should say whether or not the release of Egan and Callan, the Irish dynamiters, was part of a policy of amnesty intended to involve the release of all the Irish dynamiters.

In conclusion he charged Mr. Morley, Irish Secretary, with having used the Crown prerogative for political purposes.

Mr. Gladstone was cheered loudly when he rose to answer Mr. Balfour. He had noticed, he said, that, with the continued growth of legislative arrears, the eagerness of the country for vigorous legislation increased. He had decided to lose no time, therefore, in satisfying this eagerness.

He reproached Mr. Balfour for assailing with inflammatory criticism a bill not yet introduced, and for doing his utmost to prejudice the minds of his followers against a plan of Home Rule, of which he was still ignorant. Mr. Balfour had asked where there was an empire which had been strengthened by the adoption of local autonomy. Mr. Gladstone replied that, as Lord Salisbury had done some years ago, he would point to Austro-Hungary as an illustration applicable to the case of Great Britain and Ireland.

He would also point to the British colonies, which, 60 years ago, were ruled from London, but demanded separation until self government was finally granted to them.

He would not reply to Mr. Balfour's invectives against Mr. Morley's administration of Ireland, except to say that the wise policy of clemency had been simultaneous with a great decrease of agrarian crime.

Mr. Balfour's attack upon the Evicted Tenants' Commission recoiled upon himself. Why did he not wait until the commission's proposals came before the House, when he could urge his objections with greater force?

The mission to Uganda was necessary in order that a thorough and impartial inquiry be made into affairs there. The result of this inquiry would enable the government to arrive at a rational decision. Those who wished to wash their hands of Uganda forgot the charters and other obligations which they would involve thereby.

He did not believe that in his long parliamentary career he had ever uttered words so rash and dangerous as were those uttered by Mr. Balfour concerning the difficulties in Egypt. These words had seemed to suggest that the government would lose no time in getting out of Egypt.

Mr. Balfour rose and repudiated the charge that he had suggested the probability of a hasty evacuation.

Upon resuming Mr. Gladstone said that the government had not to consider the question of occupation but merely the maintenance of order. The relations of the two governments had now been placed on a satisfactory footing, and further trouble was not apprehended.

In conclusion Mr. Gladstone repeated his appeal to the House not to be moved by premature denunciations of the Home Rule bill. He could understand the impatience of the members if they discovered any disposition to delay the bill, but such did not exist. It surely would be better for all to wait and give the provisions of the bill their full, careful, deliberate, perhaps calm, impartial, even benevolent judgment.

After Mr. Glanstone's speech the House adjourned.

In his speech Mr. Gladstone showed plainly that he had been irritated by Mr. Balfour's taunts. The tones of his voice indicated deep indignation and his gestures were rapid and violent, especially when he repudiated the imputation that royal clemency had been exploited for political purposes in the cases of the Irish dynamiters and the Gweedore prisoners.

When he came to the discussion of Uganda and Egypt his energy was partially exhausted, his voice was husky and he was obliged to relapse into a conversational tone.

He spoke for forty-five minutes with good effect.

In the House of Lords several new peers, including Lord Playfair, took the oath prescribed for new members of the House. The Prince of Wales and his son, the Duke of York, had seats on the cross bench.

Lord Brassy moved the adoption of the address. His motion was seconded by Lord Thring. Both mover and seconder spoke in general terms in support of the government.

Lord Salisbury, who appeared in opposition, said he declined to question the foreign policy of the government. Touching upon the question of Home Rule for Ireland, he said that the one object of the government during the past six months had been to get the support of a class of men who hitherto no politicians in England had to conciliate. The keynote of the Irish policy of the government was to get the support of the criminal classes.

The reference in the Queen's speech to Home Rule was the most peculiar sentence he had ever seen in a public document. It seemed to indicate that the government opinion of the whole Irish question with which Parliament had to deal was that it was right for one portion of the Irish to place their heel upon the neck of the Protestant population.

"A MERE MASS OF VERBIAGE."

Irish National League of America on the Home Rule Bill.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—An address "To the Irish People" has just been issued by the Irish National League of America. It is signed by the president, secretary and treasurer of the league. The address in part is as follows:

"The great British statesman, the Rt. Hon. William Ewart Gladstone, will within the next few days introduce in the British Parliament a Home Rule measure for Ireland.

"We have carefully studied its provisions, and we have arrived at our conclusions regarding it.

"We are of the opinion that the measure is a mere mass of legal verbiage, intended to give no satisfaction to any party. Even should the bill pass it would only place Ireland on a still lower level.

"We stand to-day at the parting of the ways betwixt resistance and conciliation. We have advised the latter, until patience has ceased to be a virtue and further temporizing has become a crime.

"We advise the formation of clubs wherever there are Irishmen honestly desirous of improving the condition of Ireland. We call on you to join with us, so that we may be able to round out the century by the fulfilment of our hopes."

PRESIDENT CLARK ACCUSED.

Nearly $40,000 of the New Haven Road's Funds Said to be Missing.

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 1.—The adjourned meeting of the stockholders of the New York, New Haven & Hartford road was held to take action on the lease of the Providence & Worcester road. The meeting was enlivened by the presence of Henry L. Goodwin of East Hartford.

He accused President Clark, who was not in the chair, of not accounting for $39,903.50 in the matter of the Stamford & New Canaan deal of one year ago. He claimed that there was a discrepancy of that amount in the accounts of the President, and asked for an explanation. He was ruled out of order.

The lease was ratified by a unanimous vote.

SAILORS EAT A COMRADE

Awful Story Told by the Thekla's Survivors.

EIGHTEEN DAYS IN THE RIGGING.

The Vessel Left Philadelphia Dec. 2, and Was Soon Disabled by a Gale—Ten Got Away in a Boat—Five of the Nine Remaining Jumped Overboard—The Others Resorted to Cannibalism to Sustain Life.

HAMBURG, Feb. 1.—The three seamen from the Norwegian ship Thekla, who were rescued and were landed here yesterday by the Danish bark Herman, were crazed by their sufferings in the rigging of the foundering vessel. Two of them recovered sufficiently last night to tell the story of the Thekla's voyage.

The Thekla was in heavy weather, they say, from Dec. 2, when she left Philadelphia. The decks were flooded almost constantly, deck houses and rails were swept away and the steering apparatus was broken.

When it was found that there was no hope of bringing the ship into port the master, mate and eight seamen got away in a boat. The other boats were smashed by the waves before they could be lowered.

Nine were obliged to remain in the rigging. They were unable to get food from below, and five of them, made insane by exposure and privation, jumped overboard.

The other four remained on board from Dec. 22 till Jan. 7, the day of the rescue.

On the 18th day lots were drawn to determine which one of the four should be killed and eaten.

The lot fell twice in succession to a Dutch sailor, and he was strangled and devoured raw by the other three.

The only drinking water the seamen got was the dew they licked from the ropes.

HUNDREDS REPORTED KILLED.

The Island of Zante Devastated by an Earthquake.

ATHENS, Feb. 1.—Hundreds are reported to have perished in the earthquake which visited the Island of Zante yesterday.

The first shock came early in the morning. In the town of Zante many business houses were wrecked, and the occupants ran in their night clothes into the street. The roof of the prison fell in, and many prisoners were wounded.

The guard was doubled to prevent the prisoners escaping and to suppress disorder consequent upon the panic among them. The walls of the prison, which had been sprung and cracked badly, were braced.

The hospital was partly shaken from its foundations, all the floors settled, and the roof sank several feet.

Two hours later the town was shaken by repeated shocks, houses fell in all quarters and the prison became so unsafe that many of the prisoners were removed.

The people, in a panic, fled from the houses and crowded the streets and market place.

Scores of families left the town to camp in the fields on the outskirts.

Many dead bodies are being found in the ruins and hundreds are reported to have been injured severely. The government has sent out troops with tents and provisions for the relief of the homeless.

It is expected that the loss of life in the interior has been very great.

Stromboli's Unusual Activity.

ROME, Feb. 1.—Stromboli, the northeasternmost of the Lipari Islands, in the Mediterranean, off the north coast of Sicily, was visited by a severe earthquake yesterday. The volcano at the west end of the island, which is in almost constant eruption, had an eruption of unusual violence immediate after the earthquake shock. Much alarm prevails among the inhabitants.

THE ANTI-OPTION BILL.

Is Passed by a Vote of 40 to 29 the Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The Senate got rid yesterday of the legislative incubus under which it has labored since the first day of the session. The anti-Option bill reached the point at which voting began at 3:15 p. m.

The first vote was on the amendment offered by Mr. Vilas, (Dem., Wis.) to the George substitute, and the amendment was rejected—yeas, 21; nays, 50. Then the George substitute itself was rejected—yeas, 19; nays, 51.

Finally the bill was passed by a vote of 40 to 29.

There were many members of the House of Representatives, at times almost as many of them as there were Senators, present in the Senate chamber during the voting and the preliminary discussion of the bill, and the deepest interest was manifested in the proceedings as well on the floor as in the crowded galleries.

The Chandler resolution requesting the President to enter into negotiations with the Commissioners from the provisional government of Hawaii for annexation of the islands was taken up, and, after a brief discussion was laid aside without action—the anti-Option bill pushing it out of the way.

Hawaiian Matter in Illinois Legislature.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. Feb. 1.—In the House of Representatives of the Illinois Legislature the Hawaiian resolution introduced by Mr. McMurdy of Cook, was on motion of Mr. Merrit, referred to the Committee on Federal Relations with instructions to report thereon one week from next Thursday.

MAY REVOLUTIONIZE SEA FIGHTING.

Trials of the Vesuvius' Pneumatic Guns Pronounced Very Successful.

PORT ROYAL, S. C., Feb. 1.—Lieut. Schroeder of the dynamite cruiser Vesuvius, whose guns are now being officially tested here, said this morning that he was greatly pleased with the result of yesterday's work.

The friends of the Vesuvius are very jubilant and claim that the trials demonstrated facts which will revolutionize naval warfare.

The trials of the pneumatic guns began at 11 o'clock. The board of officers appointed to conduct the trial, Capt. M. Sicard, Capt. A. S. Barker and Lieut. A. P. Nazro, arrived on the ship at 9 a. m., so as to station observers to watch the fall of projectiles and to watch the loading of the guns. They gave orders for the firing of the first shot at 11:15 o'clock.

In all 12 shots were fired, six at a range of 2,000 yards and six at 1,500 yards, the three guns being fired in succession. With the exception of the first two shots fired from the starboard gun no shot fell more than 20 yards from the required range and every shot fired would have struck a man-of-war at the distance designated by the board.

No target was used, but the board specified the distance required, and the observing officer with theodolites recorded the results.

There was no difficulty in the working of the air guns, nor of the supply of air to the reservoirs, nor in the controlling of the shell by the wind vanes.

The first two shots fired by the starboard gun fell about 100 yards short of the required distance. This was probably due to a slight error in the assumed form of the range curve, an error arising from the limited number of the projectiles available for preliminary work.

As soon as the error was detected in the range the curve of the starboard gun was slightly altered, and the remaining shots gave the same good results as those from the other guns.

During the trials the Vesuvius was securely moored to the naval wharf. Twelve more shots will be fired to-day under similar conditions, and then the trials with the ship in motion will begin.

NEW JERSEY'S LEGISLATURE.

House Censured by the Speaker Because of Poor Committee Work.

TRENTON, Feb. 1.—The members of the House were censured by Speaker Flynn for neglecting to perform their committee work promptly. There are over 100 bills unreported, and for want of business the House could only hold a brief session, and was then forced to adjourn for the week.

Majority and minority reports on the bill exempting mutual fire insurance companies from the provisions of the general fire insurance company act were presented.

The House passed a bill authorizing Boards of Freeholders to appropriate money for maintaining county hospitals, and killed the bill to place fraternal societies under the supervision of the State Insurance commissioner.

IS THE CITY OF PEKING SAFE?

Fears of Disaster to the Overdue Pacific Mail Steamer.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—Shipping men are discussing the non-arrival of the Pacific Mail steamer City of Peking. The company officials admit that some serious accident has befallen her, but they think she has broken her crank shaft and is coming in under sail.

If news of her is not received to-day Spreckles' big tug Fearless will go out in search of her.

Should the tug find the steamer disabled it will be a rich haul, as the cargo alone is worth $2,000,000, and the vessel another $1,000,000.

THE HAWAIIAN QUESTION

What Will England Do If We Annex the Islands?

NO ACTION TAKEN BY THE CABINET.

President Harrison Will Not Send a Message to Congress on the Subject Until After the Commissioners of the Provisional Government Are Heard—Congressman Harter, for One, Does Not Favor Annexation.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The Hawaiian question is gradually growing into an international complication.

At the State Department there is no official record of England's protest against annexation on the part of the United States, but the British Minister is expected to call upon Secretary Foster at an early moment and explain England's attitude.

It is admitted that England objects to the annexation proposition, but it is not known what steps she proposes to take in the event of such an act on the part of the United States.

Senator Chandler called upon the Secretary of State to get some information bearing on the Hawaiian question, to assist him in defending the resolution providing for annexation which he introduced in the Senate Monday. That resolution was expected to come up for debate yesterday, but when called it went over for another day.

It calls upon the President to transmit to the Senate any convention he may make with the provisional government of Hawaii. Mr. Dolph (Rep. Ore.) made a long statement on the subject, giving details as to population, commerce, etc., of the islands and favoring annexation.

The discussion of the question at the Cabinet meeting was informal, and there being nothing before the body for its consideration no action was taken.

The matter of the reception of the commissioners of the provisional government of Hawaii concerns directly only the President and Secretary of State, with whom their business must be transacted. There was practically unanimous expression of opinion in favor of annexation, but as this will require action by Congress, as well as by the Executive, there was no decision that could be reached as this time.

The commissioners, of course, will be received courteously and their proposition listened to with sympathy, but their recommendations that may be made thereon will be determined by its terms. What these may be cannot be told until the arrival of the commissioners and the statement of their case to the Secretary of State.

It may be said that there will be "no precipitate action in the matter; it cannot be disposed of in a day, nor in a week. There will probably be no message to Congress from the President until after the commissioners have been heard, and then, it is surmised, only in case a favorable recommendation upon their proposition shall have been decided upon.

Lord Rosebery's statement to the Hawaiian Charge at London that England, France and Germany would protest against the annexation of Hawaii by the United States is believed to have good foundation only so far as England is concerned.

The interests of France and Germany in that country are not of sufficient importance to warrant either of them in proceeding even as far as a protest against the political absorption of the Islands by the United States, in case it was deemed best by this country to take that action.

Dr. Mott Smith, the Hawaiian representative here, expects England to protest and to protest vigorously. He thinks that there will be a concentration at Honolulu, as rapidly as possible of the naval forces of England, now in the Pacific for the purpose of making a demonstration.

But it is not probable in the opinion of Dr. Smith that this will affect the sentiment of the people in any way. The commercial interests of Hawaii are practically all with the United States and the sympathies of the native population, under the influence of the members of the royal family, are undoubtedly with the English, still the property interest of the island will eventually control its destiny. That interest is in favor of political incorporation with the United States.

Representative N. D. Harter of Ohio is one of the Congressmen who have decided opinions upon the question of the annexation of Hawaii which are antagonistic to the expressions of a large number of his associates.

"We don't want the islands," said Mr. Harter, "under any conditions, and I am decidedly opposed to making them a part of our territory. The whole scheme is a job intended to benefit the few sugar planters who are anxious to secure the two per cent. bounty paid by the United States on the native product.

"Their crop amounts to 2,000,000 or 2,500,000 pounds a year as I recollect, and if they should get that bounty there will be a nice bounty of from $40,000 to $50,000 to divide among these sugar planters.

"But we will knock that out shortly and then you'll have hear no more about annexation."

NO HASTY ACTION LIKELY.

Statement That 900 Marines Are to be Sent to Honolulu Denied.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—There is seemingly no preparation being made at the Navy Department for sending vessels to Honolulu to support the Boston. The statement that 900 marines would be sent to Honolulu on the steamer Mariposa lacks confirmation at the Department.

While this number of marines and perhaps 100 more could be mustered for foreign service of this character not more than 500 could be conveniently spared. Besides the Mariposa will sail from San Francisco to-night and it is not possible for the Department to have more than 300 men ready before the hour of departure.

It is probable that no extraordinary action will be taken by the United States Government until after a conference has been held between the Hawaiian annexation commissioners now on their way to Washington from San Francisco and the Secretary of State.

This conference will be held Saturday morning at the State Department. Arrangements for it have been made by a member of the Pacific Coast Congressional delegation.

—The new Netherwood station will be ready for occupancy March 1.

—A business meeting of the Reform club will be held in Reform Hall to-morrow evening.

—It is reported that during the past three months there were 27 cases of diphtheria in Plainfield, of which 11 were fatal.

—Be sure and see "Little Tippet", the funniest comedy of the year, played by a great company including the baby, at Music Hall, Friday evening.

—Garret VanWinkle deserves much credit for originating so novel and delightful an entertainment as "Aunt Dinah's Husking-Bee" last night.

—Harry W. Ulrich will open a new store to be known as "The Fair", at 2 Park avenue, to-morrow. He will deal in household goods, toys and stationery.

—In translating "Little Tippett" from the French, we are told that all that's risque has been omitted. Still the baby will be there, Friday night, at Music Hall.

—The Salvation Army anniversary to-morrow evening will be a great jubilee. Bjornson the great tenor will be a feature, and there will be a host of grand officers in attendance.

—The Husking-Bee in the W. C. T. U. rooms last night was a great success. The rooms were so full that people had to be turned away. The affair netted $40 for a worthy object.

—At this evening's service in the Crescent Avenue church, an address will be made by the Rev. Charles E. Knox, D. D., president of the German Theological Seminary, on "Work among our Foreign Population".

—The evangelistic services held in Park Place chapel last evening, conducted by P. C. Bascom of Paterson, were very interesting. The attendance was large. The services will be continued for 10 days. Everyone will be welcome.

—The Plainfield Board of health last night decided to investigate the raceway and brook from Somerset street and Giraud avenue, going over all the adjacent property and finding out just who is and who is n't in connection with the streams. They purpose to put an end to all sewage connection with brook and raceway.

—A thief broke into the office at Kenyon's machine shop at Third and Richmond streets last night and ransacked the desk, strewing the papers all over the floor in a search for money. Nothing worth carrying away was found. Officer Mattox of that district saw a fellow in the neighborhood and thinks he was the would-be burglar.

Long Needed WHAT THE PRESS Invoked.

(New York Recorder.)

Business men are delighted over the announcement that the Central railroad has purchased the property on Richmond street and North avenue, and is prepared to begin at once the erection of a new freight house. This has long been needed, the present one being poorly situated, and entirely too small for the large freight business in Plainfield. The site on which the present house stands will be used as a waiting room for passengers bound for New York. The property cost the railroad company $27,500.

The unprecedented sale of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup provokes competition; but the people cling to Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

WEDDED IN COURT.

Bessie Giggled, and Her Sister Danced, When the Ceremony Was Complete.

An interesting wedding ceremony was performed by justice V. W. Nash yesterday afternoon at 2, when 18-year-old Bessie Davis of Cottage place was married to James Ross of the same thoroughfare.

James had pledged himself to marry the girl, but of late had shown a disposition to be recalcitrant, and she had had him arrested for breach of promise.

Then James weakened, and asked that the girl be sent for. Constable W. R. Mattox took her in a hack to court. She wore a dress of green and brown stripes, edged at the skirt with fur. A jaunty black sack was tightly buttoned about her. Fluffy bangs projected from the edge of a pink knitted fascinator. A long boa of black feathers encircled her throat. Rings and bracelets adorned her hands.

The groom wore his trousers rolled up to his shoe tops. A big lavender tie covered his shirt front.

James and Bessie signified their consent to marriage, and after giving the court the necessary biographical information stood up and joined hands. When they were pronounced man and wife James sat down and Bessie giggled. Bessie's sister, who attended her, gleefully joked with Mr. Mattox during the ceremony and gave a little dance when it was over. She wore a dark street gown and a brown Alpine hat.

While the judge was filling out the papers in the case James and Bessie's sister shut themselves in the outer office and held a whispered consultation. Bessie peeped at them around the edge of a curtain at the glass door.

James reported that he was short of funds, and was permitted to go out to raise the $3 90 necessary to pay the costs. "If he jumps a cosler"—said his merry sister-in-law—"I'll settle for him."

The two young women went to Estil's book-store to squander 10 cents on a wedding certificate blank.

Bessie is a light-colored member of the Negro race. James is darker.

The official witnesses to the marriage were constable Mattox and a PRESS reporter, who both felt highly honored.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy and the Misses Tracy will give a tea Feb. 9.

Robert Collyer will lecture on "Clear Grit" in All Souls' church Friday night at 8.

Miss Dilly, of Bernardsville, is the guest of Miss Lizzie Smalley, of Craig place.

Joe. Milan starts in a few days for Scotland, to look after the estate left by his mother.

Mrs. Carmon Parse left this afternoon for Knoxville, to visit her brother, John Honeyman, and family.

Mrs. Mary C. Griffith, of Washington, D. C., speaks on Home Missions, in Vincent chapel, this evening.

Mrs. Edward Homer Ladd, jr., and Miss Evans will give an "at home", Wednesday, Feb. 8, from 4 to 7.

Miss Streull gives an afternoon reception to-morrow, for her brother, who sails for Germany on Saturday to be gone indefinitely.

The marriage of David Angerbauer and Mamie Conway will take place in St. Mary's rectory next week Wednesday evening.

W. R. Chapman was unable because of illness, to be present at last night's rehearsal of his Melopola society in the Casino. Accompanist Levy led instead in a perfectly efficient and satisfactory manner.

Sarah C., widow of Richard R. Coriell, and one of Plainfield's oldest residents, died yesterday in her seventy-third year. She was mother of Richard, jr., and Wallace Coriell. Funeral services will be held at 8 Liberty street Friday afternoon at 2:30.

A charming afternoon tea was given at the home of Mrs. Walter E. Stewart yesterday. Mrs. Stewart and daughter, Elizabeth, received; and Miss Florence Huntington, Miss Minnie Wood, Mrs. L. G. Timpson, Miss Bessie Ginna and Miss Lizzie VanBoskerck assisted in the dining room.

J. A. Smith of this city was one of the committee at Trenton, Monday and Tuesday, representing the State Grocers' association, in behalf of the bill which makes the wife equally liable with the husband for debts contracted. This bill, they claim, would greatly aid them in collecting bad debts.

Owing to the press of private business, Mr. Bullman will not be able to leave for Mexico until some time in March. It is reported that the object of Mr. Bullman's visit is to interest the Mexican government in the plan proposed as a solution of the silver question by R. P. Rothwell of the Engineering and Mining Journal.

It is pleasant to record that the pictures of George Wharton Edwards now on exhibition by the American Water Color society and New York Etching club are attracting a great deal of attention, and are treated very favorably by eminent critics. Mr. Edwards displays diversified samples of his talent. Miss Emma L. Wadsworth is another Plainfielder who shows good work. Her branch of roses is a very lovely bit of coloring.

Mr. and Mrs. I. L. McVoy tendered an evening social to their friends at their home, last evening. About forty guests were present and a most enjoyable time resulted. Vocal and instrumental selections, recitations, etc., were given by local talent. Supper was served and dancing was indulged in until morning. Much credit is due the host and hostess for the kind and liberal way in which they entertained those present, and to Burt McVoy who so ably looked after the dancing. Music was furnished by Mrs. Buckley.

We are all subject to pain occasionally and it is well to have a good liniment in the house, such as Salvation Oil. 25c.

"A PIECE OF SPITE WORK"

In What Counselor Hetfield Calls Mr. Bock's Arrest for Playing Whist—Sentence Postponed.

Charles Bock, of West Second street, was arraigned before the city judge last evening at 5, charged with the violation of a city ordinance in allowing the playing of cards in his saloon. Through his counsel, ex-councilman Hetfield, he waived examination and acknowledged that he was playing whist with three friends in his place of business last Saturday afternoon at 5. They were not playing for anything and it was in the public room in sight of everybody. Chief Grant walked in and stood and watched Mr. Bock trump his partner's ace.

Counselor Hetfield told the judge that the arrest was a piece of spite work. He said that in every saloon in the city, every day and every night, there were card playing, dominoe playing, dice throwing and other games, and chief Grant knew it and permitted it, or sent a warning to stop. He said Mr. Thorn told him (Hetfield) that the chief had sent him (Thorn) word to look out; but in Mr. Bock's case there was no warning and the arrest was for a friendly game of whist in the afternoon, instead of in the evening when there might be more playing and greater offence. The counselor intimated that that occasion was taken because the desire of the chief was not to catch Bock but to bring notoriety on some one he had a personal spite against, as Carey had done in the noted Miller's hotel case.

Judge Coddington said it was the first case of its nature that had ever come before the city court, and he should like to hear the city's views through the corporation counsel, before giving his decision. He therefore postponed sentence until this afternoon at 5.

Chief Grant told the court he had nothing to say, but to a PRESS reporter explained that word had been brought him that there was card playing in Thorn's, but he was unable to get the evidence himself. Mr. Thorn told him it was without his knowledge and would be stopped at once. The reason he arrested Bock was because he walked in the saloon himself and saw the act committed.

KENNEY LED THEM ALL.

Young Men Bowlers Do Themselves Proud and Defeat the Crescents.

The two Plainfield bowling teams in the Elizabeth Journal trophy tournament met last night on the Young Men's alleys, and the Crescents were given a thorough walloping. Had the Crescents bestowed as much care on their own bowling as they did in an effort to rattle their opponents, the result might have been different. Their especial animosity was showered on Kenney, their own ex-player, who, however, maintained his composure and rolled his usual steady game. The attendance of spectators was large. The Plainfield teams are now tied again in the record. The score:

A NEW WAITING ROOM.

Street Railway Passenger Station to Be Established on Peace Street.

The Plainfield Street Railway company has leased of Edward Love the Peace street store in his building at the corner of North avenue, and will establish there a much-needed waiting room for its patrons.

The company could not afford to pay the rent asked for the place, but for the sake of the public was able to get it at a reduced figure, and the landlord makes up the balance by renting advertising space on the wall.

The railroad company will have an office in the waiting room for the sale of tickets, general and school, the issuance of transfers, etc.

THE CAMERA CLUB OPENING.

A Fine Exhibition, and an Album for the Hospital.

The room of the Camera club in the new Babcock building will be the finest of the kind in the United States, and in celebration of their distinguished success they will give a grand exhibition of prints on the occasion of their opening. Last night the club met and appointed a committee to take charge of the event. Two new members were elected. The committee appointed to prepare an album for the Muhlenberg hospital reported their work completed, and the book of views will forthwith be presented to the institution, where it will doubtless delight the patients.

Somerville Getting Civilized.

Telephone Manager Charles Runyon of this city to-day opened connection with the ancient village of Somerville. James C. Field, the popular and successful Plainfield pharmacist, has been in the town long enough to infuse new life into the place, and is gradually civilizing the community. The new 'phone is in his pharmacy, and all Somerville is now rushing to the spot to hear the voice of an intelligent populace. The first place the eager throng called up was the PRESS office, whose fame has extended even into that benighted wilderness of Harkinsville. Somerville will hereafter be on tap to all Plainfield 'phones.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren avenue, Chicago, Ill.

CHAPS

And How to Get Rid of Them.

Nothing more annoying than chapped hands. And the more you wash the worse they chap! Soap cleans, but soap chaps. MR. FINCH DEFENDED.

HERE'S THE FIRST REPLY YET MADE TO THE AVALANCHE OF CRITICISM.

A Correspondent Friendly to Mr. Finch Says that the Board Shoved Its Work on Him Against His Will—The Board Ready to Listen to Any Business-Like Petition.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I have read several articles in regard to the purchase of the property at the corner of Central avenue and Sixth street by the Board of Education, and I commend their judgment in selecting so reasonable a piece of property, being worth from sixteen to eighteen thousand dollars instead of thirteen which they paid for it. The location is desirable and admirably adapted to school purposes, and a handsome High School building erected in that neighborhood will not deteriorate from the adjoining property, but rather add to the value of the same.

But if the building of a public school be considered an injury to property in that locality (which I do not think it will), I have no doubt that the Board of Education would dispose of this property and select some other site, if appealed to in a business-like way.

A friend of mine who is well acquainted with Mr. Finch, states the following facts in reference to the Wadsworth property. There were several pieces of property offered to the Board of Education, including the above, and Mr. Finch, as secretary and treasurer, was requested by the Board to purchase the said property in his own name. To this he demured, stating that he preferred it should be bought in the name of the Board, when it was unanimously agreed that it was preferable he should buy it as at first directed in his own name. In the buying it was distinctly and openly understood at all times that the purchase was for other parties, and before the deed was delivered the question was even asked was it not to be used as the site for a public school. If the residents and property owners in the vicinity of said property do not desire a school building placed upon the site, let them act in regard to it in a business way, and address their communication to the Board, accompained by a petition regarding the same, which communication will receive all the attention that it deserves, and I venture to say that not one member of the Board, desires to depreciate or injure any property or property-holder in the city. DEFENDER.

LEAFLETS FOR LENT.

Gems of Scriptural Reflection In Memorial of a Beloved Plainfield Pastor.

A beautiful volume of selections intended for daily reading in the home during the Lenten season has just been published by Lee & Shepherd of Boston, and may be found at Estil's book store. It has been prepared as a memorial of the late Rev. William P. Tilden, first pastor of the Plainfield Unitarian church, by his daughter. It consists of appropriate selections from the Scriptures, and from Mr. Tilden's writings, on finely printed pages facing one another, and is based upon the last sermon he ever preached, which was delivered in this city. Not only those who knew and loved Mr. Tilden during his short residence here, but many others, will value the book and find it both helpful and inspiring. Well-known clergymen of many denominations, among others, Bishop Huntington, of central New York, have written in the warmest praises of the book, both as a memorial to the dead and a help to the living. One of these has said:

"Leaflets for Lent. Selected and arranged from the Bible and from the manuscripts of William Phillips Tilden. These leaflets, beginning with the words spoken the last Lenten season in the life of Mr. Tilden, have been prepared in accordance with his expressed desire. The book is designed for use in the home, to lie open through the appointed day, that one may easily find the needed oil to lessen the daily frictions of life. Let 'some word of Jesus' first be read, that the following thought may have deeper power. Sunday not being included in the canonical forty days, are given to the words of St. Paul and to the hymns that were so often in speech and song on the lips of Mr. Tilden. The days follow the events in the life of Jesus as recorded in the four Gospels, in somewhat consecutive order, ending with the last morning. To Holy Week is given the Bible record of these sacred days, the thoughts on the opposite leaf symbolising these events in our human life, as given in the last sermon Mr. Tilden ever preached. These leaflets will not bring sadness or gloom, but the bright sunshine of a confident faith that will mark the season, as he so desired, one of 'Getting and Giving Light.'"

"Going Through the Same Experience."

[From The New Brunswick Home News.]

The people of Plainfield are greatly excited over the purchase by the Board of Education of a costly building site for the erection of a High school building in the fashionable portion of the town, and there is talk of calling an indignation meeting of the citizens for the purpose of making an effort to upset the scheme. The objections to the purchase of the site selected are that another one equally desirable and much more reasonable in price could have been found, and that the present schools are more than sufficient for the accommodation of the pupils now in attendance.

Among those who are said to be opposing the scheme are mayor Gilbert, councilman Fisk, ex-councilman Rowland Cox and a number of the wealthiest and most representative men of the city. The people of Plainfield are evidently going through the same experience as our own people passed through when the Livingston avenue school was a bone of contention, and the issue, in all probability, will terminate as amicably in their case as it did in ours. The school was built and is to-day an improvement we could ill afford to lose.

Time to Stop Fooling.

Dr. Gruff (to fashionable patient)—It's merely the same old ailment, my dear madam.

Mrs. Style—Oh, no, doctor; I really am ill now!

Dr. Gruff—H'm! If that really is so I'll have to change the whole course of treatment.—Judge.

ANOTHER WONDER

Inventive.

Small Son—I know what I'll be when I grow up. I'm goin' to be a great inventor.

Papa—That's encouraging, certainly. What makes you think you have inventive genius?

Small Son—Why, I wanted to take a screw out, and I couldn't find any screwdriver, and so I unscrewed it out with your razor.—Good News.

Something New.

He lingered around her, and watched her eyes,
And hung on each musical word—
And she was aware of his stifled sighs
And the throbs of his heart she heard;
And though nothing was said between these two,
He knew she knew that he knew she knew.
—Madeline S. Bridges, in Puck.

That Would Be Awful.

Mrs. Keedick (indignantly)—Bridget, you must leave this instant! I won't put up another hour with your impudence.

Miss Rafferty—Aisy, now! If yez talks that way sure an' I won't give yez a ri-cumindation to show to the nixt gurrel.—Judge.

A Sure Sign.

Bingo—How much do you owe your livery-stable keeper?

Slacks—Nothing. Why?

Bingo—Oh! I saw you shaking hands with him and heard you asking after all his family this morning.—Town Topics.

Remark by Some Spiteful Neighbor.

"I think you said Widow Tungay's husband preceded her to the better land some forty years."

"Yes."

"Then she had forty years' gossip to unload on him when she went to meet him. Poor man!"—Chicago Tribune.

Something He Knew About.

Teacher (to the class in chemistry)—What does sea water contain besides the sodium chloride that we have mentioned?

Bobby Smith — Fish, sir. — Boston Globe.

The Relative Ratio.

Gutterby—There are so many ciphers in society these days.

Swinton—Possibly; but you know the proportion of ciphers in 400 is as two to one, and figures won't lie.—Detroit Free Press.

A Cheap Meal.

"I know a place where you can get a dinner for a quarter."

"Really? A good lay out?"

"First-rate, if you give the waiter a half dollar."—Truth.

A Disease.

"What is Sendhunter's business?"

"He puts in his time looking for a rich wife."

"That isn't a business; it's a disease."—Life.

How Did He?

He—Great minds run in the same channel, Miss Effie.

Miss Effie (innocently)—How do you know?—Detroit Free Press.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

Does it make a really good Stocking any poorer to sell it for 15c. instead of 25c.?

Does it lessen the value of a Table Linen that is worth 50c. to sell it for 33c

Does it hurt the quality of a Towel that anyone will ask you 25c. for to sell it for 17c.?

celled in all branches of study. Always happy and joyous, and full to overflowing with vivacity, she possesses the enviable quality of extracting every grain of pleasure from her surroundings. She has never been very robust, and for that reason has, in company with her brilliant mother, spent several winters in Florence. There is a remarkable charm about her of which her friends never tire, and with the added attraction of being a perfect dancer she has always about her an admiring coterie, chief of whom and most favored, however, is her "dear daddy."

Miss Julia Nelson Patterson is the daughter of Gen. J. N. Patterson, of New Hampshire, at present the second auditor of the treasury. She is a lineal descendant of Jonathan Cilley, of revolutionary fame. Although rather shy and undemonstrative, she possesses many pretty little mannerisms which render her a charming companion, much sought after in society. Her maternal grandfather was Rev. Dr. Bouton, who was for forty years pastor of the First Congregational church, of Concord, N. H. Miss Patterson passed most of her childhood days among the granite hills, and received her education at the justly celebrated

VIVA M. CASTLE.

St. Mary's school of Concord, afterward completing her studies at the Nowood institute in Washington. She is very gifted with brush and needle, and her delight is to surprise her friends with little gifts of her own handiwork. Miss Patterson has spent the winters at the national capital, and is a great favorite wherever she goes. She is an excellent dancer and an accomplished horsewoman, the latter talent rendering her immensely popular, especially in army and navy circles.

Miss Florence P. Spofford is the only daughter of Ainsworth R. Spofford, librarian of congress. Although decidedly brilliant and attractive, she is very unassuming and modest, and one has to know her well to fully appreciate her remarkable qualities of mind. Her education has been chiefly obtained at home under the supervision of her father. Since the death of her mother, which occurred last summer, Miss Florence has devoted herself almost exclusively to the domestic machinery of her father's house; but she has nevertheless found time to become a valued member of various charitable and scientific organizations, and is to-day one of the leading spirits in the Woman's Anthropological Society of America. Since her partial withdrawal from society she has [illegible] her father in his manifold duties; he does not, however, is waiting with [illegible] dress the latter's return to its various duties and pleasures.

Miss Emily Tufton Mason, like Miss Spofford, is intensely interested in anthropology, and is one of the board of directors of that scientific society of American women. She is the eldest daughter of Prof. Otis T. Mason, curator of the National museum, member of the Columbian university and one of the leading lights in the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Miss Mason has contributed several valuable scientific papers upon her pet subject, all of which are highly prized. Petite in figure, with clear-cut features and bright intelligent eyes, her beauty attracts a throng of admirers wherever she goes. Not less brilliant in conversation, her quick repartees are like sparks from an electric wire, bright, instantaneous, and often carrying with them the little stings that are not felt till they are gone.

Miss Mary Dean Powell is the only child of Maj. J. W. Powell, who lost his right arm at the battle of Pittsburgh Landing, and who refused to accept a pension from the government he had helped to maintain. The major is a well-known scientific writer, and his daughter has inherited a natural tendency for the same pursuits. She is of constant and inestimable assistance to her father in his work as director of the geological survey and the bureau of ethnology. Miss Powell is a tall and graceful brunette, with flashing black eyes, which seem to comprehend the world at a glance. She is very popular with those who know her well, though rather retiring and conservative about making acquaintances. Private tutors began her education, which was afterwards completed in Germany and France, and she speaks the language of each of these countries fluently. Her greatest accomplishment, however, is music. She is a wonderful pianist, and from pure love of her art she devotes at least half of every day to its practice. Although born in Salt Lake City, she has passed most of her life in Washington, where her friends are as numerous as they are devoted. Last winter Miss Powell made her first formal bow to society, which she at once took by storm, her tastes and talents quickly placing her at the head of the musical clique of the city.

Miss Rose Mortimer MacDonald, the beautiful daughter of Marshall MacDonald, commissioner of fish and fisheries, is as fascinating as she is brilliant. Her tastes are pronouncedly scientific, and she has ever been her father's chosen companion in his geological and metallurgical rambles and researches. Miss MacDonald prides herself on being a close student of nature. She has traveled extensively in Europe and with her father has discussed the "ologies" with many of the eminent scientists of Scotland and Germany. She is a tall, queenly blonde, a ready conversationalist and a profound thinker, but, notwithstanding her fondness for study and scientific pursuits, she finds time to go much into society, where she is a genial friend and a universal favorite. She possesses many social charms and her diversified talents are everywhere appreciated.

Anita Newcomb McGee is a practicing physician; she began her education in Washington, and then spent several years studying in Europe. A portion of this time was passed as a student at Newnham college, Cambridge, England, one year at the university at Geneva and another year in Berlin. She is the daughter of Prof. Simon Newcomb, the noted astronomer, and in company with him has visited all the great observatories of Europe, including Greenwich and Pulkova, near St. Petersburg. She also visited Europe several times when her father was supervising the grinding of the lenses for the Lick telescope. After her return to America she married Mr. W. J. McGee, the geologist, but better known as an authority on earthquakes. She frequently accompanies him on his geological expeditions, and at one time made the trip from New Orleans to Kentucky on horseback.

Mrs. McGee has the honor of being the second woman who was elected a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and is also a member of the Anthropological Society of America, being already a charter member of the women's branch of the same society. Within the past few years Mrs. McGee has graduated in medicine from Columbian university and is now at work in the Johns Hopkins hospital. She hopes to establish a sanitarium for the practice of gynaecology in Washington. Her writings include "An Experiment in Human Stirpiculture," "Generation of n—Dimensional Space," "History of the Women's Anthropological Society of America," "The Evolution of a Sect" and "Notes on American Communities."

AN ABSENT-MINDED HOSTESS.

Forgot to Ask the Ones in Whose Honor the Luncheon Was Given.

Not long ago there was a luncheon uptown, given by a woman well known in New York's social life, whose guests were invited to meet "the Misses Blank." At the appointed hour a company of a dozen women was assembled in the hostess' parlor, completing the expected number of guests, with the exception of the sisters in whose honor the feast was held. Time wore on, the company grew hungry, and the hostess had visions of a splendid luncheon, but still the Misses Blank tarried. At length, when a full half hour beyond the hour had struck, luncheon was announced and, with a brief comment that the young women must have been suddenly and unavoidably detained, the hostess ushered her friends to the table. The long luncheon was finished and later adieus spoken with no word from the missing guests of honor and everybody went away curious to know what could have happened, in these days of messenger boys and telephones, to prevent the Misses Blank from at least making some sign of its import. A few days later, however, this curiosity was gratified. A note from her late hostess reached each guest present, saying that in justice to the Misses Blank she hastened to explain that through a curious freak of absent-mindedness she had neglected to send them any invitation to the luncheon intended as a compliment to them. Which explanation fully exonerated the young women and proved amusing to all concerned, except, perhaps, the hostess.—N. Y. Times.

AUTHORITIES DIFFERED.

And As Usual It Was the Greater Light That Had Blundered.

The reading class was standing in a stiff row upon the floor of an Indiana school house, and a bright little fellow was drawling a paragraph about a Roman massacre.

The president of the school board was present on his regular tour of inspection, and he pompously requested that the boy "read that verse again."

The "verse" was read again.

"Ah! hm!" said the great man in a loud voice. "Why do you pronounce that word massa-ker?"

The boy was silent.

"It should be pronounced massa-kre," continued the great man, with a patronizing smile.

The boy remained quiet, but the teacher finally spoke:

"Pardon me, sir," she said, "but the fault is mine if the word was mispronounced. I have taught the class to pronounce it 'massa-ker.'

"But why?" insisted the great man, in a look of surprise was followed by a look of pain upon his benign features.

"I believe that Webster favors that pronunciation," said the teacher, meekly.

"Impossible," said the great man.

The dictionary was brought, and the president of the school board turned over its leaves until he found the word. There was a breathless silence as he looked up.

"I am astonished, madam," he said, at last, "that Daniel Webster should have made such a mistake as that."—Harper's Weekly.

Island of Zante Visited by Another Earthquake.

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE REPORTED.

The Panama Scandal Investigation—Baihut to Reimburse Journalist Mariotte—Edward Parker Deacon Granted a Divorce—Miners Killed in Westphalia—Other Foreign Notes.

ATHENS, Feb. 2.—The Island of Zante was shaken by another earthquake yesterday. A hundred houses are reported to have been wrecked in the city of Zante. Thousands are leaving the city to sleep in the fields.

Many have been killed and injured. On other parts of the island the shocks have not been less severe. Several villages have been entirely destroyed, many of their inhabitants have been killed, and the rest are sleeping in the fields.

An enormous tidal wave swept up from the harbor, smashing small craft against the seawall, and sending water two feet deep along the street on the harbor front.

The shock was felt at Cephalonia, and several shocks have been felt since.

BAIHUT TO MAKE RESTITUTION.

He Will Pay Editor Mariotte the Amount of the Libel Suit Damages.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—M. Baihaut, ex-Minister of Public Works, now awaiting trial for accepting Panama money, has decided to restore to M. Mariotte, a journalist, the amount of damages and costs of which the latter was mulcted in a libel suit in 1888. M. Baihaut was the complainant in this case.

M. Mariotte had accused him of accepting Panama money. M. Baihaut denied the truth of the accusation, and had his accuser brought into court, as he said, to vindicate his character.

Besides paying damages and costs, M. Mariotte had to serve 20 days in prison. At the time M. Baihaut wrote to the newspapers that the sentence was not half heavy enough to punish such a conscienceless liar and blackguard.

M. Baihaut has resigned the presidency of the Society for the Promotion of Morality.

EIGHTEEN MINERS KILLED.

Explosion of Firedamp in a Mine in Westphalia—Many Hurt.

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—An explosion of firedamp occurred in the Gen. von Blumenthal coal pit at Recklinghausen, Westphalia, yesterday afternoon.

Eighteen miners were killed instantly, and 17 were injured.

Eiffel Defended in Court.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—At the resumption of the trial of the Panama defendants the courtroom was crowded with people anxious to hear M. Waldeck-Rousseau's defense of M. Eiffel. He declared that the profits attributed to his client from his Panama connections were mythical. The truth was that M. Eiffel had incurred enormous expense, and when the contract was cancelled he had fulfilled all his engagements. Pending the argument the court adjourned.

Commons Debating the Queen's Speech.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The debate in the House of Commons on the address in reply to the Queen's speech was devoted to the Scotch Church Suspensory bill. Several Conservative and Liberal members attacked the proposed measure, while Sir George O. Travelyan, Secretary for Scotland, defended it. Mr. Gladstone appeared bright and cheerful, and his efforts at the opening of Parliament seemed to have had no bad effect upon him.

Egan's Warm Reception at Limerick.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The popular reception of James Egan, the liberated Irish dynamiter, in Limerick, last evening, was the most remarkable demonstration yet made in his honor. The whole city was ablaze with bonfires and torchlight processions paraded with bands and banners, and almost every house was illuminated. The Mayor of Limerick presided over the meeting with which the demonstration closed.

Plans of Liberal-Unionists.

The Youthful King Seriously Ill.

MADRID, Feb. 2.—The young King Alfonso is seriously ill and the official bulletins are of an undecided nature stating that the illness is scarlet fever, scarlatina or measles, each in turn. NEW YORK STATE AND COAL.

How the Senate Committee Would Regulate the Supply and Demand.

ALBANY, Feb. 2.—Senator McMahon, chairman of the special committee which was last year appointed to inquire as to whether or not a combination of corporations or individuals had been formed with a view to advancing or controlling the price of coal, and to report such remedial legislation as in its opinion would be for the best interests of the public has submitted his report to the Senate.

The report reviews the circumstances leading up to the Reading railroad combination and describes the operations of the roads, which were in the combine, and says the amount of coal controlled by these several companies aggregates about 70 per cent. of the entire tonnage annually brought to tidewater.

The committee reviews the voluminous testimony taken, and states its conclusion adverse to the combination.

Among the provisions of the bill accompanying the report are the following:

[On and after Sep. 1, 1893, it shall be unlawful,

First—For any person not having a "coal carriers license" to transport anthracite coal which is intended for consumption in the State on a railroad, the navigable waters or a canal therein.

Second—For any person not having a "coal dealers license" to engage in the business of selling anthracite coal which is in the State and intended for consumption therein.

The licenses shall be known respectively as a "coal carriers license" and a "coal dealers license."

Licenses shall be issued only on the written request of the applicant filed with the Board of Railroad Commissioners and shall be placed conspicuously in his office.

A license may be transferred to any qualified person with the consent of the Board of Railroad Commissioners and when so transferred, the transferee shall be entitled to the same rights as the former holder.

The maximum price of coal is to be fixed by the State Railroad Commission based on its investigations of the matters effecting such prices, which shall be so adjusted as not to conflict with and so as to afford only a reasonable compensation for such coal.

The coal carriers license fee is fixed at $25 and that of the coal dealers at $5.

The Board of Railroad Commissioners shall meet at least every three months when prices for coal as fixed by it may be modified. The determination of the Board may be reviewed by writ of certiorari.

This act shall not be construed so as to authorize the Board of Railroad Commissioners to determine with respect to a coal dealer's license, authorizing the licensee to carry on business in cities having a population in excess of 500,000, as fixed by the last State census, that the maximum prices in such licenses shall exceed $4.50 a ton, of 2,000 pounds, for grades of anthracite coal intended for domestic use.

THE ERIE CAR WORKS FAILURE.

Liabilities Will Exceed $1,000,000—Business Circles Agitated.

ERIE, Pa., Feb. 2.—The failure of the Erie Car Works Company, limited, has shaken business circles to the centre in this community, although no other institution is likely to be disastrously involved.

It is estimated that the liabilities, including a $253,000 mortgage in favor of Hon. William A. Galbraith and Col. H. B. Plumer, on the Martel furnace at Point St. Ignace, Mich., will aggregate more than a million dollars.

There are a number of iron firms in the Mahoning Valley among the unsecured creditors.

The concern has been struggling under a heavy load for a number of years. The sale of the personal property will take place on Saturday of this week.

The works are still running on orders in hand. When worked to the full capacity they employ about 500 hands.

CROUSE WILL PROBATED.

Mrs. Kosterlitz's Claims to be Presented to the Executors.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 2.—The will of the late Millionaire Daniel Edgar Crouse was admitted to probate in the Surrogate's court yesterday afternoon.

No move was made by the attorneys on the part of Mrs. Kosterlitz, the alleged wife and claimant, in behalf of the child, Dorothea Edgarita.

Attorney W. S. Andrews, who represents Mrs. Kosterlitz, says that her claims will be presented to the executors, who must pay to her daughter's representatives the bulk of the estate which goes to the next of kin.

Typhus Among New York Policemen.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Policeman Patrick Kennelly, of the E. 36th street station house, has developed typhus fever, and is now at Riverside hospital. Kennelly had been detailed to one of the wards at Bellevue hospital, where typhus patients have been placed. Roundsman Harris, on duty at the same ward, has been ill for several days, and it is feared that he, too, has contracted the disease.

Will Affect 100,000 Miners.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—A great coal strike is impending in South Wales, unless masters or men recede from their present position. The conference, with a view of revising the sliding scale now prevailing in the collieries, has proved a failure. About 100,000 men and 200 collieries are directly affected by the controversy.

K. of L. to Watch Ottawa Legislators.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb 2.—The Knights of Labor will send a deputation to watch the proceedings of the Dominion Parliament this session. They were asking for legislation to prohibit the importation of alien labor under contract, as well as an act imposing an annual poll-tax of $100 on Chinese residents in Canada.

HAWAII AND UNCLE SAM

Commissioners Will Reach the Capital To-morrow.

CONFERENCE TO BE HELD SATURDAY

Secretary Foster Has Decided Not to Go to Paris on Account of the Situation—Ships at Mare Island Ready to Start at Any Moment—Senator Frye Strongly Favors Annexation.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The principal development in connection with the Hawaiian situation to-day is the announcement that Secretary of State Foster has given up his trip to Paris next week, whither he was going as agent of the United States to attend the meeting of the Behring Sea arbitrators.

In view of the necessities of the situation suddenly presenting themselves he has deemed it expedient that he should remain in the Department until the close of his term of office.

He will, however, meet the arbitrators at the date of their adjourned meeting which has been fixed for March 23.

The arbitrators will meet as announced in Paris on the 23d inst., and by an arrangement between the two governments will adjourn for a month without transacting any business.

Senator Frye, of Maine, who is a leading member of the Committee on Foreign Relations, and who has taken an active interest in all matters relating to the control of outlying islands in the Pacific, said to-day:

"I have for years observed with regret the acquisition by foreign powers of desirable coaling stations and harbor privileges on the several islands, until now there are none left save this one on the Sandwich Islands. I am in favor of making sure of this one by taking Hawaii into our possession.

"The protest by England against annexation on our part, if it were deemed wisest and best by the powers of this government, would be presumptuous and impudent. I imagine it will be confined to the presentation of a diplomatic note, to which our Secretary of State, in diplomatic terms, will make a reply.

'England did not consult with us or our interests when she made an agreement with Germany to divide the islands of the Pacific with that power, and she certainly can have no ground for objection if we see fit to take Hawaii, the only territory now remaining in the Pacific."

The War Department, at the request of the State Department, is having copies of a number of blue prints made showing the topographical situation of Honolulu and other points in the Sandwich Islands which are now in the possession of the War Department.

The copies and the rest of the originals not duplicated, will be given Secretary J. W. Foster for reference in the conference he is to have Saturday with the annexation commissioners.

It is also probable that duplicates of these maps will be furnished the Navy Department for transmission to the naval force in Hawaiian waters.

The Hawaiian annexation Commissioners will arrive in Washington about 3:30 to-morrow.

They will go at once to the Arlington, where they will have a conference with Dr. Mott Smith, the Hawaiian Minister, and on Saturday morning, at 10 o'clock, they will be conducted by the latter to the State Department, where they will have an audience with State Secretary Foster.

Dr. Mott Smith will introduce the Commissioners, but whether or not he will take part in the deliberations will be decided upon on the arrival of the Commissioners.

Dr. Mott Smith is the representative of the dethroned Queen, and as such cannot well be present at a conference with the representatives of the provisional government.

Yet, after the dethronement of the Queen, the provisional government passed resolutions continuing in office all the foreign representatives.

The official notification to this effect was given to the Consul-General at San Francisco, but Dr. Mott Smith has not been officially notified of his appointment. Still the Commissioners may have with them a document appointing him the representative of President Dole. If this is so Dr. Smith may act with the Commissioners.

It is most likely that the provisional government will be desirous of the Minister's services and experience. The present Minister has been Premier of the Queen, Minister of Finance and Envoy Extraordinary. He was also a member of the Cabinet for King Kalakaua, and his knowledge of matters diplomatic and legislative is most extensive.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

The Fortifications and Army Appropriation Bills Passed in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The attention of the House was concentrated on one item of the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill. That item appropriated $16,000,000 for carrying on the contracts already entered into for the improvement of rivers and harbors.

It was contended that the appropriations should have been reported by the Committee on Harbors and Rivers, but, although Mr. Holman was foremost of those who made this contention against the committee of which he is chairman, that committee came out victorious, and the item was decided to be a proper one. Without finally acting on the bill the House adjourned.

Good progress in the practical legislative work of the Senate was made immediately after the routine morning business the Committee on Appropriations asserted its right of precedence and maintained it up to the time of adjournment. It even refused to yield to the urgent appeal of Mr. Harris, (Dem., Tenn.) to let him report a substitute for the House Quarantine bill and to have action upon it.

The Fortifications bill was the first of the general bills to come before the Senate, and it was passed after a rather interesting, though not novel discussion on the subject of coast fortifications.

The Army Appropriation bill was then taken up and was passed with but a single amendment — increasing the monthly pay of sergeants of the army.

THE PANAMA INVESTIGATION.

Col. Fellows' Committee Will Commence Work Without Delay.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The special committee appointed by the House of Representatives to investigate the Panama Canal, Panama railroad and Pacific Mail is unanimously in favor of proceeding with the investigation with as little delay as possible.

It was agreed at the meeting that Chairman Fellows should telegraph Col. Thompson, requesting him to be here by Saturday if possible. If it is impossible for him to come at that time the committee will have another meeting, at the call of the chairman, to decide definitely whether Col. Thompson shall be asked to meet them in New York Monday morning, or whether the committee shall put in several days in Washington before then.

It appears probable that the first working meeting of the committee will be held in the Postoffice building in New York city on Monday next.

It seemed to be the opinion of the committee that the investigation can be completed in the four weeks yet remaining of this session.

THE VESUVIUS' GUNS.

Continuation of the Tests—Satisfactory Results at 1,000 Yards.

PORT ROYAL, S. C., Feb. 2.—The experimental practising with the pneumatic guns of the Vesuvius was resumed yesterday. Fourteen projectiles were discharged. With the exception of the two final shots, ranged for 2,000 yards, shorter range lines were aimed at—six shots at 1,000 yards, and the other six at 900 yards.

The practically complete accuracy which characterized Wednesday's firing was maintained during the 1,000-yard tests, but the results in the 500-yard tests were not so satisfactory.

The explanation given by the officers for the eccentricities developed in the flight of 500-yard shells is that the guns have not been practised enough at short distances to establish curve lines well.

THE MISSING CITY OF PEKING.

Still No News of the Belated Ship—Now Nine Days Overdue.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 2.—There is still no news of the overdue Pacific Mail steamer City of Peking, and the non-arrival of the vessel is causing increased anxiety to the Pacific Mail officials, although they express the opinion that she will come into port all right.

The Peking is now nine days overdue, and it is probable that the Pacific Mail officials will send another steamer in search of her within a day or two.

Circus Men Combine for Protection.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Circus men are taking steps to form a trust, or a "combination of allied interests," as they are pleased to style it. The circus men allege that they are in many parts of the country imposed upon, and they propose an iron-clad combination for protection. The movement is among the smaller shows, of which there are between 40 and 50 in the West, Southwest and South.

A Stay for Murderer Rhole.

SING SING, Feb. 2.—Warden Brown has just had served upon him a stay of execution in the case of Frederick Rhole, who was to have been executed next Monday for the murder of Capt. Paulsen, an aged G. A. R. veteran, in New York city. The stay was obtained on Dec. 26 last, but for some unaccountable reason was not served upon Warden Brown.

Failure of a Pittsburg Iron Founder.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 2.—Wharton McKnight, owner of a large iron foundry on Duquesne way, and machine shops on Pennsylvania avenue, has confessed judgment in the sum of $124,433. The failure was a great surprise, as the McKnight foundry was one of the oldest in the city. The two plants employ about 700 men.

BURNED AT THE STAKE

A Negro Murderer's Awful Fate at Paris, Tex.

TORTURED WITH RED HOT IRONS.

His Quivering Flesh Covered With Oil and Set on Fire—A Wild Mob of 20,000 People Applaud the Act—Story of the Wretch's Crime.

PARIS, Tex., Feb. 2.—Henry Smith, the negro who assaulted and caused the death of 4-year-old Myrtle Vance, has expiated his awful crime by death at the stake. When the news came that he had been captured, and that he had been identified by R. B. Sturgis, James T. Hicks, and many others of the Paris searching party, the city was wild with joy.

The arrival of the guard having in custody the rape fiend, was awaited by thousands. The country roads were alive with people in with wagons and on horseback, and at noon, when the Texas & Pacific train from the North arrived, it is estimated that the crowd surrounding the depot numbered nearly 20,000 people.

When the train arrived a rush was made for the coach in which the negro was confined. The deputy sheriffs and the guard of Paris citizens who accompanied the negro from Texarkana, drew their revolvers and attempted to prevent the mob from taking their prisoner.

The guard was quickly overpowered, however, and a rope was thrown about Smith's neck. He was dragged from the train and hurried to the scene of his crime.

All along the route he was pelted with missiles, struck by fists and otherwise maltreated.

The negro was placed upon a carnival float in mockery of a king upon his throne, and, followed by the immense crowd, was escorted through the city, so that all might see him.

When the procession reached the prairie, near the Texas & Pacific depot, he was placed upon a scaffold six feet square, and ten feet high, being securely bound.

Here the victim was tortured for 30 minutes by red-hot iron brands thrust against his quivering body. Commencing at his feet, the brands were placed against him inch by inch until they were thrust against his face.

Then, being apparently dead, kerosene was poured upon him, cottonseed hulls placed beneath him, and set on fire. His entire body was cremated.

The cause of the crime was that Henry Vance, when a deputy policeman, in the course of his duty, was called to arrest Henry Smith for being drunk and disorderly. The negro was unruly, and Vance used his club.

The negro swore vengeance and several times assaulted Vance.

Last Thursday he grabbed up the little girl and committed the crime for which he has just met his horrible death.

The father is prostrated with grief, and the mother now lies at death's door.

THE QUAKERS ALL RIGHT.

Yale Decides to Admit Graduates to Intercollegiate Contests.

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 2.—At the mass meeting of the students to consider the recent action of the Intercollegiate Football association in confining intercollegiate contests to undergraduates, it was decided by a vote of 502 to 440 to admit graduates to participate in such contests.

This means that college athletics will follow the same course which they have been pursuing for years. The decision arrived at will be good news to the University of Pennsylvania, for it was felt that the association's action was a blow at them.

Now that the association has been slapped back and set upon the Quakers will be happy.

The present team captains at Yale accept the decision and will not resign.

The Whipping Post in New Jersey.

TRENTON, Feb. 2.—The presentment of the grand jury in favor of the establishment of the whipping post for the punishment of wife beaters has created considerable comment. When the grand jury previous to the present one recommended the same step, little attention was paid to the affair, as it was thought that nothing more would be heard of it, but the recurrence of the recommendation shows that the matter will not down and a storm of indignation has been raised.

Calls Cleveland a Wall Street Plutocrat.

SALEM, Ore., Feb. 2.—Gov. Pennoyer received a letter yesterday from his Adjutant-General asking permission to use two brass cannon belonging to the State for the purpose of firing a salute on inauguration day. The Governor sent the following reply: "No permission will be given to use State cannon for firing a salute over the inauguration of a Wall street plutocrat as President of the United States."

Very Cold in the Northwest.

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 2.—Oregon and Washington are just now experiencing the coldest weather in ten years. The thermometer registered from five to twenty degrees below zero east of the Cascade mountains last night, while west of the mountains it was hovering about the zero mark.

Kansas Populists Resorting to Strategy.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 2. — The rival Houses are quiet and on the surface there are no developments. It has transpired, however, that the Populists, acting upon the advice of Senator Gorman, have given up all idea of using force for the present and will resort to strategy.

As the organist struck the opening chord of 'Steal Away to Jesus', the first number on the programme, the eight voices blended in such perfect harmony as is rarely heard north of Mason and Dixon's line. Keeping together in the mild low croon which runs through the first stanza, they swelled into a splendid chorus in the refrains, and at the close of the selection graduated into a chant, 'The Lord's Prayer', that would shame many of the popular choir leaders of lighter complexion."

Mary E. Kenworthy of 38 Kearney avenue, Kearney, was married Tuesday at the home of her parents to Joseph A. Crawford of 19 church street, this city.

The hearts of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mattison, of North Plainfield, were made glad yesterday by the arrival of a ten-pound daughter. Mother and child are doing well.

The Dresden trio, composed of Alfred Norbury, Frederick A. Lewis and Frederick J. Pope, will sing before the Plainfield Athletic association this evening. The programme will include "Gypsies Laughing Trio", "Bells of St. Michael's Tower" and "Come Sweet Mirth".

The Sabbath Recorder says that "H. M. Maxson, Plainfield's new superintendent of schools, is already gaining an enviable reputation among the leading educators of the State, and has received several invitations to deliver addresses on educational topics in neighboring cities".

Mary L. Collins, of Scotch Plains, died this morning in her nineteenth year. She was in the prime of girlhood, and was dearly beloved by all her associates. Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at 9 from her late residence, and later a solemn requiem mass will be celebrated in St. Mary's church, this city.

French Complication But Not a Line to Offend.

"Little Tippet", to be played at Music Hall, to-morrow evening, is an adaptation from the French of Alexander Bisson, one of the most successful of living writers of farce and comedy. French plays are apt to be risque, but the Gallic dramatists are wonderfully clever in the contriving of dramatic situations. In this case the adapters have removed everything objectionably suggestive and produced a play that will pass the gauntlet of the most exacting Anglican test. The intricate French complication of situation is there, but the story is absolutely clean, with not a line to offend American taste.

TAKES THE BOARD'S PART

PRAISE FOR THE ACTION OF THE SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

But Then This Correspondent Does n't Live in the Immediate Neighborhood of the Proposed School Site, and It Makes a Difference Whose Ox Is Gored—Nothing Said of the Extortion on Tax-Payers.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Are not some of your correspondents taking a very illiberal view with reference to the recent purchase of the Wadsworth property on Central avenue for school purposes by the secretary of the School Board? I fail to see wherein the secretary of that Board has committed an outrage against decency.

The citizens elected a Board of School Trustees to look after the educational interests of the city, and I think it is generally conceded that the present board will compare very favorably with any of its worthy predecessors. It is the duty of the Board to see that proper facilities are furnished for the pupils of the city, and the Board is certainly in position to know whether a new school building is required in Plainfield. In their judgment, a new building is required, and it is their duty to furnish it, and, in order to do this, it was necessary to purchase a site, and they authorized their secretary to purchase the site in question; and Mr. Finch did just what any other good business man would have done under the circumstances.

He went to work quietly, without heralding it from the housetops, and secured a very desirable site for the purpose for which it is intended, and at a fair market price. It was not necessary that Mr. Finch should have advertised that he wanted the property for school purposes, for that would probably have resulted in defeating the object he had in view, as it is a well known fact that the moment it is known that a corporation wishes to purchase property, the price is immediately advanced. Now the writer does not pretend that the surrounding property will increase in valuation, owing to this purchase, but he does claim that the site selected is eminently proper for a school building; that a school house to meet present requirements should be located in a fairly good neighborhood, and this is all that can be claimed for Central avenue at Sixth street, and that the Board simply did their duty in selecting a site so well situated, and without regard to the private objections of people living in the immediate neighborhood.

It is proposed to erect a building that will be an ornament to the city for High School purposes, and I am at a loss to understand why, under the circumstances, your correspondents should feel called upon to indulge in personal and offensive remarks against the School Board or any individual member of the same for exercising their or his rights in the interest of the tax-payers. The members of the Board are certainly reputable citizens, and it does not seem to be in good form to heap abuse on persons acting strictly in the line of their duty, but, if it is necessary to blame somebody, why select an individual member of the Board? The whole Board are responsible for this matter, and I am inclined to think the Board are perfectly satisfied to shoulder the responsibility. P. C. T.

BOCK FINED $10.

Corporation Counsel and Court Say That Others' Guilt Is No Excuse for Him.

Charles Bock was fined $10 by judge Coddington this morning for participating in a game of cards in his bar room.

Walter L. Hetfield again appeared for the defendant and asked for suspension of sentence, ably presenting his argument for such suspension or at least for mitigation.

Corporation counsel Craig A. Marsh was present to reply to the attack made by defendant's counsel on the police officer, it having been stated that Bock's arrest was a piece of spite work. Mr. Marsh very eloquently and emphatically refuted the aspersions gratuitously cast on captain Grant, whom he warmly praised for doing his duty.

Mr. Marsh said that it was no excuse for Bock that the vice of gambling in bar rooms was prevalent. Indeed, that was all the more reason why an example should be made and steps taken to suppress the crying evil. He held it to be Anarchistic and a menace to good order to attack the police for doing their sworn duty when an offender was caught. Chief Grant had only obeyed the instructions of his higher officer, the Mayor.

The court also took the view that Bock should not plead, through his counsel, as palliation of his offense that it was common throughout the city. Bock had admitted his guilt, and some punishment should be imposed since it was an offense he had agreed under his signature, on receipt of his license, not to commit.

In passing sentence, judge Coddington took into consideration the fact that Bock had saved the city the expense of a trial. He therefore rendered what he considered a mild decision.

Scotch Plains Knights Go Visiting.

After the meeting a smoker was enjoyed, together with a supper, singing and toasts. The visitors started for home about 11.

Good Roads Spread the Fever.

A Plainfield correspondent writes to the Sabbath Recorder of Alfred Centre, N. Y., as follows: "Wm. H. Rogers, a leading bicycle dealer, has recently had taken a 'wheel census' of Plainfield, and has found the surprising number of twelve hundred and fifty-seven 'wheels', and over sixteen hundred riders. Our macadamized city streets and country roads are said to be among the finest in the country, and of course are favorable to the spread of the bicycle 'fever' so prevalent in this section."

OUR "FRESHER" CONTEMPORARY.

Again a Laughing Stock by Its Own Exploit.

The following circular, mailed at the cost of 2 cents each to THE PRESS readers of Plainfield, is a great source of fun about the city this dull day:

COURIER NEWS
Twenty-four Hours Fresher
Than the News
Of Other Papers!

During the past ten days the COURIER has printed the following stories, at least twenty-four hours before its contemporaries:

1. Board of Education Financial Report.
2. Miss Bulkley's Report to the State Board of Education, of School Matters in Plainfield.
3. Peter Herlick's dual life.
4. Purchase of Wadsworth Property for New High School Building.
5. Quarrel about coasters on the Broadway Hill.
6. Joint Action of the Boards of Health of North Plainfield and Plainfield regarding sewerage.
7. Details of Freight House Purchase, (other papers had mere brief mention of purchase.)

Nobody denied the claim to "freshness", but all laughed at the impotency of the "evidence" of superior enterprise. Seven items in ten days. But let's look at each!

No's 1 and 2. The Board of Education's and Miss Bulkley's reports were sent to all the papers the same day, and the only reason the "fresher" contemporary published them then was because it had nothing else. Besides — everybody remembers—if it hadn't been for THE PRESS, the Board of Education's report of its finances, might never have been published at all.

No. 3. The cause of Herlick's suicide was forgery, which fact THE PRESS alone published the day of the act. The "fresher" Courier said it was because his shop had been robbed. The day after THE PRESS, the Courier copied the woman and the forgery story from a New York paper.

No. 4. The purchase of the Wadsworth property, as stated in THE PRESS, was known to this paper a week before the "fresher" paper ever heard of it, but Mr. Wadsworth said that Mr. Finch told him it was for a friend, and his word was accepted.

No. 5. The "fresher" contemporary never heard about the trouble with the coasters on the Broadway hill, until THE PRESS told it of it.

No. 6. The "action" of the boards of health of this city and the borough, is always outlined in issues of THE PRESS before it takes place.

No. 7. The new site decided on for the freight house and all particulars about it, were given in a half-column story in THE PRESS of Nov. 28 of last year. Here's a quotation from that article: "The new freight house and yards will be constructed on the ground near Richmond street." The article also contained a description of the new passenger station to be built on the site of the present freight house, and of the park to be laid out around it.

The idea of the fresh Courier even comparing itself to THE PRESS!

The Finest Cast Ever in Plainfield.

The "Junior Partner", the latest and loudest laugh of the day in the shape of comedy productions, will be seen at Music Hall next Monday night, illustrated by what is universally conceded to be one of the strongest organizations ever gathered together by manager Charles Frohman for the illustration of the farcical side of life, the cast including such eminent artists as Henry Miller, Miss May Irwin, Mrs. McKee Rankin, Miss Emily Bancker, Hugo Toland, Thomas Ryley, Miss Phyllis Rankin, and others. While "The Junior Partner" is as supremely farcical and ridiculously humorous as any of the present time farcical creations, it is devoid of horse play and of grotesque costuming, and is placed upon a high plane by the efforts of the artists illustrating its humor. Previous to the comedy will be presented Clyde Fitch's exquisite one-act play, "Frederic Lemaitre", with Henry Miller in the titular character.

Four Bad Blunders in a Five-Line Paragraph.

The kind of "journalism" peculiar to the Courier office was typified last Saturday. The Rev. Hobart Clark notified that paper, in common with the others, that he would preach on the morrow on the subject "The Great American Churchman". The Courier had never heard of Phillips Brooks, and rushed the following paragraph into type:

James G. Blaine, the great Republican leader and American churchman will form the subject of the Rev. Hobart Clarke's sermon tomorrow morning in All Soul's Church.

What the Courier does n't know about churchmen or anything else, would fill a book. But what can you expect of a journal that puts the apostrophe in All Souls' before the s and misspells the name of a man so well known as Hobart Clark?

AN EVENING OF WAGNER

SEIDL'S FAMOUS ORCHESTRA AT MUSIC HALL NEXT WEEK.

It Will Be the Greatest Musical Treat of the Season—Some of the Artists Who Will Sing.

The city is to be favored with an extraordinary treat Friday evening of next week, when Anton Seidl, the great Wagnerian conductor, will give an entire evening of brilliant parts from the Wagnerian music dramas, with a strong combination of soloists, headed by Miss Emma Juch, the greatest dramatic soprano in the country at the present time. The concert will be at Music Hall.

The instrumental parts will be given by Seidl's full New York orchestra. A mere glance at the programme is sufficient to make any lover of good music resolve to attend at any sacrifice. The evening opens with four of the greatest things in "Lohengrin", the "Vorspiel", the fine duet in the second act between Elsa and Ortrud, Elsa entering the cathedral in the same act, and "Elsa's Dream" in the first act. Then follows the "Siegfried Idyl", dedicated by Wagner to his wife, Cosima, at the birth of their son, Siegfried. "Tristan and Isolde" is represented by the wonderful "Liebestod", which many critics regard as the culmination of modern art. From "Die Meistersinger" there will be given the fine quintet in act III. Then follows the overture and "Glorification" from "Parsifal", played by the orchestra, and the concert closes brilliantly with the grand scene of the Valkyries from act III.

The soloists who are to take part in this magnificent programme are as follows: Miss Emma Juch; Miss Amanda Fabris, recently prima donna with the Carl Rosa company in England; Madame Keppler-Reigg, soprano, from the royal opera at Buda-Pest; Miss Helen Metz, soprano; Miss Marie Mattfeld, soprano; Miss Elizabeth Northrup, soprano; Miss Gertrude May Stein, recently leading contralto of the Emma Juch company, and an excellent artist; Mme. Adele Baldwin, solo contralto of St. Patrick's cathedral at New York; Miss Minnie Maurer, contralto; E. C. Towne, solo tenor; William Stephens, recently leading tenor of the Emma Juch company, and Emil Sanger, recently of the Metropolitan opera house, New York. In the orchestra appear the names of Clifford Schmidt, concert master; Victor Herbert, violoncello, and John Cheshire, harp.

It will at once be seen that this concert goes far beyond anything of the kind that has ever been attempted in this city. Now that the people have gone hankering after the fleshpots of Italy, there really seems to be no Wagnerian stronghold in the country, which should cause music-lovers to appreciate all the more the privilege they have in an opportunity to hear a whole programme made up of Wagner's finest scenes and interpreted by a superb orchestra and a strong company of singers working under the direction of so accomplished a conductor and student of Wagner as Mr. Seidl.

Transient Lodgers at the Bryant School.

When janitor Hope went to the Bryant school at 5 this morning he found two men slumbering in an out-house. The sleepers were cuddled together and wrapped in an army blanket. Their pillow was a sachel. On being awakened the men said they were from Newark and were on their way to Philadelphia. Having no money, and being wet and tired, they had ventured to bunk out on the school property. They showed a letter from a foreman in the Philadelphia branch of the Baldwin Locomotive works to be on hand for work next Monday. In their valise they had nothing but working-clothes. Their cash capital was 43 cents. One of the wayfarers was 56 years of age; the other, 23. They were of German nationality. Thanking Mr. Hope for their night's lodging, they went their way.

OPENING ST. BRIDGET'S LYCEUM.

Ex-Governor Abbott and Senator-elect Smith Meet Pleasantly in Its Honor.

Among those present at the opening of the Catholic Lyceum of St. Bridget's Roman Catholic church in Jersey City last evening were senator-elect James Smith, jr., of Newark, ex-governor Abbett, mayor Wanser, and many other notables. The speaking took place in St. Bridget's Hall in Mercer street. The Rev. Father Patrick M. Corr, the young pastor of the parish, introduced senator-elect Smith, who said that he knew of nothing that could be of so much benefit to young men as such places and organizations as the Lyceum.

Ex Gov. Abbett, the Rev. Father Donohue of Brooklyn, and mayor Wanser followed. The Lyceum was begun with sixty-five members. It now has more than 200. The club-house has cost $18,000.

This was the first meeting of Abbett and Smith since the senatorial election, and many people were looking forward to it with much expectancy. The two men shook hands, smiled, and chatted together easily for several minutes, and nothing but the pleasantest relations were shown.

After the speaking, dancing was begun. Supper came afterward. Then there was more dancing, which lasted until very late.

How the Visitors Saw the Game.

(Elizabeth Journal.)

As they promised to do, the C. Y. M. L. defeated the Crescents Tuesday night, and by doing it they tied with them for fifth place in the League.

A large number of ladies were among the spectators and cheered with the bowlers when any good play was made. But though the C. Y. M. L. were ahead through the entire game, their friends did not seem to realize it, and but little shouting was done.

Whelan made a phenomenal score for the alleys and did it, too, on breaks on the opening and closing frames. The Crescents made three less breaks than the C. Y. M. L., but failed to get the pins on the spare ball.

The official score of the Journal tournament to date is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	Per Cent.	Average Pins.
Y. M. C. L. A.	8	0	1000	1514
R. F. C.	6	2	750	1525

School for Feeble-Minded Children.

The following is an extract from Gov. Abbett's recent Message, concerning the Training School for Feeble-Minded Children, at Vineland, where there are a large number of inmates from this vicinity:

"The training school is under private management, but the State has generally sent all the feeble-minded children to this institution because it is situated in this State.

"The State has paid for the education, clothing and maintenance of 163 children during the fiscal year. The reports of the board of directors and of the officers of this institution make an excellent showing of the rapid and healthful development of every department. Without any aid from the State whatever, except a per capita yearly allowance for indigent children, the school has acquired a plant, chiefly through the generosity of public-spirited citizens, which the management estimates to be of the value of $70,000.

"The inauguration and successful conduct of this school, deserves just recognition. It is delightfully situated at Vineland, and in my visits to this institution I have been pleased with its management. It is a great charity, under the management of a board deserving of high praise for its great work for these poor children, who appeal so strongly, to our sympathies for their care and comfort."

Vaudeville for Ladies.

Proctor's Theater, New York, continues to ride on the crest of the wave of success and the ladies' club is now firmly established among the first-class amusement institutions of the metropolis. The fact that New York stood in need of a theater where women and children can feel sure of seeing the cream of vaudeville, free from all objectionable features, and be free to attend without escort is proven by the audiences there which are composed chiefly of the gentler sex, and always large enough to fill the house from noon until 10:30 at night. The programme is changed each week and will be kept fully up to the high standard the management desires to maintain. This week a troupe of almond eyed sons and daughters of the orient give Japanese sports and pastimes followed by, Lester & Wilson, Dora Wiley, VanAuken & Rice, Blanche Sherwood, Herbert Bros., Annie Hart, Montague & West, Barney Reynolds, King Sisters, Chas. Diamond, Stirk & Zeno, Kamochi, Edmund Rice, Miss Randall and others.

Three More Snow Storms, Says Prophet Hope.

Janitor Hope of the Bryant school says that yesterday was the 16th time he has had to shovel snow off the school sidewalks. The record was 2 in November; 2 in December: 11 in January, and 1 in February. Mr. Hope says that as the moon was 19 days old when the first snow fell, there must be 3 more snow-falls before the winter ends. Of course the moon argument settles it. Mr. Hope says wait and see.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

A Pleasant Anniversary.

There was a happy gathering at the Mansion House, Bound Brook, N. J., Wednesday, Feb. 1, that date being the anniversary of the birth of Mrs. Mary Laing Force, mother of the proprietor of that popular hotel. As has been the custom for years past, all the immediate family of the above mentioned matron, have congregated at some one of her childrens' homes on the anniversary of her birthday. This gathering was in honor of the 78th year of her birth, and called together twenty-four of her children, grandchildren and blood relation.

After a most bountiful repast, those reunited assembled in the parlors, where song and music followed, through kindness of nieces Mrs. Theo. Hardy, Miss Lillian Force, Mrs. John L. Force, Misses Minnie and Mabel Force, all departing to their homes at a late hour pleased with the fact that Grandma Force was well and in excellent health. The recipient of the reunion is the mother of W. L. and A. L. Force, owners and publishers of the Constitutionalist and DAILY PRESS, of this city. J. H. Force, proprietor of the Mansion House, Bound Brook, and Mrs. Lizzie Prescott, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Broken Hundreds of Times Every Week.

(From the New York Recorder.)

The sporting element of Plainfield is angry over what it terms a piece of spiteful work in the arrest of Charles Bock of East Second street for a violation of the city ordinance in allowing the playing of cards in his saloon. Bock, through his counsel, pleaded guilty, acknowledging that a party were playing whist in his place, and that the game is played there often, as it is in every public place in the city. Judge Coddington said he was undecided what to say, as the charge was such an unusual one. While it was defined as a breach of the law, the complaint was the first of the kind he had ever heard of. He postponed sentence until he could consult the City Attorney. The arrest has caused considerable discussion over the enforcement of the old blue law. It is thought that the chief of police drew the line too fine in enforcing a law that is broken hundreds of times every week in the year.

Park Club Bowlers Abroad.

The Elizabeth Journal says: "The Park Bowling Club, of Plainfield, Tuesday evening, were met at the depot by carriages and stages and were soon driven to the Casino. Here they were received by the members of the Cranford Club in good style. After the usual handshaking the clubs were soon at work and the alleys were kept busy until midnight. The Plainfield Club retired victors by 140 pins."

Reliable Dyes for Cotton.

If you want simple and reliable dyes for cotton, colors that will not fade or wash out, use the diamond dye special cotton colors.

THAT I. N. L. CIRCULAR.

Prominent Irish-Americans in New York Angered at Its Contents.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—The circular purporting to be sent by the Irish National League denouncing Gladstone's coming Home Rule bill as insecure and inadequate, was not well received by the prominent Irish-Americans of New York.

Dr. T. Addis Emmets said to-day: "It is a mere waste of time to discuss the circular itself. The men who sign it do not know what is in the bill. And what is the Irish National League? Four or five men whose occupation would be gone if Home Rule for Ireland were a reality."

Miles O'Brien said: "Any Irish-American who says Mr. Gladstone is insincere is a demagogue. He has done more toward Home Rule than any other man."

Another Step in the Miner Law Repeal.

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 2.—The House has passed the Senate measure repealing the Miner election law enacted by the last Legislature, which was Democratic. It now goes to the Governor for his signature. The Miner law provided for the election of Presidential electors by congression districts and not by the State at large as is the case in other States.

Police Raid a Cock Fight.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Feb. 2.—While Shamokin and Sunbury birds were in the pit in a public hall here early in the morning the police made a raid upon the place. Five hundred sports jumped through the doors and windows to escape. Many bruised heads and broken limbs resulted. Numerous arrests were made.

Hon. James W. Hyatt Very Ill.

NORWALK, Conn., Feb. 2.—Hon. James W. Hyatt, United States Treasurer during Cleveland's administration, lies seriously ill at his home on West avenue. Death of Ex-Chief Justice Comegys.

DOVER, Del., Feb. 2.—Joseph P. Comegys, ex-Chief Justice of this State, died at his residence in this city last evening. He was born near Dover in 1813.

The verdict of the people is that Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is the best remedy for coughs, colds, sore throat, asthma, etc.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-16-7

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren avenue, Chicago, Ill.

One of my children had a very bad discharge from her nose. Two physicians prescribed, but without benefit. We tried Ely's Cream Balm, and, much to our surprise, there was a marked improvement. We continued using the Balm and in a short time the discharged was cured. O. A. Cary, Corning, N. Y.

FLORAL ETIQUETTE.

What a Leading Florist Has to Say of Flowers.

Roses Are Favorites—Beautiful Presents for Debutantes, Wives and Girls in Their Teens—Jay Gould's Funeral Emblems.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

THE most beautiful flowers in the world are grown in New York. California has a greater abundance of blooms and Paris and London have each their specialties. But New York excels them all in the greatest beauty of the greater number of flowers.

In New York, even in the coldest weather, it is not unusual to find violets whose outspread petals would extend over the size of a silver dollar, and American Beauty roses are frequently seen as large as a big orange.

The fashion in flowers varies less with the season than can be said of almost anything else. In the vegetable line, for example, there are certain vegetables obtainable only in certain seasons. Fish and game are also governed by the time of year, but all kinds of flowers can be bought at all seasons, and as those that are offered for sale are nearly always hothouse grown the price of flowers does not vary from winter to summer nearly as much as one who is not in the habit of buying would suppose.

Thus a certain code of floral laws, or what may be called a code of floral etiquette, exists which is followed all the year round without regard to season.

For the debutante the favorite bouquet is made all of orchids—white orchids being the preferred ones. The size for a debutante's bouquet is about fourteen inches across and is made in conventional bouquet fashion. The cost is about twelve dollars. But, of course, a beautiful and popular young girl receives many bouquets, so there is always a struggle for something a little novel and sufficiently original that it cannot be duplicated. Many varieties of the orchid bouquet, therefore, must be found. A young man who is, as you would say, "rather sweet" upon a young woman, and who wants to send her something which will catch her eye and please her, will say to his florist:

"Can you send Miss A. a handsome bouquet, which shall be—er—a little—er—different from—er—anything else, don't you know?"

Then his florist will suggest a bouquet all of very rare white orchids, with white lilies on one side. When it is done the young man drops in to see it, and perhaps he orders finishing touches, which bring the bill up to fifty dollars for this one bouquet.

The matron who sends a bouquet to a debutante chooses colored orchids. They may be pink or purple or variegated, but the entire bouquet is after the conventional order.

The debutante, if she is at all popular, has half a hundred bouquets. But you may be sure that she has her eye upon one which she fancies more than any of the others, and by and by she will pick it up and carry it for the rest of the evening to the exclusion of the others. It is always the bouquet of white orchids and white lilies which is chosen. To pass to a more somber subject and to another use to which these same flowers are devoted, for funerals the palm is the accepted offering, although a much greater latitude is allowed at funerals than formerly. At Jay Gould's funeral there was a greater variety than at any social gathering of the season. Mrs. August Belmont had likewise many exquisite floral pieces. The Rothschilds are in the habit of cabling over orders for floral pieces, and, indeed, it is not unusual to receive half a dozen cable orders for any large New York event, especially a funeral. While the palm is the accepted tribute for a funeral, there is a floral piece known as the "mat," which is as good form as anything that can be sent. This consists of many great bunches of flowers just as they are brought out of the vases of the cool room. They are dropped in armfuls and are fastened to the mat foundation wherever they happen to lie, so that the whole is an exquisitely beautiful bit of extravagance, which, when floral beauty is considered, well repays the buyer.

When the man orders a bouquet for his wife or a box of flowers it is considered the prettiest idea for him to select violets, as these have clinging associations of poetry, love, constancy and all the things that ought to belong to married life.

A woman in ordering flowers for her husband will ask that something be sent suitable for a boutonniere. This varies a little with the season, but is sure to be a chrysanthemum as long as chrysanthemums last.

Flowers for old people and for young girls are nearly always cut roses. They seem to appeal especially to these two classes. Old people choose them because they are sweet smelling, and because old people do not take as kindly to fashionable floral innovations as young society people do. Girls in their "teens" like cut roses because they are poetical, and because allusions to growing maidenhood are usually couched in terms portraying the opening of the rose.

It is rather a new idea with the season, almost a fad in fact, to send pots of growing plants to young men in place of birthday or New Year's gifts. Indeed, the pot of growing plants forms in itself a gift worthy of being sent to anyone. Rubber plants and all kinds of hardy foliage plants are selected because they are easier to care for than a majority of plants.

For home entertainments, where a very good effect is desired in small space, it is the most fashionable idea to cover one side of the wall entirely with flowers of only one variety, and if possible to introduce light behind them. This has been done repeatedly at Mrs. Whitney's annual balls, and the result has been so good that the idea has become an established one and is a fashion in itself.

For the coming out of the debutante or for a wedding or a christening the effect should be bright—particularly bright—as is the case if pink carnations, yellow chrysanthemums or bright roses are used. But for ordinary social gatherings it is prettier to subdue the tone somewhat and trim with ivy, or, if it be in the winter, with mistletoe and holly.

A few weeks ago I massed holly on one side of a ballroom, and the effect was so beautiful that all the guests were talking about it. The idea was afterward repeated at the Patriarchs' ball, but was done too sparingly and was, therefore, not a success.

A great deal of money is necessary for anything of this kind, though it may be said that the people who order such work done are so rich that the two or three thousand dollars necessary for such adornment seems nothing at all.

For a christening lilies are almost always chosen. In the spring it is lilies of the valley. In the fall callas are used and later come the Easter lilies. Just a touch of color is introduced in the way of a gayly-colored ribbon or a bright basket, so that it shall be plainly evident that the flowers are intended for a happy occasion and not for a funeral.

In sending flowers to an invalid it is considered the best form—and best form is sure to be the truest politeness—to send something which shall seem to be of special interest to the invalid. Not two dozen roses all exactly alike, nor twenty lilies nor fifty violets, but dashes of many different kinds of flowers. It is good taste to put in the invalid's box a very white and very rare orchid, some mignonette, an extraordinary rose and so on until a really fine collection is obtained.

In the way of standing orders queer things prevail. A young man who has just become engaged will order two dozen roses sent daily to his betrothed. A young man whose sweetheart is going upon a journey will request that we keep track of her movements and will make us promise to see that she receives a box of carnations or some flower that will keep on a journey two or three times a week as long as she is upon her tour.

Standing orders for actresses are usually for big flowers that can be used with good effect upon the stage.

In trimming staterooms for those about to depart on European steamers it is the latest idea to use vases and ornamental pots and jars as far as possible, because these can be preserved during the trip after the flowers are cast overboard. A mass of smilax or ivy drawn across one side of a stateroom like a portiere and then "stuffed" out of the porthole gives a beautifully artistic effect which is the "fad" with outgoing tourists. Pots of picturesque roses and bouquets of sentimental forget-me-nots are the flowers suitable for the occasion.

With regard to a floral alphabet, there is little absolutely set down in rules. The law varies with the woman. A young girl will take a fancy for lilies of the valley. She wears them on all occasions, has them painted upon her fan and embroidered upon her gown. To her they mean everything pure and lovely. They constitute her "alphabet of love," so to speak. And, of course, her admirers know her taste and choose the tiny white flowers to bear their unspoken messages.

As a rule, however, the heart of the society maiden is touched by mammon, so that flowers which represent money represent also love. As a pert little maiden remarked in front of one of my windows:

"Carnations and love will do for some girls; but I have educated my best boy up to orchids."

Many orders are left which the etiquette of my business will not permit me to fulfill. For an example, take the case of a man who dropped in here last week and left a ten-dollar bill upon my counter.

"You may send Miss B., of No. 5,000 Fifth avenue, a box of pansies. And—er—well—never mind—er the card, you know. Just send them anonymously."

Now Miss B.'s mother is one of our patrons and Miss B. herself is a schoolgirl of fifteen. So I delayed fulfilling the order until her father happened in one day, and then I told him about the man who wished me to send his daughter flowers.

"Do not send them!" he thundered. "Flowers to my daughter! At her age! Impossible! Preposterous!"

I did not send Miss B. the flowers, and when her elderly admirer happens in again he will be the richer by a ten-dollar bill.

As a rule, though, floral orders are for the expression of pure, dignified sentiment. And into no other business does so little of the immoral ever creep.

CHARLES THORLEY.

Not the Only Place He Is Needed.

An English clergyman recently officiated for a brother clergyman. Being anxious to know what impression he had made, he asked the clerk:

"Was my discourse pitched in too high a key? I hope I did not shoot over the heads of the people."

"No, you didn't do that, sir."

"Was it a suitable theme?" asked the clergyman.

"Yes, it was about right."

"Was it too long?"

"No; but it was long enough."

"I am glad of that, for, to tell you the truth, the other day, as I was getting this sermon ready, my dog destroyed four or five pages, and that has made it much shorter."

"Oh, sir," said the clerk, "could you let our vicar have a pup o' that 'ere dog?"

A Doubtful Compliment.

Baroness de S., who is really old, but tries to look young, has been playing a part in private theatricals, and, in reply to her friends' compliments, says: "Yes really Rather me. It is a difficult role and one must be young and good looking to play it properly."

"I do not agree with you, baroness," replied a cynical duke, "for you have just given us a clear proof to the contrary."—Paris Figaro.

What They Were Used To.

Mrs. Bingo—I don't see what you asked that young Simpson to take dinner with us for. You might have known there wasn't room enough for him at the table.

Clara—I know it, mother, but I got all mixed up. I counted only one chair for both of us.—N. Y. Herald.

Wise Heads on Young Shoulders.

"I know why the doctor brought that little baby," said a five-year-old the other day to her happy mother.

"And why did the doctor bring the baby?" was asked.

"'Cause it cries so much he didn't want to keep it himself," was the reply.—Boston Globe.

A Subterfuge.

Insurance Agent—We'll have to raise Typer's premium. He uses benzine in his composing-room.

Examiner—He told me that he didn't. Said he used lye.

Insurance Agent—Well, the only lye he uses is the one he told you.—Truth.

Causes of Comfort.

Petted Wife—This old-fashioned chair is delightfully antique, but very uncomfortable. I don't see how your mother could like it.

Husband (mildly)—I presume she was usually tired when she sat down.—N. Y. Weekly.

Aunt Furby—Well, what of it?

Willie's Grudge.

"I don't like our doctor," said Willie. "I went and caught a cold bad enough to keep me home from school for two weeks, and the mean old doctor cured me in less 'n two days." — Harper's Young People.

The Editor's Mistake.

Great Statesman—You were in rather a sad condition when you left the banquet the other night.

Reporter — Yes, I drank more than was good for me.

Great Statesman—So I noticed. And it showed in your report of my speech. It was terribly mixed up. Didn't the editor raise a row about it?

Reporter — No, he didn't blame me any. He thought you were drunk.—N. Y. Weekly.

Anything Would Do.

Young Doctor (to patient) — That prescription I left last night, sir, was a mistake. It was intended for another patient, suffering from a complaint of quite a different kind to yours. Did you have it made up?

Patient—Yes, doctor, and I took the medicine.

Doctor—Well, how are you feeling this morning?

Patient—Very much better.—Boston Globe.

They Were Learned Rabbits.

A Spanish student going out with a party to shoot rabbits was told not to talk, lest he should frighten the rabbits.

When the timid creatures appeared he uttered an exclamation in Latin which frightened them away; and upon his companions blaming him he said: "Who could have supposed that rabbits understand Latin?"

Made It Pleasant.

Sophie—Did you have a good time while you were away last summer?

Hortense—Yes; splendid.

Sophie—Were there aby young men stopping at your hotel?

Hortense—No; but two or three of the girls smoked cigarettes, and one of them could swear just like a man.—Brooklyn Eagle.

and saw enough of it, your digestive organs may perhaps be equal, ostrich like, to any task you impose—even to the digestion of lard-cooked food.

If however, like thousands of other people, you have learned that you must "draw the line at lard," this is to remind you that there is a clean, delicate and healthful vegetable substitute, called which if used in place of lard, permits you to eat pies, pastry, patties and such "good things" without fear of dyspeptic consequences.

There's abundant proof, but none so convincing and so pleasant as a trial for yourself. We invite it. For sale everywhere.

DRAWING TO A CLIMAX

Hawaiian Question the Sole Topic of Discussion.

THE COMMISSIONERS ARRIVE TO-DAY

Cleghorn, of San Francisco, the Uncle of the Heir Apparent, Has Not Let Shown His Hand—Great Britain Does Not Intend to Make a Protest.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Diligent efforts have been made this morning to find Mr. John M. Cleghorn, of San Francisco, who was expected to arrive here last night to lay before President Harrison the claims of his niece Princess Kaiulani, to the Hawaiian throne.

The registers of all the prominent hotels were searched for his name, but without success, nor has any word been received from him indicating that he has arrived.

If Mr. Cleghorn has arrived here he has avoided the public hostelries.

According to the Chicago despatch, as soon as the news of the revolt became known Mr. Cleghorn packed his grip and took the first train for Washington with the result that he arrived in Chicago 48 hours ahead of the Commissioners and was due at the Capital that much in advance of them.

His purpose is to present the claims of his niece to the United States Government before the Commission appointed by the Provisional Government arrives at the National Capital. He is the brother of A. S. Cleghorn, whose deceased wife was a sister of the deposed Queen Liliuokalani and whose daughter, the heir-apparent, is at a fashionable school in England.

He will lay before President Harrison the claims of his niece and will plead for the establishment of a protectorate with the Princess as Queen.

"This girl," he said, "educated in England, will be much more satisfactory to the foreign element in the Sandwich Islands than Queen Liliuokalani was. It will be better for all concerned if the deposed Queen be kept from the throne. She hates foreigners and if her demands had found favor it would only have been a matter of a few years before she would have confiscated the property of aliens. She did wrong in endeavoring to get the Cabinet to sign a new Constitution which would disfranchise foreigners.

"I do not think the provisional government will last long, for I believe that the United States will establish a protectorate instead of annexing the islands. England will certainly not permit annexation without making a vigorous protest and perhaps a great deal of trouble. If the United States will not see the justice and right of the claims I will lay before it, I shall go to England and appeal to Great Britain.

"The Princess Kaiaulani is a strong brained woman, capable of ruling Hawaii. She is receiving the best of education, with the expectation of some day sitting on the Hawaiian throne."

The commissioners of the revolutionist government in Hawaii will not reach Washington until after the Cabinet meeting this afternoon, and will not be able to see the Secretary of State before tomorrow morning.

The telegram from Berlin to the effect that if the United States should annex Hawaii Germany might demand a slight compensation elsewhere, is discussed with much interest in official circles.

But one construction can be placed upon it, and that is that Germany will insist upon the United States retiring from its joint control with Germany and England of the Samoan Islands.

This is the only place where Germany and the United States have the least interests in common, and, of course, the only place where Germany's demand for "slight compensation" would have any footing.

The situation of affairs in Samoa has been the subject of considerable correspondence between this country and Germany for several months past. Cedarkrants and Von Pillsner, respectively chief justice and treasurer for Samoa, appointed under the tripartite agreement, have proved unsatisfactory, and the appointment of a successor to Cedarkrants has already been decided upon.

There was a time, a few weeks ago, when Samoan matters took on quite a serious phase, but a turn for the better has occurred, and all is now peaceable in that region.

It may be stated that the disposition of the Hawaiian question will not in any wise depend upon either England's attitude with reference to Hawaii or Germany's attitude toward Samoa.

The interests of the United States in Samoa are relatively like those of Germany in Hawaii, being comparatively nominal except for harbor privileges at Pago Pago. If the right of the United States to the undisputed possession of that harbor and the privilege of maintaining a naval station there were confirmed in a satisfactory manner, it is intimated that this Government might be induced to forego its share in the arrangement to govern the islands, which so far, it is alleged, proved not altogether satisfactory.

The action of the Navy Department with reference to the Hawaiian situation outlined in these despatches yesterday will be adhered to. Preparation of naval vessels for sea service will be actively pushed, but the naval force at Honolulu will not be augmented to any extent unless affairs should take or have a serious aspect. Vessels on foreign service will be held within reach of the telegraph, and marines will be placed under orders preparatory to speedy departure.

ENGLAND WILL NOT PROTEST.

She Believes British Interests in Hawaii Safe Under American Protection.

LONDON, Feb. 3.—In the House of Commons Sir Edward Gray, Parliamentary Secretary of the Home Office, said that the British government did not intend to send warships to Honolulu.

The government considered that the lives and property of British subjects in Hawaii were safe under American protection.

Sir Edward declared that there was no foundation whatever for the report that the British government had sent a protest to the government at Washington regarding the islands.

JUDGE JACKSON'S APPOINTMENT.

Generally Well Received—Senator Dolph Criticises the Nomination.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—Senator Dolph does not take kindly to the idea of the President appointing a Democrat to the Supreme Court of the United States.

"I am a great admirer of Mr. Harrison," said he this morning, "and I do not like to criticise his administration. I know Judge Jackson. He is an industrious, painstaking and able judge, and will do good service in the Supreme Court; but I cannot understand or appreciate the reasons which induced his appointment.

"I think there are Republicans upon the bench in the South the peer of Judge Jackson, and I cannot understand why a Republican President should have appointed a Democrat to fill a vacancy occurring during his term.

"The great majority of the party will think the President has made a great mistake, and he will receive no thanks from the Democrats."

The nomination of Judge Howell E. Jackson, of Tennessee, to succeed Justice Lamar, was a great surprise, and was received while the Senate was in executive session.

There was no comment made on the floor, but the Republicans gathered about in little groups and discussed it.

With the exception of a few who think the President should have appointed a Republican, the nomination was well received.

There will, it is said, be little, if any, opposition to the confirmation.

MARSEILLES STRIKE OVER.

The Bakers Resumed Work This Morning—Several Riots Yesterday.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Bread riots broke out in Marseilles while the carts were carrying the loaves to the centres of distribution. The carts had been placed under military guard, as the crowds of unemployed were already threatening when the first carts were sent out.

The rioters made several attempts to break through the guards to the carts, but were driven back. In the Abattoir district the guard at the bread depot was overpowered, the doors were forced, and the building was pillaged.

All the portable furniture was smashed and much of the bread was thrown out into the street.

The strike of the journeymen bakers ended last evening. A new arrangement as to the price of bread and the wages of the men went into effect this morning, when work was resumed.

The announcement of the settlement has calmed the unemployed bakers. They have stopped their agitation, and the streets are quiet.

THE WIGGER-KILLEEN DISPUTE.

A Claim That the Bishop Has Lost His Case—The Priest's Statement.

RONDOUT, N. Y., Feb. 3.—The Rev. Thomas Killeen, of Bayonne, whose charges against Bishop Wigger, of the Newark diocese, have attracted much attention in Catholic circles, was the guest of the Rev. R. L. Burtsell, D. D., at St. Mary's rectory yesterday. He came here to show Dr. Burtsell a letter which he had received from Mgr. Satolli, sustaining the charges he made against Bishop Wigger.

The letter was to the effect that St. Thomas' Church in Bergen Point will positively be reopened, and that if the Germans there cannot support St. Henry's Church it will be attached either to St. Thomas' or to St. Mary's in Bayonne, of which Father Killeen is pastor. The letter also states that an English speaking priest must be appointed rector of St. Thomas' Church.

JERSEY CITY, Feb. 3.—Father Killeen says that he has no knowledge that Monsignor Satolli has decided the dispute between him and Bishop Wigger one way or the other.

The decision must first came from Satolli, and when it does come, it will be made public throughout the United States, and Bishop Wigger will know it no sooner than anyone else. He thinks that the stories published regarding the decision come from the University at Washington.

TO REPEAL THE SHERMAN ACT.

New York Congressmen Will Work Hard For the Bacon Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—A dozen Democratic Congressmen from New York State held an informal meeting at Chamberlain's hotel last evening to devise a plan of procedure when the silver question shall again come before the House. Representative Covert acted as Chairman and the subject was informally discussed for about two hours.

It was practically the unanimous conclusion of those present that the Bacon bill, which provides for repealing the Sherman Act, should be urged for passage. Representative Bacon, who is chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency, will have charge of the bill upon the floor.

Representatives Cockran and Tracy were prevented from attending the meeting, but sent assurances that they would heartily support and endorse any plan of action that might be adopted by their colleagues.

It was decided that every means known to parliamentary practice should be employed to secure favorable action upon the Bacon bill, which is substantially the same as the Andrews bill.

A BANK FAILS FOR $500,000.

The First National of Little Rock Suspends Because of Fraud.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 3.—The First National Bank of this city is not open for business to-day. Its liabilities are understood to be over $500,000.

About ten days ago the bank passed through a terrible crisis. Through the timely arrival and assistance of Col. Logan H. Root, its former president, confidence was again restored, and the public had begun to think the institution as solvent as ever.

The cause that led to the suspension of the bank was the issuance of fraudulent paper by the former officers of the bank to the amount of several hundred thousand dollars.

HARRISON TO CONGRESS

His Conclusions on Canadian Bond Transit.

ARTICLE 29 OF TREATY ABROGATED.

The President Maintains that Even If It Were in Force It Does Not Place Any Restraints Upon the United States—Revision of Existing Laws Urged.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The President has sent in his message to Congress on the Canadian bond transit question.

He begins by quoting the House resolution requesting him to inform the House, if not incompatible with the public interests, what regulations are in force concerning the transportation of imported merchandise, in bond or duty paid, and products of manufacturers of the United States from one port in the United States over Canadian territory to another port therein; whether further legislation thereon is necessary or advisable, and especially whether a careful inspection of such merchandise should not be had at the frontiers of the United States upon the departure and arrival of such merchandise, and whether the interests of the United States do not require that such car containing such merchandise, while in Canadian territory, be under the surveillance of an inspector of the customs department, the cost of such surveillance to be paid by the foreign carrier transporting such merchandise.

The President arrives at the following conclusions:

First, that article 29 of the treaty of Washington has been abrogated.

Second, that even if this article were in force there is no law in force to execute it.

Third, that when in force, the treaty imposed no obligation upon the United States to use the concessions and no limitation upon the powers of the United States in dealing with merchandise imported for the use of our citizens through Canadian ports, or passing from one place in the United States to another through Canada, upon the arrival of such merchandise at our border.

Fourth, that, therefore, treaty or no treaty, the question of sealing cars containing such merchandise, and the treatment of such sealed cars when they cross our border, is, and always has been, one to be settled by our laws, according to our convenience and our interests, as we may see them.

Fifth, that the law authorizing the sealing of cars in Canada, containing foreign merchandise imported from a contiguous country, does not apply to merchandise imported by our own people from countries not contiguous and carried through Canada for delivery to such owners.

Sixth, that the law did not contemplate the passing of sealed cars to any place not a "port," nor the delivery of such cars to the owner or consignee to be opened by him without the supervision of a revenue officer.

Seventh, that the practice is inconsistent with the safety of the revenue.

The statutes relating to the transportation of merchandise between the United States and the British possessions should be the subject of revision. The Treasury regulations have given to these laws a construction and a scope that I do not think was intended by Congress.

A policy adapted to the new conditions growing in part out of the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railroad should be declared, and the business placed on a basis more just to our people and to our transportation companies.

If we continue the policy of supervising rates and requiring that they shall be equal and reasonable, upon the railroads of the United States, we cannot in fairness give these unusual facilities for competition to Canadian roads that are free to pursue the practices as to cut rates and favored rates that we condemn and punish if practised by our own railroads.

I regret that circumstances prevented an earlier examination by me of these questions, but submit now these views in the hope that they may lead to a revision of the laws upon a safer and juster basis.

I transmit herewith the correspondence with the Secretary of the Treasury and the Attorney General on some phases of this question. BENJAMIN HARRISON.

The announcement made through the press of the country by Mrs. Blaine that no authorized biography or life of Mr. Blaine had ever been prepared, and none would be till she authorized it, was simply in anticipation of the work upon which she is about to enter.

A short time before Mr. Blaine's death he was talking to a friend about his life, his writings especially, and the ability of members of his immediate family, when reference was made to "Gail" Hamilton's pen.

"She is a brilliant woman," said Mr. Blaine, "but my wife can wield as trenchant a pen as any woman I ever saw. She is a genius, too, and has an especial ability in the preparation of manuscript. She has rendered me great service in my work. If Mrs. Blaine ever undertakes to write the history of my life she will do it well."

SUCCESSFUL JUBILEE.

The Salvation Army Celebrates the Second Anniversary of Its Opening in This City.

Last evening the Salvation Army celebrated the second anniversary of the opening of the Plainfield branch. A banquet was held from 5 to 7:30, about 400 sitting down to the tables. At 7:30 a procession was formed and marched through the streets. The meeting inside was led by Colonel Everson, second in command of the United States, assisted by Major Evans, in command of the central division; Adjutant Hunter, Adjutant Bell, Ensign Wood, Captains Neame, Watkins, Caygill, March and Davison, and Lieutenants Russell and Shano.

The hall was crowded to excess, many being compelled to stand. Colonel Evans held the people's attention for about forty minutes, while he spoke of case after case of men who had sunken into the mire and had been raised through the instrumentality of the Salvation Army. In the two years the Army has been in this city many have professed conversion, and several of the worst characters have been brought to love and fear God, and have been made into good citizens. The meeting closed with prayer, a ten-cent lunch being served immediately afterward. The visitors left on the 10:12 train for New York.

True Economy in Dress.

"No woman practices true economy until she uses diamond dyes," says a writer in the Ladies' Companion.

Every dime spent for diamond dyes will save dollars. They color dresses, cloaks, feathers, ribbons, carpet rags, etc., any color. Even a child can use them, they are so simple. But do not risk your goods with any imitations; the diamond are the only original and reliable.

The Next Melopola.

Tickets for the remaining Melopola concerts of this season have been mailed to the subscribers. Those who do not receive the tickets promptly should at once notify the secretary.

Attention is called to the change in the hour of the entertainment on the 9th inst., from 8 to half-past 8 o'clock.

More Good Work by the Young Men

The Young Men of Plainfield defeated the T. A. B's of Newark in a game of the pool tournament last night. The playing was close and exciting, making the score 100 to 96. Plainfield now has a good show of winning the series.

CITY COURT IMPROVEMENTS.

Prospects of a More Desirable Room for Jury Trials.

A new city court room is one of the probabilities of the hour. The location talked of by the police and municipal authorities is on the same floor with judge Coddington's offices, directly in the rear of those sumptuous parlors. By the removal of a partition two rooms can be thrown into one, and a large court room provided, with ample seating capacity for judge, jurors, counsel, reporters, witnesses, and citizens. There is no regular court room at present. Common disorderly cases are heard in the stuffy little room in the disreputable-looking lock-up. Jury trials have been held in the council chamber, but that cold and cheerless sky parlor has made jurors ill and endangered the health of others, besides wearing out the patience of all having to climb the three long flights of stairs, and the need of an apartment adequately heated and convenient of access is greatly felt. The prospects are that the project of renting a room in the rear of the judge's offices will speedily be consummated. Another feature that makes this a desirable site is that Mr. Coddington's extensive law library would always be at hand for ready reference.

CANNOT WRITE HIMSELF AN HEIR.

Arguments to Show Major Bennett's Will Is a Suspicious Document.

Major Bennett, who, the New York papers say, died in this city in 1891, was estimated to be worth $90,000 to $40,000. A paper purporting to be his last will and testament was offered for probate, and evidence has been taken before Vice-Chancellor VanFleet in Newark. Argument was heard yesterday and decision reserved. The caveators contend that the document is suspicious; that the law establishes a presumption of fraud which must be fully overcome by the proponents.

It was argued that the admitted facts that Charles A. Bennett, jr., a nephew, who would otherwise receive nothing from his uncle's estate, was a beneficiary to the extent of at least $15,000; that his father, the testator's brother, received under the will $450, and that the remaining half of the estate was divided inequitably among fifteen heirs, were suspicious. The nephew, it was said, drew the will for his uncle, who was nearly eighty years old at the time, denied the execution to another brother of the deceased, and secreted the document until after his uncle's death. The other fact that the nephew was the confidential adviser of Major Bennett, it was also urged, compelled a presumption against the validity of the instrument which must be explained away, because, according to the old writers, "No man can write himself an heir". Counsel for the caveators also argued that the document may have been separated or e page from another and a fraudulent sheet inserted.

Another point insisted upon to confirm the suspicion thrown on the will was that Charles A. Bennett, jr., as agent for his uncle, sold property worth $1,400 to Chas. A. Bennett, jr., as agent for a gas company, for $900, and used the proceeds to discharge a balance on a $2,500 mortgage on a piece of property Charles A. Bennett, jr., as legatee of his uncle, knew he was to inherit.

NINE BATTLES FOUGHT.

Scotch Plains Birds Defeated by New Brunswick Games.

A cock fight took place last night in a barn between Dog Tavern and Rahway. The fight was between Scotch Plains and New Brunswick for $10 a battle, and $100 on the odd fight. Nine battles were fought, in which New Brunswick won seven, and Scotch Plains, two. All of the birds from New Brunswick were dark reds, and fought in splendid style. The Scotch Plains favorite pyles were n't in shape. Considerable money changed hands. The score:

1, 2, 3, 4, won by New Brunswick; 5, 6, won by Scotch Plains; 7, 8, 9, won by New Brunswick.

HER FREDDIE DID NOT PAY.

Mr. Brower Sues Yuengling for Flowers for Baroness Blanc.

The flowers that Frederick D. Yuengling bought for the Baroness Blanc are the subject of a suit in the City Court, New York. W. H. Brower and Lorenzo D. Brower, of this city, florists, at 185 Fifth avenue, and 955 Broadway, New York, are suing Fred Yuengling for $77, the price of the flowers they furnished him during the winter. The only point of dispute is the price, Mr. Yuengling claiming that he was overcharged.

George Wotherspoon, of this city, is the Baroness' business manager.

THE SCHOOL QUESTION.

ONE-MAN DOMINATION.

Bossism in the Board of Education the Theme of a Lively Communication—More About the Seventh-Day Baptist Aspect—Prof. Maxson As a Luxury.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—No better proof of one-man domination of the Board of Education is needed than the remarks attributed by another paper to Dr. Huribut. That esteemed gentleman is quoted as saying:

Mr. Maxson, the Superintendent of the schools, is a Seventh-day Baptist, fortunately for the people of Plainfield. Had he not been one we would never have been able to have lured him to Plainfield. He was located at Pawtucket, R. I., Where there is no Seventh-day Baptist church and where he was receiving a much larger salary then he gets in Plainfield. He gave up this extra salary for the sake of being able to live in a town where there was a church of his own denomination. That, I take it, is to Plainfield's advantage.

Furthermore, he was brought to Plainfield, not on Mr. Babcock's advice, (for you know he is one of those awful Seventh-day Baptists and the only one of the five members who is) but by the advice of Dr. Probasco and myself, one of whom is a Baptist deacon and the other a Methodist minister. Seventh-day domination certainly was not responsible for the selection of Mr. Maxson.

Dr. Probasco and I were influenced in recommending him because we were convinced that he was the man for the place and we are to-day satisfied more than ever that we were not astray in our judgment.

Perhaps the good doctor will permit me to take him in memory back to the meeting of the Board of Education at which Mr. Maxson's salary was raised In its report of that session, which Mr. Babcock subsequently over his own signature said was in many respects most admirable, THE PRESS stated:

At the suggestion of Mr. Babcock, superintendent Maxson's salary was raised to $3,000 per year, beginning Jan. 1. Mr. Babcock and Mr. Maxson both said that when Mr. Maxson was employed the trial salary was set at $2,500 with the distinct understanding that he should get $3,000 as soon as he gave satisfaction. All agreed that there was no question about the satisfaction, but the understanding of Messrs. Huribut, Finch and Probasco was that $2,500 was to be for the entire first year, and $3,000 thereafter. Mr. Babcock had no trouble in carrying the day. This makes Mr. Maxson's salary for the full year $2,750, and $3,000 hereafter. Miss Bulkley got $2,500.

Mr. Babcock then spoke as if he himself had conducted all the negotiations in the matter. He even referred to letters that had passed between him and Mr. Maxson, and if I mistake not referred to a personal interview. It was Mr. Babcock who was positive as to the understanding that he had had with Mr. Maxson, and by his domination he bound the Board to that understanding. The others said they thought that $2,000 was to be the new principal's salary throughout the first year, and an unpleasant dispute seemed imminent, when peace-loving Dr. Huribut said that he guessed he had n't a clear understanding of the matter, and gave in to Mr. Babcock, the others following suit. Reference to the minutes failed to substantiate Mr. Babcock, yet he won the day.

Now it good Dr. Huribut, who is very generous to shoulder the responsibility from Mr. Babcock, was really responsible for Mr. Maxson's coming, why was he not clear as to what salary the new principal was promised? If he and Dr. Probasco were jointly responsible, why did not one or the other or both boldly state the facts that night instead of showing weak vacillation and meek submission. The impression one would get from the peculiar proceedings over the raising of Mr. Maxson's salary was that Mr. Babcock was personally responsible for his coming and that he alone had conducted the negotiations. Dr. Huribut denies Mr. Babcock's responsibility in an effort to shield that gentleman from the charge of domination. But if the good doctor's position is right, then he has only given more convincing proof of the worthy president's bossism, by making more prominent and more striking and more emphatic the weak-kneed way in which all the other members of the Board submitted to his dictation in the matter of increasing Mr. Maxson's salary. It made no difference what their individual impressions were; "What Mr. Babcock said, went"!

I have n't a word to say against the Seventh-Day Baptist sect. I have good friends in that denomination. I admire its followers for the courage of their convictions. I esteem their brilliant leader, Dr. Lewis. And in my former letter to this paper I did not seek nor intend to cast insinuations against the good people. They are not to be blamed for getting hold of all they can secure. But I do not believe it good policy in an undenominational community to give the control of public affairs into the grasp of men of one religious faith. A zealous churchman is always dominated by his creed, and his religion's interests are first; to them he is ready to sacrifice everything else. I merely pointed out the facts of Seventh-Day domination in Plainfield's municipal and school affairs, and hinted at the danger into which the city was drifting under such a denominational monopoly. The Seventh-Days are enterprising and they stick together. With everything in their control, can't the public see where we are drifting? Probably few realized what a power the Seventh-Days had grown to be in Plainfield. To many it was a matter of surprise that so many public interests were in their control. But facts are facts, and I have recorded them in black and white for those interested to ponder over.

A word as to Mr. Maxson. Dr. Huribut is quoted as saying: "He gave up his extra salary for the sake of being able to live in a town where there was a church of his own denomination". Is n't that proof of what I have just been saying—that a Seventh-day will sacrifice anything else for his religion! Take care that the municipal and educational interests of Plainfield are not so sacrificed!

Another point—Is n't it unusual and a bit too generous in a city for it to provide a man with a big-salaried position simply because that city contains a church that he wants to go to? I trust that Plainfield is n't going into the business of supplying methods of worship to foreigners and then paying the imported people a bonus over the privileges they enjoy. If she is, I know of a number of liberal tax-payers who will seek some sequestered nook where the Solons are more hard-headed and close-fisted.

The question arises in my mind, Is n't Mr. Maxson considerable of a luxury to Plainfield anyway? I have n't the pleasure of his acquaintance; no doubt he is an accomplished gentleman: but it strikes me very forcibly that $3,000 a year is going to be a steep price to pay for a man to take Miss Bulkley's place. She did admirably at $2,500, and was always in town attending to business. Mr. Maxson not only draws his salary here, but goes about lecturing, I am told, in the city's time, using his Plainfield office as an advertisement, banking on his official position, thereby doubtless materially increasing his regular salary by perquisites.

My position is against paying too much for the whistle. Extravagance in the matter of selecting a principal is now followed by extravagance in the purchase of a school site that is not needed any more than a new cemetery. I firmly believe that one-man domination is responsible for these follies, and for that reason am I unalterably opposed to the one-man domination that clearly exists. Is the public going to submit to the oppression just because the other members of the Board are paralyzed with their bondage?

FREE THINKER.

THE MAYOR AN EXAMPLE.

He Does Not Advise Heavy and Unusual Outlay, Without a Vote of the People—Let the Board of Education Do Likewise.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Regarding the question of a new High School, is it not singular that not a word have we had as yet from the Board of Education? Would it not been well for them to have laid this whole matter before the people as to the needs of our city on the school question before proceeding to purchase and go in for such an expense? This whole matter is for the demands of the people as a whole, and the tax-payers must foot the bill or go bankrupt as many other cities have done. We hear many stories now about the matter, but nothing from the Board. We are still quite heavily burdened for the school buildings we now have, and without question the tax-payers are doing as well for their pupils as any city in the State; and since the parochial school has been opened, it certainly has lessened the demand for room. And if really there is no special demand for such an outlay save to have a special building by itself for a college course, or finishing up of students, as some say, we might better arrange to use one of our best buildings we now have, as we have a plenty of room since the Catholics have taken their children away. Then it might be well for the Board or some one else to publish the school law so that the people may know what the powers of the Board are as to financial expenses, and whether they have power to give a college course to all students that attend our schools. I am of the opinion that the poor of our city need a home and place to lay their heads more than a college course. The Mayor in his last message recommended the city to make better preparations for the poor, by purchasing a farm and home for such a purpose, which I think was a wise suggestion: but he did not attempt to proceed to the purchase and expenditure on his own judgment without the consent of the tax-payers as to where it should be located or whether the city should be bonded to do it. There is a right way to accomplish all business that is to be done. Any other way is not honorable or manly. Let everything be done in decency and in good order.

TAX-PAYER.

IS IT SPECULATION?

If So, It's No Business for the Board to Be in with the City's Funds.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I am told that the Board of Education really has no present intention of building on its newly-acquired site, but is holding the land as an investment. It is intimated that the Board will sell if a price sufficiently high is offered. In other words, the matter is referred to as a "good spec" of the astute schemers.

As a tax-payer I am interested to know by what right the Board engages in speculation. Have they authority to indulge in operations so clearly outside the province of an ordinary school board? If so, they are possessed of a most peculiar charter, which should be immediately abrogated. I fail to find any such margin of profit in the published report of the past year's financial operations of the Board as warrants investment of $13,000 of the city's funds in a real estate speculation. Suppose the "good spec" turns out to be a bad one, values depreciate, and the Board loses. Who pays the loss?

PLENTY OF CHEAPER WAYS.

If More School Room Really Is Needed, Here Are Meritorious Plans.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I have read with interest the various remarks regarding the purchase of the Wadsworth property. Now while I am not disposed to find fault with the price paid, yet I see no need for a new school, and if we did need one, would it not be better to locate it near the present buildings?

No doubt the property adjoining the High School to Madison avenue could be bought for about the same price, the buildings sold and moved; and surely no one could find fault with the location. Nor would there be any damage to other property, but on the other hand a decided improvement, and the city would certainly have a more desirable site.

NEW IDEA.

[The property adjoining the High School can be bought, probably, for $5,000, and next to the Fourth street school the board already owns property enough on which can be built all the extension necessary for some years to come. Then, too, the roof of the Washington School can be raised and 6 or 8 more rooms added at the expense of a few thousands only. ED.]

NO BETTER TELEPHONE SERVICE POSSIBLE.

The New York and New Jersey Company's Efficiency Shields It From Competition.

Local telephone companies are threatening in the country press all over the United States, to "start up" with "enormous financial backing" and wipe out of existence within a few weeks the "outrageous monopoly" that is accused of at present having its grip upon the throats of the people. But it is n't the people these strikers are concerned about. They think that as the Bell patents are expiring, the companies organized to use them are now without protection from competition and will pay a price to keep out any rival.

One of these stories is now circulating "in our very midst", to the effect that the old Mucci Telephone company, of which J. R. English of Elizabeth is president, is about to revive its charter and begin active operations here and in other cities of the State. The Mucci company had a regular system in operation in Elizabeth some years ago, but it had to suspend business on account of infringing some of the patents, which are now expiring.

Moneyed men of Elizabeth, Plainfield, Newark, and other cities, it is said, are about to organize a strong company to build both trunk and local lines to operate throughout the State. They will, it is said, control the Mucci franchise and also the poles and wires of the New Jersey Postal Telegraph company, which has a system now doing a general telegraph business between New York and Plainfield, with branches in all intermediate cities and towns.

The patent, the story continues, expired on the telephone receiver in January, and the patents on the Blake transmitter will expire March 14 at midnight. The field will then be thrown open to competition. Well-informed experts declare that the Bell company or its allies will find it impossible to then obtain injunctions or restrain competition. A large factory at Red Bank is now in course of completion for the exclusive manufacture of telephones to be sold for general use, and the company has already filed orders for many months ahead. There is also in circulation a report that another company, backed by the Standard Oil company, will take up the telephone manufacturing business.

Now all this talk of possible competition is manifestly absurd to anyone who enjoys the thorough satisfaction of being a subscriber on the switch board of the N. Y. & N. J. Telephone company, and has grown up with it. In the first place a new company now starting with no matter how much capital, could n't build up the lines now in use by the N. Y. & N. J. Co., inside of six years at the least; and it would take even more time than that to bring the system in all its other branches and departments into such perfection as years of labor and experience have done for the present company. The long distance transmitter is still fully covered by patents, and who would be without one of those instruments; and, last but not least, where could a new company find such affable, intelligent, pretty and willing hello-girls as—as—as at Plainfield, for instance.

Do n't People in Westfield Patronize Home Trade?

The Westfield Leader says: "Miss Adams has given up her branch store in Hart's Block. Miss Adams is a Plainfield milliner. Laire Bros., who are also discontinuing, are from Plainfield. Crane, who disposed of his store, came from the same city. These three had branch stores here, and as branch stores they did not pay. The experiment was a costly one, and it will be some time before it will be repeated by the Plainfielders."

Blew Out a Cylinder Head.

A passenger engine bound west, last night, a few minutes after 6, blew out a cylinder head, near Central avenue. The train was delayed half an hour, when the disabled side was disconnected and the train went on with only one driving-rod working.

—An incorrigible lad who attends the Irving School wrote some slanderous words about his teacher, the other day. The teacher got hold of the paper and sent it with a letter to the principal. The youth was properly disciplined.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. Suppose the Cat Escapes?

Numerous people are protesting against the ferocious wild cat from the South being turned loose in the outskirts of Plainfield to-morrow for sporting purposes. If the cat escapes the dogs that will be turned on him, he may make it interesting for farmers who have sheep and swine and poultry, and in blackberrying time will be apt to be a lively bugbear for the children. Besides, is n't it rather cruel "sport" to compel good dogs to suffer from its teeth and claws?

A WORD TO THINKING BUYERS.

Does it hurt the quality of our 50c. Corsets to sell them at 37c?

Does it make a really good Stocking any poorer to sell it for 15c. instead of 25c.?

Does it lessen the value of a Table Linen that is worth 50c. to sell it for 33c

Does it hurt the quality of a Towel that anyone will ask you 25c. for to sell it for 17c.?

Is a Gentleman's Unlaundried Shirt any poorer because we sell it for 50c., and others ask 75c. for one as good?

OUR COTTAGE HOMES.

A Convenient Design for Twenty-Six Hundred Dollars.

Points to Be Considered by Householders Who Have the Building Fever—An Interior Arrangement That Is Nearly Perfect.

The plan here offered is that of a well-arranged and neatly-designed frame house in the attractive style of modern American architecture. The style of the house should depend much upon the location, and some of the neat buildings scattered here and there through our states are certainly better adapted to an American landscape than any feudal importation. The first necessity in making a house beautiful is stability, which means that the bottom must be capable of supporting the top. All main lines should be horizontal or perpendicular.

Home means rest, quiet and simplicity. Not that a house must be bare and simple in every part, but simplicity must be the keynote. Certain parts, both inside and out, can of course be elaborately treated, but it must seem natural and not an isolated piece of work, and the reason for such elaboration must be apparent.

Certainly we need not speak of the convenient arrangement of the house. Of course it must be convenient, but that alone is not sufficient. The arrangement of the kitchen is a point of importance to every housewife. The obtaining of water for domestic purposes is often a source of great trouble.

Painting the kitchen walls will be found more economical than papering; use some warm tint—do not use white or blue—and if varnished every four or five months you can wash and clean them quite as readily as woodwork.

A door should open from the kitchen into the cellarway, and the stairs lighted by a convenient window. You should not be obliged to leave the door ajar at each trip to and from the cellar, as too many are obliged to do or grope their way in the dark.

This plan has four principal rooms on each floor, besides halls, bathroom, pantry and numerous closets. The convenience of the interior is apparent on examination of the floor plans. Entering from the front through a hall of goodly size, connected with a parlor 15 x15½, the sitting-room 15x17, and a bedroom 11x15. The hall, parlor and sitting-room are connected by wide sliding doors. The kitchen is of large size, intended for use also as a dining-room except on special occasions, and connected with the sitting-room by wide folding doors. The bathroom is well fitted and furnished. Back stairs to the second floor leads up from between the kitchen and bathroom, landing in the finished attic over the kitchen. The stairway to the cellar leads down under this and from the pantry. In the bed-room is a projecting bracket window, with three drawers under stool.

The chambers on second floor are each provided with closet room. A stairway to the attic leads up from the chamber on the left. Balconies open from this chamber and the upper hall.

The materials used in the construction are of the best throughout. The walls outside are sheathed, papered and sided on first story; second story shingled. On the inside are plastered three coats. The house is heated by furnace, and was erected and completed at Carthage, Ill., for $2,800, including the foundation.

PAPER IN BUILDING.

The Best Material for Keeping a House Warm in Winter.

A correspondent in Carpentry and Building says: With reference to warm houses it is my opinion that we have nothing better or cheaper than paper, especially when it is offered so cheaply as at present, viz.: Less than two cents per pound. Under these conditions no one who builds should complain of a cold house. I used it on the outside of sheeting boards under the siding; also on the roof under the shingles and under the floor. The first floor, which is used until the house is plastered, is laid with common dressed boards. On top of them is put the paper and over paper the floor proper is laid. My method of putting paper between studding is to cut the strips in the center, which leaves it just the right width by bending each edge at right angles. To secure a dead air space I put on lath next to the sheeting-boards and put my paper back to this, holding it in place by lath nailed through the turned edges to the studding. The cold in our houses comes in by cracks in the floor and at the windows and doors. Sash, to work easily, must not work like a glove. In the west we use storm doors and storm windows—that is, double window, with one light of glass hinged for ventilation. I frequently ask people why they try to make their houses air-tight elsewhere and leave such wind holes at the doors and windows. I advise putting the needless expense of brickwork or back plastering in the cheaper and better material of paper and extra sash to the windows, to be removed in the spring time. Cut off all drafts of air between the upper and lower stories of the house, and, my word for it, the dwelling will be warm enough for comfort in the midst of a Dakota blizzard.

THE REVOLVING MAN.

A Little Figure That Can Be Made to Balance Itself Amusingly.

Get a piece of wood about two inches long. Cut one end of it into the form of a man's head and shoulders and let the other end taper off to a fine point. Next furnish the little man with a pair of wafters shaped like oars, instead of arms, but they must be more than double the length of his body. Stick the wafters on his shoulders and he is complete. When you place him on the tip of your finger, if you have taken care to make the point exactly in the center, he will stand upright, as seen in the engraving. By blowing on the wafters he may be made to turn around very quickly, because the center of gravity is below the center of suspension.

Curiosities About Insects.

Entomologists in general concede that upwards of 100,000 species of insects have been recognized and named; some authorities place these figures 50,000 higher, and even these latter figures are believed to not represent more than one-tenth of the number actually inhabiting the globe. Of the number classified, one-half belongs to the order Coleopters, or beetles. Of the Lepidoptera, or butterflies, there are 15,000 known species. An equal number, perhaps, may be credited to the Hymenopters (bees, wasps and their allied creatures), the Diptera (flies) and the Hemipters (bugs in general). The Orthoptera, or straight-winged insects, which includes the locusts, grasshoppers and others of that ilk, are considerably less numerous, while the netted-winged forms are not known to number more than two thousand. As one would naturally suppose, insects of all classes are most numerous and attain stage of development in tropic and subtropic countries, but they are by no means rare in the coldest regions that have as yet been visited by man. Sir George Nares collected forty-five different species of true insects from north of the seventy-eighth degree of latitude in Grinnell Land, and over three hundred in Iceland.

Oil of Sweet Almonds.

The United States consul in Liverpool recently received orders from government to inquire into the manufacture of oil of sweet almonds in England. He reports that two London firms, whom he names, seem to be the principal, if not the only, firms in England engaged in this business. The kernels are crushed by hydraulic pressure, and from the cake thus formed the oil is distilled. The same process is carried on in Havre; but it is said that there the kernel of the peach is used instead of the almond, and that, consequently, the oil is cheaper in price and not so good.

A Mud-Covered Forest.

There is a sunken forest of white cedar on the coast of New Jersey which has been continuously "mined" for its valuable timber for more than eighty years. The curious industry of digging for these sunken logs is carried on by the people of Dennisville, a village which was brought into existence solely through the wealth of the buried timber in its vicinity. Over this sunken forest trees of large size are now growing, and in many instances the growing timber is cut away in order to get at the more valuable logs which lie only three or four feet beneath the surface. It is believed that they were sunken by an earthquake.

ARCHBISHOP IRELAND.

The Minnesota Prelate's Wisdom, Patriotism and Popularity.

Archbishop Ireland is one of the most interesting characters that the Catholic church in America has produced. His culture, his piety and his out-and-out Americanism have lifted him high in the estimation of the people of this country. He has been called a fighter, but the archbishop is noted for never wishing to bring on a quarrel; he fights only when he is forced to it.

Archbishop Ireland was born in Kilkenny, Ireland, and has all the best characteristics of the Celt. He came here while a mere boy and was soon after sent to France to receive his training for the church. One of his first appointments as a priest on his return to this country was that of chaplain in the union army. His experience in that capacity is largely responsible for the intensity of his patriotism as an American. When out of his pulpit there is no theme he likes so well to treat as the glories of the republic. In the cause of temperance, too, he is an enthusiast. For twenty-five years he has been the incessant advocate of temperance, and has been instrumental in establishing temperance societies all over the country. Throughout the state of Minnesota are scattered thriving colonies of temperance people whom he induced to leave the crowded cities. As the opponent of Cahenslyism and the advocate of a broad, radical system of education, Archbishop Ireland has become noted in America as well as in Europe. He has been called the "Lavigerie of America," but those who know him best compare him to Cardinal Manning. He stands as well with the working-men as did the London cardinal, and he stands higher with his non-Catholic fellow citizens than did his eminence of Westminster, as evinced by the honors heaped upon him by the management of the auxiliary congresses of the world's fair. Archbishop Ireland is in the prime of life and is likely to be heard on the great questions of the day in his church for many years to come.

SENATOR KENNA.

He Was a Self-Made Man in Every Sense of the Word.

The late Senator John E. Kenna, of West Virginia, was born in Valcoulon, W. Va., April 10, 1848. Of his early life little is known except that he worked upon his father's farm. At the age of fourteen he entered the confederate army as a private and saw a great deal of service, especially in Missouri. He was wounded in 1864 and was surrendered at Shreveport, La., in 1865. At the close of the war he returned to Wheeling, where he attended St. Vincent's college, and afterward studied law at Charleston. He was admitted to the bar in June, 1870, and in 1872 was elected prosecuting attorney for Kanawha county. In 1875 he was made circuit judge and in 1877 he was elected to congress as a democrat, serving from October of that year until March, 1883, when he was elected to the United States senate to succeed Henry G. Davis. In 1889 he was reelected, and his term of service would have expired Mar. 3, 1895. He was one of the most influential members in the senate, served on many of the most important committees, foreign relations, organization, conduct and expenditures of the executive department, and was also a member of the senate committee on world's fair. He had been a sufferer from heart trouble for a number of years and to that his death may be attributed.

A Dream of Wealth.

"I'd like to be rich," said Tommy

"How rich?" asked his sister.

"Oh," replied the young man, after some thought, "rich enough to wear my Sunday clothes every day."—Life.

Hard Fate.

Little Dot—Oh, dear! I wish I wasn't a girl.

Teacher—You do? Why?

Little Dot—'Cause I like to sit with the boys.—Good News.

An Instance of Its Truth.

Spatts—Do you believe the proverb: "Like master like dog?"

Bloobumper—Yes, I do. I know a compositor who owns a very fine setter.—Truth.

Two Women Speak

For the benefit of others.

Miss Helen Smith,

43 22d Place, Chicago, Ill., says:—

"I was troubled with irregularity and leucorrhœa. I followed Mrs. Pinkham's advice, took her Vegetable Compound, and used her Sanative Wash. I now feel like a new woman, and am perfectly healthy."

Mrs. E. Fox,

Woodstown, N. J., writes:—

"I had been sick 10 years with womb trouble and leucorrhœa. I could do no work. Doctors could not help me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did. Now I can do all my work, and stand nearly all day, and not feel tired. I cannot thank you enough. I recommend it to every woman who has any weakness."

HAWAIIAN DELEGATION

The Commissioners to Meet Secretary Foster To-day.

A FORMAL CONFERENCE MONDAY.

All the Members of the Commission Strongly in Favor of Annexation—Dr. Mott Receives Credentials from the Provisional Government, and Will Act With the Delegates.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The commissioners from the provisional government of Hawaii will make an informal call on Secretary of State Foster this afternoon, and an appointment will then be made for their formal reception on Monday, when the discussion of the question of Hawaiian annexation will be begun in earnest.

Beyond the arrival of the commissioners there are very few, if any, developments in this momentous and interesting subject.

The commissioners reached Washington last evening.

They made the trip across the continent in fairly good time, and arrived somewhat fatigued from the stress of their long journey.

They were met at the station by Dr. Mott Smith, who had just received the commission of President Dole, of the provisional government, appointing him the representative of Hawaii at Washington under the new regime. The gentlemen were driven at once to their hotel, where they spent the entire evening.

The commissioners received a number of representatives of the press at their rooms, and talked freely and frankly of their errand.

They brought with them copies of the Hawaiian papers of Wednesday, Jan. 18, which contained full accounts of the proceedings in connection with the revolution, which was accomplished on the previous day—the 17th—and the particulars of which have already been made public through interviews given by the gentlemen at San Francisco and at various points en route to Washington.

The personnel of the committee is as follows:

Lorrin A. Thurston, Chairman, was Premier of the first revolutionary Cabinet of Hawaii in 1889, and is the leading lawyer in Honolulu. He was born in Hawaii, his parents being American missionaries. He has been connected with the government in some capacity for years.

William C. Wilder is the head of the Wilder Steamship company, which does transportation business among the islands. He has not held a political position until recently, when he became a member of the Legislature.

William R. Castle is a lawyer largely interested in real estate in the islands and one of the principal owners of the Cahu railroad, which runs down to Pearl river harbor. He is a native.

Joseph Marsden is a sugar planter. He is an Englishman. He has lived in Hawaii about 15 years.

Charles L. Carter is the son of the former Hawaiian Minister to Washington, H. A. F. Carter. He is a lawyer, was born on the island and is 35 years old.

William A. Kinney, is now a lawyer in Salt Lake City, but a former resident of the Sandwich islands and one of the leading participants in the revolution of 1887. He met the members of the committee at Ogden for the purpose of renewing old acquaintance, but was induced to accompany the body to Washington in an unofficial capacity as legal adviser.

The evening mail from San Francisco brought to Dr. Mott Smith, the Hawaiian Envoy of Queen Liliuokalani, a most important document. It was nothing less than his appointment and commission as representative and Minister of the provisional Hawaiian government to the United States.

The document is a most imposing one, and is signed by Sanford B. Dole, as Minister of Foreign Affairs. Mr. Dole, who is president of the provisional government, is also the Minister of Foreign Affairs, because there are but four members of the High Council of Rule.

The commission of Dr. Mott Smith was made out on the day after the revolution and contains the Queen's own recital of the circumstances of the abrogation of the constitution and the dethronement of the Queen. It further states that the provisional government had appointed a commission of five to proceed to the United States and ask for annexation.

It names the commissioners and then commissions the new minister to unite and act with them in their negotiations with the President of the United States and his Secretary of State.

The appointment was despatched to President Dole by the Annexation Commission on the Claudian, and as soon as the commissioners landed in San Francisco they mailed it to Dr. Mott Smith. The commissioners tarried 24 hours in San Francisco, but the commission came direct, and that is why it got here ahead of the commissioners.

This, of course, settles the status of Dr. Mott Smith in the negotiations, as the minister has accepted the appointment and will act with the commissioners.

The despatch from London announcing the reply of Sir Edward Gray, Parliamentary Secretary of the House Office, to an inquiry in the House of Commons as to Great Britain's intention in the Hawaiian matter, that the government had made no protest and did not intend to, believing that the lives and property of British subjects in Hawaii were safe under American protection, has caused a decidedly friendly feeling for England among the radical annexationists here.

H. L. Brown of Minneapolis, who came in on the same train with the commissioners, and who had conversed with the distinguished gentlemen in the Hawaiian party, said to a reporter:

"These gentlemen know their own interests are at stake and want a pure annexation with the United States. From what I learned I think the Queen is only holding out for what Americans would ask. She is opposed to the encroachments of foreigners, and wants the island to belong to native born Hawaiians, or at least to those who have some native blood in their veins."

Chairman Thurston said to the informant that the greatest objection to the rule of the present nominal Queen, is that by her influence the lottery company was promised a foothold. The kingdom is badly in debt, and the revenues from the lottery were relied upon to pay all of the expenses of the Government. Mr. Thurston claims that all of the white residents resented the proposed scheme and are determined to frustrate it.

Mr. Castle said to a reporter this morning that the desire of the commission was to secure annexation to the United States.

"The terms upon which the annexation shall be made we are perfectly willing to leave to the United States government to determine. There is one condition that we very much desire shall be contained in any agreement that may be determined upon, and that is that the right of suffrage shall be restricted.

"We want no universal suffrage on the islands. If to accomplish this it is necessary to lose our own right to vote we are perfectly willing to abandon that. If we might be allowed to suggest the form of government the District of Columbia seems to afford the most desirable one for the Sandwich Islands. We don't want a Territorial government, in which there shall be a Legislature elected by the votes of all the people.

"We are perfectly willing that the United States shall fix the conditions upon which we shall be taken into fellowship. We are sincere and earnest in this matter. Everything that we have done so far has been done openly and with the avowed purpose of uniting our fortunes with those of this country."

Speaking of the causes that led to the revolution, Mr. Castle said that there was, in his opinion, a conspiracy, to which the Queen was a party, and which included the passage of the bill to charter a lottery and providing for the importation of opium.

Mr. Castle was asked how long the commission would remain in Washington, and, turning to Mr. Marsden, he said: "How about that?"

To which the latter responded: "We are enlisted for the war." We shall remain here until our object is accomplished or our application is rejected."

A BATTLE WITH DEATH

The Eventful Voyage of the Steamship India.

FOUR OF HER BOW PLATES STOVE IN

There Being Danger That the Ship Would Sink the Crew Refused to Work Unless the Captain Altered His Course—He Put in at Bermuda, Where Repairs Were Made.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Seldom is the commander of a passenger carrying steamship confronted with such varied experiences on a single voyage as that which befell Captain Tait of the steamship India, during the trip across the Atlantic, which has just ended with her arrival in this port. Death, impending shipwreck, constant battling with the elements, panic among the 454 steerage passengers, and last but not least, mutiny on the part of the crew, were the features of the voyage.

The India sailed from Leghorn for this port Dec. 17, passing "The Rock" Jan. 5. Some difficulty had been experienced in securing a competent crew, as it was known that the India had been "patched up," and sailormen did not regard her as a seatworthy steamer.

This impression pervaded the fo'castle when the India started westward, and was intensified on the 18th, when a terrific no'wester struck the broadside of the steamer, careening her to port, and swinging her around as though she were a pine chip tossed on the broad Atlantic. Big waves boarded her at all times.

One gigantic wall of blue water rolled against the starboard bow, and in a fifty stove in four of the bow plates, making a hole big enough to drive a horse and cart into.

The shock caused the vessel so recoil. There was serious danger that she would sink.

The crew, as well as the 454 steerage passengers, were for a time panic-stricken. All order was thrown to the winds. Officers and captain had no more control over the terrified people than a schoolma'am would have over a flock of wild geese.

Some were in favor of taking to the small boats.

When another big wave washed aboard and tore away the lifeboat the frightened people began to realise that their only safety lay in saving the ship, and all hands, including some of the passengers, then went to work to stop up the big hole in the bow. It was a mighty job, as every wave which came aboard washed partly through this aperture.

The vessel was then about 250 miles southwest of Bermuda, and the crew took it upon themselves to wait upon the captain and demand that he put into some convenient port.

All hands came aft when the demand was made.

Captain Tait received the men kindly, told them that in acting for his own interests he was acting for them, and, while he refused to alter his course, he partly reassured the men, and they went forward to work.

The ship was saved from going down by the ingenuity of the chief engineer, who built a wooden bulkhead abaft of the rent, thus constructing a water-tight compartment and confining the seas, which rushed aboard, to the forward part of the vessel.

On the morning of the 21st the gale in the mean time having increased in fury, the vessel began showing signs which indicated her unseaworthiness. The crew again went aft and crowded into the captain's cabin. They plainly told him that he must put into some port, as the vessel was liable to go down.

He finally consented, and that afternoon bore down for Bermuda, arriving there Jan. 24. There the naval and local board of steamship inspectors pronounced the vessel unseaworthy and she was not again permitted to sail until she was thoroughly repaired.

THE BANK CAVED IN.

Five Men Hurt at Mount Vernon—Contractors Criminally Careless.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Feb. 4.—While a gang of men employed by Wolfolk & Tillery, the contractors for the improvements on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad at this place, were excavating through the cut on Fulton avenue yesterday afternoon the bank of the excavation gave way, and buried five men under it.

Michael Bazzo and Petro Mazzeti were fatally injured, while Angelo Emira, Thomas Angeli, and Michael Blinni were severely injured, but were able to go home.

Chief of Police Foley arrested Patrick Leary, the foreman in charge, and locked him up to await the results of the men's injuries.

Coroner Drews, of this city, says that it is a case of criminal negligence on the part of the contractors, and that if Mazeti and Bazzo die he will make a thorough investigation.

GOV. BOIES DECLINES.

Will Not Accept the Portfolio of Agriculture in the New Cabinet.

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 4.—Gov. Boies has been offered and has declined the Agricultural portfolio. Mr. Cleveland first invited him to join the Cabinet three weeks ago and refused to take no for an answer, writing the second time to the Governor urging him to take the place.

At the same time he wrote to three of his most intimate friends in Iowa, asking them to see the Governor and try to induce him to accept.

Those gentlemen urged the Governor to accept as requested but did not meet with any success. A few days ago Mr. Boies wrote to the President-elect finally and firmly declining the latter's offer.

The Governor thinks his course in the matter the only one he could honestly take.

Death from a Coasting Accident.

BOSTON, Feb. 4.—Eighteen persons were coasting in Dedham during the evening when the double runner left the roadside and crashed into a pole. Jennie O'Connor, aged 19, sustained a compound fracture of the jaw and injuries which resulted in her death. The injured are: Gertrude Snow, 16; Richard Cartwright, 52; Joseph Ross, Willie Collins and George Cartwright.

A Tragic Fate Pursues a Family.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4.—By the death, from injuries on the railroad, of Joseph Miller in the Philadelphia hospital a few days ago, the Miller family, of Manayunk, has been wiped out of existence, all dying by violence. James Miller, the head of the family, was scalded to death in a mill. Robert, the eldest son, and James, the second son, were drowned. The third son, John, was run over and killed on the railroad.

Denies That There is a Deficiency.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 4.—Gov. Pattison, while passing through Pittsburg en route to Franklin, and during an interview denied that there was any truth whatever in the recently circulated report of a deficiency in Pennsylvania's World's Fair appropriation.

Rescued Sailors Landed at Falmouth.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—The British steamer Deptford, Capt. Woodruff, from New Orleans Jan. 10 for Hamburg, has arrived at Falmouth. She had on board the crew of the British bark Quebec, which was abandoned in a sinking condition on Jan. 23 in lat. 40 N., long. 60 W.

Twenty Years for Morello.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Antonio Morello, who was convicted of manslaughter in the first degree last week for the killing of Francesco Mole, on December 4, has been sentenced to twenty years at hard labor in State prison in the Court of General Sessions.

For Jackson a Vacant Chair.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Friends of Gen. J. Warren Keifer, ex-Speaker of the House of Representatives, have started a boom here for him for the Circuit Judgeship vacated by Judge Jackson. A strong belief prevails here that he will be the appointee.

KANSAS' DOUBLE HOUSE.

The Rival Organizations Quit Quarreling—Both Will Sit to the Session's End.

TOPEKA, Feb. 4.—All hope of settling the muddle in the House has been abandoned and the two organizations have settled down, quit quarrelling back and forth and agreed to divide the time on the floor from now to the close of the session, the Republicans meeting in the forenoon and the Populists in the afternoon.

This arrangement was agreed upon in the Populist caucus Wednesday night and the Republicans accepted it last night without objection. At the same caucus the Populists reaffirmed their resolution to fight it out to the end, and a line of action was agreed upon.

The regular forms of organization will hereafter be followed and bills passed without regard to the Republicans. Only such bills as cannot immediately be attacked in the Supreme Court will for the present be passed and at the close of the session appropriations for the expenses of the Legislature and the State government and the State institutions will be adopted.

Then they will adjourn and let the Republicans do their worst. Should the Supreme Court declare the laws of the Populists to be void and the Governor call an extra session of the Legislature, the Populist House will come back just the same and go through the form of repassing the same laws.

This is the programme as stated by a Populist leader this morning.

FOR CROUSE'S MILLIONS.

Planning for a Hard Fight in Behalf of Dorothea.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The contest over the will of D. Edgar Crouse, who died a few months ago, will take place in Syracuse within the next few weeks. Although offered $1,000,000 to withdraw the contest, Mrs. Eula B. Kosterlitz, the mother of little Dorothea Edgarita Crouse, who is said to be the only child and heir to the Crouse millions, refuses to do so. She claims that the infant is the only legal heir to the estate.

Upon the petition of the mother of little Dorothea, Surrogate Ransom has appointed the New York Security & Trust company general guardian of the child.

The rights of the child will be represented by New York, London, and Syracuse lawyers.

It is anticipated that the contest will be a long one, for the friends and relatives of Crouse will not surrender without a fight.

THE REFORMATORY CONDEMNED.

Judge Hare's Opinion Regarding the Institution at Huntingdon, Pa.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4.—The Huntingdon (Pa.) reformatory has been condemned in an opinion by Judge Hare in the Court of Quarter Sessions as an ill managed institution on the strength of representations made by Prison Agent Camp.

The condemnation grew out of an application for the committment of a young man to the reformatory. It is alleged that 150 boys live in enforced idleness there, facilities for instructing them in useful trades being hopelessly inadequate.

The inmates are further declared to be exposed to corrupting influences. This condition of things is charged to the unwillingness of tradesmen to come into competition with prison industry.

SHIP SAVED BY OIL.

The Saltram's Rough Voyage from New Orleans to Plymouth.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—The British steamer Saltram, Captain Uren, from New Orleans, Jan. 3, and from Norfolk, Jan. 14, which arrived at Plymouth, Feb. 3, had a frightful voyage.

She reports having experienced a succession of gales during which the use of oil alone prevented foundering.

On Jan. 27, Boatswain Watty was drowned and others were injured. The eccentric strap of the engine broke on Jan. 29, and the crew had a fearful experience in repairing the break.

The Saltram's steering apparatus, bowsprit and sails are damaged.

Relative to National Banks.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The First National bank of Cripple Creek, Col., capital, $50,000, has been authorized to begin business.

The corporate existence of the First Ward National bank, Boston, has been extended to March 24, 1913.

The following applications for authority to organize national banks have been filed with the Comptroller of the Currency:

The Citizens' National bank, of Port Henry, N. Y., by Eugene Wyman and associates.

The Farmers and Merchants' National bank, of Mount Pleasant, Pa., by A. H. Bell, Greensburg, Pa., and associates.

Protest Against Courtesies to Satolli.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The President has received a copy of resolutions adopted by the Baptist Conference of Missouri, recently held in St. Louis, protesting against the action of the Treasury Department in extending courtesies to Mgrs. Satolli and O'Connell and Dr. Pace when they arrived in New York from Europe.

Threatened Coal Famine in Seattle.

SEATTLE, Feb. 4.—This city is threatened with a coal and water famine if the unparalleled cold snap continues much longer. Snow fell most of yesterday and is falling to-day, with the barometer showing a tendency to rise. The wind has also changed, and the prospects are good for warmer weather.

The Worst Storm in Years.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Feb. 4.—Railroad officials say that the present storm is the worst they have had to contend with in many years. Snow lies from four to five feet deep all along the lines between here and Mackinaw City and is still falling.

A Bill Against Hoop Skirts.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 4.—In the House Representative Bleecker offered a measure prohibiting the manufacture and sale of hoop skirts. Mr. Bleecker's bill was referred to the committee on incorporations other than municipal.

Smith and Williams Matched.

BOSTON, Feb. 4.—Billy Smith of this city has signed articles for a fight with Tom Williams of Australia for $5,000 of which $4,500 is to go to the winner and $500 to the loser. The men are to weigh 140 pounds.

GEN. BUTLER'S BRAIN.

FOUR OUNCES HEAVIER THAN DANIEL WEBSTER'S.

Why Great Brains Shrink—Disclosures Regarding the Brains of Eminent Men—What They Indicate—Result of the Examination of the Brain of Gen. Benjamin F. Butler.

The brain of the late Benjamin F. Butler was found to weigh sixty-two ounces, four ounces more than the brain of the great Daniel Webster.

Up to this time Webster's brain was the second largest on record, the largest being that of Cuvier, which weighed sixty-five ounces. The average weight of the brain in man is about forty-nine ounces.

The physicians state that the brain of Daniel Webster was originally much larger than at the time of his death, but that it had become shrunken by disease and the use of alcohol; it is estimated that at least six ounces were lost in this way.

Think of it! The brain shrinks, the tissues waste, the thinking power becomes less, all by reason of over-exertion, disease or dissipation.

How many men and women to-day are shrinking, wasting, ruining their brains, and thus shortening their lives? The number is legion; and yet it is all needless, it can all be avoided; let us explain:

The brain and nerves need food; not such food as sustains the muscles, makes bone, makes sinew, but brain food, nerve food. If the tissues of the brain are strained by over-application, alcohol or other causes, they can be kept in perfect condition by feeding the brain properly, not with ordinary food, but something especially designed for them. For this purpose, nothing has ever been known equal to the great modern discovery, Paine's celery compound. This is a perfect food for the brain and nerves. It is no ordinary concoction, nervine, sarsaparilla or tonic, but a veritable blessing to weary brains, over-strained nerves and weakened lives.

BISHOP WIGGER BEATEN.

Delegate Satolli's Decision in the Bayonne Church Dispute.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The final determination arrived at by Archbishop Satolli, Apostolic Delegate in the much discussed controversy between Father Killeen and Bishop Wigger, of Newark, N. J., is made known in the following announcement, which, it will be perceived is adverse to the position taken by Bishop Wigger.

"The Right Rev. Bishop of Newark and the pastor of St. Mary's, Bergen Point, N. J., Father Killeen, came to Washington on citation by the Apostolic Delegate and in their presence he rendered the following decision.

"St. Mary's parish shall extend to 26th street, that is to say up to St. Henry's church.

"A new parish is formed of the two churches—St. Thomas and St. Henry—the church of St. Thomas being the principal and the church of St. Henry the subordinate.

"The church of St. Thomas shall be restored and reopened and on Sundays and holidays the second and principal mass shall be celebrated in St. Thomas.

"All sermons and instructions not only in St. Thomas' but also in St. Henry's church, shall be given in the English language, there being but few Germans in St. Henry's church and even those few understanding English.

"The present pastor now residing at St. Henry's is allowed to remain, but his successor shall be an English speaking clergyman. This concession is made because of the present scarcity of priests in the diocese."

STRIKE!

The Board of Education meets next Monday night in the High School building. Let every citizen be on hand with his protest, if he wants it to be effective. Remember the Board invites a petition against its action in the Wadsworth property matter.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE

—To-night a song service will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms.

—Easter lodge, K. of H., will hold a regular meeting next Monday evening.

—Our "fresher" contemporary speaks of the Salvation Army jubilee as a G. A. R. celebration.

—The Courier is booming J. E. Mosher for overseer of the poor. Another Seventh Day Baptist!

—Thos. Callahan, of Richmond street, had a grocery wagon break down on Peace street, this morning.

—That flourishing institution the City National Bank to-day announces its semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent.

—The North Plainfield borough council last night exempted John M. Bettman, he having served seven years in the fire department.

—The ordinance changing the boundary of the North Plainfield election districts was adopted on final passage last night. Somerset street is now the dividing line.

—U. B. Crane, the hatter, says he will have no branch stores in Plainfield; and anyone wishing to buy goods of him will find him at 12 West Front street, after Feb. 9.

—Levi Kline was appointed last night a member of the North Plainfield borough registry board in place of John Bodine, who is unable to serve because he is on the township board.

—Mr. Debele of Rock road complains that the street lamp near his place has been unlighted for a month. The borough council last night ordered the electric light company to put it in proper condition.

—A wordy quarrel occurred yesterday noon at the corner of Front and Somerset streets, between a white and colored boys, which drew a large crowd around to see the result, but they did not come to blows.

—Our "fresher" contemporary, among its many daily blunders yesterday, reflected on the credit of the City National Bank by announcing that the dividend just declared was only annual, instead of semi-annual.

—The Borough Council will meet again Feb. 17, to audit the year's accounts and reports. The establishment of a new system of book-keeping will have been completed by that time, so that everything can be audited up to date.

—An entertainment will be given at the Boys' club next Monday evening. Among those who will take part are Mrs. C. S. Lewis, Walter Hudson and Mr. Veglard. The programme will consist of vocal and instrumental music and recitations.

—The promotors of the new road between New Market and South Plainfield could not get the town committee to accept it on Wednesday. They seem determined to have the road put through, and will now pursue some other course.

—It transpires that the Melopoia notice published in these columns yesterday was not intended for publication till to-day. Many tickets may not reach their recipients till to-day. If subscribers don't get their tickets by to-night, then they should write to the secretary and find out the reason.

—That energetic pusher, White, is having another great run on his store, because of the special sale of muslin, sheeting, table linen and house-furnishing goods. He has a regular metropolitan establishment, and his prices are 25 per cent lower than buyers are accustomed to pay at other places. White's is fast becoming one of the most popular houses in central New Jersey.

—The road-beds in and around the western part of the city are in very bad condition. Residents there who have to walk through South Second st. and other thoroughfares find the experience very unpleasant, on account of the road being ankle deep in mud and slosh, especially after a rain storm. The people of the neighborhood are sighing and waiting for street commissioner Meeker to make an appearance.

Now Let Every Woman Cast Her Ballot.

Borough counsel Charles A. Reed has furnished an opinion that in the borough of North Plainfield women have the right to vote at all school meetings held within the district in which they reside, whether for election of school trustees, the raising of money, or any other question that may properly come before such meetings.

He holds that the same thing is true in all school districts in the State except such as are within cities or towns organized under special charters, and which are not subject to the general school laws. In such cases it depends upon the provisions of the charter whether or not women may vote.

New Hose Company in the Borough.

A number of citizens signed a petition to the borough council last night stating that they were ready to organize a hose company in the western portion of the borough, and asking for a hose house, carriage and apparatus. The matter was referred to the proper committee.

Her Chief Gift Was a Fine Piano.

A very pleasant party was given to Miss Ida May Tallamy at her home, 72 West Sixth street, on the occasion of her tenth birthday anniversary, yesterday. Twenty-eight of her little friends had a very pleasant time from 5 to 9. At 8 the grand march was started, led by Miss Reba Kline and Master Willie Westphal. Among the little ones participating were Miss Florence White, Miss Ethel Crane, Miss Florence Clarkson, Miss Ada Westphal, Miss Louise Curtis, Miss Mabel Banner, Miss Ella Banner, Miss Cora Harris, the Misses Ada and May Wallingder, Miss Veny Rushton, the Misses Ida and Bonny Thompson, Miss Dora Ulrich and many others.

They were then seated at a bountiful repast, after which they indulged in many games. Numerous and handsome gifts were bestowed on the young hostess. Among them was a beautiful upright piano, the gift of her brother. All left well pleased with their evening's enjoyment, wishing Miss Ida many happy returns of her natal day.

Plainfielders Were in the Fun.

The West End Circle of Dunellen gave another delightful social, at the home of Miss Maude Benton, last evening. The fun and frolic were greatly enjoyed by all. Carpenter of Plainfield furnished music for dancing, and there were refreshments in abundance. The guests included Miss Mabel Woodruff, Miss May Stelle, Miss Lillian Force, H. C. VanEmburgh and Will F. Williams, all of Plainfield, Miss Minnie Force of Bound Brook, Miss Evie Taylor of Philadelphia, and Miss Buxton and Mrs. Abbott of Somerville. The always genial and rare G. Elston Lowrie, distinguished editor of the flourishing Weekly Call, led the van of Dunellenites.

These Refute the Charge.

To the Editor of The Press:—Mr. Hetfield, in his argument in behalf of Mr. Bock, stated that the habitual playing of cards was indulged in at every saloon in this city. The undersigned are licensees of the city of Plainfield, have never permitted such playing and have endeavored in all respects to manage their business conformably to the license granted to them.

Plainfield, Feb. 4, 1893.

Chief Grant Defended.

To the Editor of The Press:—The charge that police captain Grant showed partiality by notifying me that there must be no card playing in my establishment, is untrue. He merely asked me if it was true that I permitted card playing. I said no, that if there was card playing it was without my knowledge and I should effectually stop it.

Edward P. Thorn.

Take advice! Stop coughing at once by the immediate use of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. One bottle will cure you.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren avenue, Chicago, Ill.

I was a sufferer from catarrh for fifteen years with distressing pain over my eyes. I used Ely's Cream Balm with gratifying results. Am apparently cured. E. C. Warren, Rutland, Vt.

THE SEWERAGE PROBLEM.

North Plainfield Authorities Bound to Remedy Every Defect.

Councilmen Needham and Hummer were last night appointed by the North Plainfield borough council as a committee to consider the matter of joining with Plainfield city in establishing a pest-house.

This action was in line with a recommendation by Mayor Saunders in connection with his report on the sewerage matter.

Mr. Saunders said that he and his committee had had a long, careful and satisfactory conference with the Plainfield authorities. They had reported to the Plainfielders that through the vigilance and activity of the Borough Board of Health sewerage discharge into Green brook had been abolished from that side. The Plainfielders had agreed to stop sewage connection as far as practicable. They would grant no further permits for the North avenue sewer. They would provide a flush tank so as to prevent accumulations of discharges at the mouth of the sewer. They would cut off all other connections with the brook. All this—said Mr. Saunders—was a gratifying step in the right direction. Of course the best thing was to cut off sewage connection altogether, but so radical a thing could not be done in the case of the North avenue main. Several objectionable features, however, were to be obliterated as stated, and if the sewage discharges into the brook were still obnoxious further action would be taken.

The committee, Mr. Saunders continued, had looked into the whole question of sewerage, but, recognizing that the Plainfield authorities had gone carefully and thoroughly into that question, they were waiting to hear what plan was to be proposed.

In the matter of a pest-house, Mr. Saunders said that North Plainfield's need was surely as great as Plainfield's, and he advised that the borough pay a portion of the expense of providing a house in the outskirts and have the privilege of sending its contagious disease patients there. The committee was then appointed as stated.

Plainfield will take action to secure a pest-house as Mayor Gilbert recommended, next Monday night.

MISSING ELMER HINKEL.

His Wife Will Go Home to Her Father, But There Will Be No Arrest.

In relation to the report published in the Plainfield papers yesterday that Elmer Hinkel had eloped, Mrs. Hinkel's brother says:

"Elmer Hinkel never abused his wife; never was known even to say a cross word to her; neither did he ever get any money under false pretenses. As for going away with a Bound Brook dressmaker, it is absurd; there is nothing of the kind.

"It is true he disappeared very mysteriously, and is supposed to be in Sidney, New York, and Mrs. Hinkel will make her home with her father, Jas. Emory, of West Front street. As for arrests, there will be none made."

What Constitutes Man and Where Do Dead Folks Go?

Elder Hand of the First Church of Christ has been requested to speak on a number of very interesting subjects for Bible students, and to-morrow evening begins with "What Constitutes Man?" This is to be followed with "Is Man Immortal?" "Where do Dead Folks Go?" "The Unconscious State of the Dead", "The Doctrine of Future Punishment", "The Saints' Inheritance", etc.

It is hoped this series of talks may prove very profitable, as well as interesting to all. Those who go should be sure to take a Bible with pencil and paper, as references will be given for home consideration.

North Plainfield's Council Moving.

The North Plainfield borough council will remove to Spencer's hall, and hold its first meeting there March 3. The rental of the new headquarters will be $100 a year, and this covers light, heat and janitor's expenses. The township committee meetings and township elections will continue to be held in the hall as usual, but will not conflict. The proper committee was last night given authority to furnish the hall suitably for council meetings. The lease is for one year. The Warren engine parlors will be surrendered to the fire company.

Nothing more annoying than chapped hands. And the more you wash the worse they chap! Soap cleans, but soap chaps. Sure that He Will Get a New Trial on the Evidence Secured.

Carlyle W. Harris, convicted of the murder of his young wife and now lying under sentence of death in the Tombs, was in quite a hopeful mood yesterday. He said: "My mother and some of my friends have made a close investigation in Scranton, and have ascertained beyond any doubt that my wife used morphine extensively long before I married her. They have also discovered that she used arsenic before her marriage to improve her complexion.

"All the facts that they have discovered will be presented next Monday by my counsel, Mr. Howe, when my motion for a new trial, on the ground of newly discovered evidence, comes up before Recorder Smyth in Part I, of the General Sessions. So much positive evidence will be presented that I feel sure I will be granted another trial. The discovery that my wife used morphine before marriage was not not made until after my conviction, and it certainly would change the complexion of the charge entirely on a re-trial."

Harris, though somewhat pallid from his confinement, looked well and was very neatly dressed. He says he receives many visits from clergymen of all denominations, Sisters of Mercy and charitable individuals. Yesterday a Roman Catholic priest called on him and spoke with him for quite a while.

IT IS THE PEOPLE'S CRUSADE.

First Cost of the Wadsworth Property Only the Beginning of Expense.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The remarks of "New Idea", and your comments on buying adjoining property and enlarging present buildings, hit the nail on the head. This plan would save the city thousands of dollars, and provide school facilities for ten or fifteen years to come. Bear in mind, if you please, that this $13,000 is not all of the question. Next comes a suitable building, at a cost of probably $35,000. Add to that janitor's salary, fuel, and other items. Truly this is a scheme of greater magnitude than most people think of. Keep right on with your crusade; the people are with you.

B. B.

Off Again.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—As mentioned in the Courier of Friday under the heading (Young Athletes Entertain) a "trio of young men" then sang: "A Gipsy's Laughing Song". I should like to state that these young men consisted of the well-known "Dresden Trio", and as such deserved their name affixed. After the "Gypsy's Laughing Trio", (not song), came "As the Moments Roll", by Webbe and not Schubert's "Serenade", as recorded, this trio not having such a composition in their possession. This trio is the finest that has been heard in this vicinity to my knowledge.

LOVER OF GOOD MUSIC.

THE ELECTRIC ROAD.

The Improvement is Coming—Work on the Other End.

There is not very much talk—says the New Brunswick Home News—these days about the proposed electric railway joining Somerville, Raritan, Bound Brook and New Brunswick, but it is confidently believed that the scheme is being pushed, though not by local capitalists or the city railway.

The Somerville Unionist-Gazette throws light upon its end of the scheme in the following item published in its last issue of yesterday:

The electric railway from Raritan to New Brunswick is now an assured thing unless something unlooked for happens between now and the opening of spring. The road will be commenced early in the spring at the Raritan end. It is thought that permission to run through Main street, Somerville, will be granted by the commissioners. Should there be any trouble about this the company will lay their tracks between Somerville and Bound Brook. The road promises to be a great improvement to this vicinity.

Two Prophecies.

(From The Rahway Democrat.)

The term of Hon T. F. McCormick, as presiding judge of the Union county courts, expires the first of April, and he will doubtless be reappointed, for the fourth term, as we hear of no practical opposition, he having administered the duties of the office in such a way as to give general satisfaction.

As the term of Senator Mareh, of this county, expires with the present session of the Legislature, the technical objection which was raised as to his regular appointment to the Prosecutorship will be removed, and it is expected that Governor Werts will regularly appoint him to the position he has so ably and satisfactorily filled by appointment of the court during the existence of the vacancy.

Read and Reflect.

The great mass of mankind lose their health through inattention to catarrh of the head and throat. This insidious disease was considered incurable until the discovery of the American Catarrh Cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.00.

One of my children had a very bad discharge from her nose. Two physicians prescribed, but without benefit. We tried Ely's Cream Balm, and, much to our surprise, there was a marked improvement. We continued using the Balm and in a short time the discharged was cured. O. A. Cary, Corning, N. Y.

I suffered from a severe cold in my head for months and could get no relief. Was advised to use Ely's Cream Balm. It has worked like magic in its cures. I am free from my cold after using the Balm one week, and I believe it is the best remedy known. Samuel J. Harris, wholesale grocer, 139 Front street, New York.

A REMARKABLE ARRAY OF TALENT.

Something About the People Who Will Appear at Music Hall in "The Junior Partner".

Charles Frohman, under whose direction "The Junior Partner" is to be presented next Monday at Music Hall, has a unique and happy faculty of organizing theatrical companies. The number of people he has under engagement during the season is said to number nearly 400. It is safe to say that in the course of a season not less than a dozen different companies under his direction appear in each of the principal cities. The play to be given here is of a peculiar French bubbling, sparkling character.

Foremost in the cast is Henry Miller, who plays the title role in the comedy. Mr. Miller is vigorous and stirring in classic as in the modern drama, and is at home in comedy and pathos. As juvenile man in the New York Lyceum theater company Miller first gained prominence in this city for his clever portrayal of the young lawyer in "The Wife". In "Shenandoah" he was the manly and brave-hearted soldier. In "Amy Robsart" he had the character of the earl of Leicester. In "All the Comforts of Home" he was sprightly, dashing, and brimful of lively spirit, as if serious work were a matter apart from his general professional efforts. This a type of role which he will have in "The Junior Partner"—a young, high-spirited Frenchman very much in love with a charming young widow, and yet keenly alive to the fact that other women in the world are not destitute of graces.

Mr. Miller will appear in another role during the evening entirely different from that in "The Junior Partner". This character is Frederic Lemaitire, in Clyde Fitch's one-act comedy of that name. When this play was originally produced in New York by Felix Morris, of the Vokes company, it was a failure, but when subsequently played by Mr. Miller, it became a success and one of the most delightful curtain raisers that has yet been presented on the metropolitan stage.

Mrs. McKee Rankin is one of the best-known actresses in America. Her versatility is rarely equalled by any native actress. One recalls the genial Henrietta in "The Two Orphans", the hoydenish Carrots in "49", the sad-eyed and hunted-down Billy Piper in "The Danites", the dashing young housebreaker in "Jack Sheppard", and a score of others. In "The Junior Partner" she has a role which she plays with exceeding freshness. She is in some respects a caricature in the eyes of the Frenchman. She presents a new type of mother-in-law on the stage in the respect that she cajoles her son-in-law in a good-natured way instead of continually upbraiding him.

May Irwin has for once discarded farce comedy for more pretentious efforts in legitimate work. Buxom and breezy as she is, she makes a charming companion to Mrs. Rankin, as her daughter in the play. May Irwin's personality is of that type that always radiates good humor, whether she is doing songs and dances in vaudeville or playing eccentric comedy roles. Miss Irwin's return to the more pretentious sphere of dramatic work will be hailed with delight by her many admirers and friends.

Hugo Toland, who won considerable notice by the admirable manner in which he played "Mr. Barnes of New York", will play the second leading male role in "The Junior Partner".

Emily Bancker will play the part of the handsome young French widow. She has frequently been seen as a member of the Rosina Vokes company, and more recently as one of the widows in the production of "Mr. Wilkinson's Widows", by Charles Frohman's comedians.

Another pretty woman in the cast is Phyllis Rankin, daughter of McKee Rankin. She has only a small part, but she acts it in a way that shows she has inherited considerable of her mother's genius for acting.

The two other members of the cast, Thomas Ryley and F. B. Strong, are both capable actors.

So the people of Plainfield are going to have a "Wagner night" on Friday next, under the able direction of the renowned Anton Seidl and his admirable New York orchestra. The charming American soprano, Miss Emma Juch, and a number of operatic and concert soloists of recognized merit will also appear on that occasion to assist in the illustration of scenes from "Lohengrin", "Tristan and Isolde", "The Meistersingers", "Parsifal" and "The Walkure".

The programme promises an entertainment of rare merit. Mr. Seidl's fame is international and his personal acquaintance and experience with Wagner give him special advantages as an interpreter of the great composer's lofty themes. Miss Juch's lyric success has been established in the principal cities of the United States. It is announced that her foreign engagements begin in London next June and that she will not again be heard in this country for one year at least. There can be no doubt that, in view of all its splendid attractions, the "Wagner Night" at Music Hall, next Friday evening, will be a notable one and that it will attract a large audience of the music-loving people of this city.

Fire Improvements Over the Brook.

Councilman Hegeman of the committee appointed to consider fire department matters last night reported for the committee that the fire department fund was inadequate to meet all the expenses of the proposed improvements in the department. The committee therefore recommended that bonds be issued to meet the contemplated improvements. This, they held, would give the people better fire protection and greater security in their homes, with no increase in taxes.

KEPT FROM HER CHIEF

Miss Brightman Locked Up at Rockville Centre.

SHE LOVES THE MEDICINE MAN

How the Elopement of the Girl and the Indian Was Frustrated—Believed That Miss Brightman's Accusation Caused "Senator Bob Hart" to Commit Suicide.

ROCKVILLE CENTRE, L. I., Feb. 4.—Miss Stella Brightman is under guard at her home in this place. About 8 o'clock yesterday morning she was apprehended by her mother and Constable Pearsall as she was eloping with Deerfoot, the chief medicine man of the Kickapoo Indian show that had been holding forth in that village. The girl was decked out in all the gorgeousness of an Indian squaw, with her long black hair hanging loose down her back, and several strings of gaudy beads about her neck. Mrs. Brightman and the constable met the couple in the hall where the Indian shows were given. It was the last night of the show and the company were to leave the next morning.

Miss Brightman is a sprightly brunette, 18 years of age, the daughter of James Brightman, a prominent metal dealer of this city.

She and several companions had visited the show nightly.

The girl apparently took great interest in Deerfoot's gyrations in the war dance, and made no secret of her infatuation for him. Encouraged by her ever-present and smiling face, Deerfoot used to stop and talk to her while passing around samples of his medicine.

Mrs. Brightman was informed by letter of her daughter's doings.

To her mother, Stella said that the whole affair was a joke, and promised to keep away from the show. After the close of the entertainment Thursday night Stella was seen in Deerfoot's company. As she did not return home by 8 o'clock in the morning, her mother, in the absence of Mr. Brightman, who was in Philadelphia, started to search for the girl.

She secured the assistance of Constable Pearsall, and together they visited the Indian's headquarters, where they found the missing maiden ready to leave the place with her lover.

At first she refused to return home, but finally, when her Indian lover was threatened with arrest, she changed her mind.

On reaching home, the girl was locked up in her room. Deerfoot told Stella before he left that she should certainly see him again.

This is not the only notoriety achieved by Miss Brightman. Five years ago she brought a charge of assault against J. M. Southerland, the minstrel evangelist, better known as "Senator Bob Hart."

It is said that the charge drove Southerland to commit suicide, he having poisoned herself in the Magnolia hotel in New York a short time after the accusation was brought against him.

NEGLECT IS FATAL.

Awful Consequences from Little Things.

A Spark Kindles the Greatest of Conflagrations.

So From Small Beginnings Come Insanity and Paralysis.

How little people realize that neglect is fatal! They do not understand that headache, loss of memory, confused mind, mental depression, dull, dizzy and bad feeling head, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, with tired and unrefreshed waking mornings, poor appetite, weakness with tired, numb, trembling or cold limbs and feeling of nervous and physical exhaustion are the sure forerunners of insanity or paralysis.

"I was weak and nervous," said Miss Pauline Roe, who resides at 806 Seventh ave., New York city, "and finally had a stroke of paralysis. The suffering I endured was unbearable. My speech was impaired, my mouth drawn to one side and the pains in my head were maddening.

MISS PAULINE ROE.

"I used Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Before I had used one bottle I felt a marked improvement, and now I feel myself well again. I recommend all troubled with nervous complaints or any similar affliction to use this really wonderful medicine."

The well known John S. Doremus, Esq., of 284 Ellison st., Paterson, N. J., writes:

"I shall be ready at any and all times to testify to the remarkable restoration to health of Miss Pauline Roe, and the wonderful effects of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy."

Mrs. James J. Guernsey, of 41 Myrtle street, Albany, N. Y., states:

"I got so very weak and numb I could hardly stand on my feet, at times could not raise my foot from the floor. My whole right side was almost useless. Then

MRS. JAMES J. GUERNSEY.

I saw an advertisement in the papers of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I sent for a bottle and before I had taken half of it I was certain it was helping me. Have taken five bottles and can truly say that the good, wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has cured me and I owe my life to it."

Use this remarkable medicine when you feel the first symptoms coming on and you can be absolutely certain of a cure. It is always best to prevent the actual stroke of paralysis or insanity, and this great remedy will certainly ward it off.

The remedy is purely vegetable and harmless and druggists keep it for $1. It is the prescription and discovery of Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th st., New York, the successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, and he can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

Its Part.

Briggs—That was a nice thing that young Fiddleback fell into, wasn't it? The father of the girl he is going to marry gives them a house and lot, and her mother furnishes all her clothes, besides giving her an income.

Griggs—What does Fiddleback do?

Briggs—I understand that he is going to buy his own cigarettes.—Puck.

Feats of Strength.

"I saw a woman carry an iron bar weighing five hundred pounds a distance of seventy-five feet last night," said Hicks.

"Poh!" said Mawson. "I saw a fragile little woman stop a two-ton horse car on Broadway this morning just by holding up her forefinger."—Harper's Bazar.

The Usefulness of Riches.

Rankin—Yes, old Bullion was immensely wealthy and immensely stingy, but you must remember that he was a man who had no vices.

Fyle—No vices? Great Cœsus! How could a man ever have time to form any vices while he was robbing the world of of thirty-seven million dollars?—Chicago Tribune.

Looking on Its Bright Side.

Kitty—So George has jilted you! Why, the wretch! But you will get over it, dear.

Minnie—Oh, I'm almost reconciled already. I rather like it.

"Why, what do you mean?"

"I can eat all the onions I want now."—Texas Siftings.

How He Made a Name for Himself.

"How is your son doing, Mr. Smith? The son who went to London a few years ago."

"He has made a name for himself," replied Mr. Smith.

"Indeed, in what way?"

"I understand he calls himself Smythe."—Demorest's Magazine.

RUTHERFORD B. HAYES.

Eventful Career of the Dead Ex-President.

His Bravery on the Field of Battle—The Electoral College of 1876—His Grand Work in the Cause of Prison Reform.

The late Rutherford Birchard Hayes was born October 4, 1822. He had been known principally as an Ohio governor prior to his nomination for the presidency, although he made a record in the war. He was educated at Kenyon college and studied law in the office of Thomas Sparrow at Columbus. In 1849 he moved to Cincinnati, where he built up a good practice and gained considerable reputation in several sensational murder trials. In 1859 he was made city solicitor. He entered the army as major of the Twenty-third Ohio volunteer infantry June 7, 1861. A few months later he was lieutenant colonel, and he came out of the army with the rank of brevet major general of volunteers, a rank conferred upon him "for gallant and distinguished services during the campaign of 1864 in West Virginia, and particularly at the battle of Fisher's Hill and Cedar Creek, Virginia."

August 6, 1864, while Hayes was in the field, he was elected to congress, and took his seat December 4, 1865. He was elected to the next congress, but resigned to make a race for the governorship, to which he was elected in 1867. In 1869 he was renominated by acclamation, and was elected by about the usual Ohio majority. In 1872 he accepted a nomination to congress, but was defeated by Gen. H. B. Banning. The republican state convention in 1875 nominated Hayes a third time for the office of governor. After a campaign that excited the attention of the entire country he was elected, defeating "Old Bill" Allen about five thousand votes. It was this important canvass that suggested Hayes as a possible dark horse in 1876. His nomination was brought about by the fight against Blaine. The nomination of the latter was seen to be impossible. The Pennsylvania delegation led in a break for Hayes, and his nomination followed.

As is well known, the election resulted in a serious dispute between the parties as to which candidate was the real victor. Both claimed to have carried the states of Louisiana, Florida and South Carolina. Charges of fraud were freely made and much violent language was indulged in. On the face of the returns as made by the canvassing boards of the states in question and by those of the states in which there were no disputes Mr. Hayes had a majority of 1 in the electoral college. To avoid a deadlock in congress the parties agreed to let a commission consisting of five senators, five representatives and five judges of the supreme court decide the whole matter. This commission, by a vote of 8 to 7, decided not to go behind the certificates of the governors, and Mr. Hayes was finally, on the 2nd of March, 1877, declared duly elected and on the 5th of the same month was inaugurated.

The commission was composed of Justices of the Supreme Court Clifford, of Maine; Strong, of Pennsylvania; Miller, of Iowa; Field, of California; Bradley, of New Jersey; Senators Edmunds, of Vermont; Morton, of Indiana; Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey; Bayard, of Delaware; Thurman, of Ohio; Representatives Hoar, of Massachusetts; Garfield, of Ohio; Payne, of Ohio; Hunter, of Virginia, and Abbott, of Massachusetts. Politically the court stood: Republicans—Justices, 4; senators, 3; representatives, 2; total, 9. Democrats—Justice, 1; senators, 2; representatives, 2; total, 5.

Mr. Hayes' administration was efficient and safe if not brilliant. As soon as his cabinet had been formed he began the work of removing the causes of dissatisfaction in the south. This was attained with many difficulties, and he was subject to much criticism. His efforts to reform the civil service also made for him many enemies, especially among the politicians, who felt that their prerogatives were being interfered with. The resumption of specie payments was successfully effected, and President Hayes, in his annual message in 1879, congratulated the country upon this fact and upon the consequent revival of business. The public debt was materially reduced, and at the close of his term the country was in a more prosperous and peaceful condition than when he went into office.

March 4, 1881, he was succeeded in the presidency by Mr. Garfield, and has since resided at his home at Fremont, O. Since his retirement from political life he had been actively engaged in educational, philanthropic and other work of general interest. He was president of the National Prison Reform association and of the Slater education fund for the negroes; a member of the Peabody education fund for the south, and commander in chief of the military order of the Loyal Legion of the United States. The degree of LL. D. was conferred upon him by Kenyon college, Harvard university, Yale college and Johns Hopkins university. Mrs. Hayes died a few years ago.

He applied at the kitchen door for something to eat and was refused unless he was willing to tackle the wood pile for a brief season with the saw. He was willing and went at it vigorously. A half hour later the lady came out and was startled at the work he had done.

"Why," she exclaimed, "how much you have accomplished!"

He nodded but did not stop.

"I had no idea that you could do so much," she continued.

He nodded again.

"You certainly have earned your breakfast."

He nodded again.

INFORMAL CONFERENCES

The Government Awaits Advices from Minister Stevens.

HAWAII'S DELEGATES HARD AT WORK

Their Reception by the President Will be Delayed—Recognition of the Provisional Government by England is News to the Commissioners—A Lively Legislative Week Mapped Out for Congress—Bills of Public Interest to Come Up.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The Hawaiian Commissioners do not expect to have any statement to make to the public regarding their errand until after the completion of their conferences with Secretary Foster.

They will be busily engaged during the intervals between these meetings with the Secretary in preparation of the arguments that they will advance in support of their application for the annexation of the islands by the United States.

It is said that the conferences between the Secretary and the Commissioners will not be anything more than formal until after the arrival of the next steamer from Hawaii, which is due in San Francisco on the 8th inst., bringing further advices as to the situation of affairs upon the islands.

The State Department expects to receive by that steamer full reports from Minister Stevens of the events in connection with the revolution and of what has occurred since.

The Commissioners also look for additional instructions from the Provisional Government regarding their mission to this country. Until these communications have been received it is said that the Commissioners will not be presented to President Harrison.

The Commissioners, while they are saying very little on the subject of the ultimate accomplishment of their object, intimate that they feel very much encouraged.

No arrangement has been made for their reception by President Harrison, but this will probably take place in a few days as the recognition of the new government by this country removes any hesitation the president might feel in giving the commissioners a formal audience.

The official announcement contained in Minister Stevens' despatch to Secretary Foster that the representatives of all foreign governments had recognized the Provisional Government of Hawaii was evidently as much of a surprise to the Commissioners now here as it was to the general public, as it may generally be construed to include the representative of Great Britain.

The Commissioners say they left Honolulu at 9:15 o'clock in the morning of the day of their departure, and up to 15 minutes before that time they had not heard of the action of Great Britain's representative, although they had been in communication with the executive council before their departure.

They say it is probable that the British Minister had met the United States Minister on the morning in question and had communicated verbally to him the information that he had just before notified the officials of the new government of his recognition or that he intended doing so, which gave to Mr. Stevens the grounds for the statement contained in his despatch. This is the only way in which the Commissioners can account for the matter.

The Commissioners say they have full power to negotiate a treaty of annexation with the United States and although they have not been officially recognized by this government, yet they are encouraged to believe from the manner in which they have been treated that their mission will succeed.

The statement is now made that all governments, including Great Britain, have recognized the Provisional Government of Hawaii.

Secretary of State Foster and Secretary Tracy have admitted that the opposition heretofore entertained that the British government has withheld recognition of the new Government in Hawaii is incorrect.

Poll of Congress Regarding Hawaii.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—The Herald says that a poll of Congress in regard to the Hawaiian question shows the following: In the Senate 24 favor annexation, 33 a protectorate and 25 are non-committal; in the House, 83 want annexation, 46 oppose it and 77 are non-committal.

IN SENATE AND HOUSE.

Important Measures That Will be Taken Up During the Week.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—To-day marks the beginning of the last four weeks of the Fifty-second Congress and the clash of interests demanding attention which must inevitably arise from the announcements already made promises an exceedingly lively legislative week.

These subjects include such important measures as the bills for the repeal of the Silver Purchase act, for the establishment of National Quarantine, to prevent dealings in futures (the anti-Option bill) and for the establishment of a General Bankrupt law.

A discussion, the end of which before the session closes cannot be foreseen, unless brought about by the presentation of appropriation bills, is likely to be precipitated in the Senate at the very beginning, if Mr. Hill carries out his intention of asking the Senate to determine whether or not it will take up the bill to repeal the Silver Purchase law.

Senator Cullom will endeavor to have the bills for the amendment of the Interstate Commerce laws disposed of this week, but will probably not antagonize Mr. Sherman's desire to get the Nicaragua Canal bill out of the Senate and over to the House.

Probabilities in favor the conclusion that legislation upon matters of general public moment accomplished by the Senate will be almost entirely confined to such bills as the Appropriation committee may call up.

The programme of the House for the week is fairly well outlined, except as respects the anti-Option bill. Mr. Hatch, for reasons of his own, declines to say what move he intends to make with regard to it.

Mr. Hatch has asked for recognition in order to call up the Paddock Pure Food bill, and the Speaker will give him the opportunity desired. Besides the Pure Food bill, the measures which are most likely to be considered under suspension of the rules are the bill for the admission of Utah into the Union as a State, the Torrey Bankruptcy bill and the New York Bridge bill.

Wednesday is the day named in the Constitution for counting the Electoral vote, and Thursday and Friday will be devoted to a discussion of cloture and of the silver question.

It cannot be told at this time whether or not the efforts to force the silver question to a vote will be successful.

The appropriation bills will monopolize most of the time of the House not occupied by the silver question, the Electoral count and suspension of the rules.

IN SEARCH OF HIS SISTER

Young Ward's Chase After an Eloping Couple.

EN ROUTE FOR THE PACIFIC COAST.

A Tale from Chicago in Regard to Prominent People of West Haven, Conn., Which, However, is Discredited at that Place—The Girl's Scheme to Raise Ten Thousand Dollars.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—J. H. Ward, son of Israel Ward, a banker of West Haven, Conn., left here last night for St. Paul. He has been here since Saturday night in search of his sister, who eloped with James Lewis, cashier of the West Haven Bank. They were married in Albany and started westward. After tracing the couple through Canada young Ward ascertained they had come to Chicago. At the Wellington hotel he found the names "Mr. and Mrs. J. Jewis, Syracuse, N. Y.," registered, but was informed by the clerk that the couple had left yesterday morning for St. Paul. To a reporter Ward told this story:

"Early in December my father sailed for Europe and before leaving home signed a blank check, which he gave to my sister, telling her to fill it out Christmas time for the amount she would need for presents and to get the money at the bank. Instead of using the check during the holidays she kept it until Jan. 10, when, as I believe, according to an understanding with Lewis, the cashier of the bank, she presented the check filled out for $10,000, which he as cashier was bound to honor, as the signature on the check was genuine.

"Two days after she received the money my sister left to visit her aunt, Mrs. John Myers, in Albany, and a week later Lewis followed her, without giving any notice at the bank of his intention to leave.

"An investigation followed, and the item, of $10,000 paid to my sister by Lewis was discovered. The bank officials were powerless in the matter, as the transaction was regular on its face, and the check was genuine.

"Further investigation of the books developed that Lewis had in his possession certain knowledge regarding accounts and securities about which the officials were entirely at sea without his assistance, and a search was made for the missing cashier.

"My object in meeting my sister is to try to persuade her to return home. I also expect to get from him the knowledge the officials seek. I think the couple are on their way to the Pacific Coast."

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 6.—Israel Ward, the banker referred to in the Chicago despatch on the Lewes-Ward elopement, has been dead about ten years. He was at one time cashier of the Second National Bank of this city.

He left a son and a daughter, now about 20 and 16 years of age respectively. The young lady has been in New York all winter.

Gossip at West Haven has it that during last summer a young man named Lewis paid marked attention to Miss Ward, but whether he is the person alluded to in the despatch cannot be learned.

Wallace W. Ward, the girl's uncle, positively refuses to discuss the elopement matter. There is no bank in the town of West Haven and consequently no "James Lewis, Cashier," thereof.

THE MINISTER WAS FOOLED.

A Brooklyn Divine Creates a Sensation by Announcing War With England.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—The Rev. Mr. Kent, pastor of the Lewis Avenue Congregational Church, Brooklyn, created a sensation by announcing that war had been declared with England.

He added that he had received authoritative information from Washington that President Harrison had issued a call for 12,000 volunteers, and that he had heard that the Boston had been sunk in Honolulu harbor.

After the services the congregation gathered on the street and discussed the information given out by their pastor. It was some time before they found that the whole thing was a hoax, and that the pastor had been imposed upon.

WHITE CAPS AFTER WIFE-BEATERS.

Citizens of Southington Organize to Punish Cruel Husbands.

SOUTHINGTON, Conn., Feb. 6.—Indignant citizens here have banded themselves together as White Caps, and there is likely to be some tarring and feathering done before long.

Several men have gained reputations as chronic wife-beaters, and these the White Caps have decided to punish.

Notices have been served on several of the men to the effect that if they do not stop their cowardly work they will be given a coat of tar and feathers and ridden out of town.

BY POISON AND PISTOL.

Suicide of Miss Koop, a Wealthy Young Woman of Brooklyn.

Miss Koop was the daughter of Herman H. Koop, a wealthy retired merchant, who died suddenly four years ago at the Pacific Street Riding Academy. Soon after Miss Koop's sister Francis died.

Since that time Miss Sallie has been a victim of melancholy.

Has Not Been Offered a Place.

BOSTON, Feb. 6.—Charles S. Hamlin was asked if he had heard anything official regarding the despatch from Washington stating that he was to be appointed Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. He said that his attention had been called to the statement, but, as a matter of fact, President-elect Cleveland had not offered him a position in the Treasury Department.

Slaughtering Game in Yellowstone Park

HELENA, Mont., Feb. 6.—It is stated that Indians are leaving the reservations in Wyoming to hunt in the Yellowstone National Park, and are slaughtering buffalo, elk and deer in great numbers for the skins. Heavy snows and cold weather make game easy to approach and the Indians are taking advantage of it.

THE CASE OF CARLYLE HARRIS.

Lawyers on Both Sides Hard at Work on New Evidence.

OCEAN GROVE, N. J., Feb. 6.—The people of this place and Asbury Park have been much wrought up for the past few days over the efforts being made by agents of District-Attorney Nicoll, of New York, on the one side, and Howe & Hummel on the other, in the procuring of affidavits bearing on the alleged newly discovered evidence in the Carlyle W. Harris case.

In the case of Howe & Hummel the efforts, it seems, were almost fruitless, but the representative of the district-attorney has gone away with his pockets filled with affidavits for the prosecution.

George Potts, father of the unfortunate girl-wife of Harris, said this morning:

"I don't feel at liberty to divulge the exact nature or strength of the affidavits or the names of the parties making them, but of one thing you may be sure—they will successfully refute every allegation contained in the affidavits recently obtained by Howe & Hummel."

HERBERT FOR THE NAVY

The Secretaryship Said to Have Been Tendered Him.

STRAUS FOR POSTMASTER-GENERAL

The New York Merchant Regarded as Mr. Wanamaker's Successor — Carlisle to be Depended Upon for the Preparation of the New Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—It is practically settled in the minds of nearly everybody around the Navy Department that Representative H. A. Herbert of Alabama is to be the next Secretary of the Navy. It is not known exactly how the secret leaked out, but it is stated by a high official of the department, who stumbled on the information by accident, that Mr. Cleveland has acquainted Mr. Herbert with his desire to have him accept the Navy portfolio.

It is further learned that while Mr. Herbert has not formally accepted the appointment, from certain conversations known to have taken place between Secretary Tracy and Mr. Herbert upon matters affecting pending naval questions it is believed there is little room for doubt that he will accept.

Navy people generally are pleased over the prospect of Mr. Herbert's appointment. His two terms as chairman of the House Naval Committee have probably more closely identified him with the naval establishment than any other Democrat in public life.

No less than 21 of the 40 vessels of the new navy were authorized while he was with the House Naval Committee. His liberal policy on the shipbuilding question, navy people think, argues well for the navy, believing, as they do, that Mr. Cleveland has the continued growth of the navy in view in selecting him to preside over the Navy Department.

In the discussion now in progress in the House Naval Committee over the question of new ships Mr. Herbert stands practically alone among the Democrats in favor of another battleship.

STRAUS FOR THE CABINET.

Mr. Cleveland Has Invited Him to Become His Postmaster-General.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Feb. 6.—From a man who is very close to Mr. Cleveland comes the news that Mr. Isidor Straus has been slated for the Postmaster-Generalship. It is said that Mr. Cleveland offered the Postmaster-Generalship to Mr. Straus Saturday night. When the proposition was made to Mr. Straus to enter the Cabinet as Postmaster-General he asked for time to consider it.

Mr. Cleveland's regard for the Straus family is well known. He appointed Oscar Straus Minister to Turkey. Since the President-elect came to Lakewood he has been in almost daily consultation with Mr. Straus and it has been in the air for days that the latter was to have an appointment of some kind. Mr. Straus bore a prominent part in the anti-snapper's movement and also spent a great deal of money in booming the Cleveland campaign in New York State.

THE NEW TARIFF BILL.

Mr. Cleveland Will Rely Largely on Carlisle for Its Preparation.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—President-elect Cleveland will be inaugurated three weeks from next Saturday.

He has put about the last visit to his law office, and will devote the few days that remain to finishing his Cabinet and to his inaugural message.

In the meantime ex-Senator Carlisle—his resignation as Senator from Kentucky is supposed to have taken effect Saturday—will begin work at once on what, his friends say, will be the great work of his life, the Cleveland-Carlisle Revenue Tariff act. It will be a tariff for revenue in the direction of free trade.

After Mr. Carlisle becomes Secretary of the Treasury on Monday, March 6, he will not be burdened by details of office, for he is already familiar with them, and he will, moreover, have as assistant secretaries men who are capable of doing all the routine work of the great department.

Mr. Cleveland has declared to several political friends that he shall rely on Carlisle largely in the preparation of an Administration tariff bill, and that all Carlisle's strength and time must be devoted to this work is known to be the intention of the President-elect to relieve him as much as possible from other work.

Senator Vilas and the Cabinet.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 6.—Gov. Peck and Chairman Wall of the Democratic State Central committee are in Chicago. It is rumored they are to meet Senator Vilas and hold a conference with reference to a Wisconsin man for a Cabinet position. The report that Senator Vilas is likely to become Secretary of State in Cleveland's Cabinet is discredited here.

The Window-glass Combine.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 6.—The Pittsburg representatives in the great window-glass and jobbers' combination, formed in Milwaukee last week, have returned. They say fully 90 per cent. of the manufacturers and jobbers are represented in the combination, and those on the outside, it is believed, will soon see the advantages offered and apply for admission.

Daring Burglary at Schenectady.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey, To-Morrow, Clearing Colder Weather, With High Northwesterly Winds.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Don't miss seeing Henry Miller and his great support to-night.

—Just read the cast of players who will appear in Music Hall to-night.

—The Board of Education and Common Council will both meet to-night.

—There are 20 patients at Muhlenberg Hospital, 4 more than ever before at one time.

—The Dunellen checker team defeated the Plainfielders in a game Saturday night.

—The regular meeting of the McAll auxiliary will be held at the library to-morrow morning at 11.

—Y. M. C. A. classes in mechanical drawing and book-keeping will meet to-night. Young men still have an opportunity to join these classes.

—The valve of the North Plainfield fire gong got caught fast, Saturday night, while blowing for 7 o'clock, and kept blowing nearly two minutes.

—There was never before such a company of players as at Music Hall to-night. They will undoubtedly be greeted as they deserve by a large and fashionable house.

—The new firm of Allen & Lister, capable machinists, successor to Vetterlein, are prepared to do bicycle work of all kinds at their completely equipped establishment, Exchange alley.

—The Choral society meets for rehearsal this evening at 7:30. It is hoped that every member will be present, as there is but one other rehearsal, that of next Saturday evening, before the second concert.

—A woman, a feeble-minded patient from Dr. Cooley's Sanitarium, wandered away from the asylum grounds yesterday, and attracted attention about town. She was quietly returned to the institution in a carriage.

—The Borough Council methods of transacting business are a model of thoroughness and despatch. Mayor Saunders is a jewel of a presiding officer, and expedites the business proceedings of the board in great shape.

—To-morrow evening the Plainfield Camera club will show the slides made by the Brooklyn Academy of Photography. This is a fine set of slides. You can not spend the evening to more profit than by attending this entertainment. The exhibition begins at 8.

—The reason why the misfit editor of our "fresher" contemporary imagines that reputable journals manufacture their communications is because that is his own method. No one ever writes to his obscure sheet, and he isn't capable of understanding or in a position to know what stacks of genuine letters flock to the people's columns of popular and leading newspapers.

—You've all heard the funny story ending "The boy lied!" "Well, that expressive interjection fits the Courier's case exactly. No one has ever insinuated in these columns that Dr. Hurlbut had misstated public school matters, as the Courier would have its afflicted readers believe; nor has this paper or any of its attaches ever criticised that flourishing religious body, the Seventh-Day Baptists, as the Courier falsely charges. As a modern edition of Ananias, the Courier is a glowing success. It knows at least no ninth commandment, and frequently shows ignorance of some of the others.

ANOTHER VICTIM.

George Staats Sacrifices His Life in an Effort to Board a Train.

George W. Staats, fifteen-year-old son of Edward Staats of 12 George street, is dying at Muhlenberg Hospital of injuries received on the Jersey Central railroad tracks in this city yesterday afternoon.

The youth attempted to board a moving coal train, but fell, and his leg was frightfully crushed.

There was much delay in getting him to the hospital, and he was almost dead from loss of blood when he got into the surgeon's hands. They found him too weak to undergo necessary amputation.

When picked up, Staats continually bemoaned the fact that he had disobeyed his poor mother's repeated warnings never to jump aboard a train, and on Sunday too.

Staats has been sinking steadily, and cannot last through the afternoon.

The accident yesterday again demonstrated the great need of an ambulance. Such a vehicle could be used for accidents and the arrest of disorderly characters as well.

Look Out For This One.

A man who is said to be an impostor, has been going from door to door of this city requesting contributions with which to send his blind brother to Yonkers for treatment. He is supposed to be "working" Netherwood to-day.

His story is that he is just from England and has a poor mother and brother living on Plainfield avenue. There is a chance of curing his brother's blindness if a little money can be raised. He tells that the "lady across the street" gave him something and sent him to you.

To Manufacture Oxygen and Hydrogen.

Electrolysis, or the separation of water into its elements by electricity, is a process not often seen outside the chemical lecture room. Franklin S. Smith, the science teacher of the High School, will perform this experiment at the third of his science talks to be given at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Thursday evening, Feb. 9, at 8. The admission will be free.

Everybody should know what a good medicine Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is; it has cured many thousands and will cure you.

VINDICATION.

"THE PRESS" WINS IN THE J. B. MILLER CASE.

The Elkwood Indictment Kicked Out of Court, Prosecutor Marsh Acknowledging that the PRESS'S Charges Were Just; and Its Fight Against an Iniquitous Resort, Righteous.

On Oct. 24, 1891, the editors and proprietors of THE PRESS were indicted by the grand jury of the county of Union on the charge of libel. The alleged libel was a vigorous attack made by THE PRESS on the notorious resort then known as The Elkwood, and on its proprietor. That indictment was looked upon by this community as a certificate of good character and a title of honor to THE PRESS. We continued to expose the iniquities practiced at the low resort referred to and succeeded in so arousing public opinion that the doors of the infamous dive were closed forever.

Craig A. Marsh was retained by THE PRESS to demand a speedy trial, and to produce the evidence to justify the charges published. The case was thoroughly prepared for trial, and THE PRESS has been eagerly awaiting the time when it would be at liberty to go before the court and jury. Term after term of court was passed, but those who by misrepresentations induced the grand jury to find the indictment failed to put in an appearance. This morning the matter was again before the court, Craig A. Marsh appearing for THE PRESS, and Senator Fred C. Marsh, as acting prosecutor, appearing for the State. The latter conceded that the State had no case, and entered a nolle prosequi, which in plain English means that the indictment is kicked out of court, and THE PRESS stands vindicated on the records of the court as well as in the estimation of the public.

Moral—Don't attempt to intimidate THE PRESS. It can't be done.

GONE TO MEET "LITTLE SUNSHINE".

"Gep" Frazee the Veteran Republican, Follows Blaine His Leader.

Big-hearted Gershom Frazee, familiarly known as "Gep: 49er" died at Muhlenberg Hospital at 4 this morning.

"Gep" was a character known not only to everyone in Plainfield, but to Republican voters through the State, having been a conspicuous figure at most political gatherings of his party. He was a campaign poet, stump speaker and worker, and when in business in Newark wielded considerable influence at the polls. He helped control Plainfield's negro vote. He founded the Tippecanoe club in this city during the Harrison campaign, but was chiefly noted as a great Blaine enthusiast. For that now departed leader he was always "whooping it up". He was given a New York Custom-House position during the Harrison administration. His title of "49er" he acquired from having been a pioneer in the gold fields of California. He was once in good circumstances, but after the death of his wife, whom he endearingly called "Little Sunshine", he gave himself up to melancholy, took but little interest in his worldly affairs, and patiently awaited the summons to join the loved ones gone before. The continued defeat of Blaine's presidential ambitions also was as a personal blow and blight to him, and his fatal illness dated almost from the time of Blaine's. "Gep" often predicted that he would not be long in following the chieftain. He was almost at death's door when Blaine died. His disorder was a cancerous affection of the stomach.

The old man was peculiar, and often amusing, but he was a man of great depth of feeling, and everybody liked him. There is genuine sorrow among all, that he is gone. He had his faults, for he was human, but his tender affection and sincere devotion to his beloved helpmeet, his "Little Sunshine", would cover a multitude of errors. No better epitaph could be inscribed above his dust than proud fact that he never spoke a cross or harsh word to his wife.

Gershom Frazee was born at Short Hills in the year 1827. In 1849 he went to California as one of the early pioneers. He returned home and went back again in 1851-2. He leaves one child, a daughter, Mrs. William Dunn. Three brothers survive him, Augustus, Samuel and James, the latter a resident of Columbus, Ohio. His last request was to be buried in a plain coffin with the American flag wrapped around it, and almost with his dying breath he uttered his famous phrase "Whoop 'em up!"

Attractive Tours to the Near South via the Pennsylvania Railroad.

PLAINFIELD'S WOMEN WORKERS.

Besides Their Advanced Religious Thought, They Spread Practical Knowledge as Well.

THE PRESS was shown Saturday afternoon a sample of tubular pillow casing, an invention destined to gladden the heart and lengthen the purse of thirty Plainfield housewives. The material is woven in such a manner as to require only a hem at one end and sewing together at the other. Thus the annoyance of seaming up one side is abolished; and, there being no ugly seam requiring to be kept always at the edge, by occasional shifting of the goods the wear may be distributed evenly over the goods, instead of coming all at the center of the pillow where the head rests. This labor-saving invention may be seen and bought at the All Souls' church parlors any Tuesday afternoon between 3 and 5. All interested are invited by the ladies to call.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

G. Elston Lowrie, the enterprising editor of the Dunellen Weekly Call, modestly disclaims the honor of leading the Four Hundred of his thrifty borough, and insists that the credit belongs to the great and only William Milliken, he having conducted all the socials this winter and being the recognized autocrat of the West End Circle. They are both shining lights, destined to occupy exalted positions among the galaxy of great people.

Mrs. James E. Fancher, of Fanwood, whose husband was killed by a train in this city recently, has written to ex-councilman S. P. T. Wilbur, representative of the Union Mutual Life Insurance company, in acknowledgment of the receipt of $10,683.60, the amount of Mr. Fancher's policy. She says: "It would seem only proper to me at this time, considering the prompt payment of my claim, to express my thanks and gratitude to you and the company you represent. The absolute necessity of life insurance in a company that will make such a just and equitable settlement as has been done in my case, cannot be too highly praised.

There is nothing so good for burns and frost bites as Salvation Oil. It effects a speedy and permanent cure. 25 cents.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 46 Warren avenue, Chicago, Ill.

And How to Get Rid of Them.

Nothing more annoying than chapped hands. And the more you wash the worse they chap! Soap cleans, but soap chaps. Now by neutralizing the alkali of the soap by means of a harmless acid we may prevent chapping. ANOTHER HIGH SCHOOL PLAN.

Here's a Chap Advocates the Condemnation of the Present Building.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—If the Board of Education has set its heart on forcing upon the city of Plainfield a new High School building, why does it not take the big sum of money it seeks to squander and replace the existing High school with a model, modern edifice on the site of the present antiquated, homely, tumble-down structure?

I am told that the High School building to-day is shaky and should be condemned, that when an attempt is made to dance at the Graduates' Assemblies the floors, settle and the walls tremble, that its condition is a menace of great peril to its occupants.

If this is so, let the old school be torn down, and there'll be abundant land for a fine new High School that will accommodate the Plainfield children for many years to come.

If the present High School is safe, there is still plenty of land adjoining for extension. More land is not needed, and its purchase is an extravagance.

ECONOMIST.

SEWERS FIRST.

Extravagant High Schools Afterwards—Health and Life at Stake.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS—Twelve deaths this winter on account of diphtheria in Plainfield, with scarlet fever remaining to be officially heard from!

Instead of building new school-houses for the use of the children of Plainfield, should we not turn all available money towards the preservation of the health and even the lives of the said children?

Sewers first—higher education afterwards. For humanity's sake don't embarrass the former by precipitating the latter.

ANTI-FILTH.

Is This Correspondent Wid Us or Agin Us?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I notice in your Saturday's issue the following: "The Board of Education meets next Monday night in the High School building. Let every citizen be on hand with his protest, if he wants it to be effective. Remember the Board invites a petition against its action in the Wadsworth property matter."

Who makes this statement? Not one of the Board's names are attached—president, clerk, or by any authority of the Board. Neither have we had any statement to my knowledge of authority from the school board that they have purchased the property at all; and that the board invites petitions, or that they will meet for such a purpose on Monday night. Is this businesslike? If the Board has purchased the property as has been stated, then let the board plainly say so, and then the people will know the facts; and then let the board give notice what they intend to do, by their official authority. Then finding objections exist appoint a time, several days ahead, that they will hold a special meeting and that all objectors may be heard by remonstrance or otherwise. Would this not be businesslike? What can the objectors rely upon from the foregoing notice? and then if they (the people) wish to remonstrate, they need facts from headquarters to petition for or against, and then they would need more than one day to do their work in.

BUSINESS.

P. S. If this had been done on the start, it might have saved considerable slang and foolish talk. B.

A Retort in Kind.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I am told that an obscure sheet of doubtful circulation devoted a column the other night to personal abuse of myself and others, falsification of what I have written, and a characteristic outburst of currishness generally, especially against one whom its feeble intellect fancies is responsible for my writings.

From what I hear of the attack, I judge that the only argument of its imbecile author in favor of the Board of Education's proposed extravagance and outrage upon individual rights, is that I am an ass—which all good people will concede is a very lovely and unanswerable argument indeed, and should settle the High School question once for all.

I have to thank the heathen fellow of the insignificant journal in question, for his very distinguished animosity. I rejoice with pride and exultation that he honors me with his enmity. I never did care for the fellowship of a serpent or water-bug, or for the favor of a pollywog or Jo-Jo; and I am glad to be permitted by the leading ourang-outang to steer clear of the menagerie of google-eyed missing links of which he is chief. I speak thus out of my natural element because that's the only sort of talk the thing I refer to can understand. The "staff" of Jo-Jos are not accustomed to polite society or cultured flow of thought or speech. I trust the venomous reptile will appreciate my condescension in stooping to language and methods which are peculiarly his own. It is hard for me to bend towards his level, but then even patent-leathers sometimes have to cross muddy streets.

My rancorous assailant, in his sour-tempered and futile effort to disclose my identity, loses sight of the point at issue altogether. My personality is not a factor in the matter; my individuality makes no difference. It is the argument, not only of myself but of many others, that is being used as a power against the Educational Board's injustice. That argument my opponent does not attempt to meet, and cannot answer.

Meanwhile—concerning the High School question—in spite of the fact that I am an ass, the truth and the people are marching on, and the jealous, shallow, indecent and despicable picaroon whose envy and hatred I have incurred is being left more and more behind the procession every day. FREE THINKER.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT.

Six Days in the Week Should He Be at the People's Service.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I agree with "Free Thinker" that the principal of the Plainfield public schools should not be a Seventh-Day Baptist—

Because that principal should be at the service of the people six days in the week. In other cities (and so it was in this city when Miss Bulkley was principal) the custom is to have office hours on Saturdays when the principal can be consulted by teachers and parents concerning the various matters that are continually cropping up for settlement. I know of my own knowledge that Mr. Maxson's religious scruples against transacting business on his Sabbath, Saturday, works hardships to teachers and parents desiring to talk with him. Of course Sunday is no day to see him either, for that is the Sabbath of the others. I repeat—

The principal ought to be accessible to the public six days in the week.

PARK AVENUE PARENT.

EULOGIZES FATHER CUSHING.

A Grateful Parishioner Sorrowfully Indignant at His Untimely Removal.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—As a Catholic and a lover of fair play, I was much grieved when I saw in Saturday's PRESS the announcement of the sudden removal of our much-esteemed and highly-respected clergyman, Father Cushing, from being assistant rector of St. Mary's. Just now when his sterling worth and meritorious zeal had endeared him to the Catholics of Plainfield, and I might almost say to many non-Catholics as well, I am only voicing the true sentiment of the parish when I say that the action of the Rev. Father Smyth in demanding his removal by Bishop Wigger was not and will not accrue to the religious interests of St. Mary's. In the few months he has spent here, a great and increasing improvement was taking place. His able and heart-touching sermons against vice and the ruling proclivities of the age were masterpieces of practical Christianity, and the church proved it by its Sunday nights' attendances. This nineteenth century calls for or seems to want the gospel of Christ preached with zeal and burning ardor, and in that line Father Cushing filled the bill. It seems very strange that when a big parish like St. Mary's gets an able and educated curate, a man of missionary travel and experience, that just as soon as he in God's own time becomes the instrument of producing good fruit he is sent away and the wayward souls of the parish relapse again into the old roadway. This article is not written with malice or a shadow of dictation as to how the Rev. Father Smyth may conduct the spiritual or other affairs of his parish, but I claim the right as a Catholic and one of his parishioners to give vent to my feelings in regard to the appreciation in which I and the big majority of the parish of St. Mary's held Father Cushing; and I further declare that in my humble opinion it will be a long time before our parish will again be favored with so able an expounder of the gospel of Jesus Christ.

MICHAEL J. ADAMS,
111 Richmond street.

The Same Old Faker at It Again.

Such of the New York papers as are represented by the news jobbers of the Courier shop, published yesterday a yarn from Plainfield to the effect that the reason Father Cushing had been removed from St. Mary's parish was because of gross offense he had given in preventing waltzing in the Young men's Lyceum hall. THE PRESS last week exposed a similar fabrication from the same pen, concerning the trouble that was falsely alleged to exist over the "waltzing" matter. The fact is, Father Cushing's action concerning waltzing at the Lyceum was in exact accord with the views of Father Smyth and Bishop Wigger. He did his duty in that, and offended no one. His removal was for altogether different reasons. For truthful Plainfield news, don't look in the papers represented by the Courier people. Remember the Crescent Avenue Church "panic"!

Half-rate Tickets for Clergymen on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Pursuing the policy inaugurated last year, the Pennsylvania Railroad company is supplying regularly ordained ministers of the gospel with clerical orders entitling the holders to tickets at half-rates over its entire system. These tickets are purchasable by any clergymen exhibiting a "clerical order", and they may be bought to any station on the Pennsylvania system, both east and west of Pittsburg, at one-half the regular rates. Under this arrangement clergymen may secure half-rates to Chicago during the World's Fair, and there can be no doubt that a great many of them will avail themselves of the opportunity. The inauguration of this liberal privilege by the Pennsylvania Railroad company last year met with hearty appreciation at the hands of the ministers of all denominations, and its continuance this year will be especially well received by reason of the advantages it carries in connection with the World's Fair.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.00.

A DEMORALIZED CHURCH.

Only Seven Left in the Congregation, and One of Them Is the Organ-Pumper.

(From The New York Herald.)

Rector J. B. Jennings, of Grace Episcopal church, Westfield, N. J., who has become unpopular with his parishioners, is likely soon to be an unknown quantity in that town.

The committee appointed by Bishop Scarborough some time ago decided that the charges of lying and drunkenness brought against the pastor were not sufficiently substantiated to warrant an ecclesiastical trial.

From that time the vestrymen of Grace church have not known exactly what action to take.

They had no hesitation in saying that they intended resigning their positions as officers of the church, but Mr. Jennings made that impossible by refusing to call a vestry meeting.

Finally the rector changed his mind, and last Friday night he called a meeting of the vestrymen and the rector's resignation was promptly called for by the church officers.

Rector Jennings did not manifest the least surprise, nor did he show any inclination to accept the situation. He simply acknowledged the sentiment of the vestry and said that he would take the matter under advisement.

The rector will not discuss the matter and the vestrymen are almost equally reticent, but I was told yesterday at Westfield by a member of the church that Mr. Jennings will resign early in the spring.

If he does not, I was further informed, the vestrymen will themselves resign in a body and turn the church over to the keeping of Bishop Scarborough.

The congregation is already said to have dwindled to six persons without mentioning the boy who pumps the organ.

Each Pays for Her Own Soda and Tolu.

The Westfield Standard says: "Plainfield has a very live woman's club. Its members are cyclists and twenty-six of these lovers of the wheel hold regular meetings, and are governed by an elaborate constitution. The rules are strictly observed, and the club is thriving, without the guiding hand of a single man, too. One rule is that there shall be no treating on the club 'runs'."

A Wagner Evening Under Seidl

This city is to be favored with an extraordinary treat Friday evening, when Anton Seidl, the great Wagnerian conductor, will give an entire evening of brilliant parts from the Wagnerian music dramas, with a strong combination of soloists, headed by Miss Emma Juch, the greatest dramatic soprano in the country at the present time. The concert will be at the Music Hall. The instrumental parts will be given by Seidl's full New York orchestra.

A mere glance at the programme is sufficient to make any lover of good music resolve to attend at any sacrifice. The evening opens with four of the greatest things in "Lohengrin", the Vorspiel, the fine duet in the second act between Elsa and Ortrud, Elsa entering the cathedral in the same act, and "Elsa's Dream", in the first act. Then follows the Siegfried Idyl, dedicated by Wagner to his wife, Cosima, at the birth of their son, Siegfried. "Tristan and Isolde" is represented by the wonderful "Liebestod", which many regard as the culmination of modern art. From "Die Meistersinger" there will be given the fine quintet in act III. Then follow the overture and "Glorification" from "Parsifal", played by the orchestra, and the concert closes brilliantly with the grand scene of the Valkyries from act III.

The soloists who are to take part in this magnificent programme are as follows: Miss Emma Juch, Miss Amanda Fabris, recently prima donna with the Carl Rosa company in England, soprano, from the royal opera at Buda-Pest; Miss Flora Bertelle of the royal opera at Munich, Miss Helen Metz, sopranо; Miss Elizabeth Northrop, soprano; Miss Lucy Osborne, mezzo soprano; Miss Gertrude May Stein, recently leading contralto of the Emma Juch company, and an excellent artist; Mme. Adele Baldwin, solo contralto of Dr. Paxton's church, New York; Miss Marie Maurer, contralto; E. C. Towne, solo tenor of St. Patrick's; William Stephens, recently leading tenor in the Emma Juch company, and Emil Sanger, recently of the Metropolitan opera house, New York. In the orchestra appear the well-known names of Clifford Schmidt, concert master, Victor Herbert, violon-cello, and John Cheshire, harp.

How She Saved Money.

TO THE EDITOR—Every woman ought to write to Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt., for one of their free books on home dyeing. They also sent me forty cloth samples of different colors, so that I had no trouble in selecting the dyes I wanted. I could tell of many ways diamond dyes have saved me money, but most of them are explained in this book.

SERIOUS RAILWAY WRECK.

Collision of Trains on the Baltimore and Ohio.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 6.—A disastrous wreck occurred at 2 o'clock this morning at Williams Station, twelve miles this side of Cumberland, on the Baltimore and Ohio Road. Two men are under the wreck and are no doubt dead; another is fatally injured and several others badly hurt. The dead are:

George Wallace, engineer, married, lived at Connellsville.

John Nez, conductor, married, and also of Connellsville.

Among the injured are: William Niland of Glenwood, a fireman, who will die; Dunlap, conductor on one of the trains, and Grimes, a flagman, both of whose injuries are serious. The names of the rest of the crew who were injured were not learned.

The accident occurred at the foot of the mountain and was caused by the icy rails which rendered the train unmanageable.

The train crashed into another freight and both trains were wrecked. Twenty-four cars were demolished.

It is reported that the wreck is the worst of its kind that has ever occurred on the Baltimore and Ohio, and that the tracks will be blocked twenty-four hours at least.

[The wreck delayed the 11:09 Plainfield train one hour.]

THE HARRIS CASE.

Another Postponement of the Hearing for a New Trial.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—The hearing of argument in the application of Carlyle W. Harris for a new trial was adjourned this morning for a week. Recorder Smyth, before whom the argument will be made, was sitting in the trial of Charles W. Gardner this forenoon. Mr. Wellman, the Assistant District Attorney who will oppose the motion, was the attorney for the people in the Gardner case and Harris's counsel was employed in another part of the Court of General Sessions.

It is thought that the argument will be made next Monday morning without fail.

One of my children had a very bad discharge from her nose. Two physicians prescribed, but without benefit. We tried Ely's Cream Balm, and, much to our surprise, there was a marked improvement. We continued using the Balm and in a short time the discharged was cured. O. A. Cary, Corning, N. Y.

A FORMIDABLE RAM.

The Folger Type Recommended for Our Navy.

In Its Principal Characteristics It Is Wholly Different from the Well-Known Ammen Design—Thickness of Its Armor.

The ram, says the New York Herald, is as old as war ships themselves. If a ship gets a fair blow with her bow against an enemy's hull the vessel struck can hardly be expected to survive the blow more than a few minutes. But in the naval engagements of the past forty years, during which steam has been the propelling power of men-of-war, there have been rare instances in which ramming has been successful.

It is, however, in theory a pet mode of attack with some navy officers, and we are now building one vessel—the Ammen ram—whose sole offensive power lies in her spur, with which, it is hoped, she will sink her enemies.

In the annual report of the navy chief of ordnance another ram is recommended for construction. This proposed craft contains several characteristics wholly different from those of the Ammen design. Instead of being dependent solely on her spur, she is to be provided with four short bored rifled mortars, placed in pairs forward and aft. It is expected that these will be of 9-inch caliber, and will throw shells each carrying at least 200 pounds of high explosive. It is not expected that the projectiles from these guns will be fired with high velocity, but that a plunging fire at short range will be delivered from her bow pair as the ram charges at her enemy and from the two stern guns as she retreats.

Besides these four mortars there will be two submarine guns on the principle of the Ericsson gun in the Destroyer. They will probably be of about 15-inch caliber, with a capacity to send a torpedo containing 500 pounds of high explosive with a great speed at least 500 yards. Thur the vessel attacked will be in jeopardy in three different ways, all of which attacks are directed at her most vulnerable parts—namely, her decks, by the mortar shells, and her under-water unprotected hull by the submarine guns and the ram's spur.

The accompanying cuts show some of the peculiarities of the proposed ram. Her main hull, as shown in the midship sectional view, is almost an ellipse in section. Forward and aft are superstructures carrying the mortars, but the armored hull "tumbles home" from below the waterline, and also runs down forward and aft below the waterline.

The thickness of armor on deck will be 2 inches; about three feet above the waterline throughout the machinery space it will be 5 inches, three feet below the waterline throughout the machinery space it will be 4 inches, and two and a half feet below the 4-inch armor it will be 3 inches. The lower edge of armor will be 9 feet below the waterline. The sloping sides and the nickel steel armor are expected to give this ram sufficient protection against gun fire above water, while the armor below the waterline is expected to protect her against torpedo fire.

Following are some of the other features of the craft: Length over all, 275 feet; length on waterline, 262 feet; extreme beam, 46 feet; beam at waterline, 40 feet; draught of water, 17 feet; displacement, 2,700 tons; indicated horsepower, 6,235; speed, 18 knots; coal at normal draught, 190 tons; radius of action at maximum speed, 821 knots. She will have twin screws, driven by triple expansion engines.

Effect of Sun and Moon on Steel.

A curious fact has recently been noted by the fine steel workers at Sheffield, England. It is this: Fine edged tools assume a blue color and lose all temper if exposed for any considerable length of time to the light of the sun, either in summer or winter. A similar effect is exercised by moonlight, a large cross-cut saw with which the experimenters were working having been "put out of shape and its temper ruined by a single night's exposure to a first quarter moon."

Invented by Women.

Women inventors by no means confine themselves to those departments where they might be supposed to possess special experience. Patents have been granted to women for a plan for deadening the noise on railways, for preventing sparks from locomotives, for sweeping the streets, for a new form of life raft, for textile manufactures and electrical appliances.

ABOUT SLIDING DOORS.

Notes on the Proper Way of Framing Partitions.

The First Requirement Is a Solid Foundation—Every Partition Should Have Sound Bearings Under It—Explanatory Plans.

Nearly all cottages and dwellings that are of the modern styles and which are now being erected must necessarily have a set of sliding doors or two or they will not be considered up to the times in the way of conveniences and modern improvements. That the sliding doors are a decided improvement on the folding doors there can be no doubt, providing the sliding doors are substantially and properly put up. Almost every carpenter knows something about sliding doors. Most of the carpenters actually dread to have anything to do with a sliding door. Why? Because they know there are so many causes for sliding doors to bind, stick fast on the floor, against the head jambs, the track, the stops, and in fact they seem to stall at the least little thing. I have seen carpenters hang sliding doors, and leave them in perfect working order one day, and the next day the doors would not work. Why? Simply because some part of the work was improperly done, or at least it was not a substantial piece of work. The sooner people learn that everything connected with a sliding door must be true and as firm as a rock, the sooner they will get sliding doors that will work properly, and stay in working order as long as any other door.

Some carpenters blame the hangers if the door doesn't work, but the fact is, nine times out of ten, it is the improper construction of some part of the work that causes the unsatisfactory working of the doors. Many workmen, knowing these causes, are too shiftless and indifferent to in any way guard against them.

The first requirement is a solid foundation to start from. Every sliding door partition should have solid bearings under it. A solid wall is the best, but if this cannot be had, then a good-sized girder with proper supports at each end and also under each side of the door will answer, if substantially put in.

Fig. 1 shows the manner of framing the partition. Use a plate on the floor and also one at the ceiling. Use double studding each side of the door, letting the outside studding run from plate to plate. Cut the inside studding next to door jambs the proper length to have the header rest directly on top of the jamb studding. Nothing smaller than a 2x8 doubled should be used for headers. Studding should never be set the flat side to the plaster, for the purpose of saving a little space in the thickness of the wall. Such a wall cannot be made solid enough for sliding doors; it will spring, and nothing can be done to prevent it. If the upper joists bear on the ceiling plate, as shown in Fig. 1, a truss can be put in, as shown by dotted lines. A piece should also be extended to second studding from the door to keep the truss from spreading.

Fig. 2 shows the general construction of headers, jambs and track for a single track hanger. B is an iron bracket, which is securely fastened to the studding, and to which the track is bolted. The hanger carries a grooved wheel, which runs on the track and is connected with the door in a manner similar to all door hangers. I consider the single track door hangers superior to those using the double track. They save time and money in putting them up. As there is but one track to adjust, much time is saved, and as the weight of the doors must necessarily come all on one partition, the one the track is fastened to is the only one that requires special attention as to strength and accuracy. A spreader should be put in between the two walls to keep the partitions from either spreading or closing together. Their original position and proper distance apart must be accurately maintained.—J. P. Hicks, in National Builder.

Tar a Good Medicine.

Few people have any idea of the beneficial medical qualities of tar. In medicine it is valuable in chronic catarrh, it is of benefit in almost all kinds of cutaneous disease, there is no better dressing for an ulcer, while tar water is an excellent tonic for debilitated persons, and the vapor of tar is a panacea for many forms of bronchial trouble. People will not use simple medicines, as a rule preferring something from the drug stores; but if such remedial agents as tar and other so-called "old women's remedies" were more commonly employed men would enjoy better health.

College Professors in Spain.

The professors in the colleges of Spain are miserably underpaid, often receiving no more than $600 per year. They endeavor to make a small profit out of their textbooks, each requiring his own book to be used. These books are frequently in manuscript, or, if printed, are sold at unusual prices. The students, also poor, resort in consequence to second-hand shops and the annual fair, where a specialty is made of collegiate text books.

And Yet Some People Are Fresh.

The waters of the oceans and seas of our globe hold not less than 60,000,000,000,000,000 tons of salt in suspension. If these figures are correct and the ocean should be entirely dried up there would be a deposit of salt 450 feet deep over every foot of the great basin. If taken out and spread upon what is now dry land it would give us a salt cover ing nearly 1,500 feet thick.

A TASTE FOR FAULTLESS FACT.

Sympathetic Citizen—I suppose, my poor man, you spend your whole time climbing up that ladder.

Murphy—Oi don't, thin, fer Oi spend half of it climbin' down!—Truth.

And They Subsequently Wedded.

"Didn't your play have a good run?" inquired De Ham.

"Had a splendid run," answered Bonstommer, the author actor, picking a pebble out of his shoe; "more particularly at our last place. But the constable took a short cut and got to the railway station ahead of us."—Chicago Tribune.

THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

Strong Sentiment in Favor of Hawaii's Annexation.

HARRISON MUST HEAR BOTH SIDES.

Senator Hill's Motion to Proceed to Consideration of the Bill for Repeal of the Sherman Silver Purchasing Act Defeated—Special Panama Investigating Committee Begins Operations.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—No information of a definite character can be expected concerning the Hawaiian question until after the conference to-day between the Annexation Commissioners and the Secretary of State.

It is expected that the Secretary of State will announce to-day the date for the presentation of the commission to the President.

This will probably take place after to-morrow, because the Administration desires to wait until after that date to hear once more from Minister Stevens.

The next steamer from Honolulu is due at San Francisco on Feb. 8, and it is expected to bring despatches from the United States Minister telling of the condition of things in the islands after the departure of the annexation commissioners, and also the acts of the provisional government.

Of course these despatches will be telegraphed at once from San Francisco and will be of much importance in the conferences.

The Commissioners have now come to the conclusion that a decision cannot be reached until after Feb. 15.

The President has decided that he must hear both sides of the case, and the Secretary of State will wait the arrival of the Queen's special messenger, Mr. Neuman, who is also due in San Francisco on Feb. 8.

The Queen, after being dethroned, decided to send to the United States her own messenger, and let him bring in person her protest to the President. The provisional government had appointed her minister, Dr. Mott Smith, its minister, and so she was without a representative here.

Mr. Neuman has been close to the Queen during the last year or so, and is able to plead her cause.

He is expected to arrive in Washington about Feb. 13, and, if he desires it, Dr. Mott Smith will present him to the Secretary of State, but more than this the Hawaiian Minister will not act in the ex-Queen's service.

The attitude of the Administration, which first favored a protectorate government, since the arrival of the Hawaiian Commissioners has changed to one favoring immediate annexation.

President Harrison has always looked upon a protectorate as merely a preliminary step toward annexation. The expressions of opinion in Congress have made it evident that, despite the brief time remaining between now and March 4, it may be easily possible to pass the bill providing for annexation.

Not since the controversy with Cuili has there been so marked an absence of merely partisan feeling upon any subject as that of the acquisition of the Sandwich Islands. This concurrence of opinion has removed the chief objection to the immediate annexation of the islands, in so far as it has seemed to make it possible to pass the requisite bill through both branches of Congress within the next four weeks.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Senator Hill's Motion Defeated—Filibustering in the House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Mr. Kilgore, of Texas, began filibustering motions in the House, but after a long fight, found himself in a hopeless minority, and was obliged to surrender. Later, however, Mr. Kilgore and Mr. Burroughs succeeded in preventing action on any measure before adjournment.

The proceedings of the Senate were of a character at once interesting and important. The junior Senator from New York, Mr. Hill, made the motion of which he had given notice last Friday—to proceed to the consideration of the bill to repeal the Sherman Silver Purchase Act.

In support of the motion he delivered a carefully prepared speech in which he declared himself unconditionally a friend of free bimetallic coinage.

The speech received unusual attention from Senators, from Members who had come over from the House to hear it, and from a large audience in the galleries, but the motion was defeated by nearly a two-thirds majority—the vote being: Yeas, 28; nays 42.

Afterwards the Quarantine bill was taken up and passed without a division; also a bill for the payment out of the Treasury of local taxes on lands held by Indians in severalty.

Our Panama Inquiry Begun.

WASHINGTON, Feb 7.—In the Panama Canal investigation by the special House committee, begun yesterday, Mr. Coine, of Brooklyn, stated that the stock had been sold in this country for $290 per share, while the regular market price was but $140, this being done in order to get control of the railroad, the canal company owning nearly all the road stock. Attorneys' fees had been paid to Col. Ingersoll, $5,000, and Shellabarger & Wilson, $25,000 for appearing before Congressional committees. He said that no bribing had been done. The investigation will be continued to-morrow.

A BIG STRIKE THREATENED.

Railroad Traffic in Chicago Reported to be on the Verge of a Tie-Up.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—On authority from several reliable sources, it seems more than probable that within 10 days a herculean attempt will be made to tie up every car and locomotive in the city, and paralyze the traffic on many thousands of miles of tracks.

So apprehensive have the officials of one of the Eastern trunk lines become that, it is reliably reported, they are refusing to receive eastbound freight and traffic from Western lines.

Starting with the unorganized switchmen, the disaffection has spread until, it is claimed, the various branches of unorganized employes will unite in one of the most determined strikes ever known in railroad annals.

The switchmen have decided to demand an advance of five cents an hour from their present pay, and to strike if they do not get it. This important action was taken at a meeting of committees, representing the 27 railroad yards in this city. The new scale demands 30 and 35 cents an hour, respectively, for day help, and from 35 to 40 cents an hour for helpers and foremen working at night.

The demand will be made upon several roads centring here as soon as petitions can be circulated among the men in the respective yards and a majority of the signatures obtained.

The peculiar feature of the movement is that the regular organizations of the switchmen are entirely ignored in the new move, and that it is a general movement on the part of the men irrespective of the heads of the old organizations.

Telegrams from points along the line of the Pennsylvania railroad indicate that the company expects trouble at an early date over the question of wages, as they have refused perishable freight at many points destined to Chicago, and the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago railway officials here have declined to receive such freight, on the ground that they expect trouble on the road with the engineers.

JUDGE JACKSON INTERVIEWED.

He Says He Was Not Consulted Before the Nomination.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 7.—Judge Howell E. Jackson, recently nominated by President Harrison to the office of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States is here in connection with his duties as circuit judge. He was warmly congratulated by members of the bar with whom he has always been a favorite.

Speaking of his recent appointment he said: "I have had no communication with the President relative to my appointment either before or since I was informed of it. A few days before the appointment was made, I had a letter from one of the present justices, saying he hoped the President might see his way clear to appoint me to the vacant post. About the same time I had a letter from a prominent lawyer of Detroit expressing the same hope.

"I was not consulted and, as far as I know, the President did not consult with any one relative to the matter.

"I have no idea who will be my successor, but I would like to say a word about an item I saw in a morning paper. It said I was appointed that Harrison might appoint his old law partner, Gen. Miller, to the place I vacated. Now, as a matter of fact, such a thing is impossible, even had the President desired it. My successor must come from my own district. Gen. Miller is of the seventh district, and is not eligible."

THE HARRIS CASE HEARING.

Postponed Until Next Monday by Mutual Consent.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The argument for a new trial for Carlyle W. Harris, set down for yesterday before Recorder Smyth in the Court of General Sessions, was, by the mutual consent of Mr. Moss, of Howe & Hummel office, and Assistant District Attorney Wellman, postponed until Monday next.

Several affidavits which Mr. Howe is anxious to submit are not yet ready.

Harris was not brought down from the Tombs.

A special despatch from Philadelphia gives an interview had with Mrs. Andrew McKinstry, who resides at No. 3,600 Hamilton street, that city, in which she admits that she knew Helen Potts before she became the wife of Carlyle Harris, and that she was addicted to the morphine habit. When pressed said she knew it from hearsay only, but that she placed credence in the statement.

Mrs. McKinstry also declared that she knew that Helen Potts had time and again threatened to do herself bodily harm, and that she had to be restrained.

HER SHAFT WAS BROKEN

The City of Peking Arrives at San Francisco in Tow.

SEVENTEEN DAYS UNDER SAIL.

The San Juan Passed Her in the Night—The Tug Vigilant Sighted Her Forty Miles Out and Brought Her In—Great Rejoicing Over the Safe Arrival—All Well on Board.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 7.—The Pacific Mail steamer City of Peking, which sailed from Yokohama Jan. 10 last, and which has been long overdue, is safe at her dock, having reached there in tow late last night.

The tug Vigilant and several others went out in search of the City of Peking two days ago.

Early yesterday they met the British ship Sierra Cabena a few miles from port, the captain of which stated that he had spoken the long looked for vessel the day before. This put the Vigilant on the scent, and she found the City of Peking coming along slowly under sail and took her in tow.

Capt. R. R. Searle at once sent the following report to the Merchants' exchange:

"We sailed from Yokohama on Jan. 10 at 11 a. m. We had westerly winds for 10 days. At 6:30 a. m. on the 21st in lat. 40 deg., long. 146 deg., 16 min., 1,190 miles from San Francisco, our shaft broke in the sleeve, and we proceeded under sail.

"From that time until our arrival we experienced north and northeast winds, increasing at times to the force of a gale, and at no time did we have 48 hours of westerly winds. During the 15 days and time of the accident the ship made 1,840 miles under sail."

The passengers all speak in the highest terms of the officers and management of the ship. All say that they were not in the least uneasy.

VETOED BY GOV. FLOWER.

The Brooklyn Columbian Bill Condemned in Strong Language.

ALBANY, Feb. 7.—Gov. Flower sent to the Senate last night a veto of the famous Brooklyn Columbian bill. This was the bill which legislated out of court the indictments against the Brooklyn officials.

The Governor's message is ringing and terse, and declares that the acts of the indicted officials are clearly illegal and criminal, and no excuse of ignorance can be made.

There was absolutely no excuse for them, and they had no claim for legislative relief.

The Governor made it very plain. He believed the proceedings of the supervisors, additionale committees and the mayor were flagrantly illegal from beginning to end. He says that if public officials doing illegal acts are compelled to stand the consequences it will inculcate a wholesome lesson.

Miss Stella returned home at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

She said that Deerfoot left her in the Long Island railroad waiting room, Long Island City, promising to return in an hour, but failed to do so.

Fassett Also Disapproves.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Sitting in the lobby of the Fifth Avenue hotel J. Sloat Fassett said with great emphasis: "I regard the President's appointment of Judge Jackson as an abject and unconditional surrender of all the principles Harrison is supposed to have represented when he risked his life for the Union, when he sat in the United States Senate and pleaded for negro suffrage, and when he approved in his letters of acceptance of the platforms adopted by the Republican national conventions of 1888 and 1892, at both of which he was nominated for the Presidency."

COL. SINN'S DIVORCE SUIT.

Dr. Farlan Knew Nothing of Cora Tanner's Action Against Him.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The suit of Col. Wm. F. Sinn, proprietor of the Park Theater, Brooklyn, against Cora Tanner Sinn, was called for trial yesterday by Judge Clement in the Special Term of the City Court.

The suit is brought by Col. Sinn to annul his marriage to Cora Tanner, on the ground that when he married her she had another husband living, from whom she had not obtained a divorce.

Lawyer John L. Hill appeared for Col. Sinn, and Robert H. Griffin was on hand to look after the defendant's interests.

Mr. Griffin asked that the suit be postponed for two weeks, saying that issue in the case had only been made on Dec. 20, and he did not have time to collect his testimony and get ready for the suit.

This was opposed by Mr. Hill, who said that the plaintiff had brought the first husband from the other end of the State and that they believed he should not be obliged to come such distance again, and on that account he urged that the case go on.

Dr. C. Fred Farlan of Rochester was called to the stand. The witness, a large, stout man, with a heavy drooping mustache and a drawling way of talking, was sworn and testified:

"I have not seen Cora Tanner for 15 years, but recognize the picture now shown me as hers. We only lived together, Miss Tanner and I, for a week. I was a resident of Illinois at the time. I was never served with a summons in her action for divorce. We were married in Allegheney county, Michigan. I first knew that my wife got a divorce from me by a newspaper clipping sent me by a friend."

The case was then indefinitely continued, two days' notice on either side being granted to bring it up again.

TENEMENT HOUSE BURNED OUT.

One Killed and Many Injured in New York—A Scramble for Life.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—The fire which destroyed the double five-story tenement house, No. 423 West Thirty-ninth street, yesterday afternoon, caused the death of one man and the injuring of many other persons.

The fire started from an explosion in the cellar and spread very quickly through the entire building.

There were 20 families in the building, and the 100 people who were on the upper floors can not tell how they managed to escape.

Many were hurt in the frenzied struggle for vantage ground. Most of them descended to the ground by means of the scaling ladders which were put up by the firemen.

All efforts to rescue the gas inspector, who was in the cellar when the explosion occurred, failed. The fire burned fiercely for an hour and every floor was ablaze.

The tenants saved nothing but the clothing they had on.

The loss on the building is $50,000.

GRIFFEN THE WINNER.

By Defeating Murphy He is Featherweight Champion of the World.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Johnny Griffen last night became the feather-weight champion of the world by defeating Billy Murphy in seven rounds in the arena of the Coney Island Athletic Club.

The fight was one of the fiercest ever seen in the Club's rooms, and toward the close of the seventh round Griffen, who had been doing most of the leading, landed a terrific left-hand punch in Murphy's stomach.

The Australian went prone upon his face and rolled upon his back. Despite the fact that he was stunned, he rolled over and attempted to rise, but fell back again helpless.

"Kid" Hogan of Brooklyn and "Dolly" Lyons of New York furnished the entree of the evening and put up a rattling good mill. It served to enthuse the spectators and prepared them for the event of the night. Hogan was the better man at the end, but Lyons did most of the leading and was awarded the decision.

CHAS. SARTORIS' DEATH AT CAPRI.

BRISBANE, Feb. 7.—The water is rising steadily in the city. The lower districts are completely submerged. In the lower portions of the main street it is 20 feet deep.

The shops and their contents are almost a total loss, as the flood came on so rapidly that only a small portion of the stocks could be removed.

Men are at work in boats trying to save the contents of the third and fourth stories before the water rises to them.

The Bristol river bridge, which connected North and South Brisbane, was swept away last night.

All the inhabitants are crowding to the highest parts of the city.

The Mary river bridge, the largest one in the colony, has been carried away. The town has been deserted by two-thirds of its inhabitants.

Tiaro, another town on the Mary, is also under water.

At Ipswich 22 persons are known to have perished.

It is feared that the loss of life will be very large.

KING AND QUEEN VISIT ZANTE.

Damage Caused by the Earthquake—Inhabitants Afraid to Stay in the City.

ATHENS, Feb. 7.—The arrival of the King and Queen in Zante harbor was watched by thousands from the water front. When the royal couple landed there was some cheering, followed by almost complete quiet.

They drove through the ruined streets to ascertain the extent of the damage done by the earthquake, thousands of inhabitants following the carriage in silence. Most of the churches for which the city was celebrated, are wholly or partly wrecked. Hardly a fine building on the main street was left uninjured. Many of them must be reconstructed from the foundations before they can be occupied.

No effort has yet been made to repair the damage, as mechanics fear to work in the city and owners are apprehensive that each day may bring another violent shock. The city is shaken daily by slight shocks and the inhabitants who fled the city fear to return for more than an hour or two at a time. The royal party will remain on the island two or three days.

—At the public sale of the Sebring estate, situated near Sebring's Mills, Green Brook, Monday, the homestead property, consisting of 18 acres, was knocked down to John Sebring for $1,850, and the mountain land of 80 acres to John and Edward Sebring for $16 an acre.

—The Plainfield Medical association, through President J. H. Carman and Temporary Secretary M. B. Long, asked the Common Council to abate the menacing nuisance of emptying sewerage into Green and Cedar brooks. The matter was referred to the sewerage committee.

—A number of interesting experiments will be made by F. S. Smith at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Thursday evening to show the composition and properties of water and a number of lantern-slides shown to illustrate the action of water on land. Admission will be free, and all young men are invited.

—Although a very stormy night, the boys who attended the entertainment of the Boys' Club last evening, were well repaid for venturing out. The address of the Rev. Hobart Clark was both entertaining and instructive, Walter Hudson's singing was much appreciated, and J. T. Vegiard's recitations brought forth applause such as can be given only by boys.

—A number of Plainfield's sportsmen will go to Morristown to-morrow to witness the pigeon-shooting match between Charles Smith, of this city, and Frank Class, of Morristown. The match will take place on the Driving Park, at 2 p. m. The conditions are 50 live birds a man for a purse of $200. The friends of the Dutch are putting up their shekels on his winning the match.

THE MAYOR TAKES A HAND.

THE SCHOOL BOARD TO BE SHORN OF ITS POWER.

At the Earnest and Manly Appeal of Mr. Gilbert, Every Councilman Votes for a Legislative Bill to Divest the Educational Autocrats of Their Dictatorship Over the People.

Alexander Gilbert is a Mayor to be proud of—bold, courageous, fearless, whose one purpose is to know and do the right.

When THE PRESS undertook its warfare against the extravagant scheme of the Board of Education, opposed the purchase of the luxurious Wadsworth property site, and fought the lavish outlay of the people's money for a proposed elegant school, it felt that it was in the right, and believed that Mayor Gilbert and all other good citizens would endorse its position.

That such confidence was not misplaced was proved last night, when good Mayor Gilbert presented to the Common Council an emphatic veto against the School Board's action.

It was a matter of gratification to all justice-loving citizens that the Common Council unanimously indorsed the Mayor's position, and approved by its full vote the legislative measure recommended by His Honor to shear the School Board of the autocratic power which it has abused.

THE PRESS has been opposed in its crusade by the vulgar, indecent and furious personal abuse of the imitation of a newspaper whose nominal owner and editor is the City Clerk. It was to be expected that that paper would bitterly contest anything in the interest of the public. Its small soul knows no duty save to the grasping boss who holds the whip-hand over it, and the people's rights cannot but suffer at the hands of a journal whose figure-head is another's slave.

The action of the Mayor and of the Common Council again vindicates THE PRESS and establishes a great and glorious record for the Mayor and the eleven members of the Councilmanic body.

Again is there occasion to remark, as yesterday:

THE PRESS cannot be intimidated. It is the people's paper.

But it was cruel and stinging punishment to make the City Clerk read the official documents and record the official doings in a course of action against which he has so wickedly been rebelling. THE PRESS pities him in his retribution, and trusts he will repent of his error and folly.

The manly, straightforward message of Mr. Gilbert on the school subject is as follows:

MAYOR'S OFFICE,
Plainfield, N. J., Feb. 6, 1892.

To the Honorable the Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

GENTLEMEN:—The recent purchase by the Board of Education of a Central avenue site for a high grade school directs attention to certain features of the law under which the Board acts which seem to be wrong in principle and fraught with possible dangers to the tax-payers of Plainfield. This law as seemingly interpreted by the Board gives to it the power to expend for the current expenses of the Public School system each year an amount not to exceed one-half of one per cent. of the taxable valuation, and in addition such further sum as the Board may consider necessary for the purchase of lands and erection of buildings for school purposes. This amount the Board is authorized to have added to the tax levy and assessed against the tax-payers without regard to public opinion on the subject. So long as the Board administers its trust wisely and economically all is well—but if its ideas should become extravagant, and in its plans and purposes it should fail to represent public opinion it would require three years, under our system of electing one School Trustee each year, to correct the evil. It it is not my purpose to criticize any act of the present Board. The gentlemen who compose it are well known in the community as men of character; and I have no doubt were actuated by a patriotic purpose in purchasing the property already referred to. But I think the law under which they act is wrong in that it vests in the Board practically the right to assess and levy taxes. This power should reside alone in the Common Council—the body which represents the community in its fiscal affairs, the body which can be readily reached and made to conform to the opinions of the people in all important matters.

While this view to my mind seems indisputable, I am unwilling to advocate an immediate change so radical as to imperil the efficiency of our school system. I do think however that the authority of the Board should be abridged to the extent of removing its power to expend money for the purchase of lands and the erection of buildings without the consent of the Common Council.

The Common Council has no power to issue bonds or borrow money except to a very limited extent for one or two specific purposes without the consent of the people; but the Board of Education can borrow money and create indebtedness for tax-payers to pay without reference to public opinion.

Surely this is not right; no municipal board in this respect should be clothed with greater powers than the Common Council.

The legislation of the past few years with reference to the power of School Boards to purchase lands and erect buildings for school purposes recognizes the principle that the determining power should reside in the Common Council.

I enclose herewith a bill relating to the subject which has been drawn for submission to the Legislature. Should it meet with your approval, I recommend the adoption of a resolution requesting the Representative from this Assembly District to introduce the same into the Legislature and to endeavor to secure its passage. Respectfully submitted.

A. GILBERT, Mayor.

Superior to All Others.

ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS are the great external remedy of the day. The quickest, safest, surest, best. Not only immeasurably superior to all other plasters, but also to liniments, ointments, oils and similar unctuous compounds.

Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for ALLCOCK'S and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

The following is the bill submitted by His Honor:

An Act concerning the purchases of lands and the providing of buildings for school purposes in cities.

Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no municipal Board of any city other than the Common Council, Board of Aldermen or other governing body of said city shall have power to purchase land or erect or alter any building for school purposes, the expense of which shall not exceed one thousand dollars, without the concurrence and approval first obtained of the Common Council, Board of Aldermen or other governing body of said city.

And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts, general or special, so far as they are inconsistent with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

The Council unanimously indorsed the Mayor's recommendation by adopting, by its full vote, the following resolution, which was introduced by Mr. See:

Resolved, That the recommendation of His Honor, the Mayor, that the city should seek the enactment of a law providing that no municipal board other than the Common Council shall have power to purchase land, or erect or alter any building for school purposes, the expense of which shall exceed one thousand dollars, without the concurrence and approval first obtained of the Common Council, meets with the unanimous approval of this body, and in the opinion of the Common Council, voices the sentiment of an overwhelming majority of the tax-payers of the city of Plainfield.

Resolved, That a copy of the proposed law submitted by the Mayor, together with a copy of these resolutions, be forwarded to the Hon. George Kyte, the representative from this District in the House of Assembly, and that he be requested to use all lawful means to secure its enactment as law.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Oscar T., only son of Oscar T. and Sarah Judson Roberts, died at St. Paul Feb. 4 at the age of four years.

The death of Sarah, relict of Rev. Mulford Day, occurred at her late residence, 90 Mercer avenue, early this morning, at the age of 86 years.

Bert Vail, who is employed in Charles Lyman's insurance office, fell on the icy sidewalk on the Grove street hill last night and fractured his collar-bone.

Chief engineer Doane is to-day in conference with his fellow-members of the executive committee of the State Firemen's Relief association, at Trenton.

Funeral services over the remains of Gershom Frazee will be held from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Wm. W. Dunn, 31 Central avenue, to-morrow afternoon at 2:30.

Edward A. Boland for some years chief engineer of the Plainfield electric light works, died in Pittsburg last Thursday aged 28 years. He has a number of friends and acquaintances in this city.

The Hod carriers' association, at a meeting in St. Mary's hall last evening, subscribed a purse of money for Father Cushing. The reverend gentleman is now located in St. Joseph's parish, North Plainfield. There is general regret and genuine sorrow among St. Mary parishioners over his being removed.

Mrs. James Brown-Potter has several claims to distinction that are not based on her art. She is a member of one of the most refined, intelligent and aristocratic families in this country. She was famous as an amateur actress and celebrated as a society beauty. She was the first American woman who stepped from the fashionable circle into the theatrical profession. Her performances, in conjunction with Mr. Bellew, are set down as the remarkable features of the theatrical year.

Rather Suspicious.

Just previous to the Board of Education meeting last night John Rosa entered and said he'd like to make a spe ch before the Board against the proposed High School. Dr. Probasco interviewed him outside, and that was the last seen of him. After the meeting adjourned the members reassembled in private conference in another room.

Five Men Drowned at Long Beach.

BY THE WAY.

—The Common Council meeting of last night was extremely busy, and lasted till 11.

—The butcher shop at Park avenue and Second street was flooded by the heavy rain last night.

—Dan Conway, who works for Mrs. Crulkshank, captured a 20-pound 'possum on Broadway Hill, Saturday.

—The Dunellen Bowling club beat a 10-men team of the Geeang society on the North Plainfield alleys last night, by 115 pins.

—The gray horse driven by Mrs H. C. Drake upset the buggy at Dunellen, Sunday afternoon, breaking the shafts. No one was hurt.

—Elmer Runyon's child ate a box of troches last night, and was very sick. Mr. Runyon ran for medicine and had a bad fall in front of Randolph's drug-store.

—It is said that Mrs. Sam. Allen's father came here Saturday and took her and her children away, because, it is alleged, of Sam's taking the Forsbergs under his roof.

—Shoemaker Goeller of Plainfield avenue, fell off the stoop Saturday, and hurt his head so badly that he is still unconscious and will probably die, in spite of Dr. Adams' skillful work.

—Wm. B. Dwyer and others offended by the noxious odors petitioned the Common Council to have the gravel-pit nuisance abated. The matter was referred to the Board of Health.

—The second grand ball of Court Pride, No. 8024, A. O. F. of A., will be held at the Crescent rink this evening, and a good time is promised all who attend. The grand march will take place at 9.

—Randolph Marsh, who was employed at the Climax Bottle and Stopper company's works on East Fourth street, met with a painful accident yesterday, in having one of his fingers taken off while at work on one of the machines.

CHAPS

And How to Get Rid of Them.

No thing more annoying than chapped hands. And the more you wash the worse they chap! Soap cleans, but soap chaps. AN ECONOMICAL ADMINISTRATION.

Overseer Vanderbeek's Careful and Economical Supervision of the Poor—The Alms-House Project.

The annual report of Andrew Vanderbeek, overseer of the poor, submitted to and filed by the Common Council last night, gives proof of the most careful administration of that part of the city's work. The report, which is for the year to Feb. 1, is interesting, and gives the following facts:

The city has as permanent charges, 18 women, 5 men and 13 children; total, 36 persons. The most of these are cared for in the city poor-house, a building rented by the city, containing 24 rooms, at an annual rental of $540.00.

They are furnished with provisions and fuel. Board has been paid for in private families for 6 women, 4 men and 4 children. Of this number 5 are permanent, the rest being temporary. Rent outside of the poor-house has been furnished to 9 women and 11 children. All but 3 of these are permanent charges.

Temporary assistance has been supplied to 62 people, as follows: 25 women, 5 men and 32 children. The most of these were compelled to ask assistance, owing to extreme cold weather.

The present system of taking care of the city poor is very unsatisfactory, and I would heartily approve the recommendation of His Honor, the Mayor, in his last annual message to the Council. I think it should be carefully considered. From the experience I have had in looking after the city poor, I believe that your honorable body should make a sufficient appropriation by which a better system can be inaugurated. The present one is very faulty in a good many respects. The system that appears most feasible to my mind, is for the city to own its own poor-house, with sufficient ground attached, by which employment could be furnished to a good many of the charges who are able to do some work. The house or farm should be in charge of a resident superintendent, who, under direct supervision of a committee from the City Council, would have full charge, enforcing the rules of the institution. I do not know as this would be a matter of economy, but under the present demoralizing system, where children are raised and brought in constant contact with the influences that surround this present mode of taking care of the city poor, we are bringing up a generation that will not call us blessed, for "whatsoever we sow that we shall also reap", and usually the reaping is much larger than the sowing, the harvesting will therefore be, more crime and pauperism.

I desire to make public acknowledgment of the helpfulness of the Ladies Relief association, in the care of the city poor. There are but few people in the city who are aware of the grand and noble work these ladies are doing in their ministrations. They are entitled to the generous support of every one who has any sympathy for this unfortunate class.

Given with the report is a carefully tabulated schedule of expenditures, which aggregated $3,565.60, of which $329 was for bills of Mr. Vanderbeek's predecessor.

Mr. Vanderbeek has kept the poor expenses down to $900 below what they were the year before under his predecessor, yet all deserving poor have been properly cared for.

THRILLING MIDNIGHT ADVENTURE.

Valiant Husband and Plucky Wife Put to Flight a Burglarious Marauder.

A brave young Plainfield householder was aroused a night or two ago by a burglarious noise in the cellar. The sound was of some one clambering through a window and across the coal bin, preparatory to a tour through the house in search of plunder. The awakened young man got his gun and told his wife to rattle the cellar door while he went out to the hatchway and shot the marauder as he emerged. The trembling woman rattled, a scurrying noise was heard, and there scooted out past the watcher at the hatchway a big black cat.

Plainfield's High School Gets an Honor Appointment.

(Editorial in New York World.)

The "honor appointments" of the junior class in Yale College have recently been announced. There are twelve in the philosophical-oration rank, which is the highest, and ten in the high-oration rank. Of these first twenty-two scholars in the class eight were fitted for college in public high schools. Of the twelve highest scholars six were fitted in public high schools. The high schools represented are those of Geneseo, N. Y.; Haverhill, Mass.; New Haven, Conn. (2); Cincinnati, O.; Holyoke, Mass.; Plainfield, N. J., and Buffalo, N. Y.

APPOINTIVE CITY OFFICES.

No Changes Except in Physician—Salaries Fixed, Some of Them Raised.

The Mayor appointed, and the Common Council last night approved, the following city officials for the current year:

Corporation Counsel—Craig A. Marsh.
Overseer of the Poor—A. Vanderbeek.
City Physician—M. S. Simpson, M. D.
Chief Engineer—T. O. Doane.
First Assistant—James A. Martin.
Second Assistant—John W. Murray, jr.
Members of Board of Health—George W. Rockfellow, O. B. Leonard.
Regular Police—George W. Grant, Patrick Lynch, Thomas McCue, Patrick J. Flanagan, Charles Giese, Patrick Kiely, Joseph Cooney, jr., Christian Frederickson, Wm. J. Mattox, James A. Saunders.
Special Police—S. R. Hope, Wm. Mundy, Robt. W. Walker, Thos. Clarkson, Wm. R. Mattox, Andrew Muir, Edward Shimer, Geo. R. Rockafellow, Jacob Kriney, James H. Frisbey, Cadwallader Jones, Frank Moran, Henry Angleman, Edward F. Maynard, Louis Bond, David F. Stewart, Vincent W. Nash, Morris Higgins, Wm. Dagnall, Benj. J. Allaband, John Laing, Henry C. Corsa, Nicholas Meyers, Jeremiah Cash, Martin Vanderweg, John Hardpence, John Flynn.
Dog catcher—James H. Frisbey and Frederick Wemzel.
Pound master—Wm. H. Kitchen.

The salaries of the appointive and some elective officers were fixed as follows for the year:

Corporation counsel—$1000, with privilege of increasing $250 during the year if deemed advisable.

To this Mr. Frazee objected. It was explained to him that the counselor would have extraordinary work to do during the year, there being much litigation to look after, the sewerage question to dispose of, Peace street and other exceptionally important matters. Mr. Frzel argued that the duties of the office had been light and the salary generous heretofore; and held that now the counselor should "make up for the work he hadn't been doing." He voted against any reserve clause, claiming that any reserved sum was sure to be paid in the end.

City Clerk—$700.

This is a reduction of $50, because under the new arrangement some of the city clerk's work is to be transferred to the city treasurer. Mr. Frazee suggested that enough should be deducted from each other city officer so as to make up for the salary of the new office of city auditor.

City Treasurer—$700.

Mr. Frazee voted against this increase of $100.

Assessor—$1,000.
Collector—$1,500.
Judge—$600.
Overseer of the Poor—$400.
Chief Engineer—$750.
First Assistant Engineer—$150.
Second Assistant Engineer—$100.
Fire department engineers—$75.
" " drivers—$50 a month.

(Mr. Frazee vainly tried to make this $60, the same as for policemen, "because the drivers are on duty day and night, 24 hours each day".)

City physician—$1 a day.
Town clock winder—$2.50 a month.
Chief of police—$90 a month.
Regular police—$60 a month.
Special police—25 cents an hour while on duty.
Council janitor—$50 a year, and $3 for each special or adjourned meeting.
Street Commissioner—$1,750.

The old salary of the street commissioner was $1,500, and Mr. Frazee sought to have that figure maintained. It was explained that because of the increase Mr. Meeker was himself to do all the ordinary surveying, which outsiders have heretofore charged the city $1,000 to $1,200 a year for. Mr. Meeker has to look after 67 miles of streets. Surveying instruments were ordered for his use, not to cost more than $300.

PAY YOUR TAXES, OR GO TO JAIL.

The Common Council After Delinquents with a Sharp Stick.

Councilman Fisk of the finance committee reported to the Common Council last night that a large amount of delinquent taxes was due the city from chronic non-tax-payers. Vincent W. Nash was continued in office as delinquent tax-collector, and the following resolution was adopted:

WHEREAS, The Supreme Court of this State has decided that for unpaid real estate taxes the personal property of the owners of such real estate is liable and may be seized and sold, and that delinquent taxpayers are not by law entitled to any exemption, but that all the personal property of such delinquents may be appropriated for the purpose as far as may be necessary, and that no statute of limitation bars the remedies for the collection of back taxes;

Resolved, That Vincent W. Nash, the officer designated by the Common Council to receive and execute tax warrants be and he hereby is directed to proceed in the execution of said warrants in the first instance by seizure, public advertisement and sale of the personal property of delinquents, and that he so proceed without delay under the direction of the Corporation Counsel.

Resolved, That upon failure to find property of delinquent with which to satisfy personal property taxes, said officer do proceed to obey the command of his warrant by taking the body of such delinquent, if to be found in the county, and deliver the same to the Sheriff of the county, or his jailor, to be kept in close and safe custody until payment be made of said taxes and costs.

The Church Street Pitfall to Be Removed.

The residents of Church and Third streets will rejoice that Church street and its Third street intersection are at last to be relieved from their disgraceful and dangerous condition. THE PRESS has long been working for this great improvement, and last night the Common Council urged the street committee to give the matter immediate attention. The elevated sidewalks have long been a stumbling block, especially at the corners and crossing, and the roadway has been abandoned because of its degenerating into a dumping-ground and old wagon storage-place.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the diseases. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

PUBLIC SCHOOL AFFAIRS.

Routine Business of the Board of Education.

At the Board of Education meeting last night Dr. Probasco read a personal letter from Miss Bulkley, congratulating the Board on the re-election of Mr. Babcock to the office of President. He also presented a communication from Miss Haff, corresponding secretary of the Plainfield Branch Alliance of Unitarian and Other Liberal Christians, in which they asked for the use of the assembly room in the Irving school for a course of three "emergency lectures", for the purpose of instructing workmen of the large shops in that vicinity what to do in case of accidents, etc., stating that they would pay for lights, janitor, and all expenses connected; the prices to be, course of three, 25 cents; single, 10 cents.

Mr. Babcock stated that he also had received a personal application from Mrs. Pond for the same purpose. The request was granted.

The resignation of Miss Annie Tomms from the Bryant was accepted, and Miss E. L. Sickles was appointed in her place at a salary of $500.

The resignation of Miss K. P. Kimball from Franklin school was accepted. Miss Flora Griffin was appointed; salary, $500.

Miss M. L. Jones was appointed assistant teacher in two lower primary classes at the Bryant school; salary, $450. All of the new-comers are graduates of Normal school, with several years' experience.

Dr. Probasco recommended that teachers be paid for holidays at the end of each month, instead of the end of the year as heretofore.

Dr. Probasco stated that it was impossible to keep the High school heated. During the very cold weather the janitor was obliged to stay all night and keep the boilers at high pressure. On day it was impossible to remain in school except half a day. A motion was made by Dr. Probasco and seconded by Mr. Finch that the janitor be compensated at the rate of $1 a night extra, for running boilers all night. It was carried unanimously.

It was left to the judgment of Principal Maxson hereafter to inform the janitor when to stay all night.

Mr. Babcock recommended an extra boiler, the same as in the Bryant building, to be used in very cold weather. The matter was tabled.

Mr. Maxson stated that it would be easier for the clerk and teachers if bills were made out for each four weeks instead of each calendar month. The recommendation was adopted.

Principal Maxson reported many absentees with colds and mumps.

A communication was received from Sylvester Randolph, of Eighth street, who wished his children to attend the Plainfield school without pay. It was found that he was assessed in Dunellen, and voted there, and paid no taxes in Plainfield. His application was refused.

A Pretty Healthy City, This.

The Board of Health reports 131 marriages for the year, 235 births and 187 deaths. The past 12 months, it says, have been as free from epidemic and contagious diseases as in any previous year. The cases of contagious disease numbered 127, of which only 8 were fatal. The danger of cholera during the fall urged to special action, and good work had been done in the line of house-to-house inspection, disinfection, etc.

The Board urged upon the Council last night the need of a pest-house, and that matter was referred to the finance committee. Permanent remedy of the perplexing North avenue sewer problem and of the gravel-pit nuisance was urged.

Every House to Be Renumbered.

The Common Council last night officially adopted the block system of numbering, and all lots are to be renumbered on that plan. The method is to give all the houses in the first block the numbers between 100 and 200, in the second block between 200 and 300, and so on. The object is to avoid renumbering a whole street every time a new building is put up. Under the block system the numbers in one block can be re-arranged without disturbing those in the others.

The City Clerk Relieved of the Blame for the Need of the New Office.

Councilmen Fisk and Marsh jointly explained last night that the employment of the new City Auditor should not reflect on the City Clerk. That official, he said, was not to be relieved of work by the auditor. Indeed, they said, the auditor had less to do with the City Clerk's office than any other. The City Clerk had, they believed, been misjudged. The Councilmen, by resolution, expressed their satisfaction in the work of the Clerk, and confidence in him.

Had Just Paid for His Burned House.

A fire occurred this morning at 11:30 on Webster place north of Putnam. The house of Leander Smith was completely gutted and nothing but a few insignificant pieces of furniture was saved. The alarm was sounded from box 27, and the firemen arrived in time to prevent the fire spreading to the adjoining houses. Smith is a colored man, and had just paid for his house. The insurance was $1,100.

Family Jars.

There is trouble in John Kane's house, 86 West Third street. Kane left his second wife two years ago, and she is living with his daughter on Duer street. The two oldest daughters now declare they will depose the mother, and are about to start a partition sale and dispose of property valued at $1,000. The two daughters work in the carpet factory.

There is no better proof of the excellence of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup than that it is recommended by leading physicians.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 66 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

ON AN ICE-COVERED CABLE.

Rope-Walker Calverley Gives an Exhibition at Niagara Falls.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 7.—Clifford Calverley, the Canadian rope-walker, who performed daring feats on his cable at Niagara Falls last summer, gave a private exhibition there yesterday before a few friends. He proposed to move the cable down to the Whirlpool, but it would be impossible there to find places to fasten the guys, so he determined to test its steadiness without guys in its present location first.

He wore overshoes and carried an iron rod as a balancing pole. The cable was covered with ice and an icy drizzle was falling. The rope-walker went out some distance, he stamped and jumped on the cable, knocked the ice off it and performed various feats.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. THEIR EVIDENCE.

Some Positive and Startling Testimony.

And They Pledge Their Word to Its Absolute Truth.

Something Which Will Be to All Conclusive and Convincing Proof.

We publish the evidence of two well-known and highly respected ladies, and we consider that such testimony amounts to absolute proof.

Mrs. J. W. Beale, who resides at 52 Eastern ave., Worcester, Mass., makes the following statement:

"I was sick for more than seven years, not able to do my housework for five years. I employed more than sixteen different doctors without benefit. The whole length of my spine was very bad, which went to my head, being so bad that it was about impossible for me to stoop to the floor or turn my head to the right or left my neck was so stiff.

"I was unable to comb my hair, the nerves of my head were so sore. I also had convulsions and kidney trouble.

MRS. J. W. BEALE.

"After a time I was persuaded to use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Words cannot express my wonderful cure! Now all is changed and I am strong and well and able to do all my work. I have gained 26 pounds in weight, and where before all was gloom and despondency, there is now light and hope.

"Words cannot express my feelings! Thanks to God and the wonderful medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I am cured. I write this with the desire that others my be influenced to use this wonderful medicine as I did and be cured."

Mrs. M. Wreath, of 716 Sterling street, Philadelphia, Pa., says:

"I suffered most indescribable pain in my head, pain in my heart, with fluttering and weak, nervous spells. Often with difficulty I could sleep or rest, and at times was unable to perform my duties.

MRS. M. WREATH.

"I took Dr. Greene's Nervura, and my improvement has been so rapid that now I sleep soundly, appetite and strength are returing. I thank God and Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy for affording me such relief. It will always be our family remedy."

How persons can read the true testimony of ladies of so high standing as Mrs. Beale and Mrs. Wreath, which proves beyond a doubt that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy does surely cure most kinds of diseases, and not be influenced to immediately try this wonderful medicine in their own cases, is beyond our understanding.

Especially would this seem true when the doctors so widely recommend the use of this valuable remedy. It is kept by druggists for $1, and is purely vegetable and harmless, being the prescription and discovery of Dr. Greene of 35 West 14th street, New York, the famous specialist in curing all forms of nervous and chronic diseases. He can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

BABY RUTH CLEVELAND.

Unquestionably the Most Popular Child in the United States.

Of all the lovely babies in the length and breadth of the land—each one, by the verdict of its own select circle, the loveliest ever seen—Baby Ruth is today the most talked of and the most popular baby. Whether by right of her own personal charms, or of the charms of her mother, or because of her proud prestige as the infant-elect of the white house, one need not stop to inquire; suffice it that she is a celebrity on a small scale, although, to the world at large, an unseen one whose beauties are to be taken for granted. No authorized camera has given Mrs. Cleveland's admirers a glimpse of the baby, and no predatory kodaks, haunting the groves of Lakewood, have caught more than the nose umbrella of her perambulator. A "thumb nail sketch," however, was taken by an artist for Leslie's Weekly, while nurse was wheeling the infan belle up and down the sunny sidewalk, and from it the readers may gain an idea of Miss Ruth's salient points—a pair of large, dark eyes chiefly, with the prettiest of long lashes—see that she has delicately regular features, and guess at the fair coloring and the dark hair.

It is not difficult to see "the baby," who is spoken of usually as if there were but one baby in Lakewood; she takes her airing, with all the other children of the cottages and hotels, between the hours of ten and twelve, and her plain little wicker chariot may be seen on the broad plank walks by the Lakewood hotel, and up and down any of the pine-sheltered avenues, driven by the vigilant nurse, who is ever on the watch to protect her charge from too intrusive admirers. Every body stops to look at her or to speak to her, and the manners of the young princess are most affable. The artist was fortunate in crossing the path of the little carriage just before baby in her white cloak and cap, with a biscuit clutched in one white mitten, was preparing to take a nap, and thus was favored with a sight of the dark eyes and a faint smile, which might be interpreted as expressing the last degree of boredom at again hearing the inevitable—"Oh, what a lovely baby!"

EARL OF ABERDEEN.

Something About the New Governor General of Canada.

The earl of Aberdeen, who is to succeed Lord Stanley, of Preston, as governor general of Canada, will assume his new dignity earlier than was expected. The liberal victory in England, of course, meant a change in the political head of affairs in Canada, but this change would not have taken place until next May, when Lord Stanley's term expires, had he not sent in his resignation and requested to be recalled. Lord Aberdeen was immensely popular as viceroy of Ireland, and there is no doubt that he will prove equally acceptable to the Canadians. He was appointed to the viceroyalty by Gladstone in 1886, and the scene in Dublin on the occasion of his leave-taking after the fall of the Gladstone cabinet is said to have been such as had never been witnessed there before, at least not since the departure of Lord Fitzwilliam in 1795. The earl and Lady Aberdeen are the moving spirits in the Irish industries exhibit, which promises to be one of the most attractive features at the fair. Lord Aberdeen is a member of many religious and philanthropic societies and contributed £1,000 toward Gen. Booth's scheme for alleviating distress. Lady Aberdeen is a daughter of the first Lord Tweedmouth.

An Odd Souvenir Spoon.

The latest feat in spoon carving is reported from the capital city of Iowa, and was accomplished by S. E. Wilcox. He took a common Iowa souvenir spoon, one bearing the Iowa coat of arms on the handle, and wrote the whole of the Lord's Prayer in the bowl. Every letter and comma is in its proper place and can be easily read with the naked eye. A local paper in commenting on the feat says: "The general use of such spoons would make religious instruction more easy and greatly improve the spirituality of coffee and tea drinkers."

FLOOD CHECKED BY COLD

Danger Believed to be Over for the Present.

RIVERS STILL RUNNING VERY HIGH.

It Was Thought Last Night that a Great Inundation Was Imminent in the Allegheny Valley—Reports of the Rise of Waters from Many Points.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 8.—The flood that threatened disaster to Pittsburg and Allegheny has, it is thought, been checked by the cold weather and the worst is now believed to be over.

The unexpected rise of the Allegheny river caused great consternation among business men and residents along Duquesne way and lower Pennsylvania avenue, as well as among the residents of lower Allegheny.

Those living or doing business along the river front have removed all perishable goods.

The tracks of the Pittsburg & Western road are several feet under water within the city limits.

When the big gorge of ice in the Beaver river at Rock Point broke it caused much damage. At one point the track of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie railroad is washed out for over a mile, while for a distance of several miles the tracks are piled high with ice. Telegraph lines have been carried away and the water is cutting under the roadbed.

All of the many factories along the river have been compelled to shut down while some of them have been badly damaged.

At Freeport, on the Allegheny river, the lower part of the town, three squares back from the river, is inundated and people are fleeing from their homes, which are being pounded to pieces by the huge blocks of ice.

Many boats and rafts of lumber have been torn from their moorings and destroyed.

At Dubois the water in the Sinnemahoning river is at flood height, and Renovo and other towns along the stream are preparing for a flood.

At Newcastle the Neshannock creek is rising at the rate of two feet an hour, and it is feared that the lower part of the town will be inundated.

There is an ice gorge two miles long at Volant, and people living on the lowlands between Newcastle and Mercer, have moved out of their homes.

The water in the Neshannock, at New Castle, is higher this morning than for many years.

During the night it rose eight feet and a portion of the southern part of the city was inundated, several houses were swept away and many families were rescued in boats.

The Beaver river is also reported rising rapidly and the officials of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie Railroad have discontinued the sale of tickets to points west of Beaver.

The pleasure boat, Uncle Jake, moored at the Forty-second street bridge, was sunk by the ice, and a dozen shanty boats had their sides crushed in.

The water poured in so rapidly that the occupants barely escaped with their lives.

Flood Feared in the Mohawk Valley.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Feb. 8.—The ice in Schoharie creek, near Burtonville, broke up yesterday morning and came down stream into the Mohawk river about a mile west of Fort Hunter and has lodged there. The ice in the Mohawk at that point is still intact. The river has overflown its banks at many places and among those living in the lowlands there is great fear of a freshet which will flood the valley and do much damage.

Anxiety at New Brunswick.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Feb. 8.—The ice above the landing bridge a mile from this city has broken up and formed an ice gorge 15 feet high at the bridge. As the ice is still solid from this city to Amboy bridge, a distance of nine miles, the greatest fears are felt that the lower part of the city may be inundated and the New Albany street bridge damaged.

The Sandusky Level With Its Banks.

FREMONT, O., Feb. 8.—The Sandusky river has risen over ten feet since last night, and is now level with its banks. The extreme cold weather may check its rise unless the ice gorge formed south of the city gives way, when an overflow will undoubtedly follow. People living in lower and exposed portions of the city spent last night in watching.

Mahoning River a Raging Torrent.

WARREN, O., Feb. 8.—The Mahoning river at this place is a raging torrent of water and ice. The entire southern portion of the city is flooded, and a number of residents were compelled to seek safety by means of boats. The tracks of the Pittsburg & Ashtabula railroad are covered with water five feet deep, and the river is still rising.

Fears of a Freshet Along Rondout Creek.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Feb. 8.—The heavy rainfall has created alarm among the residents of Eddyville and other places along the Rondout creek, lest they be visited by another freshet such as upon two occasions caused great destruction to property at Eddyville, which is the tidewater terminus of the Delaware & Hudson canal.

Flood in South Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Feb. 8.—There is a big flood in South Buffalo caused by the overflow of the creeks. Water covers the lands and streets to the depth of two and three feet. The Seneca street cars were forced to stop last night. All the region between Buffalo and Cazenovia creeks is more or less flooded.

Mrs. Whitney Dead, Dr. Blinn Flees.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—The young and handsome woman known as Mrs. Alice Whitney, of 451 West 44th street, upon whom an operation was recently performed, died late yesterday afternoon. Detectives are looking for Dr. F. Gray Blinn, who was arrested in connection with the case and released on bail, but have yet made no capture. It is thought he has left the city.

A Priest Ill of Typhus.

MR. BLAINE'S ESTATE.

The Ex-Secretary's Entire Property Valued at About $1,000,000.

AUGUSTA, Me., Feb. 8.—Several prominent people at the State House are in a movement to have the Legislature give a lot on the State grounds as a burial place for the remains of ex-Secretary Blaine, and perhaps erect a memorial stone. There is already one tomb upon the grounds, that of the late Governor Lincoln.

Mr. Blaine's will will be filed at the meeting of the Probate Court one week from yesterday.

It is understood that the will is short and gives all the estate unreservedly to Mrs. Blaine, who is made sole executrix.

The entire property is valued at about $1,000,000. The residence in this city is valued at $10,000. It will always remain in the possession of the Blaine family and will not be rented.

The relatives of the family think that Mrs. Blaine will spend the coming season in Europe, and that Miss Hattie, the youngest daughter, will accompany her.

CONNECTICUT'S LEGISLATURE.

Proceedings in Senate—Judges Elected in the House.

HARTFORD, Feb. 8.—The Senate debated for a long time the bill conferring criminal jurisdiction upon the District Court of Waterbury, and passed it by a unanimous vote. It was favored by Senators Root, Pierce and Holden, and objected to by Senators Fox and Cleveland.

The House elected Judges as follows: John J. Ross, judge, and Patrick Kane, deputy judge, of the City Court of Bridgeport; R. J. Walsh and Howard J. Curtis, judges of the Court of Common Pleas for Fairfield county; Hobart L. Hotchkiss and John B. Studley, judges of the Court of Common Pleas for New Haven county.

Bills were introduced in favor of increasing the pay of letter carriers to $1,200 a year after three years' service, limiting the business of any life insurance company to $1,000,000 in force on lives, and permitting the city of New London to issue bonds.

63 DEGREES BELOW ZERO.

Great Suffering in the Northwest from the Blizzard Weather.

HELENA, Mont., Feb. 8.—The worst cold is reported in the Judith cattle country, where the thermometer dropped to 63 below zero, and did not get higher than 30 below for four days.

Never before in the history of the weather bureau in Montana has such severe weather prevailed, nor have there been so many continuous days in which the temperature kept below zero. There is about three feet of snow on the level in the valleys.

All trains are delayed, and the Great Northern has not had a through train in on time in over a week.

Great distress and suffering are reported from all points.

CREW OF THE BURNHAM SAFE.

Rescued from Their Sinking Ship and Carried to England.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Capt. Scott and the crew of ten men of the American bark Henry A. Burnham, have been landed at Falmouth, after having been rescued from their vessel at sea. They tell of frightful experiences.

The Burnham sailed on Dec. 22 from Port Spain for Philadelphia. When she had been out ten days she encountered a series of hurricanes lasting 16 days, during which time she sustained irreparable damages.

When the crew were rescued—on Jan. 18, in lat. 39.05 north, long. 67.30 west—the Burnham was in a sinking condition.

POPULISTS WIN IN NEBRASKA.

Judge W. R. Allen Elected United States Senator.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 8.—Judge W. R. Allen, Populist, has been elected United States Senator. He received 70 votes, four more than necessary to a choice.

The Republican caucus substituted A. S. Paddock for John M. Thurston as their candidate, and in the joint session every Republican except two voted for him, giving him 59 votes.

Allen received the solid independent and Democratic vote.

Great Distress in Zante.

ATHENS, Feb. 8.—Another violent earthquake was felt at Zante yesterday. The King and Queen are visiting all the villages to learn the wants of those who have been driven from home, and to calm the panic-stricken. The weather on the island is intensely cold, and great suffering prevails among the unsheltered fugitives from the city of Zante.

JACK CLIFFORD ACQUITTED.

Declared Not Guilty of Killing Connors —Other Indictments Against Him.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 8.—Jack Clifford, the Homestead strike leader, charged with the killing of J. P. Connors, during the famous battle on July 6, was acquitted last night.

Since the Homestead strike trials began there has not been such an attendance as there was all day yesterday. The day was devoted to the arguments of counsel for the defense and prosecution and the charge of Judge Stowe.

The arguments on both sides were masterly efforts and the Judge's charge fair and impartial. At 5:55 o'clock the case was given to the jury and court adjourned until evening.

At 7:30 o'clock the defendant was brought from jail and placed in the prisoner's box where he nervously awaited the result.

The jury then filed in and the foreman announced the verdict of "not guilty." Clifford heaved a sigh of relief at the announcement and was immediately taken back to jail on the other charges pending against him.

He still has indictments for murder, treason and riot to answer for.

TYPHUS AMONG MEDICAL STUDENTS

Exodus from the College of Physicians and Surgeons at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 8.—A sensation has been created by the announcement that 80 students attending the College of Physicians and Surgeons, have left for home on account of the sudden death of three students.

The excitement is intensified by the report that the deaths were caused by what is feared is typhus fever.

The dead are: George Herndon of Western Kentucky, died Friday; Fred H. White of San Antonio, Tex., died yesterday morning, and David H. Brown of this city, died yesterday afternoon.

The students were attacked by symptoms which the physicians were unable to ascribe to either virulent scarlet fever, cerebro-spinal meningitis or cerebral-typhus and in issuing the death certificates the facts were submitted to the Health Department.

It is believed the disease was contracted in the dissecting room.

THE SCHIEDAM'S SHAFT BROKEN.

She Reaches Queenstown, Having Made 900 Miles Under Sail.

LONDON, Feb. 8.—The Dutch steamer Schiedam, Capt. Brower, from Rotterdam, Jan. 18, for New York and Baltimore, was towed into Queenstown last evening.

The steamer reports that sixteen days ago she encountered terrific weather. When in latitude 48 N. longitude 30.36 W., with a tremendous sea running, the shaft broke.

Canvas was set and the steamer sailed 900 miles.

DR. GRAVES BACK IN JAIL.

A Permanent Bond Not Given, but a New Trial Demanded.

DENVER, Feb. 8.—Dr. T. Thatcher Graves is now in the county jail of Arapahoe county, there to await his second trial on the charge of murdering Mrs. Josephine A. Barnaby.

When court opened Judge Foreman announced that they had decided not to give a permanent bond, but to demand a new trial at once.

Dr. Graves was at once locked up in the county jail, and the prosecution ordered to report in ten days when it would be ready for trial.

Ice Yacht Race May Occur To-morrow.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 8.—The indications are that the ice yacht race for the Hudson river challenge pennant will occur to-morrow. Harry Higginson's ice yacht Shadow, of the Cayuga Lake club, is here, and will come to the line. It is also thought that the race for the challenge pennant of America, now held by the Iselin, of the Hudson River club, will occur this week.

The Chaplains Alone Do Not Clash.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 8.—There is no change in the situation in the House. Both Populists and Republicans continue to hold regular sessions, and it frequently happens that the chief clerks of the two bodies are calling the roll of members at the same time. It was thought yesterday that the two chaplains would begin to pray at the same time, but a clash was avoided.

Phillips Brooks' Small Property.

BOSTON, Feb. 8—Bishop Brooks' estate is barely sufficient to cover the amounts named in his will, aggregating $10,500. Dr. Brooks never permitted himself to receive any emoluments outside his salary either as rector or bishop, and he gave from his income with an open handed but wise charity.

DEFIES FEDERAL COURTS

Gov. Tillman's Action in Regard to Railroad Taxes.

STRICT INSTRUCTIONS TO SHERIFFS.

Ordered to Go Ahead With the Executions—Trains Run Over a Road in the Hands of a Receiver Appointed by the United States Court Attached—Cars Chained to the Tracks.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 8.—Gov. Tillman has thrown down the gauntlet and bidden defiance to the United States Court, and Judge Simonton, representing Uncle Sam, has accepted the challenge.

Sheriffs throughout the State, acting under instructions from Gov. Tillman in a secret circular recently issued, have levied upon the rolling stocks of railroads which have not paid the taxes alleged to be due the State.

In all these cases the railroads have paid the taxes based on the original assessments. The county auditors, however, raised these assessments; it is claimed, arbitrarily and illegally, and Judge Simonton, of the United States Court, has so decided.

Gov. Tillman's orders to the treasurers and sheriffs are to go ahead with the executions peremptorily.

In some instances the sheriffs have chained the cars to the track, thus blocking the proper operation of the roads and delaying valuable freights in transit, amounting in value to several times the taxes for which the levies have been made, and which were declared by the courts in 1892 to be illegal.

Two days ago a freight train on the South Carolina railroad was seized at Aiken and chained to the track. The amount of taxes claimed by the State is not over $1,000.

The road is in the hands of D. F. Chamberlain, receiver, who was appointed by the United States Court.

The receiver's petition to the court, filed yesterday, claims that the taxes, according to legal assessment, have been paid, but the balance claimed by the State, about $8,000, is illegal and has been so declared by the court; that the seizure and sale of the property would put a stop to the business of the road; that the entire property is in possession and under control of the court, and the court should protect its property and not permit the exaction of the illegal tax.

Upon hearing the petition, Judge Simonton signed an order that M. C. Mitchell and M. V. Tyler—treasurer and sheriff of Aiken county—show cause at Charleston, on Feb. 20, why they should not be enjoined from interfering with the road and punished for contempt of court. A temporary injunction is granted restraining the officials from levying upon the property in question.

Similar writs were issued in the suit of the Richmond & Danville railroad, citing the sheriffs and treasurers of Abbeville, Anderson and Newberry counties for contempt.

An order was issued releasing all trains that have been tied up and restraining sheriffs from further interference with the property.

This order was served upon the sheriffs to-day by United States marshals. Despatches from several points this morning state that the sheriffs are paying no attention to the orders.

When Gov. Tillman learned of Judge Simonton's orders he called a conference with his attorney-general, the assistants and Judges Samuel and Melton. As a result of this council of war Gov. Tillman has telegraphed the following instructions to the sheriffs of the State:

"Where the amount of taxes in executions for 1891 and 1892 is less than $2,000 hold property to satisfy execution unless it is taken from you by force. Then submit to arrest. We will take the case to the United States Supreme Court on habeas corpus proceedings and make this Federal Judge obey the decrees of this Court."

IN CONGRESS.

Progress of the House on the Legislative Appropriation Bill—Senate Doings.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The House made fair progress with one of the great appropriation bills. The Legislative bill appropriates upwards of $31,500,000. Aside from a review of the condition of the Treasury by Messrs. Dingley and Dockery—divergent views—and an attack on the Civil Service law by Mr. De Armond, the proceedings were uninteresting.

Senator Chandler managed to give a political twist to the debate in the Senate on the Automatic Coupler bill.

He brought up a resolution in the National Democratic platform which denounced the Republican party and the Republican Senate for not having provided legislation for the protection of railroad employes, and has insisted that the position of so many Democratic Senators against the bill was inconsistent with their party fealty.

Jumped the Track in a Tunnel.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Feb. 8.—The vestibuled fast train from Cincinnati to New York on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad jumped the track just as Tunnel No. 5 was reached last night. The engine and every car but the sleeper went off. The train was going 40 miles an hour, and dashed over the ties, scraping the side of the tunnel until it emerged from the other end. The engineer, William Myers, was badly scalded.

Cheers for Satolli, Hisses for Corrigan.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Mgr. Satolli was cheered and Archbishop Corrigan was hissed at the farewell meeting of Dr. McGlynn with the East Side Branch of the Anti-Poverty Society last night. To-day the doctor embarks on the steamer Kansas City of the Savannah line, to visit Bishop Moore at St. Augustine. He will be gone about six weeks, returning in time for Palm Sunday.

The Failure of Harrison Bros.

NEWARK, Feb. 8.—The assignments in the failure of C. H. & J. L. Harrison, leather dealers, were filed at the court house yesterday, one by the firm, the others by the individual members. The assignment shows that the assets are only $183,000, while the liabilities are $140,578.

George Gould Buys His Father's Map.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Feb. 8.—A map of Delaware county, issued by the late Jay Gould, and sold by him in his earlier days, has been purchased of Erastus Root of this city by George Gould of New York, who paid a good price for the relic.

COFFEE AND TEA AT MEALS

Effect Upon the System of Their Constant Use.

Action on the Nerves, Brain and Feelings.

Need Not Be Stopped, But Their Influence Must Be Counteracted.

"Do you drink tea and coffee?"

"Certainly every one does."

The speakers were a prominent Fifth avenue physician and a Wall street financier, says the New York Tribune. Continuing, the physician said:

"It is true that nearly every one does drink tea and coffee. Why? To make blood, to make brain, to make muscle, to make nerve! Not a bit of it. There is no nourishment in these articles; they simply 'keep up' the feelings."

"But, doctor," said the business man anxiously, "must I stop their use?"

"Not necessarily," was the physician's reply. "It is true they do not nourish, but they can be taken in moderation without any special injury, providing a good nerve food is used at the same time."

"What do you mean by a good nerve food, doctor?"

"I mean," said the physician, "something which provides a food for the nerves; a nerve builder. It is difficult to find just the ingredients for this purpose, but it seems to have been found in the discovery made by Prof. Phelps of Dartmouth college, known as Paine's celery compound. The way in which the ingredients of this compound are combined, make it an actual nerve food. It contains just the properties which the nerves require for growth, development and strength."

The physician expressed a great truth in a few words. The nerves do require a special food, and there are a wonderful number of people throughout the land who have found this compound to meet their wants. A recent letter from General Alexander Hamilton, who now resides at Tarrytown, N. Y., bears strongly on this point. He writes:

"Paine's celery compound has been a blessing to my family. It relieved Mrs. Hamilton, who, after suffering from a severe attack of tab grip, suffered from excessive nervousness and great prostration. And our daughter of 16, who also suffered from the grip and measles, was cured by this remedy in the same manner.

"I have, for many years, suffered from wounds received during the late war, there being one over my left lung and heart, and have carried round a musket ball for twenty years. But after using Paine's celery compound for the past year or two, I am vigorous and well, and free from the great nervousness and hemorrhage from which I suffered as the effect of the ball over my heart.

"My family would not be without Paine's celery compound in the house. It builds up the system, and is the best medicine that we ever used."

TAKEN TO AN ASYLUM.

Young Kamm, a Prominent Figure in the George Case, Declared Insane.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Feb. 8.—Henry Kamm, a young man who figured prominently in the Rev. George manslaughter case, at Leeds, Green county, about two years ago, has been declared insane and taken to the Hudson River State hospital at Poughkeepsie.

At a sociable held a short time before Dominie George's arrest, the parson suggested to Kamm that a mock marriage be performed between him and pretty Lottie Townsend, who was George's victim and for whose death he is now serving a 20 years' sentence in prison. Kamm, knowing such a ceremony to be legal, would not consent.

His insanity is believed to have been brought about by religious excitement.

THE FLOODS IN QUEENSLAND.

Water 60 Feet Deep in Brisbane—Hundreds of Houses Ruined.

BRISBANE, Feb. 8.—Water is thirty feet deep in the principal streets of the city, and in the suburbs has covered buildings sixty feet high. Five hundred houses have been demolished.

Hundreds of families have lost their homes and have left the city in boats to seek shelter on higher ground. All gas and water pipes have been destroyed, and the city is in darkness. The Governor came to the city in a boat. He says that all towns between Brisbane and Ipswich are submerged.

This is the greatest disaster in the history of the colony.

PARIS, Feb. 8.—The fact that the Chamber of Indictment has decided that there is no cause for the prosecution of the Senators and Deputies against whom M. Franqueville, the examining magistrate, had found true bills, has caused the greatest discontent in the political world. The fall of the Cabinet appears inevitable.

VAN NESS'S FIX.

THE PLAINFIELD LAWYER LOCKED UP FOR FORGERY.

The Waldron Brothers Say He Forged a Check for $1,000—A Trumped-up Charge, He Says—Confident of His Innocence.

The sheriff at New York yesterday received an attachment for $1,950 against John K. Van Ness, lawyer, of 206 Broadway, in favor of James A. Waldron. A report that Mr. Van Ness had been arrested by Central Office detectives was partly confirmed last night, when it was admitted at the Detective Bureau that a prisoner of that name was under arrest. No information could be obtained there, however, regarding the charge against Van Ness. It was only said that the prisoner lived in Plainfield, N. J., and that the complainant was James A. Waldron. Mr. Van Ness's home is at the Sam. Allen house, Plainfield.

VanNess will be remembered as the short red-bearded man who has been a prominent figure about town.

He was brought to the Tombs Police Court this morning by Detectives Titus and Crouch of the Central Office and arraigned upon a charge of forging a check for $1,000 drawn upon the Union Trust company of 80 Broadway, New York.

The complainants were John A. Waldron and Dykman Waldron of 241 West Forty-fifth street, New York. They were represented by Lawyer Frank H. Smiley of 280 Broadway, New York. Lawyer VanNess was represented by Col. Payne of Brooklyn, the Republican candidate last year for District Attorney of Kings county.

The complainants testified that Lawyer VanNess, who is 40 years old, had been a friend of theirs since childhood, and that up to a couple of months ago they had had implicit confidence in him.

He had been the attorney for James A. Waldron since the latter reached his majority, fifteen years ago.

The check alleged to have been forged is dated Dec. 12, 1890.

Dykman Waldron is the executor of the estate of Cornelia Waldron, his aunt, who died in 1878, leaving property to the value of $100,000 to be divided between Dykman Waldron, James A. Waldron, and another brother who has since died.

The will was contested by other relatives.

On Dec. 11, 1890, Justice Ingraham of the Supreme Court ordered Dykman Waldron, as executor, to draw a check upon the Union Trust company for $1,000, payable to the order of James A. Waldron. The check was drawn and delivered to James A. Waldron.

The latter deposited it with his attorney, Lawyer Van Ness. He testified that Van Ness had the check certified by the cashier of the Trust company and changed it so as to make it payable to himself as attorney.

Some time after this Lawyer Van Ness, it is alleged, had the check cashed. Under various pretexts he has since avoided a settlement with his client.

The two Waldron brothers, who had quarrelled after the death of their aunt, became friends again recently, and Lawyer Van Ness became attorney for Dykman Waldron also.

The latter now alleges that the lawyer has misappropriated other funds intrusted to him to the amount of $5,000 or $6,000.

He announced his intention of proceeding against Van Ness for grand larceny.

Lawyer Van Ness says that the allegations are trumped up to keep him out of money due him. He says he has enjoined the estate of which Dykman Waldron is executor for the sum of $1,300, costs due him, and that his suit will come up before the surrogate next week.

"This will turn out to be one of the nicest and most rotten rows you ever heard of," he said this morning. "Why, if the truth were but known, I'm entitled to a share in the estate of Cornelia Waldron, and I'll get it, too, before we're done.

"This whole thing is trumped up to stand me off from getting the money due me.

"This check they have complained about was written in my own hand altogether, except the signature of Dykman Waldron.

"I made it payable to James A. Waldron or his attorney by their direction. I do n't deny that I cashed it. I had a perfect right to do so.

"I have plenty of legal papers to make good my rights against these brothers, and I'll see that I use all my advantages."

Justice Ryan fixed the bail of the prisoner at $2,000 and set the examination down for next Wednesday afternoon.

The bail bond was signed by Mrs. Mary Jones of 940 Ninth avenue.

Dykman Waldron, one of the complainants, is a telegraph superintendent. His brother, James A., was formerly Postmaster at Rutherford, N. J.

As Van Ness left the court room he brushed past James A. Waldron, who was leaning against a pillar in the vestibule.

"You'll catch it my boy, before this thing is over," said Van Ness. "I've got all the papers, and I propose to make it hot for you."

James A. Waldron secured an attachment against Van Ness yesterday for $1,950. Lawyer Van Ness was arrested last evening at about 6 o'clock in the Equitable building. The warrant was issued by Justice Ryan on Feb. 2.

The detectives have been looking for Van Ness ever since and put in many long hours of watching at his office door for him.

Yesterday they learned that he was in town and had been seen in the Equitable building.

The arrest was made quietly, and Van Ness appeared perfectly confident of establishing his innocence.

He was locked up at Police Headquarters over night. At about midnight a friend came to bail him out, but could n't find a Police Justice, and gave the matter up till this morning.

—The derby hat of Theodore Marsh of the firm of Marsh & Ayers, blew from his head on East Front street, yesterday afternoon, and a hack just behind ran directly over the crown.

A GORGEOUS EVENT.

The Handsomest German Ever Given in Plainfield, Was that of the Reinharts in Honor of a Sweet Kentucky Belle.

Among the most enjoyable dances this season was the german given last night by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Reinhart of Netherwood, in honor of their guest, Miss Young of Louisville, Ky. The entire first floor of Mr. Reinhart's spacious house was crashed for dancing. The favors were very pretty, and of the old-fashioned kind that are slowly coming in again after the deluge of silver trinkets that have been the fashion for the past two years. The rooms were beautifully decorated with cut flowers and palms. Louis G. Timpson and Miss Young shared the honors of leading. The cotillion began at 10, and an elaborate supper was served by Sherry at small tables at 11:30, after which the german was continued until 2 a. m. The guests were chiefly from the young dancing set that is seen at the assemblies. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. William Kaufman, Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. D. VanVleit, Mr. and Mrs. C. Wharton, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Timpson, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Squires, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Fisk, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. C. Ralli, Mrs. Pliny Fisk, Mrs. Bates of Louisville, Ky., Misses VanBoskerck, Yates, Harte, Huntington, Colles, Bushnell, Stewart, Walz, Murphy, Ellis, Young of Louisville, Ky., Wharton of Pittsburg, Hahn of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Haskell, Mr. and Mrs. Knoles, Miss Force and Miss Cornwell of New York, Mr. Daly of Bergen Point, and Messrs. Wharton, VanBuren, Huntington, Walz, Borden, Moore, Munn, Waring, VanBoskerck, Erickson, Summers.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

F. M. Hulett is called to Gloversville on business again to-day.

Mrs. A. Vanderbeek left town this afternoon for Tallahasse, Fla.

Charlotte, wife of Lawrence Ulrich, died at 93 South Second street yesterday, in her 65th year.

A delightful informal dance was given at the Park club-house last evening. The music was by Carpenter. All had a lovely time.

A charming afternoon tea was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ladd, jr., Franklin place, yesterday afternoon. Conde furnished the music.

The people of both city and borough will delight to know that the Rev. Father McKernan has obtained from Bishop O'Farrell full faculties for the Rev. Father Cushing, and henceforth Father Cushing will remain to assist Father McKernan.

George W. Moore, Plainfield's representative in the Department Council of the G. A. R., went to Trenton this afternoon to assist in preparing for the three-days State Encampment. To-morrow Messrs. Hand, Smith, Stephens, Mattison and others will attend.

Ambrose Norbury, father of Alfred Norbury, of this city, died at Oldham, Eng., Jan. 24, and was buried in Chaderton cemetery the following Saturday. He left a wife and four children. Mrs. Norbury was confined to her bed at the time with a broken leg and much anxiety is felt as to the effect of the shock upon her.

The Plainfield Y. M. C. A. will be well represented at the State convention at Camden, Feb. 9-12. The delegates will be W. D. Murray, Stephen Cahoone, E. L. Walz, jr., J. A. Robinson, O. W. Dunham, T. E. Hazell, G. Q. Packer, John McLaughlin, A. C. LaBoyteaux, Silas Yerkes, and Irving Brady. Chas. B. Fernald will represent the boys' branch.

F. M. Hulett, the music dealer, has been compelled to secure the services of a man competent to share in the management of his largely increased business, which has attained a magnitude too great for any one man to manage alone except by personal attention day and night. He has obtained a first-class assistant in George Githens, a young man whose personal and business qualities are such that he is sure to win favor for himself among Mr. Hulett's many patrons. He was formerly with Blasius & Sons, the largest music dealers in Philadelphia, and will henceforth be associated with the leading music house of Plainfield.

A Surprised Congressman.

Hon. James A. D. Richards, representative-elect from the new Seventeenth Congressional district of Ohio, is a guest among friends and relatives of this city and North Plainfield. Last evening, while a guest of John G. Haberle, 3 Harmony street, North Plainfield, he was "surprised" in a most pleasant manner, a number of friends having gathered there to make the honorable gentleman's acquaintance. After introductions, master-of-ceremonies, John Carney, introduced Messrs. Harry Spencer and Adams, who rendered some fine music on the violin and guitar. Afterward came remarks from ex-postmaster William L. Force, songs by the "Eclipse" quartette, composed of Messrs. Joseph Martin, Robert Schlereth, Elias Southard and Harry Spencer, remarks by Charles Smith, recitation, "The Captain's Daughter", by Miss Lilly Haberle, speech by the Hon. J. A. D. Richards, and laughable recitations by John H. Carney. Afterward came refreshments in abundance. The honorable gentleman expressed himself as agreeably surprised and pleased over the event. Mr. and Mrs. Haberle, who are relatives of Mr. Richards, are to be congratulated upon the success of the occasion.

The City's Milk Bills.

An example of the way that Overseer of the Poor A. Vanderbeek economizes over the methods of his predecessors, is the matter of milk. Mr. Vanderbeek spent only $308.98 for milk during the entire year. Yet everyone was as fully supplied as necessary, and no one lacked. Mr. Vanderbeek's predecessor in the last two months of his office ran up a milk bill of $152.60, more than half as much as Mr. Vanderbeek's for the entire year.

FIGURES THAT TALK.

PLAINFIELD'S RECORD OF SCHOOL EXTRAVAGANCE.

Her Public Institutions of Learning the Most Expensive in the State, Yet the Education Given Is of No Higher Grade, and the Benefits Are No Greater, Than Under More Economical Boards of Education.

The last tax bills of the property-owners of the city of Plainfield for the year 1892, reveal the enormous taxation which the local Board of Education sanctioned for public school expenses. Their rate, together with the rate for State school tax, makes a larger total school tax than all the other taxes of our people put together (excepting only the county quota). By reference to their tax bills, Press readers will see that the total school tax (for 1892) was 85 cents on every $100 of valuation, while the sum total of the city tax—poor, library and fire department taxes, altogether—only foots up 76 cents on $100.

Here's the list:

Free school	55
State school	30
	85
City tax	46
Fire tax	20
Poor tax	5⅝
Library tax	4⅜

Then again, scrutinize carefully the following statistics copied from the last annual report of the State Board of Education. From these official figures it will be readily observed what an expensive common school education the city of Plainfield has to pay for. Compared with two or three other cities of about the same size and three or four cities considerably larger, it will be noticed that Plainfield takes the lead over all of them for the total amount of money received for school purposes, and exceeds every one in the cost of current expenses, and per capita of average attendance of scholars. In other words, it costs about one-fourth more to give our Plainfield boys and girls a public school education, than the other cities cited pay for their children, and there is about the same proportion of advance over the average cost per child throughout the whole State. And the schooling the Plainfield pupils get is not a bit better than that given to the students in the other cities referred to. New Brunswick, for instance, educates 2,000 pupils at an average cost of $15.79, while Plainfield pays $25.12 on each of her 1,269 pupils! Yet a diploma from the New Brunswick High School admits a graduate to college without entrance examination, and Plainfield's High School diploma does no more.

Study the table:

Cost for each pupil on av. attendance.	Cities.	Population.	Teachers employed.	Salaries paid.	Average attendance of pupils.	Total amount received for school purposes.	Total current expenses.
$25.12	Plainfield	11,267	49	$35,560	1,269	$31,873	$31,873
14.30	Bridgeton	11,811	36	14,726	1,167	$19,343	$16,696
17.86	Atlantic City	13,058	57	19,220	1,317	$27,204	$23,543
13.94	Phillipsburg	9,000	41	12,405	1,180	$20,325	$16,450

Next Tuesday's Philharmonic.

The last concert of the Philharmonic series will be given in the Casino next Tuesday evening.

William H. Reiger, tenor, and Miss May Lyle Smith, flutist, will be the soloists. Cards of admission may be procured at Reynolds's pharmacy and at the door at $1.25 each.

The Orange Chronicle speaks of Miss Smith as follows:

"The appearance of Miss May Lyle Smith as a flute soloist was altogether a pleasing novelty, especially when is taken into consideration the charming naive appearance of the performer and the equally important fact that she played delightfully. The duet between Miss Smith and Mr. Weiner was decidedly captivating. It was accurately and brilliantly performed, and the leading part was ably sustained by Miss Smith, whose tone is pure and technique practically faultless."

Enviee Us Our Morals Now.

[From The New Brunswick Home News.]

Plainfield is getting awfully moral. A saloon keeper there was hauled up for allowing men to play cards in his place, and the judge fined him $10, the offence not being a violation of "an old blue law", but of an act passed in 1892. In how many saloons in this city is gambling carried on?

THEY SAY IT IS A FORGERY.

Important Document in a Suit in Which Wealthy Plainfielders Are Interested.

The trial of the suits brought by William S. Hurley, a flour merchant of Brooklyn, to recover property worth about $350,000, which he alleges belonged to the estate of his father, Samuel Hurley, was begun before Judge Barrett in the Supreme Court yesterday. Two suits have been brought, one against Jacob Miles, as executor, for an accounting, and the other against William Miles, to recover the property. Jacob and William Miles live on Somerset street, North Plainfield, William Miles also has a house in Henry street, New York city, is a director of the Nassau Bank and of the Hamilton Insurance company, and is said to be a millionaire. He was formerly a partner of Samuel Hurley in the tannery business under the firm name of Hurley & Miles. It is charged that he appropriated to himself an undue share of the assets of the firm, and that by the assistance of his brother, Jacob Miles, he was able to purchase land belonging to Hurley's estate at prices far below their market value.

Samuel Hurley died in 1863, leaving a widow, Catharine A. Hurley, and four small children, William S. Hurley, Ida S. Hurley, Kate Hurley, and Rebecca Hurley. Under his will the property was to go to his family. Jacob Miles, his brother-in-law, Thomas Webb and the widow were made executors. Webb died in 1880, having taken little interest in the estate, and Mrs. Hurley left the entire management to Jacob Miles. Jacob Hurley proceeded to settle the estate and turned over to Mrs. Hurley certain parcels of real estate, most of which he persuaded her to sell to William Miles. A final accounting was had in 1888, and Mrs. Hurley and the other heirs signed a release of Jacob Miles as executor from all further liability; $23,000 in all was turned over to the heirs.

In September, 1890, John Gerding, wishing to purchase certain lots on West Farms, found that they had been the property of Samuel Hurley and had been sold for non-payment of taxes. He investigated and reported the discovery to William S. Hurley. Hurley made an exhaustive examination of the records and became convinced that the Miles brothers had defrauded his father's estate. He secured an assignment to himself of the claims of his mother and sisters and began the suit now on trial. He alleged that William A. Miles took $100,000 from the assets of the firm of Hurley & Miles and invested it in real estate, taking title in his own name. The firm became financially embarrassed in 1860, and Hurley demanded an accounting of the $100,000. An agreement was finally made by which each agreed to put all his property in a common pool, to pay all obligations and to divide the rest equally. This agreement, he alleged, had never been carried out.

The answers to the complaints contained general denials of fraud. It was asserted that William Miles was thrifty and Hurley was not, and that he had made the agreement in 1860 to save the credit of the firm. Annexed to the answer was a document dated in 1861, purporting to be a settlement under the agreement of 1860, showing that Hurley had received his due share. William S. Hurley, the plaintiff, and his mother never heard of this document before, they allege, and they are now seeking to prove that it is a forgery.

William S. Hurley, Ida S. Hurley, Kate Hurley and Mrs. Catherine A. Hurley were examined as witnesses yesterday. The original assignment of claims to Mr. Hurley has been lost. Mr. Hurley identified a copy, and it was put in evidence. Thomas G. Shearman, Daniel G. Rollins, and Phillips & Avery represent the plaintiffs, and ex-judge Noah Davis, Austen G. Fox, Henry W. Jessup and John M. Sterns are attorneys for the defendants. The trial will be continued to-day.

MR. JOHNSON TREASURER,

And George Sadler Sergeant-at-Arms of the State League of Colored Democrats.

In response to a call issued to colored Democrats of the State of New Jersey, a body of colored men representing nearly every county of the State assembled at Trenton yesterday and effected a permanent organization to be known as "The Democratic State League of New Jersey". The call was issued by Benjamin F. Lee and J. W. Stevens, of Trenton, and E. H. Vance, of Camden. The following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, The sentiment prevailing to-day among colored citizens is suggestive of Democratic progress, we, the colored citizens of the State of New Jersey, in body assembled, do hereby resolve that we heartily indorse the principles of the Democratic party, and this league will endeavor to further advance the cause of Democracy by having every county of the State represented by a club.

Resolved, That the personal recognition by the Democratic party is both encouraging and assuring for the future welfare of the colored people in common with all citizens, and guarantees our indorsement and hearty support.

Resolved, That we do all in our power to promulgate and perpetuate a wholesome Democratic sentiment among the colored citizens of the State of New Jersey by our united efforts.

The following officers were elected: President, B. F. Lee, Trenton; vice-presidents, John R. Brown, Newark, and Sydnet Plummer, Camden; recording secretary, George R. Green, Vineland; corresponding secretary, Clarence Reynolds, Trenton; treasurer, W. E. Johnson, Plainfield; executive committee, E. H. Vance, Camden; J. W. Stevenson, John Schruby, Wm. E. Johnson, and J. H. Richardson, Trenton. George Sadler, Plainfield, sergeant-at-arms.

MRS. POTTER WEARS A MASCOT.

The Rajah's Retinue Applauded and He Threw Jeweled Souvenirs at Her in India.

When Mrs. James Brown Potter made her debut as a professional actress it was said that her face was all there would be to recommend her to the public, and that her career as a star in theatrical circles would be finished in the gloom of night, and the stage would know her no more.

But Mrs. Potter's perseverance and hard study had their reward in her success in the "Marriage Spectre", which she is to give at Music Hall, Thursday evening. The leading critics of America have owned to this and awarded her all praise. Perhaps her greatest success was in India. The Vanderbilt, Rockefeller and Astor wealth sink into utter insignificance in comparison with the riches of some of the Rajahs. When a favorite appears they know how to scatter their wealth in truly royal fashion.

Every time a Rajah occupied a box at the theater he not only threw flowers, but ordered his retinue of servants to loudly applaud and after the last recall would throw with his own hands to Mrs. Potter some handsome jeweled souvenir.

One of the most uncommon of these was thrown by Maharajah Bettiah. It was a wreath of laurel leaves, made of solid gold and delicately enamelled in shaded greens. Upon each leaf a diamond dewdrop sparkled, no stone weighing less than a carat, the one in the center being of great size and brilliancy.

Mrs. Potter's charming house in London, 55 Abbey road, is filled with souvenirs from India, especially in her dining room. The walls are covered with a frame work of carved Indian and Chinese woods.

Upon her arrival in India Mrs. Potter was asked to dine with Lord and Lady Lansdowne at the palace, and afterwards invited en famille to luncheon. This, of course, was enough to make her popular with the English contingent, many of whose invitations she was obliged to decline on account of outside professional engagements, as well as her theatrical works.

Professional people are more or less superstitious as a rule, but when asked Mrs. Potter laughingly said that she has picked up no new superstitions in India or the land of the Mikado. She still believes in and wears her mascot, though. In France the popular belief is that if you wear a piece of the rope with which a suicide has ended his mortal career it will bring you luck. An old French woman secured such a piece for Mrs. Potter and gave it to her. She wears it always about her, tied in a tiny silk bag.

THE SEIDL PROGRAMME.

It Approaches Marvelously Near Grand Opera Itself.

The apex of programme-making has been achieved by the great Wagner conductor, Anton Seidl, in the performance to be given in the Music Hall, Friday night, Feb. 10. This programme will be all the more eagerly greeted because of the absolute dearth of grand opera this season. Instinctively feeling this demand, Mr. Seidl approaches as nearly to its fulfilment as possible without going beyond the limits of the concert stage.

The evening performance is made up of scenes from Wagner's operas, interpreted by no less than fourteen operatic singers of both European and American reputation, whose good work will be supplemented by Mr. Seidl's authoritative conducting and the assistance of his superb body of orchestral artists.

The operatic concert will begin with four of the most charming excerpts from "Lohengrin", gracefully interwoven into a harmonious and perfect whole. This will be followed by the purely orchestral number, the "Siegfried Idyl".

In the vocal work of the "Lohengrin" numbers the artist will be Miss Juch, whom it is always a delight to hear; Miss Fabris and Miss Stein, two excellent artistes.

The third number will be the "Liebstod" (the death song) of Isolde, sung by Miss Rathbone.

The first part of the evening ends with the famous and difficult quintette from "The Meistersinger", to be sung by Miss Juch, Miss Stein, Messrs. Kaiser, Stephens and Sanger.

In the second portion of the performance, after an orchestral interpretation of the prelude and glorification music from "Parsifal", now heard for the first time in Plainfield, Mr. Seidl carries us into the greatest scene of the whole Tetralogy. This scene begins with the third act of the "Walkeure", and carries us up to the final meeting of Wotan and Brunhilde. The scene is sung by ten female artistes, and the exact cast will be as follows:

Brunhilde	Miss Maurer
Sieglinde	Miss Juch
Ortlinde	Miss Fabris
Helmvige	Miss Osborne
Waltraute	Miss Bertelle
Gerhilde	Miss Metz
Rossweisse	Mad. Northop
Siegrune	Miss Stein
Schwertleite	Miss Mattfeld
Grimmgerdy	Mad. Baldwin

Another Testimonial to Father Cushing.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The Hod-carriers' association of Plainfield recently met and passed resolutions of regret, as they called it, in the sudden departure from their midst of Father Cushing, the poor man's Soggarth Aroon, and insisted that he should receive a substantial token of their regard. Notwithstanding the prolonged severity of the winter, never since St. Mary's became a parish was a priest so universally liked, for his charity to God's poor was part of his life, and in him was fulfilled his Divine Master's words "Verily his Kingdom was not of this world". JUSTITIA.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—George Outram, 45 Warren avenue, Chicago, Ill.

The children's health must not be neglected. Cold in the head causes catarrh. Ely's Cream Balm cures at once. It is perfectly safe and is easily applied into the nostrils. The worst cases yield to it. Price 50c.

Pay Your Taxes!

Councilman Fisk of the finance committee reported to the Common Council Monday night that a large amount of delinquent taxes was due the city from chronic non-tax-payers. Vincent W. Nash was continued in office as delinquent tax-collector, and the following resolution was adopted:

WHEREAS, The Supreme Court of this State has decided that for unpaid real estate taxes the personal property of the owners of such real estate is liable and may be seized and sold, and that delinquent taxpayers are not by law entitled to any exemption, but that all the personal property of such delinquents may be appropriated for the purpose as far as may be necessary, and that no statute of limitation bars the remedies for the collection of back taxes;

Resolved, That Vincent W. Nash, the officer designated by the Common Council to receive and execute tax warrants be and he hereby is directed to proceed in the execution of said warrants in the first instance by seizure, public advertisement and sale of the personal property of delinquents, and that he so proceed without delay under the direction of the Corporation Counsel.

Resolved, That upon failure to find property of delinquent with which to satisfy personal property taxes, said officer do proceed to obey the command of his warrant by taking the body of such delinquent, if to be found in the county, and deliver the same to the Sheriff of the county, or his jailor, to be kept in close and safe custody until payment be made of said taxes and costs.

OLD COLONY TAKEN IN

New York, New Haven & Hartford Secures Control.

TERMS OF THE CONSOLIDATION.

President Choate Finally Admits that a Union of the Two Roads is Practically Settled—Identity of the Old Colony Not to be Destroyed—Stockholders' Consent Yet to be Obtained.

BOSTON, Feb. 8.—President Choate of the Old Colony was asked last night if the Old Colony railroad company had sold out to the New York, New Haven & Hartford.

"No," said Mr. Choate. "There is no truth in the statement."

"Is it true that you are going to issue a circular to the stockholders of your road in connection with the matter?"

"No, it is not true. I have not issued, nor am I going to issue any such circular."

"Then there is no truth in the statement whatever."

"Well, I will not deny that negotiations are going on, but nothing has come of them so far and no agreement has been reached. Further than that I decline to speak upon the matter."

Mr. Barron, of the Boston News Bureau, when told that President Choate, of the Old Colony, had denied that there had been a sale of that corporation to the New York, New Haven & Hartford, reaffirmed the original statement, declaring that there had been the exchange of shares of stock, as first stated, which virtually carried with it the transfer of the Old Colony to New York, New Haven & Hartford control.

"The whole matter," said Mr. Barron, "was consummated within a couple of hours, and two hours before it happened nobody knew such a deal was to take place."

This morning President Choate made another statement and authorized the following:

"Negotiations have progressed so far between directors of the Old Colony and of the New Haven roads that a union of these two properties may be regarded as practically settled. While this will result in better train service and a single administration between New York and Boston, something the public has been constantly seeking, the arrangement will not destroy the identity of the Old Colony system.

"This will continue to be managed, as heretofore, from Boston, and J. R. Kendrick will be in immediate charge and become one of the vice-presidents of the New Haven road. The terms of the union cannot be given, as they have not been agreed to by the respective Boards of Directors. In general it is understood that a share of Old Colony stock will be worth about $215. If agreed to by the directors the contracts must be submitted to the stockholders for their approval."

The terms of consolidation to which President Choate alludes were agreed upon last week. On Monday the directors of the Old Colony acted upon the agreement, and on Saturday next it comes up before the New Haven board of directors for approval.

Then the stockholders of both roads will have to ratify it.

It is known that the terms of consolidation are as follows:

Nine shares of New Haven stock at 10 per cent. dividend security are to be exchanged for 10 shares of Old Colony stock, which, up to the present, has been a 7 per cent. security. The union is to count from Jan. 1, 1893, but the New Haven road actually takes possession on July 1.

Meanwhile it is hoped to obtain legislative sanction for the exchange of New Haven stock for that of the Old Colony. No legislation is required to lease the Old Colony, but the exchange of stock requires the consent of the Legislature.

Until the exchange is perfected the Old Colony stockholders are to, secure nine-tenths of whatever dividends are passed by the New Haven stockholders—that is, if the New Haven pays 10 per cent. the current year the Old Colony stockholders are to receive 9 per cent., an increase of 2 per cent. upon their present rate.

A ROYAL VISITOR.

Donna Maria Isabel de Borbon, Infanta of Spain.

The Distinguished Lady Who Is to Represent the Spanish Queen-Regent and King at the World's Columbian Exposition.

Her Royal Highness the Serenisima Senora Infanta of Spain, Donna Maria Isabel de Borbon y Borbon, who is the eldest sister of the deceased King Don Alfonso XII., and consequently the aunt of the present king, has announced her intention of visiting the world's fair shortly after its opening. As the infanta has been connected with many of the important events of Spanish history during the latter half of this century, the promised visit of her royal highness will be doubly interesting, says Harper's Weekly. She was born in the royal palace of Madrid, on the 20th of December, 1851, and married to a Sardinian prince, his highness the count of Girgenti, who died within a short time. During the revolution in Spain the Infanta Isabel joined Queen Isabella II. in Paris. Being endowed with high courage, she helped to make more bearable the exile of her august parents and brothers during those sad days in the Palais de Castille, when the royal family of Spain felt more grief for the misfortunes of their country than for their own troubles. After the restoration of the legitimate monarchy, and on the return of Alfonso XII. to the throne of his ancestors, the king was accompanied by the Infanta Isabel. Who shared with her royal brother, justly called "The Peacemaker," the triumphs of the first years of his short but most glorious reign. She crowned with laurel the victorious king who had terminated the civil wars that had ravaged his Basque provinces, Navarra, and his island of Cuba, consoling at the same time those he had subdued. Knowing them only as her countrymen, she gave them her treasures together with her love and protection.

Some time afterwards King Alfonso married his first cousin, the daughter of the duke of Montpensier, the beautiful Queen Mercedes, and upon the early death of the queen the infanta was a great consolation to her bereaved brother, whom she dearly loved. After he died she devoted herself in turn to his august widow, the present queen regent of Spain, Donna Maria Christina, a model queen, wife and mother, and the perpetuator on the throne of St. Ferdinand of the traditions of Donna Maria de Molina. The Infanta Isabel has always been the constant companion of the regent and of the baby king. The Spanish people, and particularly the people of Madrid, idolize her because charity is her first virtue, and her constant thought is to help the poor and comfort the unfortunate. To this purpose she devotes most of her income, sustaining hospitals and asylums, and supplements this work with her personal visits to the poor and sick. She is also patroness of all Spanish industries and arts. Enthusiastically fond of music, and of all the fine arts, she presides over concerts, and constantly organizes exhibitions, being always surrounded by the leading authors and artists. She knows by heart the gems of the rich classical Spanish literature, as well as most of the modern, and is acquainted with the works of other countries. She speaks Portuguese, French, Italian, English and German as fluently as her own language, and her conversation is very bright and full of talent.

Some of her leisure hours are devoted to sport, of which she is also extremely fond. A daring rider, she appears in her pink coat, honoring the hunts at the club "La Venta" de la Rubia, near Madrid, during the winter at most of the meetings, and in autumn enjoys the stag-hunting in the wild hills of Riofrio, near the Palacio de la Granja. Her highness is also very fond of driving, which she does to perfection, even with the most spirited four-in-hand.

Distinguished and highly cultivated, but, above all, charitable and affectionate, it may well be said of this princess that her royal crown fairly glistens with virtues, and no wonder that she is loved at the court of Madrid. In times of sorrow the Infanta has been the greatest consolation, and now, in these days of glory, when all the nations of the old world join the countries of America at La Rabida, Palos, Madrid, New York and Chicago to honor Columbus and Spain, the discovering nation, she is one of the most prominent figures of her time, of which Spain is proud.

It is on this account, undoubtedly, that we hear that she has been chosen to represent the king and queen of Spain at the World's Columbian exposition.

The coming of the Infanta, who bears the same name as the great queen who is equally a glory of America and of Spain, will be highly appreciated by the American people. They will welcome and receive her as she deserves, being fully alive to the great honor done to them by the queen regent of Spain in sending such a distinguished and beloved princess to represent her in the greatest celebration of the nineteenth century.

Not Unlike the Stre-Jacobs Case.

He had called on her several times and finally mustered up courage and assurance to be somewhat more affectionate than the circumstances warranted perhaps.

"You must not do that!" she said somewhat nervously.

"Do what?" was the innocent query.

"Put your arm around my waist."

"Why not?"

"My big brother might come in suddenly and see you."

"Well, what of that? He couldn't kill me!"

"No, I suppose not; but he would try to borrow some money from you, and I have lost two beaux already by his doing that."—Texas Siftings.

An Observing Woman.

Miss De Pretty (on railway train)—There! You said men were never polite to homely women. Did you notice that handsome gentleman lower the sash for that fearfully ugly creature in front of him?

Experienced Aunt (quietly)—The train is going west and it is late in the afternoon.

"What has that to do with it?"

"The sun was shining through her window into his eyes."—N. Y. Weekly.

Got His Cards.

Tommy had just returned from Sunday school, and his mother asked him if he had been a good boy.

"Not very," he replied.

"Then you didn't get a good-behavior card?"

"Yes, I did. I saved the money you gave me for the heathen, and bought two cards with it from the other boys."—Harper's Bazar.

Too Late.

Mrs. Gadder—Dear me, it's raining. But I must go out.

Mr. Gadder—Why must you go out?

Mrs. Gadder—Mrs. Tawker told me a great secret last night, and—well, I must go out.

Mr. Gadder—You are too late. I saw Mrs. Tawker herself going out an hour ago.—N. Y. Press.

Why Not?

A Possible Objection.

Miss Charter Oakes (from Hartford)—Yes, our city has more wealthy people in proportion to its size than any other city in the United States.

Upson Downes—I hope that won't make any difference about my visiting you, Miss Charter Oakes.

Miss Charter Oakes—Pray, why should it?

Upson Downes—I didn't know but you would object to having the average lowered.—Puck.

All in the Family.

First Masher—Well, did you make the acquaintance of that strange girl you were raving over?

Second Ditto—Yes, followed her home.

First M.—How did she strike you?

Second Ditto—She didn't at all; she got her big brother to do it.—Boston Globe.

"A friend told me of the Vegetable Compound; her faith won mine, and now I am well. Oh! how can I return thanks to Mrs. Pinkham!

The FRIGHT of lard manufacturers at the Wonderful Success of COTTOLENE is one of the strong evidences of its value to housekeepers. The REASON of this success is that COTTOLENE is a BETTER shortening for ALL cooking purposes than has EVER before been produced, and has NONE of the objectionable features indispensably connected with lard. The HONEST MERIT of COTTOLENE explains its success. Imitations but certify the value of the genuine, made only by

FRENCH CABINET CRISIS

Reported That the Ministry Will Resign To-day.

CAVAIGNAC MAY SUCCEED RIBOT.

Gladstone to Introduce the Home Rule Bill on Monday—Thirty-Seven of the Crew of a British Steamer Drowned—The Cholera Scare in Marseilles—Other Late News by Cable.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—The press is almost unanimous in attacking the government for having let the big Panama swindlers escape and trying to satisfy the demands of the people by the prosecution of smaller offenders.

The hesitating attitude of the government is described as criminally weak and dishonest.

Everything shows that the Cabinet is greatly weakened. M. Bourgeois is believed to be on the point of resigning, while Cavaignac is expected to succeed to M. Ribot's place.

It was rumored this morning that the Cabinet had resolved to resign and to recommend to President Carnot that he summon M. Cavaignac to form a Ministry.

Inquiry at authoritative sources elicited neither confirmation nor denial. Should Cavaignac consent to form a Ministry he would probably select as colleagues men who are not in the present Ministry.

It is believed, however, that Cavaignac's ambition is to succeed Carnot, and that he would therefore refuse the Premiership.

His enthusiastic friends recall that while at college Cavaignac refused to receive a prize from the hands of the Prince Imperial, thus illustrating his hatred of monarchical institutions.

THE FLOOD ABATING.

Great Destruction in and Around Brisbane—Heavy Loss of Life.

BRISBANE, Feb. 9.—The water is still falling slowly. The ruin and desolation revealed as the flood abates is beyond anything caused by the last great flood in January, 1890. The suburbs of the city have been almost annihilated.

South of the river the city is still completely submerged.

In the higher parts of the city from which the water is receding, many buildings have collapsed and most of the others are damaged beyond all hope of repair.

The loss in Queen street on which stand the government offices, postoffice, principal banks, newspaper buildings, and the opera house, has been enormous.

The principal towns have suffered as severely as has Brisbane. Every hour brings fresh news of villages submerged, houses wrecked, lives lost and bridges swept away.

The loss of life has been very heavy, but no approximate estimate of the number drowned is yet possible.

MAKING WAY FOR HOME RULE.

An Effort to Make Another Subject Take Precedence Is Defeated.

LONDON, Feb. 9.—The House of Commons reassembled at noon and Mr. Gladstone at once announced that he would to-morrow move the suspension of the rule under which the House rises at midnight.

The object was to make the introduction of the Home Rule bill on Monday possible.

37 OF HER CREW DROWNED.

Loss of the British Steamer Trinacria Off Cape Villane.

GRUNNA, Feb. 9.—The British steamship Trinacria, plying between the Clyde and Spanish Mediterranean ports, has been lost off Cape Villane, near Punta del Boy.

Only two of the crew were saved and thirty-seven were drowned.

No Panic at Marseilles.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—A despatch from Marseilles says that despite the gravity of the situation no signs of a panic have been manifest as yet. The Board of Health is assuring all inquirers that the disease is not cholera and will be checked before Saturday.

Thirteen Killed, Fourteen Hurt.

ROME, Feb. 9.—Several lightly built houses in Campolieto, province of Campobasso, collapsed during a high wind. Thirteen persons were killed, and 14 were injured.

A STRIKE IMMINENT.

Union Men on the Pennsylvania Complain Bitterly of Their Treatment.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 9.—That there is discontent among the union men employed on the Pennsylvania system, and that a strike is imminent, is a fact, and it is well known to the railroad officials despite their assertions that all is serene.

The men bitterly denounce the company for indiscriminately dismissing union men. There have been alleged causes for all discharges, but according to the statements of the employes the railroad officials have made their employment a burden to brotherhood men and when they complain they are given their discharge.

In every instance a man is ready to fill the vacancy and in every instance he happens to be a non-union man, too. In the hope of calling a halt President Roberts has been appealed to, but he is "too busy to interfere."

Thus the weeding out of union men has continued until now there are almost as many "scabs" employed on the system as Brotherhood men.

Meetings have been held all along the line, and although no definite action was decided upon, it is understood that sentiment strongly favored a strike.

Some of the more ardent of the men favor an immediate strike, but cooler counsel has prevailed, and the trouble is avoided for the present.

News of the meetings reached the ears of the officials, and it was thought best to cease receiving freight until the matter blows over.

Meanwhile the company is replacing union men with "scabs," and is distributing men at different points along the line, acquainting them with the duties that will devolve upon them in the event of a strike.

In any event they will be given preference when there are vacancies, and when once installed in positions they will be retained.

ELECTORAL VOTES COUNTED.

Cleveland and Stevenson Formally Declared Elected

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The morning hour in the Senate was spent for the most part in the consideration and passage of bills on the calendar, and considerable progress was made in that direction.

At 1 o'clock the Senators, headed by Vice-President Morton, and accompanied by some of the principal officers, proceeded to the Hall of the House of Representatives, and there took part in the ceremony of counting the votes for Presidential Electors.

The actual ceremonies this year were nearly the same as four years ago with a slight difference in personnel.

There was the ceremonious opening of the safe in the Vice-President's room and the taking out of the 69 sealed packages supposed to represent the votes of 44 States as received in duplicate by mail and messenger; there was the solemn procession in "goose step" of old Captain Bassett, who has participated in every Presidential count for more than sixty years, escorted by a squad of Capitol police to prevent a raid being made upon the precious locked boxes containing the votes.

This was a precaution originating on the fears of acting Vice-President Ferry in the troublous times of the disputed count in 1877 and it has been since kept up.

Following the precedents observed upon former occasions, the tellers having ascertained that the certificates were in due form and properly authenticated, omitted the executive certificate of the ascertainment of the electors appointed and the preliminary formal statement of the proceedings of the college, and proceeded rapidly with the reading and ascertainment of the result.

After the last certificate had been read and the results footed up, the vice-president made the customary announcement that under the law this was a sufficient declaration that Grover Cleveland, of the State of New York, was elected President of the United States, and that Adlai E. Stevenson was elected Vice-President of the United States, each for the term beginning March 4, 1893, and that this result would be entered together with a list of the votes on the journals of the Senate and House of Representatives.

Potatoes High in Chicago.

Tubers that sold here yesterday at wholesale for 80 and 85 cents a bushel can not be touched to-day for less than $1, and $1.25 is predicted by to-morrow. The advance is attributed to the intense cold and blockaded condition of the railways, especially those running to the Northwest.

RESENT THE SEIZURE

Gilbert Islanders Rebel at England's Aggression.

PROTEST TO OUR GOVERNMENT.

Col. Daily, Who Was Authorized by the King to Act as Envoy to the United States, Makes Another Complaint to the President—The Islanders Looking to This Country for Aid.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9.—Capt. Luttrell, of the schooner Almy, just arrived at this port, brings news from the Gilbert Islands which is likely to inflame Congress at this moment and add fuel to the movement for the annexation of Hawaii.

Capt. Luttrell's story is an account of British seizure and aggression in the face of important negotiations already begun with our State Department by a duly authorized representative of the King of the Gilbert Islands.

It shows that the islanders rebel greatly against the seizure of the Gilbert group by the English, and that they are yet waiting to hear from the United States government in regard to the King's application for a protectorate, as they hold the British protectorate to be invalid because it was established without their consent.

Last summer Capt. Davis of the English warship Royalist, bore down on the Gilbert group, forced the English flag on the protesting King and natives and laughed at the monarch's statement that protection had already been asked of the United States.

It was a practical deposal of the King and subjugation of his little possessions to England.

Col. Chas. E. Daily, of this city, who while King Tebureimoa was visiting in San Francisco last spring, was deputized envoy in the negotiations the Gilbert Islanders desired, has forwarded to Washington another emphatic protest against the seizure of the islands by Capt. Davis, the British commander, and calling attention to the official appeal for treaties and the protection of the American flag made months ago by the Gilbert Islands' King.

"I am not permitted by diplomatic usage," said Col. Daily last night, "to say what the nature of my protest is, but from information received in this city by Americans engaged in commerce with the Gilbert Islands, I am ready to say that the action of Capt. Davis, of the British warship Royalist, was outrageous. He went into the harbor of Butaritari, the chief settlement and the home of the King, landed a force of marines and hoisted the British flag.

"Capt. Davis was domineering and abusive to the King and snapped his fingers at him when the King said:

"'This country belongs to the United States, and I am waiting for its flag to show its authority.'

"Capt. Davis' reply was more forcible than elegant, and without any right and against the protest of the King, who informed him that negotiations were pending with the United States for the establishment of a protectorate by the United States, he arbitrarily assumed authority and threatened to force the payment of tribute to the British government.

"The result of the work of the missionaries, carried on by American intellect and American money, has practically been to change the naked barbarism of those island natives into civilized communities, and to give the islands consequence and value in commerce, which the powers of Europe have learned to appreciate and appropriate, while our government has slept on its rights to receive the benefits of a development produced by American labor."

GARDNER DECLARED GUILTY.

The Charge of Extortion Proven Against Dr. Parkhurst's Agent.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—After deliberating almost five hours over the evidence offered at the trial of Charles W. Gardner the jury found Dr. Parkhurst's chief detective guilty of attempted extortion at 10 o'clock last night.

Gardner received the verdict calmly, and with the same careless smile that has characterized his bearing while he has been on trial. When asked if he had anything to say about the verdict he replied he had not.

At Mr. Jerome's request Gardner was remanded until Tuesday for sentence.

The penalty for the crime for which he has been convicted is two and a half years' imprisonment.

SECRETARY GIBSON ACCUSED.

Sensational Hearing Before the Whisky Trust Investigating Committee.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—The hearing before the special House Whisky Trust Committee was most sensational.

United States Gauger Dewar was the only witness. He told his story quietly and calmly.

Mr. Dewar began his testimony by detailing how he had been offered bribes by the Distilling and Cattle Feeding Company, known as the Whisky Trust. Mr. Dewar, who was a gauger in 1890, and stationed at Chicago, detailed how in room No. 33 of the Grand Pacific hotel he met Secretary Gibson, of the Whisky Trust, who offered to take him into the employment of the trust. Dewar was to receive $10,000 cash and enough more in cash or stock of the trust to amount of $25,000.

Dewar testified that he was acting under instructions from the revenue officers to pretend to act as a tool for the trust. He then related with the most minute detail the work Gibson wanted him to accomplish.

The testimony in this respect was startling. Dewar stated that Gibson showed him an infernal machine which he (Gibson) wanted witness to use in a rival whisky warehouse.

The machine was to be placed under the stills of this rival company to explode them. Mr. Dewar described the machine as having three fuses, loaded with bullets and oakum.

Mr. Dewar's testimony was read from notes and data. He described in full how Gibson told him to place the machines under the spirit tanks and leave them to do their deadly work. They were expected to explode three hours after being set. He was then to meet Gibson at Bloomington, Ill., where Gibson said he would have the "stuff."

Gibson carefully placed one of the infernal machines, of the size of an oyster can, in Dewar's overcoat pocket.

Dewar, having secured the possession of the machine, closed all association with Gibson and was ordered away from Chicago.

This is the first time his testimony has been given. One of the witnesses, who was present but not examined, carried a large valise, in which it is understood was the identical infernal machine.

The deadly machine will be shown to the committee probably to-day, and Mr. Dewar will most likely proceed with further exposures of the plot.

RAILWAY EMPLOYES IN COUNCIL.

Trying to Devise Measures So That Strikes May be Avoided.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—An important meeting of railway employes was held here last night for the purpose of perfecting an organization among the different branches of the railway service, and of devising some manner of settling disputes between the companies and the men which will do away with strikes.

Among those present were Eugene W. Debs, of Terre Haute, formerly grand secretary of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen; George W. Howard, of the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors; W. F. Messner, grand chief, and S. Keliher, grand secretary and treasurer, of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen; J. W. Rodgers, of the Age of Labor.

The meeting partook largely of the nature of an informal discussion, but it is said that a council composed of representatives from every branch of the railway service is to be formed.

This body will have for its functions arbitration and the passage of such laws as shall protect the railroad men in their just rights.

The amount of deposits the bank carried are said to be nearly a half million dollars.

This morning Mr. Rockafellow said: "I shall resume in a few days."

He explains the closing of the institution as due to a demand that had been made a few days ago for a $40,000 deposit without due notice, and that had run matters close with the bank.

PROTEST FROM HAWAII

The Queen's Minister of Interior Presents Her Case.

ASKS JUSTICE OF THE UNITED STATES

Alleged That the Provisional Government and Our Minister Have Done Wrong—The People Are with the Queen—Senator Morgan's Annexation Bill.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 9.—A letter has been received here from John F. Colburn, Minister of the Interior of Hawaii, in which he outlines the position of the deposed Queen, of whom he is a supporter. The letter is addressed to J. H. Ganz of this city, whose wife is an aunt of Mr. Colburn, and is in part as follows:

"In view of the circumstances that surround the situation of this, our Hawaiian Kingdom, I take the opportunity of writing you this letter, trusting, with your ability and influence with some of the leading statesmen of your liberal American country, you can help to place the situation of affairs in this country in such an impartial manner to them that the Hawaiian Queen, Liliuokalani, her government and her native population can receive such a hearing from your government that the American nation will cause to be restored the Queen to her throne, the government to its power, and the Hawaiian native population to their rights."

Mr. Colburn details the occurrences leading to the revolution substantially as already known. He then says, in connection with the abandonment of the Queen of her purpose to force a new constitution, speaking of the Reform party:

"This party was not satisfied with this, but they, with the assistance of the American Minister and the troops of the United States steamer Boston, enlisted a number of men to the extent of 200, and, aided by the American troops, took possession and declared by proclamation a provisional government, contrary to the constitution now in force and contrary to the rights of 100,000 people—the population of this country.

"The Cabinet notified the American Minister of what had happened, and asked him to assist this duly authorized government to suppress this revolt, or, if he did not want to do that, then to remove the United States troops on board the Boston, and we, the government, could do it ourselves.

"When we told him we had 700 men under arms, and were equal to the situation, his reply was that he acknowledged the provisional government and would support it.

"This action on the part of the American Minister is degrading. He has upheld a mob and does so against the wishes of the aborigines, who are capable of taking care of themselves.

"The Hawaiian people are waiting for the loss of their country. Cannot America, "the land of the free and the home of the brave," undo the great wrong that she, by her troops and embassadors, assisted to do? Will you use your influence for us? Act promptly and may God assist you and help you. Yours, with consideration and respect,

JOHN F. COLBURN,
Minister of the Interior.

The letter has been forwarded to President Harrison by Mr. Ganz.

ANNEXATION BILL.

LOUISIANIANS STARVING.

Floods and Loss of Crops Leave the People of Two Parishes Destitute.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 9.—Four thousand people in Concordia and Catahoula parishes are on the verge of starvation, and unless relief is given them at once many deaths will result.

The floods of last summer destroyed their crops and the water remained on the earth so long that it was not possible to plant cotton or anything else beyond some quickly maturing vegetables.

Hundreds moved away but thousands were unable to leave. Those remaining have subsisted during the winter on wild game, but most of this has been destroyed.

Dr. McGlynn Off for St. Augustine.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—The Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn sailed for Savannah late yesterday afternoon en route to St. Augustine on the steamer Kansas City of the Savannah line. The parishioners of St. Stephen's Church, representatives of the Anti-Poverty Society and hundreds of Dr. McGlynn's friends were assembled on the pier when the steamer moved out into the stream and cheered their favorite lustily.

New Yorkers on a Wild Goose Chase.

B. Stone. The letters stated that a servant girl dying recently had requested that her watch be given to the person addressed. Vacant lot numbers were given as the address of the sender.

—The trial of James E. Totten for misappropriating Fulper & Bingham's goods was to-day postponed at Elizabeth to March 1.

—The great masquerade ball of the Gesang and Turn Verein next Monday evening, will be one of the most enjoyable events of the season.

—The types do queer things. Monday, in an article on tubular pillow casing, they made the joy of thrifty Plainfield housewives read thirty.

—The handsomest piece of sign work in Plainfield is the new one that Edward White of 18 West Front street, has had put on the front of his store.

—The regular meeting of the Young Ladies' Missionary society of the First Baptist church will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2, in the lecture room.

—What do the Councilmen think of the scurrilous editorial attack made upon them by their servant the City Clerk for whom they expressed such high regard Monday evening?

—Water occupies three-fourths of the area of the globe. It is composed of hydrogen and oxygen. If you want to see this proved, go to the Y. M. C. A. rooms this evening at 8.

—An error was made yesterday in giving the figures of the city milk bills. The two-months bill left by Mr. Vanderbeek's predecessor was $58.40. Mr. Vanderbeek's for the year was $42.50.

—In his infatuation for the School Board and its folly, the Courier has lost what head it had, and is now angrily thumping Mayor Gilbert for his courageous and public spirited action.

—The directors of the Plainfield Building and Loan association have changed the time of their regular meetings from the third Monday to the third Thursday evening of each month. Shareholders will meet for the payment of dues on the fourth Monday evening as heretofore.

—The charge that "The Marriage Spectre", the play to be given at Music Hall, to-night, is an immoral play is sheer nonsense. The lesson it enforces is of the strictest morality. It is a sermon from beginning to end. Its acting is certainly clever at every point, and the share taken in it by Mrs. Potter is distinguished by grace and tact and repose, by admirable self-restraint, by illuminative power, and with remarkable poise and balance.

The Reporters May View Them, But Not the Vulgar Public.

The papers collected to represent the work of the Plainfield schools for the Chicago exhibit will not be shown to the general public, at present, as there would not be time to replace any papers that might be injured or defaced. They will be open to the examination of the reporters, however, to-morrow. They are to be forwarded to Trenton Monday.

HELP FOR THE CRESCENT LEAGUE.

Subscriptions Coming Fast and the Club Will Probably Continue in New Quarters.

At a meeting for the perpetuation of the Crescent League, held last evening, it was announced that Messrs. Leggett, Meeker, Haynes, Kline and Teel had secured subscriptions to the amount of $720 towards liquidating the indebtedness of the organization. The thanks of all were extended these members for their good work, and Messrs. Reed, Stevens and Rogers were appointed a new committee to try what they could in the same way before next Wednesday evening when the League will meet again.

It seems assured now that the club will reorganize and continue, but not at the old stand. The members have the house at the corner of East Front street and Tier's lane, in their eye. Last night's meeting was almost stormy at times. One of the new board of trustees said the old board was responsible for the difficulty and distress the club was now in.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. E. P. Thorn is in New York, suffering from paralysis of the right eye.

Mrs. Griffin and her son, George, gave a party in their flat, Rink building, last night.

Miss Lizzie Kettenring of Millington is visiting her brother, Jacob, at 40 Harmony street.

M. C. Dobbins, Edward Willis and Henry C. Drake, delegates to the Department Encampment of the G. A. R., left Plainfield for Trenton, this morning.

Charles Greer and Charles Griffin gave an enjoyable sociable at Mr. Griffin's home on Broadway, last night. There was dancing to Carpenter's music, and refreshments were abundant and fine.

The commendable plan of publicly exhibiting the list of the poor assisted by the township, so that all may see whether unworthy people are being helped, is one which was inaugurated by the present North Plainfield overseer, J. W. A. Bauersachs, who deserves full credit for the idea.

Mamie Conway, daughter of ex-policeman M. Conway, and David Angerbauer were married at St. Mary's rectory, at 8 last night by Father Smyth. Her sister and the groom's brother were bridesmaid and groomsman. A reception followed at Mr. Angerbauer's home on East Third street.

The reception at Mrs. E. H. Ladd, jr's home on West Seventh street, yesterday, was one of the most enjoyable of the season. Mrs. Kaufman, Mrs. Stockton, Mrs. Corlies and Mrs. Chapman received in the parlor, and the Misses Wood, Walz, Huntington, Hart, Corlies and VanBoskerck in the dining room.

A large number of the leading society people and representative families of the city, attended the first reception given by Mrs. Alexander Ross, nee Potter, at her Grant avenue home, yesterday. The affair was the most complete and perfect in every detail that could be accomplished by taste, culture and wealth.

A marriage in New York Tuesday of interest to many Plainfielders was that of Frank Barnaby, of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Annie E. Evans, relict of ex-Mayor Evans of this city, and sister of Mrs. E. L. Walz, which took place at 1 o'clock in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church. The Rev. Dr. John Hall officiated. None but immediate relatives of the pair were present. Mr. Barnaby's bride is a sister of Daniel F. Lewis, president of the Brooklyn City Railroads.

TO CURB THE SCHOOL BOARD.

Plainfield's Bill, with Many Others, Presented to the Legislature.

Assemblyman Kyte yesterday introduced the bill to curb the spending powers of the Plainfield Board of Education. That board—as stated by a New York paper—seems to have unlimited authority to indulge extravagant tastes, and the people who foot the bills have been growling. Mr. Kyte's bill, which is really Mayor Gilbert's, and which was published in full in Tuesday's PRESS, renders the consent of the common council necessary in order to spend more than $1,000 in purchasing land or altering or building school-houses. The bill is known as House 224, and was referred to the committee on municipal corporations.

The Peak Sisters of Alasky.

An entertainment will be given under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the First Presbyterian church, in the church parlors, Friday evening at 8. The programme will be:

Trio.....Masurka
Solo—"Twas April.....Nevin
Miss Nicholl.
Reading—Selection.....Miss Raybert
Silently Steal Away—Robin Hood....Quartette

The entertainment will conclude with the laughable sketch "The Peak Sisters".

No Speculating with Public Funds, Gentlemen!

The editor of the misguided organ of the School Board is also the Plainfield representative of the New York World, which in a long article on Plainfield's sensation of the day says: "It was the bargain alone that prompted the board to take the property." Who gave the Board of Education the right to go into the bargain business with the people's funds?

—Unity Lodge met last night and worked the second degree on one candidate.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren avenue, Chicago, Ill

HOW THE BOARD FEELS.

Report that the Members Contemplate Resigning.

A member of the Board of Education, when asked if it was true that they all contemplated resigning, is reported as saying: "We have not conferred on the matter as yet. We knew nothing of Mayor Gilbert's message until after we adjourned Monday night. We will consider the matter at our next meeting. I do n't believe that the majority of the members will favor abandoning the board. In fact, I doubt if we could resign, even were we so inclined. The law giving us office reposes in us a trust that I do n't believe we can abandon. However, I am not prepared to state this as a fact.

"I do not know what action the Legislature will take in the matter. We have a charter which authorizes us to act just as we have been doing. The only way to overcome the system now applying to the Plainfield schools would be to amend or take away this charter.

"The city charter, which was created after the school charter had become an old and tried method, is largely shaped to operate in harmony with it. Consequently it would have to be altered or amended also, no doubt.

"Concerning the schools, the interests of the community have always been our first thought. We have never tried to usurp our power, as the schools and our indebtedness will prove. I have no desire to see a change, for our system has proved a good one."

FOOLISH IN ITS OLD AGE.

The School Board Venerable Enough, But So Childish as to Need the Controlling Hand of Vigorous Youth.

It is the peculiar history of the Plainfield Board of Education—remarks a New York paper—that makes it so autocratic in the eyes of the Common Council. It is older than the Common Council by twenty years.

The Plainfield Board of Education was created by a special act of the Legislature on March 9, 1848. The act was passed at the solicitation of a few learned men, headed by the late Dr. C. H. Stillman, of Plainfield, who was desirous of making the city, then a village, a seat of learning. It was the seed from which sprang the whole public school system of the State.

The act authorized the Plainfield board to build schools and pay for them by bond or mortgage. They were given unlimited power, and by several future acts were given even more encouragement.

In 1865, two years before Plainfield was incorporated into a city, the members of the board were authorized to levy a school tax equal to one-fourth of 1 per cent. of the tax valuations. The ratable tax that year was $2,000,000

In 1867 the trustees were authorized to borrow $15,000 and issue bonds for the payment of the debt, and $15,000 more were borrowed in 1869. The same year they were empowered to elect their own officers, make their own by-laws and examine and employ their own teachers. The board consisted of five members.

School matters were the rage in Plainfield about that time, and the place promised to become the Athens of America.

This climax was unfortunately averted by the appearance of another official body—the Common Council. The city was incorporated in 1868, and the Common Council assumed charge of all its finances excepting those appertaining to the schools.

The charter under which the Common Council was created set forth that it should raise money to pay the interest on the common school debt and also pay $1,000 yearly on each school in debt until the whole was liquidated. This arrangement gave the Board of Education considerable power and shifted the obligations of meeting payments upon the shoulders of the Common Council. That is what they claim, at least, and after thirty-five years of suffering they declare that they propose protesting until the Board of Education is confined to its proper sphere.

Protests Against the Board's Secret Methods.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Why was not the Honorable Mr. John Ross allowed to speak before the School Board on Monday evening? It seems to me evident that they never intended to allow the tax-payers to be heard on the High School purchase and expenditures. They have ever been a sort of secret organization, but few knowing but little of their business until after it was done. When complained of not long since, they said to invite the public to attend their meetings, that nothing was private; but how was it last Monday evening? Why was Mr. Ross excused from his say? And why did they retire into a separate room for a secret session? They are an autocratic board under the law, and have shown their autocratic power without any respect to the tax-payers; and I would say all honor to our Mayor for his honesty and boldness in making a strike against such a law, which is so entirely un-American and so against all free institutions; and I would say all honor to the common council for their unanimous indorsement of the Mayor's message; and trust that it will be attended to that a respectable petition should follow the proposed amendment to our Legislative body to press its immediate passage in order that our city may be protected against all such autocratic bodies in the future and thus save our city from all such prospective bankruptcy. Such rule as the School Board's is not desired in a city like ours. Every American citizen should strike for freedom, free institution, government by the people. AMERICA.

WILL HEAD AN INJUNCTION.

This Is an Influential Citizen who Will Contribute to Have the Courts Set Aside the High School Purchase.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The earnest thanks of every tax-payer in our city is due to Mayor Gilbert and THE DAILY PRESS for their prompt, energetic and successful effort to muzzle our "autocratic School Board". It proves again that our Mayor is the right man in the right place, and THE PRESS a fearless defender of the people's rights.

It is an admitted fact that Americans are a long-suffering people under oppression and wrong from municipal or government administration, and it is only when a Tweed ring or an oligarchy of a Trust or School Board becomes unbearable that the people rise in their might and hurl them from power.

Are our citizens fully aware of our true situation? Our tax rate for 1892 was $2.20 on the large advance of 30 to 40 per cent. on the valuation, and making the total tax assessment of our city the large aggregate of $147,622.14. Of this rate of percentage we have first State School tax of 30 cents on every $100, and free school and bond tax of 55 cents on the $100, making a total of 85 cents on every $100 for the support of our free schools, or about 40 per cent. of the whole amount of our taxation. This is simply fearful, and shows that our school board clothed with autocratic power has gotten away from the original design of the law to give every child a good common school education, the expense of which was to be covered by the State tax. If we were taxed 85 cents on every $100 for schools in 1892, what will it be in 1893 if they are permitted to carry out their scheme and pay $13,500 practically for a lot to build on.

Mr. Editor, I for one as a tax-payer must simply enter my earnest protest against the carrying out of this scheme, and will willingly join any other parties in an injuction to test the validity of the purchase.

The Garments They Give Are New.

The Plainfield branch of the Needlework Guild of America presented the following report to THE PRESS a few days ago, for publication. Unfortunately the article has been crowded out until now:

"What cannot will and union effect?" Lady Wolverton exclaimed, in one of her direct, simple speeches on the subject of the Needlework Guild. But even she, its originator, must feel some wonder at the magnitude of what will and union have effected in this great confederation, the outcome of her thought.

"At the yearly meeting of the Plainfield branch, January 27, it was found that we had made quite an advance, over last year's work.

"Whereas, we had collected last year 616 garments and miscellaneous articles; this year, the total stands at 738, an increase of 122. If we can continue to enlarge our number of directors, it will not be many years before we will be a large organization in this city. We feel we are doing much good, and supplying a long-needed want—that of giving to the different charitable organizations, and to our local poor, suitable, strong, and new garments, for their individual needs. We have distributed 602 garments, etc., this winter, as follows:

Children's Home, Plainfield	221
Muhlenberg Hospital	130
Boys' Club	36
Day Nursery	67
Local cases	32
Missionary box, Trinity Reformed church	20
Grace Church Guild	9
Ann Burlingham	14
Home for the Aged, Newark, N. J.	29
Free Home for Destitute Girls, New York	14
	602
Total	738

"It is hoped that through THE PRESS we may influence others to enter into this work. We will be only too glad to send our 'leaflets', explaining the work in detail, to any who may become interested and desire to know more about it and perhaps unite with us in helping on this far-reaching charity.

"ANNIE A. W. MASON,
"Secretary.

"February 4, 1893."

To-Morrow Evening.

To-morrow evening promises to be a memorable one in the history of Music Hall, when Anton Seidl and his magnificent orchestra will give a grand Wagner festival. The programme is an excellent one and includes excerpts and scenes from the masterpieces of this poet composer. Among the numbers are selections from Lohengrin, Tristan and Isolde, the Meistersingers, Parsifal, the Walkure, and the Siegfried Idyl. The music of Wagner is too well known to require any extended remarks, and when to this is added the additional attraction of hearing it produced by such artists as compose Seidl's orchestra the pleasure is doubly enjoyable. The demand for seats indicates a large audience.

A Relic of Special Legislation.

The charter creating the Plainfield educational system was a special act. It is a remnant or monument of the days when each town had legislation to suit itself. Many of the special acts, previous to the passage of the bill to prohibit them, have been repealed. The Plainfield school system should meet the same fate.

A TIE MATCH.

Charles Smith of Plainfield Does Great Work Against Expert Class.

There was a large attendance at the Driving Park, Morristown, N. J., on Wednesday, to witness the pigeon shooting match between two crack shots, Frank Class, of Morristown, and Charley Smith, of Plainfield. Class has a record of 96 out of 100, but the redoubtable "Dutchy" was not afraid to tackle him even at that. The match was for a purse of $200, fifty live birds each, from five ground traps, thirty yards rise, fifty yards boundary, Hurlingham rules to govern. Nief Apgar was referee, Dan Terry trap puller and Frank Piper, scorer. The birds were an excellent lot, and swift flyers. The shooters kept even pace with one another on the first twenty-five, when Smith gained a lead of two birds, until forty-five had been shot at, when they tied, and finished the match that way, with 41 kills to each man's credit, although at eighty yards boundary, Smith had 47 kills to his opponent's 44, so that his score is a good one. Besides, he had the hardest birds to contend with. It was agreed that the men should shoot off the tie at some future date, probably early in March, and at a point to be chosen later on. Among those present were such crack shots as "Jimmy" Smith, of Hackettstown, and Johny Beggott, of Rockaway, N. J.

HE WAS'NT HER HUSBAND.

She Went Into Business With Him and She Now Sues for Half the Profits.

Lydia P. Bullock vs. Thomas O. Bullock, for a partnership accounting, was before Vice-Chancellor Van Fleet in Newark yesterday, with Craig A. Marsh representing the woman. The petitioner claimed that she had given her husband money to invest and could not secure an accounting. The defense demurred to the petition on the ground that section fourteen of the act known as the "Married Woman's Act" voided a partnership between man and wife. This necessitated the introduction of evidence which revealed the relations of the parties.

The evidence tended to show that Thomas O. Bullock was first married in Utah and secured a divorce which was not recognized by the courts of other States. He came East and married the petitioner in 1879, in Plainfield. In 1880 she gave him $10,000 with which to engage in wholesale dealings in rice, with the principal office in New York. They were to engage in a partnership under the firm name of Bullock & Co.

In 1891 Mrs. Bullock No. 1 went to New York and secured a divorce. Mrs. Bullock No. 2 then refused to have any marital relations with him because for ten years she had not been his lawful wife. Then Mr. Bullock made a matrimonial contract with the woman who is Mrs. Bullock No. 3. The object of this evidence was to show that the parties to the controversy had never been husband and wife, and that the case, therefore, did not come under the "Married Woman's Act."

It was also claimed that Mr. Bullock had invested a portion of the proceeds of the partnership in a country place at Roxbury, Morris county, now worth $30,000 or $40,000. While the petitioner claims that Bullock had no capital to begin business, and that all the property he controls is the result of her investment, he defends the action by declaring that she drew out a part of her interest, that the Morris county property is not worth over $10,000 and that a large part of her $10,000 went for taxes and repairs on her Plainfield property.

The case is very complicated, and the Court adjourned the hearing to permit counsel to file amended bills.

During the afternoon, constable Mattox of this city served upon Mrs. Bullock a subpœna commanding her to produce in court a long list of documents which Mr. Bullock wishes to introduce as evidence.

A POOR-HOUSE NEEDED MORE.

The School Board's Trouble a Sad Affair, Because They Are So Respectable.

The New York World has been interviewing prominent citizens of Plainfield concerning the School Board folly. Its report of their sentiments is interesting:

"We want a poor-house worse than schools"—said one.—"It is true that we all feel proud of our school system; it is the mother system of the State. No city has better facilities of learning than Plainfield, but at present Mayor Gilbert is right in squelching the Board of Education. It has no right to shackle the tax-payers when another school is not needed. We would feel satisfied to be taxed for a poor-house, because it would fill a want."

Another citizen declared that Mayor Gilbert's action became necessary. Such a step, he said, should have been taken years ago, and then the Board of Education would have been more cautious. It was a sad affair, however, he thought, because all parties concerned were so eminently respectable.

Stylish Every Day Dresses.

Stylish dresses for home and street wear are easily and economically made by coloring cast-off garments with diamond dyes.

One of the handsomest visiting gowns in this city is now in its third season. This year it was colored with diamond dye fast black, and no one could tell that it was not brand new.

Eve's Daughters.

Marion Harland, on pages 103 and 445 of her popular work, "Eve's Daughters; or Common Sense for Maid, Wife and Mother" says:

"For the aching back—should it be slow in recovering its normal strength—an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER is an excellent comforter, combining the sensation of the sustained pressure of a strong warm hand with certain tonic qualities developed in the wearing. It should be kept over the seat of uneasiness for several days—in obstinate cases, for perhaps a fortnight.

"For pain in the back wear an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER constantly, renewing as it wears off. This is an invaluable support when the weight on the small of the back becomes heavy and the aching incessant.

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieved croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

DID YOU EVER RIDE BEHIND AN OX TEAM?

Rather Slow, Ain't It.

There is just the same difference between our way of doing business and the way others do it, as there is between a Blue Line Flyer and an ox team.

Wouldn't you rather do business and buy your goods of a concern that believes in moving things on the fast line principle? Buy goods to-day and sell them to-morrow on a close, quick profit—or on the ox team principle, buy to-day and sell next year or never, because they want big profits.

We believe in close, quick profit, hence our great success.

THE RIGGIN MEMENTO.

Presented to the President and Secretary of the Navy.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—George W. Turner, editor of the New York Recorder, yesterday presented to President Harrison and Secretary Tracy two silver statuettes representing Riggin, the sailor of the U. S. S. Baltimore, the killing of whom in the streets of Valparaiso led to the trouble with Chili a little over a year ago.

Soon after the close of the Chilian incident the Recorder opened a popular dime subscription, the proceeds of which were to be devoted to the moulding of three statuettes to be presented one each to President Harrison, Secretary Tracy and Secretary Blaine, in recognition of the patriotic course of the administration during the diplomatic controversy.

There were over 26,000 subscribers, and the dimes thus collected were moulded into the statuettes which have been presented.

On account of the death of Mr. Blaine, the presentation was private.

The statuette which was intended for Mr. Blaine will be presented to his family.

Health and Comfort are Destroyed by the use of poor smoking tobacco. The one tobacco that has held its own through all the changes of time and against all competitors is Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco.

WHY?

Because it's always pure, always the same, always the best. Such a record tells more than pages of "talk." It's just as good to-day as ever and it is the tobacco for you. If you smoke, you should smoke

ALFRED DE ROTHSCHILD.

English Spokesman at the Recent Monetary Conference.

It has been said that the most important result accomplished by the international monetary conference at Brussels has been the practical admission by monometallic countries that there is something in the silver question. Some extreme advocates of a single standard have urged that the finances of gold countries were secure so long as their system was adhered to. The Brussels conference, says the Illustrated American, has made converts to the belief that the accumulation of silver in the United States, for instance, under the present law is like storing water behind a dam; should the accumulation of silver become too great and the United States be obliged to put their stock upon the market the result might be like the breaking of the dam, and the flood might hurt other countries besides the one concerned most directly. This is taken as one meaning of Alfred de Rothschild's proposals, which had the approval of eminent English financiers.

Alfred de Rothschild, who presented proposals in behalf of Great Britain, is practically dictator of the English banking house of Rothschild. He unites amiability with ability and is remembered as the only director of the Bank of England who, when he visited the western branch in Burlington gardens to examine the bonds and securities, made a practice of bringing a box of cigars with him for the delectation of the clerks. He is a great dinner giver and a great swell. To be his guest at dinner settles a man's position in London society. He is very fond of jewelry. He has no title, his father having dropped the baron when he became a British citizen.

HERBERT SPENCER.

The Great English Philosopher Not Expected to Live.

Herbert Spencer, philosopher and author, although in the 73d year of his life, has been strong and active until a very short time. His health is now failing him, and it seems doubtful if he will recover.

He was born in 1820 at Derby, and received his education from his father and uncle, Rev. Thomas Spencer. At 17 he became a civil engineer, but abandoned this occupation after 5 years and began literary work in earnest, although he had before this contributed to "The Civil Engineers' and Architects' Journal."

His first literary production was a series of letters on "The Proper Sphere of Government" published in 1842. From 1848—'53 he was sub-editor of the "Economist," and during that time published his first important work, entitled "Social Statistics, or The Conditions Essential to Human Happiness and One of Them Developed," but this is now out of print.

In 1855 his "Principles of Psychology" appeared; and since 1857 his life has been devoted for the most part to the execution of his "System of Synthetic Philosophy."

Spencer's works have been extensively translated into French, German, Russian, Italian and Spanish; and the works on education into Hungarian, Bohemian, Polish, Dutch, Danish, Swedish, Greek, Japanese and Chinese.

A Modern Commerce.

Clerk—Lady in front caught stealing goods. What shall we do?

Head of Firm—How is she dressed?

"Beg her pardon and ask if we shall send the bill to her house."—Detroit Tribune.

The Queen's Retort.

"I hope Yule have a merry Christmas," remarked Raleigh to Queen Elizabeth.

"Thanks, Walter," replied the queen. "But if that is a joke you must write it out to have it appreciated."—Judge.

Lunch Room Repartee.

Freshly (to pretty waitress)—What's your name, my dear?

Pretty Waitress—Pearl, sir.

Freshly—Ah, the Pearl of great price!

TO KEEP ENGLAND OUT

Why Stevens Established a U. S. Protectorate in Hawaii.

OPINIONS OF NAVAL OFFICERS.

Secretary Foster Receives Another Despatch from Our Minister at Honolulu—The Latter Had Received No Instructions from the State Department Except to Protect Life and Property—Envoys of the Queen En Route to Washington to Protest.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—Navy people, who are usually very quick to get at the true significance of diplomatic events, have no trouble in interpreting Minister Stevens' motive in establishing a United States protectorate over Hawaii.

They are fully convinced that he had the best of reasons for believing that unless prompt measures were taken the English Minister, upon the arrival of the British cruiser Garnet, which left the South Pacific coast the latter part of January for Honolulu, would have the British flag flying over the island.

It was to circumvent such a movement on the part of the British Minister, rather than a necessity for additional moral support to the provisional government, naval officials believe, that promoted the decisive action of Minister Stevens. These are the ulterior reasons.

The official reasons—that is, those for publication—will be, as explained in Minister Stevens' proclamation, for the protection of life and property. Mr. Stevens will no doubt explain privately, and his explanations will be laid before the House and Senate Foreign Committees in due time, but there his report must rest.

It would not do to state publicly on the floor of the House or Senate that the American flag had been hoisted over the island because our Minister had received secret information that unless he was quick about it the English flag would be floating instead. It is in consequence of this practice of holding back the ulterior motives which promotes diplomatic deals that naval officials are now afraid that the new aspect of affairs at Honolulu will operate to defeat the annexation scheme.

Less Hopeful of Annexation.

As far as the pulse of the administration can be felt at the present writing the new developments at Honolulu will not change the views of the administration on the question of annexation. It is still believed that the President will continue to negotiate with the Commissioners on that line, and will send a message to Congress favoring annexation.

Less confidence, however, appears to be felt in administration circles that Congress will favor annexation.

The commissioners also appear to be less hopeful of prompt action in this line.

In view of the new tidings from Honolulu, it is probable that the deferred orders for the Adams and the Ranger to proceed to Honolulu will soon be issued.

Late last night, Secretary of State Foster received the following despatch from Minister Stevens:

HONOLULU, Feb. 1, via SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9, 1893.

SECRETARY OF STATE:

Provisional government of Hawaii gaining power and respect. Everything is quiet. Annexation sentiment is increasing. Dead monarchy and opposition to annexation is supported chiefly by lottery and opium ring. To-day at 9 a. m., in accordance with the request of provisional government of Hawaii, I have placed government of Hawaii under the United States protection during negotiation not interfering with the execution of public affairs. Despatches by mail with full details.

(Signed) STEVENS.

Speaking of the despatch, and the developments of the day in the Hawaiian situation, Secretary Foster said the action of Minister Stevens in declaring the Hawaiian Islands under a protectorate of the United States was taken without instructions from the State Department.

In fact, the movement for the change of government was unexpected, and had not been anticipated by instructions from Washington.

Mr. Stevens had, therefore, been compelled to act independently and upon his best judgment as the emergencies had arisen.

The only instruction given by the department was the telegram of the 28th ultimo, already published, approving Mr. Stevens' recognition of the provisional government, an act on his part which had been followed by all the other representatives in Honolulu.

He had been further instructed to protect American citizens and property.

Secretary Foster said that American citizens were the owners of at least three-fourths of the entire real and personal property of the islands, and they were more interested than all other residents in the preservation of peace and good government.

Establishment of the Protectorate.

The news of Minister Stevens' action became known upon the arrival of the steamship Australia at San Francisco yesterday.

The act was executed at 9 o'clock on the morning of the 1st. inst., when the Stars and Stripes were raised over Aliiolani Hall and the Minister issued the following proclamation, which was published officially Feb'y 1st.

TO THE HAWAIIAN PEOPLE:

At the request of the Provisional Government of the Hawaiian Islands, I hereby, in the name of the United States of America, assume protection of the Hawaiian Islands for the protection of the life and property and occupation of public buildings and Hawaiian soil, so far as may be necessary for the purpose specified, but not interfering with the administration of public affairs by the Provisional Government. This action is taken pending and subject to negotiations at Washington.

(Signed) JOHN L. STEVENS,
Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States.

United States Legation, Feb. 1, 1893.

Approved and executed by G. C. WILTZ, Capt. U. S. N., commanding the U. S. S. Boston.

The Provisional Government at Honolulu has been busy since its inception. The Executive and Advisory Councils formed the Legislature, and held daily sessions to pass such acts as were deemed immediately needful. One of the earliest acts was the repeal of the Lottery Franchise act; another provided the following form of oath for all residents desiring to affirm allegiance to the Provisional Government:

"I do solemnly swear in the presence of Almighty God that I will support the Provisional Government of Hawaiian Islands, promulgated and proclaimed on the 17th day of January, 1893; not hereby renouncing, but expressly reserving, all allegiance to any foreign country now owing by me."

All the judges and a number of other officials were empowered to administer this oath and it was taken by hundreds the first day it was available. Another act prohibits the importation of fire arms or explosives of any character except by the Government.

Other than the flag raising on the first instant, Honolulu seems to have been without sensational occurrence since the Provisional Government was established. Some attempt was made to secure a suspension of martial law, but the council only complied to the extent of lengthening the dark hours during which it was not permissible to be abroad without a pass.

Queen Liliuokalani has spent most of her time out of the city but is charged by one paper with returning at intervals to consult Kahumas in the houses of some of her loyal adherents.

The drowning of Miss Stevens, daughter of the American Minister, occurred while she was bathing.

COMING TO PROTEST.

Envoys of the Deposed Queen on the Way to Washington.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 10.—Paul Neuman, a member of the ex-Queen's Cabinet, was on board the Australia. He is on his way to Washington to lay the deposed Queen Liloukalani's case before the State Department.

Mr. Neuman was not inclined to be communicative. He said that, owing to his mission, he must reserve his remarks until he reached Washington.

"With Prince David Kawanauakoa, a nephew of the late King Kalakaua, I am bearer of despatches to the State Department at Washington," said Mr. Neuman.

"These despatches, the nature of which I cannot disclose, state the Queen's position in a manner that I am sure will have considerable weight with the President and Secretary of State."

OUR INTERESTS IN GILBERT ISLANDS

The English Captain Mistreated Our Consul—The Islands Are England's.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—The only interest the United States has in the matter of the seizure of the Gilbert Islands by a British warship last spring, as reported in San Francisco despatches, is the mistreatment of the Consul of the United States at the time by the British commander.

The Consul reported that he had been assaulted by the British forces, whereupon a protest was lodged with the government of Great Britain by our Minister in London, under instructions from the State Department, and assurances have been received that the officer responsible for the assault will be called to account for his action.

A map of the islands of the Pacific issued by the Hydrographic Bureau of the United States Navy Department includes the Gilbert islands in the territory claimed by Great Britain.

A DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

Jealous Michigan Man Shoots His Wife and Her Partner.

JACKSON, Mich., Feb. 10.—A terrible tragedy has just been enacted here, and two persons are lying at the city hospital in a dying cogdition in consequence.

Charles Brown, formerly a hack driver, shot his wife twice in the body. Dick Sly, an ex-convict, was the cause of the tragedy, and into his head Brown fired a bullet, which entered just above the left ear, penetrating the brain. Neither can recover.

Brown was arrested after a desperate attempt to shoot Alderman John Gaebelsin, who answered the calls for help of the inmates of the block.

At the police station Brown confessed to the shooting. He said Sly was hanging about Mrs. Brown, and he got sick of it. He had followed the ex-convict to the room occupied by his wife, and there shot both of them.

Had a Romantic Career.

BARRE, Vt., Feb. 10.—William Nye, who was burned to death at Berlin, had a romantic career. Early in life he fell in love with a sister of Hon. James B. Langdon, but the engagement was broken, and Nye then went to Virginia and entered the employ of John Brown, the famous abolitionist. He was present at the hanging of Brown and had charge of his funeral. Afterward he met many prominent people in the Adirondacks, where he was a guide.

The mill will be called No. 3, and will be the last of a plant containing 150,000 spindles. It will be run in the interest of the American Printing company which is owned principally by Matthew C. D. Forden of New York. The plant when completed will be the finest print cloth concern in the country.

FALL OF THE DE LESSEPS

Sympathy for the Father, None for the Son.

STILL A FEELING OF UNEASINESS.

The Government Will Call for a Vote of Confidence To-morrow or Monday—The Greatest Excitement When the Sentences of the Directors Were Announced.

PARIS, Feb. 10.—The worst feature of the situation to-day is that the sentencing of the DeLesseps, Cottu, Eiffel and Fontane has failed to dispel the suspicious doubts of the people as to the honesty of the Government's intentions.

The contrast as between the treatment accorded M. Rouvier and that so which the directors have been subjected is the subject of much bitter criticism.

While the heavy sentences have vindicated the administration of justice they have failed to restore confidence in the political world. The immediate consequence of the trial is likely to be the cessation of investigation, while the panicky feeling will continue.

Last evening the houses of the convicted directors were thronged with sympathizing visitors and journalists. According to the French law, M. Eiffel and M. Cottu need not surrender themselves for several weeks.

The Government is expected to call for a vote of confidence on Saturday or Monday. The prevalent opinion is that the Ribot Cabinet will be permitted to remain in office until the budget shall have been voted.

The excitement caused by the announcement of the sentences in the Parliamentary lobbies, on the streets, and in the cafes surpassed anything of the kind since the opening of the Panama investigation.

The newspaper booths were besieged by crowds fighting for the successive special editions.

Newspapers sold like wildfire, and as fast as read were thrown to the pavement as the buyers hastened back to secure copies containing later news.

The complete absence of sympathy for Charles de Lesseps is especially noteworthy. The popular verdict seems to be that he has paid the penalty for withholding the names of Royalist Deputies who were implicated in the Panama bribery.

Expectation that the sentences of the prisoners in the Panama trial would be delivered brought eager crowds to the Court of Appeals building yesterday. The approaches to the court were filled to the last niche by noon and five minutes after the doors were thrown open the room was packed to suffocation.

Presiding Judge Perivier read the decision after having dismissed the prisoners' plea that they should benefit by the statute of limitations. Although the bases of the judgments were given in exceptionally minute detail, the audience listened from first to last with oppressive intensity of interest.

The charge of fraudulent proceeding against Ferdinand de Lesseps, Charles de Lesseps, Henry Cottu and Marius Fontane was held to be proved. On this point the judgment referred to the company's methods in issuing loans, the mendacious official bulletins, and the persistent puffing done by the press at the instance of the directors. These practices, the judgment says, when not directly originated or endorsed by the directors, had been connived at by them.

Ferdinand de Lesseps, aided and abetted by his son, Charles, M. Cottu, and M. Fontane, had persistently concealed the operations of the canal company, in order that the quotation of shares might not be affected unfavorably.

The plea of the defense that, despite these fraudulent acts, the directors were not amenable because the loan especially in question had not succeeded, the decision pronounced worthless, in view of the evidence that the directors had not scrupled to expose the capital of the company to the risks involved in the fresh issues, and even reiterated their promises to complete the canal with the proceeds of the loan.

In dealing with Gustave Eiffel's breach of trust, the decision said that M. Eiffel had received 120,000,000 francs for the construction of ten locks and had promised to complete them by 1890. The evidence had shown that he had not even purchased the specified materials necessary in the construction of these locks; in fact, he had bought in France all told but 1,228,000 francs worth of material. He had pretended furthermore to fulfil the obligations he had undertaken, while in reality he was really misappropriating the funds.

In conclusion Judge Perivier read these sentences:

Ferdinand de Lesseps, five years imprisonment and 3,000 francs fine.

Charles de Lesseps, five years and 3,000 francs fine.

Marius Fontane, two years and 3,000 francs fine.

Henry Cottu, two years and 3,000 francs fine.

Gustave Eiffel, two years and 20,000 francs fine.

Immediately after the reading of the sentences M. Eiffel left the court-room with his counsel, whom he has instructed to appeal to the High Court of Cassation.

Charles de Lesseps and Marius Fontane remained under arrest. Both looked haggard and disheartened as they departed with Henry Cottu for the office of the Public Prosecutor.

Failed to Capture Garza.

CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 10.—President Diaz has signed a commutation of the death sentence passed on Col. Nieves Hernandez to 15 years' imprisonment. The charge against Hernandez was that of treason, in having failed to capture Garza, the pursuit of which rebel he had been ordered to undertake.

IN SENATE AND HOUSE.

No Probability Now of Silver Legislation in the Present Congress.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—It was silver day in the House and the friends of silver were victorious in the fight. They were victorious by a majority of nine.

They sustained the demand for the previous question on the resolution setting apart yesterday and to-day for the consideration of the bill repealing the Sherman act.

Had not the previous question been ordered, a cloture amendment would have been sprung upon the House and the struggle would then have been continued.

But when it was ordered the advocates of the Repeal bill gracefully passed under the yoke and allowed the resolution to be recommitted without making any strong objection.

This action, in the opinion of members, sounds the death knell of any silver legislation in the present congress.

The remainder of the day was devoted to the consideration of the Legislative Appropriation bill, which was finally passed.

The whole of the session of the Senate, after the morning hour, was devoted to a discussion of the Railroad Automatic Car Coupler bill.

KILLED IN A SALOON.

A New Hampshire Man Shot by His Companion.

DOVER, N. H., Feb. 10.—Another cold blooded rum shop murder occurred last night at Somersworth, four miles from here and W. Adolphus Levi is under arrest charged with killing Hiram Philpot.

Frank Cole of this city, one of two men held as witnesses, says: "Frank Libbey, Hiram Philpot and myself went to Somersworth yesterday morning. Philpot wanted to buy the Sherman house, owned by W. A. Levi.

"At 6 o'clock all three of us went to the Sherman house. I ordered supper for the party and while the girl was cooking it, Philpot began talking to her. Levi told him to stop, whereupon Philpot went up to the bar, when Levi, reaching back, took up a 32-calibre revolver and fired once. Philpot never spoke. He lived just eight minutes."

Levi, when arrested, admitted having shot Philpot. It is understood that there has been bad feeling between them for over a year past.

THE QUEENSLAND DISASTER.

Flood Subsided—Danger from the Stench —Looting Going On.

BRISBANE, Feb. 10.—The flood has receded from most city districts, which are now covered with mud and slime. The stench is horrible, and unless the city be cleaned within a few days, will undoubtedly cause an epidemic.

The gunboat Paluma was left in shoal water by the sudden receding of the flood and now rests high and dry in the Botanical Garden on the bank of the river.

Special constables have been sworn in to prevent looting.

Great misery prevails in the poorer parts of the city, and the number of cases of theft and robbery have doubled within the last two days.

The total damage by the flood is estimated to approximate $15,000,000.

HE EXPOSED THE TWEED RING.

Louis John Jennings, a Former Editor of the New York Times, Dead.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The death is announced of Mr. Louis John Jennings, Conservative member of Parliament for Stockport.

Mr. Jennings, who was well known in the United States, was born in London in 1836. Between 1863 and 1868 he acted as special correspondent of the London Times in India and the United States.

He subsequently became connected with the New York Times, and, while acting as editor of that paper, was chiefly instrumental in exposing and overthrowing the Tweed Ring.

Did He Drown Himself?

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Elker Lesinger, 69 years old, formerly a well-to-do shirt manufacturer, left his home, 307 E. Third street, late Wednesday night. His wife has just found a note from Lesinger, in which he said that he would drown himself in the East river. A search resulted in finding part of his clothing on the Fifth street pier. Lesinger had been despondent for a long time, and often said that he wanted to die. His body has not been recovered.

Ice Yacht Race at Poughkeepsie.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 10.—The 20-mile race for the ice yacht challenge pennant of America, the challenge coming from the Orange Lake club, was sailed yesterday afternoon and the prize was won by Archibald Rogers' Jack Frost of the Hudson River club, in 49 minutes, 30½ seconds. The Orange Lake boat Shadow was beaten nearly a mile by the winner.

A Minister Becomes Suddenly Insane.

BUFFALO, Feb. 10.—Rev. Theodore Lyman, Unitarian clergyman at Cold Springs, suddenly became insane in a street car. He sprang to his feet, took off his hat, and began to preach to the passengers. A policeman was called, and Mr. Lyman was committed to jail for a few days, when, if he recovers sufficiently, his wife will take him home.

Ice Gorge in the Mohawk.

FONDA, N. Y., Feb. 10.—There is an ice gorge in the Mohawk river at Fonda. The ice is piled up to within two feet of the river bridge. The water is now high, and in places the flats are inundated. There is also a gorge in the river a mile below Fort Hunter. Serious trouble is apprehended.

FORTY-FOUR PAUPERS BURNED ALIVE

Awful Holacaust in a County Asylum Near Dover, N. H., Last Night.

ONLY FOUR OF THE INMATES GOT OUT UNHURT.

The Fire Discovered in a Call by the Watchman—He and the Keepers Break the Locks and Try to Arouse the Sleeping Occupants, Who Were So Frightened that They Impeded Their Own Escape—The Wooden Building Burned Like Tinder—List of the Dead.

DOVER, N. H., Feb. 10.—The County Insane Asylum, four miles from here, was burned last night and 44 lives were lost.

When Watchman William Cuevey made his 10 o'clock trip into the insane asylum he found the fire coming out of the cell occupied by A. Iafamitan, a woman, and gave the alarm.

William Driscoll, the keeper, with his family, lived in the building and he at once broke the locks of the 54 cells and tried to get the inmates out.

Then he got his wife and two children neither of whom were dressed.

Of the 48 inmates only four escaped.

They were William Twombly, Rose Sanderson, William Davey and Frank Donahon.

The latter walked two miles in the blinding snow storm with only his shirt on, to William Horne's house, where he was taken care of.

Those who were burned are:
Robert Dione, Salmon Falls, N. H.
Mary Fountain, Great Falls.
Frank Nutter, Rochester.
William Chesley, Durham.
Mrs. Roberts, Great Falls, and her 8-year-old child.
Lester Jones, Farmington.
William Twombly, Barrington.
Owen Mallep, Great Falls.
Michael Casey, Dover.
Frank Rowe, Great Falls.
Chas. Libby, Great Falls.
Frank Page, Rochester.
Wm. Files, Great Falls.
Frank Spriggins, Dover.
Harry Kimball, Dover.
Julia Keil, Dover.
Mrs. Mary Lewis, Salmon Falls.
Mrs. Mary McClintock, Dover.
Maggie White, Great Falls.
Ann Carr, Rollinsford.
Mary Maloney, Dover.
Mary Nutter, Rochester.
Lana Ellis, Rochester.
Mary Wilson, Lee.
Maria Twindale, Milton.
Caroline Bait, Dover.
Mrs. Ann Rothwell, Dover.
Lizzie Ellis, Great Falls.
Catharine Haley, Dover.
Elizabeth Hickey, Conic.
Mary Cogley, Dover.
Sarah Sweet, Rochester.
Sarah Hutchings, Dover.
Kate Dufee, Dover.
Sarah McClintock, Great Falls.
Fanny Slattery, Great Falls.
Ann McDermott, Dover.
Addie Otis, Great Falls.

Six others whose names cannot be remembered by the keeper and his books were burned in the building.

One woman escaped to the yard, but was burned to death there.

The building was of wood, 135 by 36 feet, two stories high, with a big yard on three sides. It was built 20 years ago, and had 50 cells. It cost $15,000.

The main building, in which were over 100 of the county poor, caught fire, but was saved by the heroic efforts of the inmates, who carried pails of water and extinguished the flames, although many were burned in so doing.

The Dover fire department was summoned, but owing to the distance, the blinding snowstorm, and the icy roads, it took 95 minutes for the department to get there, too late to be of service.

The smoking ruins show the charred bodies still lying on their beds.

How the building caught fire is a mystery.

New Jersey Ice Yacht Race.

RED BANK, N. J., Feb. 10.—The North Shrewsbury Ice Yacht club held three races yesterday afternoon for challenge pennants for first, second, and third class yachts. The wind blew a steady northwest gale, and good time was made. The Rocket won the first, and the Edna M. the second, both over 12 mile courses; and the Georgie won the third over a 20 mile course. Out of seven boats that started only two finished the race.

Women Storm the Legislature.

ST. PAUL, Feb. 10.—The State Assembly at this city witnessed a very exciting scene yesterday when Representative Horton's bill to prohibit pooling came up for a vote. Wives of many of the members came here and used their influence in favor of the bill. When the bill was finally lost, 30 to 45, some of the women hissed, and many cried. Many members absented themselves to avoid voting.

Minnesota in a Fierce Snow Storm.

ST. PAUL, Feb. 10.—Another fierce snow storm is raging through the State, and if it continues, will add to the almost crippling difficulties with which the railroads are now struggling. Every line in the State is working on a thoroughly demoralized time schedule, and many of the regular trains have been abandoned. The Northern Pacific has abandoned its mail trains to the West and other roads are in a similar condition.

New York Celebration of Pope's Jubilee.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—The golden episcopal jubilee of Pope Leo XIII. will be celebrated under the auspices of the Archbishop of New York on the evening of Monday, Feb. 20. Some of the numbers of the program will be compositions by Palestrina, which heretofore have been exclusively performed by the Papal choir in Rome.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey. To-Morrow, Fair and Colder; Westerly Winds.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Plainfield council, Royal Arcanum, will initiate five new members next Monday evening.

—The Crescents are to bowl against the Arthur Kulls in the Elizabeth Journal tournament this evening.

—The Westfield Leader says that W. B. Mattox of this city will do the booking for the Cranford opera-house.

—Butter and cheese are still way down in prices, at the store of the United Tea and Coffee Growers' association.

—At the request of the Plainfield team the Journal bowling game scheduled for to-morrow night between the C. Y. M. L. and E. F. C. has been postponed. It will be rolled probably about the first of March.

—Those desiring the celebrated Rochester and other beers will find them at Charles Smith's sample and lunch rooms, 4 West Front street. The only place where the Rochester is to be found on draught.

—The editor of our "fresher" contemporary filled the Recorder representative chock-full of Courier ideas of the public-school question, and then quoted those ideas back from the beguiled Recorder again as a tremendous argument for his side.

—The editor of the Courier has a new hen on. He wants the city to adopt St. Mary's parochial school. He advocated the plan in his home paper yesterday, and in his New York papers this morning would make people believe that the scheme is nearly consummated.

—To lighten household cares and add to housekeeping delights every housewife should consult each month the pages of Table Talk, the American authority on culinary and household topics. All newsdealers supply it, or the publishers at 1113 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, will fill subscriptions.

—There will be a special musical service at the Church of the Holy Cross next Sunday afternoon. This will be the last until after Easter. The choir will sing the Gloria from Gounod's "Messe Sollennelle". Master Seth Bingham, the promising contralto, will sing the solo, "He Was Despised", from the Messiah.

—All lovers of music will desire to be present at the Music Hall this evening. The occasion is a grand Wagner night, and it promises to be the greatest of all concerts ever heard in this city. It is to be given by Anton Seidl and his entire metropolitan orchestra, with Clifford Schmidt as concert master; Victor Herbert, violoncello; and John Cheshire, harp, assisted by Miss Emma Juch, prima donna soprano; Miss Amanda Fabris, Miss Helen Metz, Miss Flora M. Bertelle and Mme. Northrup, sopranos; Miss Lucy Osborne, mezzo-soprano; Miss Gertrude May Stein, Mme. Adele Baldwin, and Miss Marie Maurer, contraltos; E. C. Towne and William Stephens, tenors, and Emil Sanger, basso. The programme will include excerpts and scenes from "Lohengrin", "Tristan and Isolde", "The Meistersingers", "Parsifal" and "The Walkure".

PLAINFIELD PUSH DID IT.

It Remained for Mr. Runkle's Wealth and Energy to Accomplish a Great Result.

Harry G. Runkle of this city and his brother William are the chief capitalists in the new Havana water-works. For fifty-eight years the giant water-works scheme has been under way, but the work was hampered by lack of funds, and it remained for American capital and push to complete it and make the dream of the Havana inhabitants a successful reality. The water-works began operation Jan. 23, the occasion being one of general thanksgiving and rejoicing in the city. The day was a general holiday. The Runkle's and their wives were present at the grand celebration, and were given an ovation by the delighted populace. Harper's Weekly of Feb. 11 devotes much space to a fully illustrated description of the event. All praise is given to the Plainfield brains, energy and wealth that made the great water-works such a glorious success and has become such a blessing to the Havana people.

All Honor to the State's Leading Paper.

The publishers of the Newark Evening News are justified in their claim that "it leads them all". In a detailed statement sent out from the News office is given the exact number of papers printed and sold during the last year, and the recapitulation shows that the enterprising paper's average circulation at the present time is over 30,000 a day.

When one considers that 30,000 papers are not only printed but sold every day, the great influence which this publication wields in New Jersey cannot be accurately estimated. Newspaper-men compute that every paper printed has an average of five readers. According to this, 150,000 people follow the columns of the News each day. Every newspaper-man in New Jersey should be proud of the News's honorable success. It is both a professional and a business monument erected by New Jersey energy and brains.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 66 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-y

THE MELOPOIA'S SECOND.

Hollman Scores the Hit of the Season as an Instrumentalist.

The second private concert of the third season of the Melopoia was held last evening. The hall was tastefully decorated as usual and the electric lights (done up in papers so that they look like torpedoes which would go off if dropped) shed o'er all a roseate glow. The lion of the evening was Joseph Hollman, who is acceded to be the greatest violoncellist in the country. His first selections were an Aria by Bach and Papillon by Popper. As an encore he gave Chopin's second nocturne. Later in the evening he rendered Shumann's "Traumerei" exquisitely and gave in connection and in direct contrast with it, a mazurka of his own, which is a bright and taking composition. As encore to these he played a minuet of Paderewski, which composition was first introduced to this city by Miss Adele Austerohe long before the composer was known to this country as one of the greatest living pianists.

Mrs. Anna Mooney Burch, who has always given pleasure whenever she has sung here, was very well received. Her solo from Mignon received an encore, and the "Chanson d' Amour" with obligato by the composer received the just applause of Mr. Hollman as well as of the audience. It was accorded a recall and was repeated.

Graham Reed is a new star in the musical world. He possesses a baritone voice of considerable promise. His selections were "Dio Possente" from Faust and "For All Eternity" by Mascheroni. As encore to the latter he gave a selection from Robin Hood.

The work of the society was in some respects an improvement upon that of the last concert. The shading was much better. The opening selection of the programme, Easton Fanings's "Song of the Vikings" was sung with life and vigor. The leads and the climaxes were excellent. The audience was roused to enthusiasm which is saying a good deal as it was late before the concert began, and any ardor had had time to cool. "Sweet Evening Hour", by Samuel Reay, is a song in which the parts are beautifully worked up and blended. It was sung with taste and expression. Raff's "Morning Song" is a fine composition but the effect is nothing unless it is sung as it should be. The society did its best, but the song requires very artistic singing of which few of the members are capable.

Pinsuti's "There is Music by the River" is a little gem and was well sung. The poorest work of the chorus was its rendering of "The Owl" by Silas. In this song there is chance for some excellent effects and good hits, but the chorus seemed demoralized. It perhaps had not yet come down from the heights to which it had just been lifted by Mr. Hollman. At any rate, the attacks were poor and the climaxes as nothing. However, it was the last number and was short, so it did not detract from the character of the concert which was as enjoyable as any previous one of this society.

Mrs. Chapman was fortunately sufficiently recovered from his recent illness to conduct the chorus. It had been led for two rehearsals by Mr. Levy, the accompanist, who did some excellent work, but he, of course, did not understand the effects that Mr. Chapman had been working to bring out, as they had not gone over the music together.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

The Rev. Ellis E. Roberson of the Kingwood M. E. church will preach in Park Place chapel Sunday evening.

A paper reception was given by Mrs. John H. Carney yesterday afternoon and evening to a large number of friends, at her home on Craig place.

Mrs. Peter Herlich, of Dunellen, whose husband lately committed suicide, removed her furniture to Elizabeth Wednesday afternoon, where she has gone to take up her abode with her mother.

Richard Elliott is sinking at his home, corner of Eighth street and Clinton avenue. He was stricken with paralysis four days ago and his case has been pronounced hopeless. He is 73 years of age.

Bishop Wigger, of Seton Hall College, South Orange, has appointed the Rev. Francis J. Murphy to be assistant to Father Smyth at St. Mary's church, Plainfield, in place of Father Cushing, who was removed.

The Rev. Lincoln B. Goodrich, formerly acting principal of the Plainfield public schools and now of the graduating class of Yale Divinity school, will occupy his brother's pulpit in the Congregational church, next Sunday morning and evening.

A committee from Young America Hose Company No. 6, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., composed of Messrs. Wm. H. LaPaugh, John J. Masterson, John Gildersleeve and Raymond Haupt, visited our city this morning to inspect the hose wagons in use here by the Fire Department, with the view of purchasing a wagon for themselves. Chief Doane extended them the courtesies due and they departed highly pleased with what they saw of the Plainfield fire department.

A sad ending to a bit of romance is the death of Philopena, the young wife of George O. Strayer of 59 North avenue. Mrs. Strayer was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blimm of Somerset street. Her elopement with George Strayer was a surprise to her friends and family, but both of the young people were popular, and they were welcomed back to Plainfield not only by mutual acquaintances but by the family, who freely forgave the escapade. Mrs. Strayer was only 18 years old. She leaves an infant babe.

Persons afflicted with chilblains, so troublesome to many, will find a pleasant and permanent cure in Salvation Oil. 25c.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Osburn, 43 Warren avenue, Chicago, Ill.

JIM'S ICY BATH.

While Crazy With Rum, Scotty Beat His Wife and Jumped in the Brook.

Jim Scott woke up in a bunk in the police station this morning and said "Where am I at!" His life since the previous evening was all a blank. He had as many aches and pains as Rip Van-Winkle recovering from his long sleep. There were cuts on his arm, his elbow was skinned, his side was scraped and scratched, and his eyes were swollen with bruises.

When judge Coddington took his seat at the bench, Scott's wife and Brer Thompson were on hand—the woman to tell all about Jim's racket, and the man to argue for letting Scott down easy.

Mrs. Scott said that last evening she was about to leave the house for the Fisk jubilee entertainment when Jim called her back and slapped her face. Then he chased her about flourishing a flat iron and threatening to assassinate her and kill himself. She fled for her life, and he went into Brer Brown's house, kissed the Brown children an affectionate good-bye, and ran and jumped into the Green brook raceway. The water was frozen over quite thickly, but Jim was heavy and crashed through. Brer Nelson yanked him out, and stood him up in the kitchen to drain. Then a policeman who had been sent for escorted Jim, who by this time was quite subdued, to the station house.

"He had too much soja-water"—chuckled Brer Thompson.

Jim's swollen eyes grew bigger yet with astonishment as he heard all this.

"I'se 'sprised, judge"—he said.—"'Deed I is. Me jump in the brook! I'se 'stonished. Me, that's subject to pneumonia, an' don't like cold water nohow! 'Specially in Febawary! Golly, I'se sore, an' I'se sorry. Me strike that little woman! I would n't do it nohow."

"Did he hit you hard, Mrs. Scott?"—queried the judge.

"Hard enough to be arrested"—emphatically responded the woman.—"I say a man's got no cause to lay his hand up against a woman's head. A man's a man, and he's got no right to 'buse a poor, weak, frail woman who's working hard all day."

All agreed that Jim had had too much cheap rum, else he would n't have misbehaved.

"A very little goes to your head, Jim"—said Sergeant Lynch.

"I 've told you to let the old stuff alone"—urged Jim's wife.

"Rum makes him crazy"—said Brer Thompson.—"When he 's himself there hain't no happier nor contenteded people in town than Jim and Liz. They liv together jest like little chillens, as peaceful and happy as a 'possum in a sweet-corn patch."

The officers gave Jim a fairly good record. He had n't been arrested since Harrison's election, when he had celebrated too gleefully.

The judge gave him some sound advice and fined him $3. Jim thanked him for his leniency.

GENTS

There seems to be some trouble going on through your paper as to who leads Dunellen's Elit society wheather it is the Editor of the call or a Plainfield carpenter. I would like to say that the Dunellen society has never been lead by anyone as the society here is of the metal that does not need be lead and on the other hand there is no need of a leader as the young folks of this place have organized a social club same as we have in seasons past and we haye a social time at different members houses and the member who kindly consents to let us have there house is the one who ought to be spoken of as leader in stead of some one who is not a resident of Dunellen and has no more to do with it than any one else DUNELLENITE.

The association will meet again next Thursday evening.

THE SUIT AGAINST THE MILESES.

Progress in the Trial Over the Boroughites' Property.

William S. Hurley's action to regain from his uncles, William and Jacob Miles, of North Plainfield, a large estate which he claims his mother, sisters, and himself were deprived of out of the estate of his father, Samuel Hurley, who died about thirty years ago, was continued yesterday before Judge Barrett in the New York Supreme Court.

Alexander Rumrill, a lawyer about eighty-seven years of age, who it was stated by William Miles was the owner of the property No. 250 Monroe street, which formerly belonged to the estate of Mr. Hurley, sr., was called as a witness by the son. His memory was poor, and his recollection of past events seemed to be very vague. He, however, declared that the property in question, which William Miles had told his nephew — the plaintiff — had been sold to him, was never his property and did not belong to him. He asserted that he had never collected the rents of this property, and had never paid the taxes, and was not aware that the property was ever in his name. It was his recollection that he never knew the elder Mr. Hurley and that he did not know the uncles. There was one thing which the aged lawyer did recollect, and that was that some ten years ago he was spoken to by a Miss Gilliman about this property, but what the conversation was he could not definitely state. When asked, however, if she was not now in an insane asylum he said that he did not know, but that she ought to be.

If Mr. Hurley is successful in this suit and in another which he has brought against William Miles, formerly his father's partner, he will probably recover nearly $500,000.

A large part of the day was occupied in putting in documentary evidence. Frank H. Heron testified that he had served the papers of the suit on Jacob Miles. Alexander Rumrill denied that he had ever owned the property No. 250 Monroe street. William Miles, it is charged, represented that he had sold the property to Rumrill, and a deed of conveyance to him was put in evidence. Rumrill said that he did not know William Miles, and was not a party to the transaction. Lewis H. Muller, a clerk in the Register's office, testified that Jacob Miles had filed no accounting of Samuel Hurley's estate. D. T. Brewster identified an entry in the books of B. S. Fitch, a Pennsylvania lawyer, showing that Fitch had received $250 for services from the Hurley estate. The plaintiff alleges that this lawyer's fees were entered in the accounting at $1,500.

Mrs. Catherine A. Hurley testified that she had received only $4,000 from her husband's interest in the firm of Hurley & Miles. The business, it is asserted, was worth several hundred thousand dollars.

TO CONNECT WITH PLAINFIELD.

Direct Steam Route to New Brunswick, and a General Electric System.

Surveyors for the Lehigh Valley railroad have been surveying for a line from South Plainfield to New Brunswick. The survey is being made over the same line as mapped out by the Port Reading railroad about a year ago, which project for some reason not apparent has been given up. It is understood that the Lehigh Valley railroad intends building a line to New Brunswick all the way from Plainfield, thus having a competing road with the Pennsylvania between New York and New Brunswick, using the Central's tracks between New York and Plainfield. It is said that New Brunswick capitalists are interested in the scheme, and that sufficient money to well start the extension has been subscribed.

At a meeting of the Board of Aldermen of New Brunswick, Monday night, an ordinance giving a charter to the City Railway company to operate an electric road in New Brunswick came up for the first reading. The measure provoked much discussion, but no action was taken, and the ordinance was passed over to the next meeting of the Board. There is a very general public sentiment in New Brunswick in favor of the measure. The proposed electric road will make a belt line around the city, and will connect with the station of the Raritan River railroad on Commercial avenue, and then run across town to French street.

The prospect for a series of electric roads in Middlesex county seems very promising. The road from Somerville and Raritan to Bound Brook and Plainfield is an assured improvement. When the road to Bound Brook is completed it is expected that the New Brunswick railroad people will extend their line to that place, thus making a circuit of Somerville, Bound Brook, Plainfield and New Brunswick. Right of way for many miles of the road has been already secured, it is understood.

Atlantic City Express.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company announces that their New York and Atlantic City express, composed of Pullman, buffet, parlor cars and day coaches, will be placed in service beginning the 10th inst., leaving New York week-days at 1:50 p. m. and arriving at Atlantic City at 5:35 p. m., returning leave Atlantic City at 8:55 a. m. and arrive at New York at 12:40 p. m., stopping at Elizabeth in both directions to take on and let off passengers to and from Atlantic City.

SENATOR WINTON'S UNBECOMING PURPOSE.

Senators Marsh and Keys, However, Set Him an Example of Impartiality.

A source of great satisfaction to us—as it must be to all fair-minded and right-thinking people—is the fact that the effort of Senator Winton to prevent the confirmation of Leon Abbett's appointment to the bench of the Supreme Court of New Jersey, will be as futile as it is unjustifiable.

No one will question the ex-Governor's fitness, and no one can deny that he will honor the place, therefore none should gainsay the propriety and equity of the appointment. The battle is over for the United States senatorship and Mr. Abbett is defeated. The political rancor of certain leaders against him has been satisfied; unworthy personal spite should be entombed.

How much more admirable is the stand taken by Senator Marsh of this county and Senator Keys, the representative of North Plainfield. They are for the confirmation of the ex-Governor to the highest office the present Governor has in his gift. Should either senator desire renomination, they will find that in the eyes of the people their attitude in the matter above referred to, will not be the least of their recommendations.

Senator Winton does not seem to know that those men whose spleen and malevolence are all that is now satisfied with the stand he takes against the ex-governor, are men who last session were for "turning Winton down" whenever a chance arose and were always against any bill in which he had a personal interest.

RECTOR JENNINGS TO GO.

A Vestryman Says the Westfield Pulpit Will Be Vacated Feb. 15.

(From the New York World.)

It is now reported on good authority that Rector J. B. Jennings, of the Episcopal church of Westfield, who was recently accused by his parishioners of lying and drunkenness, and was exonerated by an ecclesiastical commission appointed to review the evidence, has received a communication from Bishop Scarborough, removing him from his office on Feb. 15.

When Mr. Jennings was interviewed on the subject he refused either to deny or confirm the rumor, or for that matter to speak of his case in any way.

A member of the vestry, however, confirmed the report, adding that he understood influence had been brought to bear upon the Bishop to secure this result, as he was really in sympathy with the rector, and had set his approval upon the recent finding of the commission, if not in so many words, at least in his actions and attitude towards those involved. The Bishop was at the funeral of the late Rev. William Earle when Mr. Jennings refused to allow the coffin to be opened, and also prevented the choir from singing, although this feature was to have been an important part of the service, and the singers had been engaged for the occasion by the family. The Bishop remained an impassive spectator of the proceedings.

It is alleged that Bishop Scarborough gives as his reason for not having interfered in the scandal before that the vestry had requested him to appoint Mr. Jennings rector of Grace church, having gone in a body to Cranford to listen to his preaching and not having taken the trouble to make inquiries as to his former pastorates or manner of living.

One of the vestrymen said: "It is true we heard Mr. Jennings's preaching in Cranford and liked him, and also requested the Bishop to appoint him to Westfield. We did not think it necessary to require a minister of the gospel to furnish us with a string of recommendations from former parishes and acquaintances. It was the place of the Bishop, if he knew of Mr. Jenninge's character, and it is presumed he did, to have notified the vestry before making the appointment, and thus allowed us to make inquiries along lines we naturally omitted to look into."

The vestrymen say they will pay Mr. Jenning's salary in full to date. Mr. Jennings, it is said, will appeal to the General Committee of the diocese.

REMOVAL OF RECTOR JENNINGS.

The Vestrymen Will Not Pay His Salary After Feb. 15.

The report in yesterday's PRESS that Rector Jennings of Grace church, Westfield, has received a letter from Bishop Scarborough removing him from the parish Feb. 15, has been confirmed.

The letter has been seen, it is said, by two of the vestrymen. They are well pleased with the Bishop's decision, and say they will pay Jennings's salary until the date fixed, and if he then insists upon remaining will decline to pay more. It is believed Jennings will appeal to the general committee of the diocese.

A Plainfielder's Indorsement.

I wish to most heartily recommend to the theater-goers of Plainfield, James T. Powers and company in the big farce-comedy success "A Mad Bargain", announced to appear at the Stillman Music Hall on Tuesday evening next, Feb. 14.

Mr. Powers is one of the most popular and clever of America's comedians, and his new vehicle of fun is one of the brightest, wittiest and most laughable performances of the season.

He moreover has the advantage of an unusually strong supporting company in addition to the special scenery carried, illustrating the ludicrous side of life in a New York flat.

That Mr. Powers is under the management of my business associates in "Tuxedo", Messrs. Rich & Harris, is of itself a guarantee of excellence.

I therefore again cordially recommend him to the amusement-loving portion of my friends and neighbors.

TROUBLE OVER THE LINE.

The Only Reason for the Proposed Law Is to Benefit a Country Road.

(Elizabeth Journal.)

In Senator Adrain's political organ, the New Brunswick Times, appeared the following, Monday, with reference to the bill to straighten the lines between the counties of Union and Middlesex:

"Senate bill No. 57, introduced by Senator Marsh, of Union, is a measure that has gone just as far as it should be allowed to go. The bill provides for the straightening of certain county lines in Union and Middlesex counties by making parts of Woodbridge and Raritan townships, Middlesex county, a part of Clark township, Union county. In plain terms Union county finds it advantageous to steal, if possible, several hundred acres of land with their improvements and valuable citizens from Middlesex county. The interests of Middlesex county are not to be considered. This barefaced steal must by no means be permitted. One county must not be permitted for its own selfish interests to steal the territory, improvements and citizens of another, and we call upon the representatives of Middlesex county in the Senate and House to see to it that this nefarious attempt at theft shall be nipped in the bud. It is an outrage against which the people of Middlesex cry out as with one voice."

This is pretty harsh language, much more so than is called for.

But the Times is not the only Democratic paper which is scoring Senator Marsh for this bill. The Woodbridge Hour grows sarcastic and facetious over the bill and says:

It provides for taking off portions of Woodbridge and Raritan townships, and annexing the territory to Clark township, Union county. Our Senator and members will have the bill promptly killed. The blonde statesman from Union must n't be so naughty.

The Journal has had, in times past, a suspicion that there might be a little poiical sharp practice in the bill in question, and that if enacted it might change the political complexion of Clark township. But further inquiry leads to the conclusion that there is no politics in it whatever. Senator Marsh openly declares that there is not, and says that he believes it will add not more than seven or eight votes to Clark township, and that these votes are very nearly divided as to politics.

The bill was introduced last year by Senator Marsh, at the request of prominent citizens of Rahway and Clark township, Republicans and Democrats, favoring the bill. In fact, the Senator says the bill was drawn by one of the leading Republicans of Union county, and its enactment is urged by him. Its object is simply to straighten the county line so as to throw into Union county the road leading from Rahway to Plainfield, with a view to ultimately make it a county road and improve it as other roads have been improved to the great advantage of the county and to the appreciation of all the property in the county. The present county line runs through a cemetery, in one place, and makes a bad division of lands and road districts, and the bill is declared to be simply and solely for the purpose just stated.

The only objections to it are urged by the Middlesex Democratic papers, and these seem to be directing their arguments against Senator Marsh rather than presenting good reasons why the bill should not become a law.

DID YOU EVER RIDE BEHIND AN OX TEAM?

Rather Slow, Ain't It.

There is just the same difference between our way of doing business and the way others do it, as there if between a Blue Line Flyer and an ox team.

Wouldn't you rather do business and buy your goods of a concern that believes in moving things on the fast line principle? Buy goods to-day and sell them to-morrow on a close, quick profit—or on the ox team principle, buy to-day and sell next year or never, because they want big profits.

We believe in close, quick profit, hence our great success.

WORTH MILLIONS.

A Valuable Idea and Who Got the Cash.

Howard Fielding Tells a Story Which Is Pointed at People Who Would Like to Go to Work for Themselves —A Needed Lesson.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

This story is addressed to that man (if any such there be) who would like to quit working for somebody else and begin to make a little money for himself, by way of variety. I do not mean to insinuate that he cares more for his interests than for those of his employer, for that were treason, but only that his poor, weak human heart will sometimes long for a change, especially on those days when he is docked for getting to the shop five minutes late by a clock that is ten minutes fast and then asked to work four hours overtime without extra pay.

It is not my story; oh, dear, no. It is the story of an unsuccessful man who cannot pay his rent promptly by check on the first of the month; who has to get along with the aid of all the modern conveniences; who buys furniture and pie and Chinese laundry tickets on the installment plan. He opened his heart to me with these words:

"I was born poor and honest, but have succeeded in eliminating one of these microbes from my system, and I understand that people do not have it twice. Poverty, however, is like malaria. You may have it as many times as you want to. I am slow to make up my mind, but one day I decided that I would like to be rich. I did not ask to be too confounded rich, you know, but to have just so much that my friends would attribute it to treason and piracy, and enemies to 'bull luck' and stupidity.

"Just about that time an idea came to me. I was at dinner in a place where the bill of fare cries beans, beans, and the customer is never satisfied. I had ordered coffee, and was about to partake of something which looked like a piece of the Missouri river on the breaking up of a hard winter. Then the inspiration hit me. I do not know whether it came out of the coffee, but the stuff looked as if it might contain almost anything. I paused with the cup half way between a cracked saucer and a broken spirit, and gazed at that idea for about fifteen minutes.

"It was the mental picture of an article the like of which could be sold to forty thousand people in New York city alone, in a single year, for three times the cost of manufacture. I set down the cup, and drew from my pocket a number of envelopes containing bills. On the venerable back of the oldest of these I figured my income as it would be a year from that day, when the idea should be fairly in operation. I went over the process several times, because I did not wish to lose a dollar by careless arithmetic. The sight of the great and glorious total filled my heart so full of joy and peace that when, an hour later, the bouncer threw me out of the place, in the avowed belief that I was blind drunk, I gave him a quarter for his courtesy, and readily promised not to come back any more."

"What was it, Johnny," said I, "a patent lightning rod?"

"No," he replied, "nor it wasn't something which will be indispensable to every traveling man when we all learn to fly. It was good stuff, and forty thousand were sold right here. But wait till I tell you about it. I needed capital to begin with. My own savings wouldn't start the business, and my credit wouldn't start water down hill. The sum required was not large. In addition to what I had, about one thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine dollars and fifty cents, making two thousand in all, would do at a pinch. It looked easy to raise that amount. Although you would never suspect it, I have a considerable acquaintance among really wealthy men. There's old Israel Hopkins. I once did him a considerable service in a political way. It was when he lived in Rutland, Vt., and he told me I could have anything I wanted when the democrats carried the state. I went to see him at his office in this city. He said that he was entirely at leisure for ten minutes, at the end of which time he would have to catch a train. He looked at his watch seven hundred and twenty-nine times in the course of that ten minutes. I explained the whole matter to him as well as I could under these disquieting conditions. Suddenly he jumped up and jammed his hat down upon his head.

"'Your idea's a rattling good one, my boy,' said he. 'What you want to do is to advertise for a partner. There are plenty of suckers to be caught that way. When you get him sock it to him; skin him; take his pelt. That's the way to do business. You make money whether the other fellow does or not. Put an ad. in all the papers tomorrow. I wish you success. Good-by, my boy; good-by.'

"Well, old man, I won't weary you by these stories. It's the same in every case where one wants to borrow. I'll tell you at once how I got the money. I went to Simon R. Payne. He couldn't refuse me. By the high hump of the Sacred Gnu, I was in a state of mind to have it out of him by blackmail, if it wouldn't come any other way. Perhaps Simon read it in my glittering eye, for he said at once: 'Johnny, I'm going to do the square thing by you.' Then I knew he was going to cheat me. When a man opens the conversation that way, you may feel sure that he intends to put a mortgage on your vital organs, and foreclose it in fifteen minutes. I wanted to say: 'Mr. Payne, before you do what you call the square thing by me, I should like a few hours in which to settle up my earthly affairs.' But without wasting for me to reply he continued: 'I'm going to let you have this money without any security, and all I ask is one-half the net profits after my money and odd interest, which must be within one year.'"

"Well, that wasn't very bad, Johnny," said I.

"That's what you think," said he, "and I suppose half the business men in the city would agree with you. That's the trouble with the whole industrial system; robbery is so common that it looks right. Now here was a business in which the idea was everything. If it succeeded at all, old Payne would simply sit in his chair and draw three or four hundred per cent. on money which he should have loaned freely, as a matter of friendship or gratitude, at the least. But here he was offering to take half of the profits for putting in the capital which, by the conditions of his offer, was to be returned to him before I got anything. And I was to do all the work."

"So you declined his offer?" said I.

"Not by a jugful," said Johnny. "I jumped at it. If he had shown the least sign of getting away, I would have followed him one thousand feet straight up into the air, rather than lose him. I closed with him. Then he said: 'You won't have to show any money. Just tell the people who take your order for these things that I'm back of you, and it will be all right.' It was all right. I went to my manufacturer. He agreed to make the things at the price which looked reasonable to me. He guaranteed everything. He promised that I should have the first thousand any time —day before yesterday, if I insisted upon it. Then I went to make arrangements to have the stuff put on the market. I went to several of the large retailers of goods in that line. They all said that they didn't handle anything unless it came from the regular wholesale houses. They intimated that their souls were not their own, but were obtained from their regular wholesale houses on very hard terms. They advised me to go to the regular wholesale houses and prostrate myself on their thresholds.

"I went and prostrated myself. 'You should sell this thing for five dollars,' said the first wholesaler. 'It will cost one dollar and twenty-five cents to make. We will act as your distributing agent if you will pay the cost of manufacture and distribution, and guarantee us seventy per cent. of the difference between cost and selling price.' I took that proposition home and had the nightmare with it. Then I went to another wholesaler, and got substantially the same reply, after which I went home and had substantially the same nightmare. There were only three men on the list, so the retailers said, and I visited the third next day. Then I went to the first and accepted his terms.

"The business was now fairly under way. I was devoting my whole time to it without salary, and was supporting myself in some mysterious way which I have never since been able to remember. But I know that it left me three hundred dollars in debt. When the first thousand were ready—about a month after the time agreed upon—I went to see the first wholesaler. He said: 'Jones (the second wholesaler) is putting the same thing on the market. You must stop him. I look to you to protect your patent.' I did some fine detective work, and found out that R. C. Billings, one of the men I had applied to for money to start the business, had started it himself. I also found that C. J. Mills, another who had refused me, had started the manufacture, and proposed to make his sale through the third wholesaler.

"Old Payne said that I must have a lawyer. I got one. He secured an injunction restraining Billings from turning out the goods, and then Mills got one restraining us. These legal struggles occupied a year, at the end of which time Payne sued me for two thousand dollars. I had never seen his two thousand dollars, but he produced a copy of our agreement, which was, in effect, a receipt for me. Then all the people who had trusted me on Payne's account sued me for the money. At this juncture Billings and Mills combined and won their suit against me. Then they put their goods on the market and they sold like gold bars. My dreams were more than realized—by others. They are rich men to-day, while I am wearing a winter overcoat which would look shabby if the statue of Horace Greeley wore it over his bronze, ready-made pantaloons."

BENJAMIN F. BUTLER.

One of the Most Unique Characters in History.

His Career as a Lawyer, Statesman and Soldier—A Picturesque Individual with Great Virtues and Some Vices.

The late Benjamin Franklin Butler first saw the light of day in Deerfield, N. H., November 5, 1818. His father was Capt. John Butler, who served in the war of the revolution. Benjamin was graduated at Waterville college, Maine, was admitted to the bar in 1840, began practice at Lowell, Mass., and soon made a high reputation as a lawyer, especially in criminal cases. He also won prominence in politics at an early day, being elected to the Massachusetts house as a democrat in 1853 and to the state senate in 1859.

The following year he was a delegate to the democratic national convention at Baltimore, but withdrew with a majority of the Massachusetts delegates, with the announcement: "I would not sit in a convention where the African slave trade, which is piracy by the laws of my country, is approvingly advocated." In the same year he was defeated as the democratic candidate for governor of Massachusetts.

When President Lincoln issued the first call for troops to suppress the southern rebellion, Butler was a brigadier general of the Massachusetts militia. On the 17th of April he marched with the Eighth Massachusetts regiment to Annapolis, and was placed in command of the district of Annapolis, which included the city of Baltimore. He entered that city on the 13th of May, 1861, at the head of nine hundred men and occupied the city, placing it under martial law. He was made a major general during the same month and assigned to the command of Fortress Monroe. Here he issued his famous proclamation declaring slaves contraband of war, and for many years afterward the negroes were universally referred to as "contrabands," "the intelligent contraband" occupying a large space in the war literature of the period. In August he commanded the force that captured Forts Hatteras and Clark, in North Carolina. His attempt to dig the Dutch Gap canal cost many thousands of lives.

About this time he became involved in a controversy with Admiral Porter.

BENJAMIN F. BUTLER.

and for the good of the service the two officers were separated, Gen. Butler being assigned to command at New Orleans. It was during this controversy that the general referred to the admiral as "Bottled Porter," a soubriquet that clung to the naval commander for many years. Before his assignment to New Orleans Gen. Butler had recruited an expedition for service on the lower Mississippi. In March, 1862, the expedition reached Ship island and marched up the river to New Orleans and cooperated in the attack made upon the city by Admiral Farragut.

On taking possession of the city Gen. Butler assumed despotic powers, forbade the promenading of women on the streets after nightfall, and inaugurated sanitary reforms that ultimately proved of inestimable value in guarding against epidemics of yellow fever. He armed the negroes of the city and levied forced contributions for the support of the poor and for the improvement of the city. He ordered the execution of William Mumford for tearing the American flag from the mint. He was cordially hated by the southern people, and in December, 1862, Jefferson Davis issued a proclamation declaring him an outlaw. He also seized eight hundred thousand dollars in treasure that had been deposited at the Dutch consulate, insisting that it was intended for the purchase of arms for the confederates.

December 16, 1862, Gen. Butler was recalled from New Orleans. At the time he declared that this was prompted by Louis Napoleon, who contemplated an invasion of Mexico, to which Butler was hostile. In 1863 he commanded the army of the James, including the departments of Virginia and North Carolina. He was subsequently sent to New York, where trouble was feared at the elections, but his stay there was short, owing to the protests of leading citizens and officials. Returning to North Carolina he made a futile attack upon Fort Fisher, near Wilmington. This ended his military career. He was removed by Gen. Grant and returned to his home in Massachusetts.

Gen. Butler was one of the most active of the managers appointed by the house in 1868 to conduct the impeachment proceedings against President Johnson, he at that time having been elected to congress as a republican. He was elected governor of Massachusetts in 1882 by the democrats, after having been several times previously defeated as a candidate for the same office. His administration was signalized by the Tewksbury almshouse inquiry, in which he appeared as the prosecutor. His charges were not sustained by the legislative investigating committee. He was renominated in 1883 for governor, but was defeated. In 1884 he was the candidate of the greenback and antimonopoly parties for the presidency and received 133,825 votes. Since that time he devoted his energies to the practice of his profession, appearing in many notable cases before the United States supreme court, among them being that of the Chicago anarchists who were hanged.

A Sad Affair.

Teacher—What makes you look so sad?

Boy—A teamster called a man a bad name.

"Mercy! I don't wonder you were shocked."

"Yes'm; an' the man was a good deal bigger than the teamster an' cud a-knocked him skyhigh; but the man was deaf an' didn't hear, an' there wasn't any fun after all."—Good News.

An Open Letter to Women.

Laurel Ave., San Francisco, May 18, 1892.

"Dear friend of women:

"When my baby was born five years ago, I got up in six days. Far too soon. Result: falling of the womb. Ever since I've been miserable.

"I tried everything: doctors, medicines, apparatus; but grew worse.

"I could hardly stand; and walking without support was impossible.

"At last I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and decided to try it. The effect was astonishing. Since I took the first bottle my womb has not troubled me, and, thanks only to you, I am now well. Every suffering woman should know how reliable your compound is. It is a sure cure."—*Mrs. A. RIVERS RISING RAPIDLY

Reports of Danger and Damage from Many Points.

PART OF TRENTON UNDER WATER.

Fears of the Lowland Inhabitants Near Clearfield, Pa.—The Ohio Fast Creeping Up to the Danger Line—Bridges Swept Away and Railroad Traffic Impeded.

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Feb. 11.—The residents of the lowlands along the west branch valley between Curwensville and Clearfield are threatened with destruction. At the former place is located the large saw mill of the Curwensville Lumber company, and they control almost all of the timber on the headwaters of West Branch and all that on Anderson Creek, which joins the river at the mill.

In order to hold the logs that are cut during the cutting season a large boom is located at the mill and extends two miles up the river.

At present there are over 5,000,000 feet of logs in this boom, and on top of these logs is gorged at least 15 feet of ice.

The ice gorge extends a distance of six miles and the water is overflowing the banks all along the river for a distance of ten miles and this morning is above the ten foot flood mark, as all the ice from Curwensville down has left the course and if a break occurs the whole gorge may come upon the inhabitants at any minute.

There never was more snow in the woods than at present, and when the weather gets warmer, the river rises fast. Last Monday the river was up to the highest point known in its history at the head of the Curwensville boom, but a fortunate cold snap followed and the water went down.

If the Curwensville dam breaks nothing can prevent great loss of property, both public and private.

Eight iron bridges belonging to the city span the stream below the dam, and the valley is so narrow that the water has no chance to spread and will thus inundate and destroy most of the private property along the banks.

FLOOD IN TRENTON.

Ice Jam at Perriwig Causes Part of the City to be Submerged.

TRENTON, Feb. 11.—The ice which has closed the Delaware river for six weeks broke at Lambertville, 16 miles above here, yesterday afternoon, and at once started on a rush down stream.

Opposite Trenton the ice cut a channel and passed out smoothly, but at Perriwig bar, two miles below the city, the sailing ice formed a jam, and the back water resulting therefrom flooded portions of this city.

There is every indication of a flood severer than that of 1862, when several parts of the city were submerged, and much damage was done.

Fair street, which is on the river front in South Trenton, is under water, and people are paddling about the street in boats.

The flood has been anticipated for weeks, and such preparations have been made for its occurrence that the damage to property will be kept down.

The worst catastrophe that has overtaken the city within recent years occurred last night when the water invaded the pumping station of the waterworks, put out the fires and stopped all work. There is but a limited supply in the reservoirs and unless the water recedes soon the city will be greatly in need of a water supply.

A large water wheel was erected to provide for emergencies, but this is useless now, as the high water prevents its use. The authorities have sent out a general alarm asking the people to make a sparing use of water, as the supply is so limited.

The Raritan Over Its Banks.

The ice in the Millstone river broke yesterday and was carried into the Raritan river. This, with the heavy floods, caused the ice gorge at the landing bridge above New Brunswick to give way.

The immense quantities of ice then rushed toward New Brunswick and tore away the woodwork beneath the Albany street bridge, throwing the draw off its pivot.

There were 50 people on the draw at the time, but none was injured.

The river has already risen four feet, and the docks are inundated.

THE OHIO RISING RAPIDLY.

Fears that the River Will Soon be Above the Danger Line.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 11.—The river is rapidly rising at all points above Cincinnati, and a flood seems certain.

The snow and continued rain have caused the waters to climb up the banks in a remarkably short space of time, so that now the prediction is made by river prophets that the Ohio will swell beyond the danger line.

The river is rising at the rate of four inches an hour, and the condition of affairs above the city indicates that the rise will be continuous.

The danger line is placed at 52 feet, although at 50 feet much damage is usually sustained.

The water is now 44 feet high at this city.

Two piers of the railroad bridge at New Comerstown have been washed away, and the bridge is left clinging to one of the remaining abutments.

On the main line of the Fort Wayne the tracks are inundated at several points and the branches are badly knocked out by the high water.

The Erie, Youngstown, & Ashtabula is submerged by four feet of water at Warren, Ohio, and at Nashville, Ohio, on the same road, twenty-two inches of water cover the tracks, with the river still rising.

Consternation Along the Mohawk.

TRIBES HILL, N. Y., Feb. 11.—The Mohawk river and the Schoharie creek are swollen from bank to bank at Fort Hunter and in places have overflowed the surrounding country. Consternation prevails among those living on low lands and many families have moved to higher grounds. The ice is within a few feet of the suspension bridge at Fort Hunter and the river is still rising. The gorge is expected to give way at any moment.

LILIUOKALINA WILL NOT SELL.

The Envoys Merely Authorized to Present Her Case at Washington.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—Paul Neumann denies the published statement that ex-Queen Liliuokalina will relinquish all claim on the abrogated monarchy of Hawaii for a valuable consideration from the United States.

Mr. Neumann says that he merely comes to the United States with full power to act for the ex-Queen in presenting her case at Washington and nothing more.

Mr. Neumann accompanied by Prince David, leaves for Washington this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

E. C. McFarlane, ex-Cabinet Minister of Hawaii, who arrived on the steamer Australia, says in an interview:

"Unquestionably the people of Hawaii would prefer annexation to this Provisional Government. That is the overwhelming sentiment there. I am in hopes, however, that the question will be adjusted speedily and amicably, as we want a stable government as soon as possible.

"At first a majority of the people thought annexation was the most desirable way to settle the revolution, but should annexation do away with, or even partially do away with the contract labor, the result would be practically death to the sugar industry and several other important industries of the Islands.

"The native Hawaiians are now a unit in favor of the Americans as against any other nationality, though the sentiment was overwhelmingly English less than eight years ago."

AFTER THE ECONOMITES.

The State of Pennsylvania to Bring Suit Against the Society.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 11.—The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has entered the legal battle for the possession of the immense wealth of the Economite Society. The matter is now in the hands of State's Attorney-General Hensel, and is being prosecuted by the ablest legal talent of the Allegheny and Beaver county bars.

The proceedings will be instituted at once, and will be far-reaching in their results.

If successful, the suit will involve the absolute surrender of all the property of the Economite Society, and its confiscation by the State. It will be a proceeding in escheat, based on established precedent of eminent legal authority, and an act of Assembly forbidding the conduct of societies whose principles are at variance with public custom and against the spirit of the Constitution.

The archives have been searched, and it is claimed sufficient authority has been obtained to compel the celibate community and turn its goods and chattels into the State Treasury. The Act of Assembly, making it unlawful for churches and religious sects to hold property in excess of a specified amount will also be brought into the case and used as one of the strong points on the plaintiffs side of the case.

The proceedings have no connection with the suit filed in the Beaver county courts by the Fechts and other Economites, asking for a receiver to wind up the affairs of the organization. On the contrary the two battles will be fought on different lines, the issues being contrary, as the success of the State's case would necessarily mean the failure of the prosecution on behalf of the malcontents of the society.

BIG STREET RAILROAD DEAL.

A Syndicate Obtains Control of 140 Miles of Single Track in Jersey.

JERSEY CITY, Feb. 11.—The largest deal in street railroads ever made in the United States was completed yesterday, whereby a syndicate of New York and Philadelphia capitalists, represented by J. D. Crimmins, acquired control of 140 single-track miles of New Jersey suburban street railroads.

The several millions of dollars which changed hands is not the important feature of the deal, for it includes a plan to connect Newark, Elizabeth, Bloomfield, Montclair, and the Oranges with a system of electric roads which will all run to one or more ferry landings on the North river.

The deal includes the transfer of the lines of the Jersey City & Bergen Railroad company in Hudson county, which have been leased by the Pennsylvania Railroad company, and the lines leased by the New Jersey Traction company.

Illinois State Treasurers to be Prosecuted.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 11.—Acting Governor Gill again startled the politicians of the State Capital last evening by ordering the prosecution of all the State Treasurers and Auditors since the adoption of the Constitution of 1870 for irregularities in office in pocketing the interest on the public funds and misappropriating insurance fees and other perquisites, which should have been turned into the State Treasury.

THE MARSEILLES EPIDEMIC.

Disease Spreading Notwithstanding the Efforts of the Authorities.

MARSEILLES, Feb. 11.—Twelve deaths of the choleraic complaint prevalent in this city are reported. Among the fresh cases is one in Valette, a suburb, not before infected.

The authorities continue to give clean bills of health to vessels leaving for other French ports.

The Greek and Portuguese Consuls, however, refuse such bills to vessels sailing for Greece or Portugal.

The physicians who have been appointed to investigate and report on the epidemic still withhold their statement. It is said that in only one case were comma bacilli found.

In the other cases the results of the analyses were negative.

TRIED THE NEW SHELLS

Highly Successful Tests With the Vesuvius' Guns.

NAVAL OFFICERS MUCH PLEASED.

Five of the Latest Bombs Shot from the Three Long Pneumatic Guns—Four Probably Exploded—Could Easily Have Hit a Vessel Coming Toward Her.

PORT ROYAL, S. C., Feb. 11.—The Vesuvius continued her experiments with the pneumatic guns here yesterday. The trial was a very satisfactory one to the examining board, because the sea was a little rough which tended to detract from the accuracy of the guns.

The Vesuvius got under way at 11 o'clock and in less than 35 minutes had gotten into line and fired three projectiles.

With her signals flying she steamed slowly up to the 2,000 yard buoy heading slightly to the north of the target line. A momentary pause followed while she swung slowly into position. Then the signals dropped and instantaneously almost, there followed the white cloud of compressed air indicating the firing of a shot.

The first shot fell 30 yards short of the target, but exactly in line with the buoy which marked the 2,000 yard range; the second shot fell 10 feet short.

A third shot was fired a few moments later falling short of the target but practically on the buoy line, and the fourth shot fell on the buoy line, but the fifth and last shot of the day, fell so close to the target that the spray thrown up by the projectile obscured the target. An instant later an explosion was heard and the water behind the target was disturbed.

The second and fifth shots fell so accurately that they would have fallen on an ordinary sloop stationed for a target.

The officers of the Vesuvius are greatly elated over the results of the day's tests. They will be continued to-day.

The firing was a remarkable proof of the accuracy with which shots can be placed, using all three guns. The five shots at 2,000 yards range were dropped within a distance of 50 yards of each other on a direct line for the target. If fired at a ship coming toward the Vesuvius all of them would have struck her.

The doubt as to the action of the fuses is not at all astonishing. This is the first time that the fuse has ever been fired. The failure of this particular fuse would have no effect upon the valve of the pneumatic tube as a torpedo thrower, for another fuse could easily be found. But five shots are not enough to decide whether or not there will be a failure.

PROSECUTION WILL NOT STOP.

All Accused French Deputies to be Examined—Comment on the Sentences.

PARIS, Feb. 11.—The discontent caused by the dismissal in the Chamber of Indictments of the true bills found for corruption against Deputy Dauvier and Senators Grevy, Develle and Renault, has moved the Parliamentary Commission of Inquiry to a renewal of activity.

The commission now proposes to summon and examine all Deputies who have been accused of corruption, whether acquitted or not, and to obtain the Reinach files of the 104 men who were compromised by money transactions with Reinach, Arton and Herz.

The commission purposes also to apply to the Chamber for additional powers, which, if granted, will increase greatly the scope and the thoroughness of the investigation.

Should the Court of Cassation reject the appeal of Ferdinand de Lesseps against the decision of the Court of Appeal, his name will be stricken from the lists of the Institute and the Legion of Honor.

Excepting the Eclair and the Republique Francaise, not one Parisian journal approves of the sentences passed upon the Panama directors and M. Eiffel.

The Jour says that the unspeakable brutality of the judge has made the defendants object of sympathy and admiration.

The Soliel says that Presiding Judge Perivier read the judgment from paper still wet and blurred from the hasty pens of the judges, and expresses indignation that, after having a week to consider, the Court should have made the decision at last so hurriedly.

The Figaro demands the pardon of the man who has been one of the glories of France. The Journal Des Debats says:

"To imagine at striking down the creator of the Suez Canal in his declining days to salve the public conscience shows a great misconception of the opinion of the nation."

The Radical La Lanterne declares that the country itself has sustained a blow from the sentence, which is useless in fact and excessive in law.

The Republique Sociale protests against the sentence and adds that glory is a thing so rare and precious that the nation cannot too carefully guard it.

The Royalist Gaulois deplores the decision, as working havoc with the noblest legends of the French people.

The Independent Manifeste says that the decree marks a day of ingratitude in the life of the historical personages concerned in the trial. Their names will be illumined in the eyes of posterity by the light of their deeds and their suffering will leave no appreciable stain, being merely a judicial accident.

The Radical La Justice, M. Clemenceau's paper, regards the judgment passed upon M. Ferdinand de Lesseps as severe. As to the other sentences, Justice points out that the other prosecutors were exactly in the same position with M. Eiffel, and the Official Liquidator of the Panama Canal Company ought to proceed against them all for the recovery of the sums they unlawfully claimed and appropriated.

Another Noble Life Victim.

NICE, Feb. 11.—A professional gambler after losing heavily at the Casino at Monte Carlo last evening suddenly became insane, attacked several men and then tried to take his life. His violence caused a panic and men and women fled from the building. Three attendants and two players overpowered the maniac after a sharp struggle and removed him, shouting and fighting, to the police station.

PASSENGER AGENT TOOKER.

Disease, like a train, acquires momentum.

One can't attend too early to the signs of nervous debility. Habits are creeping in the body often made as thoughtlessly as the folds in an old newspaper. Every time you double up under the pain of rheumatism or dyspepsia or neuralgia you deepen a very bad habit.

Grasp your illness by the forelock, drag it from its hiding-place, and it loses half its terror.

One of the most popular passenger agents in the United States, as well as one of the oldest, is Mr. M. B. Tooker of the Grand Trunk railroad. His home is at Suspension Bridge, N. Y.

Mr. Tooker, whose portrait is printed here, is known everywhere as a man of great energy and push. His advice has always gone a long way in railroad matters, and he is possessed of those rare qualities which make him a good friend and advisor in every day matters of life.

Several years ago Mr. Tooker was a sufferer from that very common complaint, rheumatism, which has been notably prevalent for the last few years. As every one knows, it is one of the most painful of diseases, and until the recent discovery of Prof. Phelps of Dartmouth college, was considered almost always incurable.

Mr. Tooker's experience was very much like that of scores of people in probably every town large enough to have a drug store.

"For two years," says Mr. Tooker, "I suffered from rheumatism and kidney trouble. For both I used various remedies with no success. A clergyman advised me to try Paine's celery compound. I did so and was surprised at the effect. After taking one bottle I was entirely relieved. I have taken two bottles and am cured."

As a well-known and conservative physician in this city has said, "Paine's celery compound is generally considered a certain specific for the cure of rheumatism, and as much better results are obtained from it than from all the usual remedies that it has become a regular prescription among the most eminent practitioners. I prescribe it regularly and believe that every rheumatic victim should use it."

NO NECESSITY!

ADDITIONAL SCHOOL ROOM NOT WANTED AT PRESENT.

Plainfield Has Five Good Buildings With Greater Accommodation Than is Required for the Number of Pupils Who Attend.

Referring to the last annual report of the State Board of Education (from which a few telling facts and figures were published in the PRESS of Wednesday), there is still much more to learn therefrom about the acts of our Board of Education.

The report states that the seating capacity of the schools in Plainfield is in excess of the enrollment.

The average enrollment in each room is 34, and the average daily attendance in each room is 31. There are 44 rooms (not counting those in the new extension of Bryant building) in the five buildings with provision for 40 pupils on an average to each room. The exact figures of the annual report are "the school houses will seat 1778 children". There were 1691 children enrolled for the school year and the records show an average attendance of only 1969.

So then the accommodation of our school houses is amply adequate for all the children in attendance. In fact we have seating capacity for 500 more pupils, not estimating the recent enlargement of the Bryant building.

The State law requires our Board of Education to provide school privileges for children of school age, and it enjoins that the children of those years shall be compelled to go to school part of the time. But there is no provision made in the law to purchase play-grounds for pleasure nor hot-houses for horticultural purposes.

If such is the fact as reported by our Board of Education, that already there is an excess of seating capacity in our schools, where is the necessity of erecting any more school houses?

None of our school houses are dilapidated; but all are in good condition as is well known, and public structures that do credit to the city of Plainfield.

If the present school accommodations are sufficient for all the pupils in general attendance, and the existing school houses are in substantial, thorough condition, then surely, for the time being, there is no justification in the Board of Education levying such heavy assessments upon the people for additional school buildings.

This is the vital question with the taxpayers, and for five years past they have been paying the following percentages on every $100 valuation of property for public school purposes:

Year.	City School.	State School.	Total Schools.
1886	64 cts.	32 cts.	96 cts.
1890	52 "	32 "	84 "
1892	55 "	30 "	85 "

These taxes have been appropriated by our Board for lands, buildings, furniture and apparatus and yearly current expenses, and yet this official report of the State Board shows an outstanding indebtedness against Plainfield's public schools of $66,000 in bonds and mortgages.

This is the largest obligation, by far, of any other school district in New Jersey, with but one exception.

Mr. Hand Loses a Tenant.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Please allow me space in your paper to inform the people in the Second ward who are circulating a petition against Mr. Cawley's having a license to sell liquor in my new building on Broadway, that Mr. Cawley, through his lawyer, the Hon. John Ulrich, has given up the store and flat and will not accept a license if there is any objection to it. I will say for the benefit of some of our worthy friends that before I let my store to Mr. Cawley I investigated his character and found him a gentleman in every respect and worthy to become a citizen of Plainfield.

To some who opposed Mr. Cawley I will say my store is to let for $300 per year. I will be at my house next Monday all day to receive applications for the store from any gentleman who signed the remonstrance against Mr. Cawley.

CHAS. H. HAND.

Washingtonville.

The funeral of John Tieley took place from Pyatt's Hall, Thursday, when a number of neighbors met to pay their last token of respect to an old neighbor whom everyone liked. Mr. Tieley, with his wife, came to Washington Valley over 40 years ago. In the quiet tenor of their ways they lived on a little farm, which provided them a living. He was in his 84th year. His wife, who is still hale and hearty, is only a few years his junior. Up to date they did most all their own work. He leaves a son and daughter, both of whom are in California.

It is feared by fruit growers that the fruit is all killed. The peach buds are turning black, and the pear buds now that they are thawed out are falling off the trees. Such a thing was never known before. Raspberry vines are killed except in sheltered spots.

"The Right Wing of the Lord's Army."

C. B. Fernald, Plainfield's delegate to the State Y. M. C. A. convention, writes that Dr. McBryde, in his address, said:

"The Young Men's Christian association is not a church, and never can be. It is an auxiliary of the church, not a rival. It has a special work to do for a special class—the young men, for whom the church was not doing the necessary work."

The speaker also told of the origin of the association; called forth by a great need. He gave the opinions of leading men in all churches on the association's work, all agreeing with Dr. Talmage, that "The Y. M. C. A. is the right wing of the Lord's army". All its officers and active members must be members of evangelical churches, so that the association is controled by church members, and should powerfully aid the church.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

BLUE RIDGE, N. CHAPS

And How to Get Rid of Them.

Nothing more annoying than chapped hands. And the more you wash the worse they chap! Soap cleans, but soap chaps. Now by neutralizing the alkali of the soap by means of a harmless acid we may prevent chapping. That is the philosophy of REYNOLDS'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE, and by using it as directed, you can get rid of the chaps. Originated and made only at

PLAINFIELD'S Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

The plans for the proposed Y. M. C. A. building, an excellent picture of which is given above, contemplate a building about 150 feet long by 61 broad, which is to be placed on the lot so as to be on the building line of the proposed extension of Peace street when that is opened. The building has been designed in what is commonly called "American" Romanesque, a style much used for public buildings throughout the country, being well adapted for the purpose as it requires very little detail and admits of large bodies of plain wall surface and simple outline of form, and is a style which appeals to the masses more than the classic.

The front part of the building on the first floor is to be used for two stores, and for the vestibule and stairs to the association room, which are situated on the second floor.

Back of the stores is an assembly room capable of seating about 450 (including the gallery). In the rear of the assembly hall is situated the gymnasium, which is to be provided with two bowling alleys, shower and plunge baths, locker-room, etc. The floor of the gymnasium is 35-4x64-6.

Over the stores are situated the working rooms of the association, including the reception hall, reading rooms, library, lecture hall, and the secretary's offices. On the third floor are three class rooms, two boys' rooms, game room, committee room, and the apartments for the janitor.

The exterior of the building is to be of washed brick, with Maynard red sandstone trimmings. The roof is of slate. The interior will be finished in a very simple manner, oak being used for the reading room and reception hall, and Georgia pine for the balance of the building, which when completed will cost about $40,000.

In this building the young men of the town will have just what they long have desired. The gymnasium will be most complete, and the association will in every way be equipped for the best work in the line of physical, mental and moral training. The building will be a credit to the association, an honor to the town, and a glory to its architect, A. L. C. Marsh, whom all Plainfielders are proud to know as their fellow-townsman.

"A MAD BARGAIN."

James T. Powers and His Merry Associates in His New Comedy Success.

James T. Powers, the genial comedian, will present his new comedy, "A Mad Bargain" for the first time in this city, next Tuesday evening. "A Mad Bargain" is the latest comedy success from the pen of J. J. McNally, the eminent Boston journalist, who has contributed so numerously and successfully. In the direction of modern farce-comedy, in a "Mad Bargain" he introduces an original theme delightfully worked out, the plot is replete with rich oportunities for fun of the fast and furious, yet consistent order. A young man whose sweetheart has jilted him, transfers his life insurance to a trusted friend with the provision that said friend will find the means of putting an end to his then miserable existence, the friend hires a couple of villians to do the work, not knowing that in the interim a rich uncle has left the doleful lover a large fortune, which of course changes the aspect of things. Mr. Powers has played since the season began; from Washington to SanFrancisco with unquestionable success, the press everywhere endorsed his play and performance as one of the most amusing of modern times.

His company includes some of the brightest lights of the comedy firmanent, Peter F. Daly being a host of merriment, keeps the ball of fun rolling the entire evening and shares with the popular star the comedy honors. Pretty Rachel Booth makes her part very attractive, Delia Stacey, Lillian Chautore, Rose Cooke, Julian Mitchell, Frank Kendrick, Frank Howard, W. W. Allen and others form a combination which for fun, pure and simple, and clever interpretation is unequalled.

Scotch Plains Notes.

At Benner's road-house, on Feb. 22, will take place a shooting match between Charles F. Courtney, of Westfield, and John Marsh, jr., of Scotch Plains. The conditions are $50 a side, 25 live birds each, 25 yards rise, 70 yards boundery, Hurlingham rules. There will also be sweep-stake shooting.

Dr. Charles Layton is able to leave the house again after several weeks confinement from rheumatism.

Samuel Reddin is no better from his attack of chills.

The report made at the last meeting of the Township committee was to the effect that the township is in a healthy condition.

John Marsh, whose barns were burned two weeks ago had only $200 on the building; nothing on the contents. C. A. Smith, of Fanwood, is the agent. The full amount was paid over a few days ago. John Marsh, jr., lost harness, butcher's tools, wagons, etc., to the amount of $250, in the fire. He had no insurance.

Oliver Nester is getting better from his attack of rheumatism, and can now walk out.

All of the stone crackers near Scotch Plains have shut down. The roads are not in condition, for working, and there is little call for stone.

Bill Trainor is again on the streets with his mammoth diamond imported from Hoboken.

The Ice Gorge at Bound Brook.

The ice gorge in the Raritan river at Bound Brook broke up at 11 yesterday morning and the high water is rapidly subsiding. Wm. Fisher at 5-mile lock, says it was a novel sight to witness the seething mass as it passed over the dam at that place. Large cakes some two feet thick hung suspended for a moment in their descent like so many porpoises, before making the plunge. No fear is now entertained of any damage to bridges as the worst is considered over.

SUES A "STANDARD" MAN.

Mr. Pearsall Gets in Trouble, Because of His Rifle Practice on His Neighbors' Dogs.

Clifford E. Pearsall, the handsome young "local" of the Westfield Standard, was sued to-day through counselor Chas. A. Reed of this city, for damages, at the instigation of James M. French. Mr. French had a valuable Scotch terrier. Mr. Pearsall had a Flobert rifle. Mr. Pearsall also had a canine with which the other dogs in the neighborhood have been fond of associating. Mr. Pearsall is choice of his dog, and objects to the companionship of the other bow-wows. So Sundays, when the other doggies were in the habit of frolicing about on his lawn, he would reluctantly stay home from church and with his little gun perforate the carcasses of the neighbors' dogs. Mr. French's dog was one of those he killed, and as it was a very knowing, affectionate and valuable dog Mr. French got very mad and insists on reparation. Mr. French did wisely in coming to Plainfield for a lawyer. The cute Mr. Reed will as proof of the dog's value put in evidence a column article which young Mr. Pearsall wrote and published in the Standard descriptive of Carlo's extraordinary intelligence and worth.

Reduced Rates to Washington on Account of the Inauguration via Pennsylvania Railroad.

For the benefit of those who desire to attend the ceremonies incident to the inauguration of President-elect Cleveland, the Pennsylvania Railroad company will sell excursion tickets to Washington March 2, 3 and 4, valid to return until March 7. The excursion rate from New York will be $8, and from Philadelphia and all other principal stations on the Pennsylvania system, two cents per mile. The inauguration promises to be a most interesting event, and will undoubtedly attract a large number of people from every section of the country. The magnificent facilities of the Pennsylvania railroad make this line the favorite route to the national capital on all occasions.

No One Has Attacked that System.

The Bound Brook Chronicle says: "The Plainfield newspapers have worked themselves into 'a frame of mind' over the fact that the Board of Education of that city has bought the site for a new school house without first telling the reporters about it. Plainfield has long enjoyed the reputation of having the very best school system in the State, and such a system should not be ruthlessly attacked."

Plainfield No. 2 Ahead.

The voting at the Warren Engine company fair closes to-night at 9:30. The vote for the gold-mounted whip to be given to the most popular fire company now stands as follows:

	Votes.

Gazelle Engine Co. No. 1	11
Plainfield Engine Co. No. 2	66
Zephyr Hook and Ladder Co.	11
Warren Engine Co.	54

Westfield Warblings.

The chief of the fire department made a test of the hydrants yesterday. There are seven of them now set, and the full contract with the Union Water company calls for twelve.

For the first time in the history of Westfield there will be two polling places at the March election. At the November election over 700 votes were cast, and this necessitates a division of the town. Hereafter the First District will vote in town hall, and the Second in the truck house.

Eve's Daughters.

Marion Harland, on pages 103 and 445 of her popular work, "Eve's Daughters; or Common Sense for Maid, Wife and Mother" says:

"For the aching back—should it be slow in recovering its normal strength—an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER is an excellent comforter, combining the sensation of the sustained pressure of a strong warm hand with certain tonic qualities developed in the wearing. It should be kept over the seat of uneasiness for several days—in obstinate cases, for perhaps a fortnight.

"For pain in the back wear an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER constantly, renewing as it wears off. This is an invaluable support when the weight on the small of the back becomes heavy and the aching incessant.

HAS THE BISHOP THE RIGHT?

The Rev. Mr. Jennings Will Probably Confute It.

The letter of Bishop John Scarborough dismissing the Rev. Joseph Jennings from the rectorship of Grace church, Westfield, is as follows:

In the matter of the petition of the vestry of Grace church, Westfield, N. J., under the provisions of title iii. canon 4 of the Diocese of New Jersey, entitled "Of difference between ministers and their congregations", praying for a dissolution of the pastoral relations existing between them and the Rev. Joseph B. Jennings, my decision as the Bishop of the diocese is, first, that the Rev. Joseph B. Jennings shall cease to be the rector of Grace church, Westfield, on and after the 15th day of February, 1893; and, second, that the vestry of Grace church, Westfield, shall pay to the said Rev. Joseph B. Jennings all arrears of salary due him and his salary in full up to the date named in this order. Given under my hand and seal in the city of Trenton and State of New Jersey, on this 6th day of February, 1893.

JOHN SCARBOROUGH,
Bishop of New Jersey.

But it is a question whether the Bishop has the right to do all that, which some good rectors in his diocese say. "He'll find out!"

Anxious to Change Hunterdon's County Seat.

Public-spirited men of Clinton and of nearby towns are making a strong effort to have the county seat of Hunterdon moved to Clinton, and the developments of the last few days have aroused a great wave of enthusiasm among the people who favor the removal. The old courthouse and jail in Flemington are literally dropping apart, and the buildings are unfit for use. The Board of Freeholders have from time to time repaired these structures, and they are tired of the work and expense, and a majority of the board want new buildings. Flemington will do nothing to help the county, and now Clinton has come forward and offered to get authority to bond the town in the sum of $50,000 and put up a new courthouse and jail, without expense to the taxpayers, if the people will vote to remove the county seat to that place. A public meeting will be called in a few days, and the citizens will take such action as will show that they are in earnest.

Plainfield Offenders Sentenced.

Tom Shelly, for obtaining money from Terrill & Cole by falsely representing that he had a dead child, and wanted "to go to Newark to get the life insurance", was sent to jail this morning, by Judge McCormick at Elizabeth, for three months.

Ben. Perkins, for breaking into Wm. E. Johnson's billiard room and stealing and destroying the property there, got three months also.

Mark Dowd, for cruelty to animals, was fined $25.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less for a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—OSCAR OSBURN, 46 Warren avenue, Chicago, Ill.

A SEA CAPTAIN'S STORY.

Had Many Wonderful Adventures on the Sea.

But His Most Remarkable Experience Was on the Land.

What the Famous Captain Has to Say About the Matter.

The experiences of sea captains are always interesting.

Capt. Alexander Horn is at present sojourning at West Lubec, Maine, but his permanent address is the Marine Asylum, Philadelphia, Pa.

Capt. Horn has had many remarkable adventures during his active and eventful career, but his most wonderful experience was met with on shore. He says:

"I was stricken with paralysis of the left side in 1866, and have since that time, been under the treatment of many physicians and tried various remedies.

"I could not in all the years that have passed, since stricken, lift my left foot from the floor.

"I commenced taking Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and I am now able to walk without a cane, having good use of my foot and side, so long useless. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy has cured me of my terrible trouble."

This cure was considered so remarkable that it was brought before the attention of the medical societies, hospitals and physicians, and the facts legally subscribed and certified to by the well-known J. O. Phillips, Esq., Notary Public of Philadelphia.

CAPT. HORN.

It is for this reason that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is now used so extensively in hospitals and so widely recommended by physicians for the cure of disease.

But do not wait until you are actually paralyzed before using this great remedy. Paralysis is always the result of neglecting the first symptoms. Use this medicine when the first symptoms appear, and you can always ward off paralysis, nervous debility and nervous and physical prostration.

Take it if you have a weak and tired feeling with weariness of the limbs, numbness, trembling, palpitation of the heart, prickling sensation in fingers or toes, headaches, dull feeling head, confused mind, loss of memory. Above all you need it if you are sleepless and wake tired and unrefreshed mornings, have little or no appetite for breakfast and feel dull and out of spirits. It will overcome indigestion and dyspepsia, regulate the bowels and cure liver and kidney complaints. It is the best blood enricher and invigorator in the world.

It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless, and should you be a sufferer from disease you will use it if you are wise. All druggists have it for $1. It is the prescription and discovery of the successful specialist in the cure of nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th street, New York, who can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

THE ROAD TO SUCCESS.

How One Young Man Was Helped to Find It.

An Act of Courage Which Found Its Reward—Story Without a Love Romance—Philanthropy of the Eminently Practical Kind.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

Although not a teller of romantic tales, by either profession or inclination, I am tempted to-day to relate an episode in the life of a personal friend which may take the place of a dry statistical essay to the satisfaction of most of my readers. The story has the merit of being founded on the experience of a gentleman favorably known in the financial world of Chicago; a man, in short, who occupies a position in life equal in importance to that of the president of a large railroad company.

In the spring of 1877 this gentleman had just entered busines life in the capacity of errand boy to a private banking firm in a small city in Iowa. His duties consisted mainly in sweeping and dusting the office, copying letters and running errands for his employers and those of the clerks who had a best girl living in the village.

George—and this is the true name of the hero of my tale—performed the work assigned to him to the best of his ability, and in the course of six or seven months was promoted to be assistant bookkeeper. He was then eighteen years of age, bright, accommodating, a general favorite and the main support of a widowed mother who had spent most of her small capital to give the boy a fair education.

In the early winter of the same year the town in which this comedy drama opens experienced a "boom." For several decades it had been dependent on one railroad company, and when the directors of another trunk line resolved to extend their road the citizens made a supreme effort to secure the benefit of a competing line. The company demanded a subsidy, and in order to push its interests sent its president to the town. This official arrived amid blowing of trumpets, and with him came a pretty little girl, his daughter. While driving one evening the horses attached to the carriage containing the railroad magnate and his child became frightened and ran away. Escape from serious injury seemed impossible, had not young George, at the risk of his life, stopped the maddened animals at the brink of a high embankment.

Those who have been addicted to the reading of love stories will now rise and remark that the young man earned the everlasting gratitude of the railroad man, that he was forthwith given a lucrative position and in the course of time became the husband of the charming little girl. Others, of a more misanthropic turn of mind, will observe that the bloated capitalist did not even acknowledge the young fellow's gallantry, but continued his drive unconcernedly. If either of these conclusions were correct, I would not be justified in relating this story, as scores of writers of fiction have used such plots time and again. I am merely chronicling events as they actually happened, and if they savor somewhat of the proverbial in the beginning I am not to blame.

The truth of the matter is, the capitalist returned his thanks in a few well-chosen words and there the matter seemed to end. The young fellow pursued the even tenor of his way and in the course of time became teller of the country bank. He had made up his mind to spend the remainder of his life in his native town, as the directors held out a promise that he would be appointed cashier as soon as arrangements could be perfected.

After living for ten or twelve years in a country town the average human being is satisfied with his lot. George had never made his home in a large city. He had paid short visits to Chicago and New York, where he found himself a stranger among millions of fellow creatures. He always returned to his home with a feeling akin to ecstasy. There he was one of the leading young men. His opinions were received with respect. Society, such as it was, courted him. Business men predicted a grand future for him.

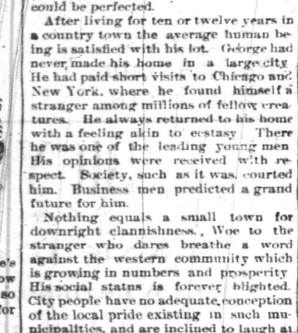
Nothing equals a small town for downright clannishness. Woe to the stranger who dares breathe a word against the western community which is growing in numbers and prosperity. His social status is forever blighted. City people have no adequate conception of the local pride existing in such municipalities, and are inclined to laugh at their pretentious claims, forgetting or never thinking of the fact that it was this spirit which built up prosperous towns in regions sparsely settled and made the west the controlling section of our country.

In 1885 George was appointed cashier of his bank, but before he entered upon the duties of the office was astonished by receiving a letter from a Philadelphia banking house offering him a position at a salary which made his head swim. Eighteen hundred dollars is considered a princely income in a western town of 5,000 or 6,000 people; hence when the young man was confronted with a request to exchange his services for $4,000 per annum he was thrown into a delirium of joy. Of course he accepted the post, and departed for Philadelphia as soon as possible.

He found his new duties to be arduous as well as responsible, but never failed to make himself useful. After he had become familiar with the requirements of the business he offered suggestions which seemed so timely to the managers of the house that they were adopted and carried out with surprisingly satisfactory results.

The members of the firm were favorably impressed with the young Iowan's business ability and with his modest, unassuming ways. They took a personal interest in him and introduced him into the best houses of Philadelphia. The result was a love episode which ended in a marriage.

Shortly afterward the firm assumed control of a great financial enterprise in the west, and when it was found necessary to appoint a general manager for the undertaking George was selected. He removed to Chicago, and began his new work with a determination to succeed. In three months he straightened out the complicated affair and had a bankrupt corporation on a promising basis. When the company was reorganized in 1888 the shrewd young man was unanimously elected president at a salary of $15,000 a year and a certain share of the profits.



"I DID NOT LOSE SIGHT OF YOU."

About this time a mystery which had puzzled George for years was solved. He had cudgeled his brain to learn who had been instrumental in securing the Philadelphia position for him and who had pushed him along since that time.

In January, 1890, he attended a meeting of the stockholders of his company at Philadelphia. As he entered the room he was greeted heartily by an old gentleman who was an entire stranger. He returned the salutation politely, and turned to another gentleman to learn who the stranger might be.

"That old gentleman," replied George's friend, "is Mr. A——, the principal stockholder of your company and one of the most substantial citizens of Philadelphia."

Here was the key to the mystery. Mr. A—— was the railroad magnate who had visited his Iowa home in 1877 and to whom he had rendered a small service now almost forgotten.

After the meeting had adjourned, the portly old gentleman invited the young man to call at his residence to meet his daughter and her husband and "to talk over some matters of mutual interest."

The visit was indeed a pleasant one. After some general conversation George learned that he had never been forgotten by the railway president and his charming daughter.

"I wanted papa to give you some money," said the young matron, "but he refused."

"Yes, I refused," interrupted the old gentleman. "But I did not lose sight of you. Your employers kept me informed of your progress in business, and an old schoolmate of mine who resides in your old home sent me regular reports of your habits and associations. What I heard was very satisfactory. A vacancy occurred in the Philadelphia banking house which, by the way, is controlled by me, and I brought you here where I could keep my own eyes on you. I noticed with pleasure that you were not only a good business man, but also a good citizen, and when I needed a reliable man in Chicago I selected you. Had I given you money when you were a mere boy it might have ruined you. As it is, you have become a man of influence and are indebted to no one but yourself for your remarkable success."

When in a particularly good humor, the gentleman known to the reader as George will recite "the story of his life," as here outlined. Some time I may be tempted to give his full name, but at present I am, unfortunately, under obligations not to reveal his identity.

G. W. WEIPPIERT

Two Remarkable Epitaphs.

The two most remarkable epitaphs in the United States are those of Daniel Barrow, formerly of Sacramento, Cal., and that of Hank Monk, Horace Greeley's stage driver. The former reads as follows: "Here is laid Daniel Barrow, who was born in Sorrow and Borrowed little from nature except his name and his hatred for redskins. Who was nevertheless a gentleman and a dead shot, who through a long life never killed his man except in self defense or by accident, and who, when he at last went under beneath the bullets of his cowardly enemies in Jeff Morris' saloon, did so in the sure and certain hope of a glorious and everlasting morrow." Hank Monk's epitaph reads thus: "Sacred to the memory of Hank Monk, the whitest, biggest-hearted and best-known stage driver of the west, who was kind to all and thought ill of none. He lived in a strange era and was a hero, and the wheels of his coach are now ringing on the Golden Streets."

And Possibly Second-Hand.

George—Why do you frown upon my suit?

Maisie—Because it's ready-made.—Chicago News Record.

Sympathetic.

Mrs. Stimpson—I need some money, George.

Mr. Stimpson—So do I.

A Contrariwise Friend.

"Mr. Dusenberry," said the sick man to his neighbor, whom he had called to the side of what he supposed was his deathbed, "we have had much difficulty in the past and have not been on speaking terms. I believe I am now about to die and I have sent for you that we may settle our differences and be friends before I go."

"Nothing would give me greater pleasure than a reconciliation," replied Mr. Dusenberry, as he took the hand of the dying man.

"But remember," said the invalid in a gradually sinking voice, "if I get well the thing goes on just as it did before."—Brooklyn Life.

Supplying a Long-Felt Want.

De Lamb—Hello, Wolf. Still in the clothing business?

Wolf—Yes. I'm at the old stand, keeping fit parlors.

De Lamb—Keeping what parlors?

Wolf—Fit parlors. I go to the fashionable tailors and buy at half-price the suits made for dudes and refused because they fit.—Smith, Gray & Co.'s Monthly.

Apt to Be So.

Mrs. Hicks—I have noticed a curious thing about your attending these banquets.

Hicks—What?

Mrs. Hicks—When they put you down for a toast that is about all your stomach will stand next morning.—N. Y. Herald.

How She Knew.

Ella—How could you tell that your husband lost money at the races to-day, when he said nothing about it?

Stella—I know he did, because when he came home he began talking about the advantages of saving money.—Texas Siftings.

Friendly Overtures.

Neighbor's Boy (looking through the fence)—My father's a heap bigger man than your'n!

New Boy (with cold disdain)—Size ain't nothin'! When my father coughs you can hear him half a mile!—Chicago Tribune.

BITTER STRUGGLE AHEAD

Many in Both Houses Will Oppose Annexation.

MERCENARY MOTIVES CHARGED.

The Discussion Likely to be Brought on at Any Time—Hawaiian Commercial Company and the Revolution—The President's Message to be Sent to Congress To-morrow.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Annexation of Hawaii will not be accomplished without serious opposition and probably considerable bitter debate in Congress. There are two sides to this, as there are to every question, and, while the adverse side will probably find few adherents, it may prove obstinate.

It is the general impression that an annexation bill will come before Congress within the week.

It may be brought forward at any time. It is not likely to be called up for action before the President has sent his message to Congress, stating the incidents which led to the revolution, the part taken by our Minister and navy, and the status of affairs upon the islands at present.

When the bill comes up for action, it is hinted, some ugly things may be said in connection with the management of the Hawaiian government during the past few years, the manner in which the revolution was precipitated, the underlying principles moving the annexationists and the possibility of fraud and bribery as having brought about present conditions.

Senator Pettigrew of South Dakota raised his voice at the very outset of the annexation agitation and declared that selfishness, and not patriotism or love of government was at the bottom of the movement in Hawaii.

It is alleged that the majority of stockholders in the Hawaiian Commercial company, which owns the plantations and produces the immense quantities of sugar on the island, and those in the Oceanic Steamship company, a line plying between San Francisco and Honolulu, have for more than a year been "bearing" down the stock of those corporations with a view to buying in the minority stock and then moving for annexation.

The Hawaiian Commercial company owns three-fourths of the commercial interests upon the islands, and annexation would insure peace and stability and increase values.

It is asserted that the special representative of the deposed Queen, who is now on his way here, was only a few years ago sent by Clans Spreckles to Hawaii as attorney to look after the Commercial company's interests.

There are a number of prominent Senators and members of the House who will fight annexation to the bitter end. Among the former are Senators Gray, Vest, Brice and Pettigrew.

The President will send his message and treaty to the Senate to-morrow. The treaty is with the provisional government.

Pending Congressional action the Commissioners are to return home and have these negotiations ratified by the Provisional Government, and get the ex-Queen's consent to a pension. Meanwhile, Dr. Mott Smith will remain in Washington.

After the negotiations at the State Department the Commissioners were escorted to the White House by State Secretary Foster and presented to the President. The meeting was informal, no set speeches being made. The reason of this informality was that diplomatic custom provides that the President shall not receive formally any diplomatic representative of a foreign nation lower than a Minister.

A great deal has been said about the delay in the reception of the Hawaiian Commissioners by the President, but this explains all.

The Commissioners were accredited to the State Department, and as soon as they were received by the Secretary of State they were recognized by the United States Government.

The reception by the President was the signal of the final conclusion of the negotiations. It took place in the private office and the President chatted with the Commissioners for some time.

FOR A PROTECTORATE.

Many Residents of Hawaii Desire to See the Queen Reseated.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 13.—Evidence gathered from arrivals by the steamer Australia and from private letters is accumulating to show that a majority of the Hawaiian natives favor the Queen, and that a large part of the foreign population prefers an American protectorate, with a limited monarchy, to annexation.

This reaction against the first enthusiasm for annexation is said to be strong, and Paul Neumann, the Queen's envoy to Washington, has a mass of affidavits from white people of reputation and property, declaring that they favor restoring the Queen to power under an American protectorate.

On Trial for Oyster Piracy.

FAIRFIELD, Conn., Feb. 13.—Everybody connected with the oyster trade hereabouts is keenly watching the trial of Capt. Daniel Sprague. The testimony against him tends to show that he dredged oysters from Marshall Morris' grounds, dumped them in the water facing Dr. May's estate when Dr. May's watchman signaled that the coast was clear, and afterwards took them up for sale in New Haven.

Silver Struck in Indiana.

BRAZIL, Ind., Feb. 13.—For the past month experts from Chicago and Cincinnati have been looking over some hilly land south of this county, and they have just struck an immense vein of silver and zinc ore. They say that the indications are favorable for an almost inexhaustible product of as rich ore as can be found in Colorado.

THE LUGGAGE PLUNDERED.

Passengers on the Pomeranian Robbed—Further Details of the Disaster.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—The customs officials at Greenock report that during the excitement on the steamer Pomeranian, which came back to port after a terrible experience in a storm, the luggage of the dead and living passengers was plundered of all small articles of high value.

Nothing has been learned as to the identity of the thieves.

From additional accounts regarding the terrible calamity, it appears that, after Capt. Dalziel had been carried below unconscious, the vessel was brought about by order of the officers in command and kept running before the gale.

The crew cleared away the debris and battened dow the hatches.

The waves swept over the deck from stem to stern, and flooded the passengers' quarters. There was no panic, and the crew had everything snug, before dark.

The gale continued to rage with fury until Wednesday last, when it abated somewhat. On Thursday the weather again became stormy, and gradually rose to a hurricane.

Innistrahull Light, off the most northerly part of the Irish coast, was sighted on Thursday evening, and the position of the vessel ascertained.

Owing to the terrific weather it was necessary to lie to until Friday morning, when the Pomeranian was steered for Greenock.

Captain Dalziel's legs were broken and he had sustained internal injuries. He was carefully removed to his room and everything possible was done for him, but he died the next morning.

Ten were carried overboard and two fatally injured.

When the sea boarded the steamer every man about deck who saw it coming grabbed hold of stanchions or anything else convenient, and it was due to this that the loss of life was not much larger.

THE WORK OF FIREBUGS.

Nashville Having a Succession of Big Fires—Newspaper Offices Burned.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 13.—This city is the victim of firebugs. Saturday night an attempt was made to burn out the Daily American.

Yesterday morning at 11 o'clock a fire started on Union street, and the whole block was destroyed; and on the same evening the Evening Banner building was set afire and was gutted.

Baxter Court, in the rear, a nine-story building, caught fire and was also gutted.

The loss will amount up into the hundreds of thousands.

O'DONNELL'S TURN NOW.

The Homestead Strike Leader Being Tried for Murder.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 13.—Hugh O'Donnell, the leader of the Homestead strike, was placed on trial this morning for murder. No attempt is being made to prove an alibi, as was done in the cases of Crawford and Clifford, as an entirely new line of defense has been decided upon.

Great interest has been manifested in the trial on account of the prominent part taken in the strike by O'Donnell. A large number of witnesses have been subpœnaed, including nearly every local newspaper correspondent who was at Homestead before and after the riot.

O'Donnell has been in jail ever since he surrendered to the authorities, bail having been refused him.

THREE SKATERS DROWNED.

Efforts Made to Save Them Proved of No Avail.

BOSTON, Feb. 13.—Three unknown men were drowned in the Mystic yesterday afternoon in sight of hundreds of skaters.

They skated out in the channel and the thin ice gave way.

Two disappeared almost instantly, but the third battled for life for 20 minutes and finally sank just as help reached him.

The bodies were carried out to sea.

Fell off the Palisades.

JERSEY CITY, Feb. 13.—Edward Hazen, while walking along Franklin street at the brow of the Palisades yesterday afternoon, fell over the edge of the cliff. The Palisades at that place are 60 feet high. Hazen struck on a narrow ledge and rolled to a second ledge, and there lodged on a shelf about eight feet wide. After vain attempts to get him with ropes from above the fire department of Hoboken raised ladders from below and took him down unhurt. He was drunk.

If Daly Wills Carter May be a Senator.

HELENA, Mont., Feb. 13.—The five Republicans who voted for W. A. Clark for United States Senator Saturday have announced their intention to vote for him to the end, and, it is said, the Republicans realizing that they cannot elect Mantle will take up Thomas H. Carter. Carter must receive six Democratic and two Populist votes to win. It is believed that two Populists will support him and that Daly can, if he desires to do so, throw the six Democratic votes to him.

Quarreled Over Green Goods.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Feb. 13.—Two men from South Carolina and another man from New York city had a quarrel in a hotel here yesterday, and the New York man, George Appo, was shot in the right eye. The South Carolina men have been arrested. They say that the quarrel was about green goods. Appo will die.

The Typhus in New York.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—William Jordan, an orderly at the Riverside hospital, was taken down with typhus fever last night. Charles H. Allen, 21 years old, a suspect in Bellevue hospital, was removed to Riverside hospital, having developed the disease. Four deaths are reported from typhus fever at Riverside hospital.

FOSTER IN CONFERENCE

Advising With Bankers on the Gold Situation.

TOO MUCH SENT AWAY TO EUROPE.

The Secretary Said to be Strongly Opposed to the Issue of Bonds—If it is Decided to Take Such a Step the Incoming Administration Will be Consulted.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—To-day Secretary Foster will visit the sub-Treasury and discuss the gold situation with a number of prominent bankers.

It may be set down as a fact that he is opposed to selling bonds, that he does not believe the contingency has come for the adoption of that policy by him.

It is very pointedly said this morning that if the Secretary and President decide that it will be good policy to sell bonds they will not undertake such a measure until they have communicated with Mr. Cleveland and his coming Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Carlisle.

Mr. Foster was very busy yesterday. Though it was Sunday the gold situation was so unsatisfactory he concluded to have a plain talk with the big bankers. Early in the day J. Pierpont Morgan called upon him at the Fifth Avenue. Later the Secretary went to the Union League club where he met President Henry W. Cannan of the Chase National Bank, President Edward H. Perkins of the Importers' and Traders' National Bank, George F. Baker of the First National Bank, Frederick D. Tappen of the Gallatin, and Jesse Seligman.

The condition of the government gold holdings and the extraordinary shipments abroad were discussed in an informal manner.

Secretary Foster declared, so it is reported, that so far as the Secretary of the Treasury was concerned, he proposed to use every power he possessed to protect the gold reserve. He thought the bankers had not been generous enough in turning gold over to the Sub-Treasury.

On Saturday, for instance, but $100,000 had been turned in, while a single steamer, La Bretange, had carried off to Europe over $3,000,000.

At that rate very little gold would soon be left in the country.

The advisability of issuing bonds in order to replenish the gold fund was talked over, and a general sentiment appeared to prevail among the bankers that this could and ought to be done. They expressed their willingness, if necessary, to take the $50,000,000 at 3 per cent., as suggested, and they were willing to aid the Government in any way they could to maintain gold payments.

SYMPATHY FOR DE LESSEPS.

Hundreds of Consoling Letters Received Daily by His Wife.

PARIS, Feb. 13.—The Socialists and Boulangists are arranging a meeting to protest against the acquittal of Deputy Bouvier and Senators Grevy and Renault by the Chamber of Indictment.

A formal notice of the sentence passed upon him will be communicated shortly to Ferdinand de Lesseps. During the five days after the service of the notice he will have the right to appeal.

Mme. de Lesseps is receiving daily hundreds of letters of sympathy.

JUDGE GRESHAM ACCEPTS.

Bissell and Hoke Smith Also Take the Offered Cabinet Positions.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Feb. 13.—It is announced here this morning that Mr. Cleveland has received letters of acceptance from Judge Gresham, accepting the position of Secretary of State; from Wilson Bissell of New York, accepting the Postmaster-Generalship, and from Hoke Smith of Georgia, accepting the Secretaryship of Agriculture.

Corbett Will Meet Jackson.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 13.—Corbett stated here last night that he would accept Peter Jackson's challenge to fight for $20,000 within ten months, provided he could make no arrangement with Mitchell, and that he had ordered his backer to post the $2,500 forfeit. He also said Mitchell would have to put up his $10,000 forfeit within ten days from the time he landed in this country.

Parnellites to Center on Home Rule Bill.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Timothy Harrington has sent circulars to members of the National League requesting them to send delegates to a convention of Parnellites to be held in Dublin just before the second reading of the Home Rule bill. The object of the convention will be to decide upon the acceptance or repudiation of the Home Rule bill by the Parnellite members of the House.

Death of Oliver Burr Jennings.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Oliver Burr Jennings, 68 years old, died suddenly at his home on Park avenue last night. He was born at Fairfield, Conn. He began his business career in this city, but went to California in 1849. Having amassed a fortune there he returned to this city in 1863, and, in connection with John D. and William Rockefeller, Mr. Brewster and others, established the Standard Oil Trust.

Weather Forecast.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 13.—For New England: Fair, southwesterly winds, increasing cloudiness followed by snow and increasing easterly winds throughout the entire southern portion.

For Eastern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland: Increasing cloudiness, with snow or rain, easterly winds; clearing weather in Maryland with slight rise in temperature.

For Western New York and Western Pennsylvania: Fair, winds shifting to southeasterly, slightly warmer in Western New York.

DEATH OF DR. NORVIN GREEN.

Prominent Western Union Officials to Attend the Funeral.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 13.—The funeral of Dr. Norvin Green, President of the Western Union Telegraph Company, who died yesterday, will be held Wednesday afternoon. A number of Western Union officials will be among the list of honorary and active pall-bearers.

The services will take place at the residence and the remains will be interred in Cave Hill. The burial will be private.

Dr. Green's serious illness is only of ten days duration, though for six weeks he has been confined to the house, and since last fall has not been well. He suffered from catarrhal diarrhœa.

Norvin Green was born in New Albany, Ind., April 17, 1818. While a child, his family removed to this State, so that his early life was identified with and fashioned by his residence in Kentucky. His education was thorough. After a course of study under the faculty of the medical department of the University of Louisville, he graduated in 1840 with honor. He soon entered upon a successful practice. Like almost all young men of spirits in Kentucky, Dr. Green early connected himself with the politics of the State.

Dr. Green was elected for several terms to the Kentucky Legislature, and in 1853 was appointed Commissioner of the United States in charge of the construction of the National building in Louisville.

While engaged in the duties of his office he became one of the lessees of the United Morse and People's Telegraph Line between Louisville and New Orleans.

In 1866, when the American, United States and Western Union lines were consolidated, Dr. Green was chosen Vice-President, and with the exception of about three years, during which he accepted the Presidency of the Louisville, Cincinnati & Lexington Railroad, retained that office until January, 1873, when he returned to duty as Vice-president of the Western Union Telegraph company.

It was during this interim of three years that he afterwards entered the politics of the State and was urged to accept the nomination for United States Senator.

Dr. Green was elected President of the Western Union Telegraph Company on April 17, 1873.

A SECOND VESUVIUS.

Likelihood that Another Dynamite Cruiser Will be Added to the Navy.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The successful result of the tests of the Vesuvius will probably result in the addition of another vessel of the same class to the navy.

The Naval Appropriation bill, approved March 3, 1889, contained a provision that the President be authorized to contract with the Pneumatic Dynamite Gun company for the construction of one additional cruiser of the Vesuvius type of not less dimensions than that vessel, and to attain a speed of 21 knots an hour, with an endurance of not less than 15 days at 10 knots an hour, to be armed with two pneumatic dynamite guns of 15-inch calibre, and to be fitted with such other armament as the Secretary of the Navy may prescribe.

THE RED BANK RACE.

It is Thought by Some that Johnson Will Beat Donoghue.

RED BANK, N. J., Feb. 13.—It has been decided to hold the National Amateur Skating association races here at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning instead of in the afternoon in case the ice shows signs of thawing.

A large crowd of people were on the river yesterday afternoon watching J. S. Johnson and Olaf Rudd, the Minneapolis boys, taking their practice. Johnson's performance made him the favorite with many over Donoghue.

He skated a quarter of a mile in the morning, and Tom Eck, his manager, said it was inside the record.

International Conference on Cholera.

BERLIN, Feb. 13.—The negotiations as to the programme of the International Sanitary Conference, to consider precautions against cholera, are still in progress between Austria-Hungary and Germany. The report has been started from semi-official sources that the conference may take place before the end of this month. Cholera specialists of world-wide celebrity and from all parts of Europe are expected to be present.

Ohio River Still Rising.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 13.—The weather here yesterday was clear and mild. The river remained stationary during most of the forenoon, but in the afternoon it rose five inches. At 11 o'clock last night the stage was 48 feet and 1 inch, and the rise was at the rate of half an inch an hour. Reports from Parkersburg and below are that the river at those places is rising. It may reach a maximum of 50 feet here.

On the Track of Sallie Moore.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—Sallie Moore, the pretty Kentucky girl, who mysteriously disappeared from this city for almost a month, was located by detectives in Philadelphia last week. Miss Moore, it is said, was acting as a governess when discovered, and while the detectives were debating whether they had a right to arrest her, she got away.

Dix Debar Indicted for Theft.

GENEVA, Ill., Feb. 13.—Vera P. Ava, alias Dix Debar, has been indicted by the grand jury, charged with the larceny of $750 from Irene Mitchell, of Elgin. Another count charges her with obtaining money by representing that she was in league with spirits. She has been in jail here several months.

The Murderer Escaped.

PORT HENRY, N. Y., Feb. 13.—Peter Burlingame, a laborer, who was shot and stabbed Saturday night in a lonely spot two miles north of this place, died yesterday. In his ante-mortem statement he accused an Italian, Frank Julien, who has escaped.

Jersey Chess Championship Match.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The eighth annual tournament for the chess championship of the State of New Jersey and the Waterbury cup, will take place on Washington's birthday at the Union Athletic club building, Hoboken, N. J.

Ohio Town Nearly Wiped Out.

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 13.—The town of Lykens, in Crawford county, south of this city, was about destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. The loss will aggregate about $30,000, about half being covered by insurance.

IN SENATE AND HOUSE

A Big Programme Mapped Out for This Week.

PREPARATIONS FOR INAUGURATION.

The Governors of Nearly All the States in the Union Will be Present—A Parade that Will Eclipse All its Predecessors—The Extradition Treaties With Russia and France.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—But 16 working days remain of the Fifty-second Congress. Only one of the annual appropriation bills—the Army bill—has become a law and from this time on until the 4th of March both Houses of Congress will lend every energy to the completion of the remainder of these important measures.

For this reason it is uncertain whether the Senate will be able to carry out the programme of legislation, short as it is, arranged by the Republican caucus.

The Nicaragua Canal bill is the unfinished business, but as it promises to provoke a long debate, it must, from time to time, give way to the appropriation bills and conference report.

Next to the Nicaragua bill on the caucus programme is the Omnibus Statehood bill. Senator Carey, who is in charge of the bill, does not purpose to lose any opportunity to advance it and whenever recourse is had to the calendar, on which the bill occupies a favorable position, he will endeavor to press the measure without waiting for action on the Nicaragua bill.

It is possible that the Senate may be plunged into a financial discussion any day in the week, should Mr. Sherman call up the amendment to one of the appropriation bills of which he has given notice, authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to sell bonds to maintain specie payment under the Resumption act.

Now that the silver question is definitely shelved for this Congress, the leaders in the House do not see anything ahead between now and the 3th of March to cause trouble except the appropriation bills and the anti-Option bill. It is proposed to keep the House pounding away on the appropriation bills with but little intermission until the last one of them is sent over to the Senate.

Those still remaining before the House are the Pension, which is under consideration, the Postoffice, the Indian, the Agriculture and the Naval bills.

This week will be occupied mostly with the several appropriation bills, though there is some prospect that a special order may be brought in, in behalf of the New York and New Jersey bridge bill, for which measure a cloture petition has been presented to the Rules Committee, or if the Agricultural Committee, which has the anti-Option, Pure Food and other bills in charge.

INAUGURAL CEREMONIES.

The Committee Preparing for the Grandest Demonstrations Ever Held.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The work of committees having charge of the ceremonies incident to the inauguration of President-elect Cleveland is progressing satisfactorily. Gen. McMahon and Col. Corbin, who have supervision of the arrangements of the parade, are daily receiving applications from military organizations all over the United States for positions in the line.

More than 100 civic organizations, including Tammany, have thus far reported a probable strength of over 17,000 men to form in line on March 4.

The Governors of the following States have notified the committee that they will be in line, accompanied by members of their respective staffs, and, in many instances, by independent military companies:

Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Georgia, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Ohio, Louisiana, and Wisconsin.

It is almost certain that a majority of the Governors of the remaining States will be present, but as yet they have not notified the committee.

Pennsylvania, as usual, will send the largest representation of any State. Its full National Guard of 8,600 men will be in line.

New York will send its crack organizations, the 7th and 69th regiments, and probably Company A of the 13th regiment, Brooklyn.

The following independent organizations have notified the committee to reserve them positions in the line:

Georgia Hussars, Monumental City Guards and Baltimore Rifles, Palmetto Guards, of Charleston, S. C.; Cleveland Troop and Alliance Guards, Ohio, and the Fort Worth Feeebles, Texas.

There is every probability that the inauguration of March 4, 1893, will surpass all its predecessors.

NOT A "TRIPLE ALLIANCE."

The Extradition Treaties Between This Country, Russia and France.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The publication of despatches announcing that there was a hidden significance in the extradition treaties recently ratified by the United States Senate with Russia and France naturally occasioned many inquiries to be addressed to officials here and to members of the Senate who would be in a position to know the facts.

According to the despatches "a triple alliance between the United States, Russia and France for mutual benefit and defense, which has been secretly pending for six years unknown to either the diplomatic or political world at large, culminated in an executive session of the United States Senate two days ago," in the ratification of the extradition treaties with the Powers.

Careful inquiries from the best source of information do not sustain this interpretation of the treaty. It is asserted that there was no provision in either of the treaties very widely differing from extradition treaties negotiated with Great Britain, Germany and other Powers.

More to the point still, it is said, there was no provision in either treaty differing essentially from the extradition treaty with Sweden, which was ratified at the same time.

Defaulter Wilson Committed Suicide.

BELLAIR, O., Feb. 13.—Harry G. Wilson, the defaulting superintendent of the city water works, who disappeared Nov. 18, was found yesterday by two small boys in a thicket, 12 miles east of Wheeling, W. Va., where he had killed himself.

A HOME FOR DOMESTICS.

Father Cushing Founds a Beneficent Institution.

The Rev. Father Cushing has again given proof of his large-heartedness and public spirit by purchasing the house and lot adjoining St. Joseph's church on Manning avenue, which he will open Saturday as a home for living-out girls. The institution will accommodate sixty, and its doors will be freely and always open as a refuge for girls out of work, ill or new in the country.

This is a most commendable charity by this popular priest.

Two Schools Get a Holiday.

A tube in the Babcock boiler in the Franklin school building blew out last night, and the boiler was thereby rendered useless. As it is used in heating both the Franklin and the Stillman schools, both of those institutions had to be closed for to-day. Repairs are in progress, and it is hoped that sessions may be resumed to-morrow.

Two Weeks More For Harris.

The motion for a new trial in the case of Carlyle W. Harris was not argued before Recorder Smyth in New York to-day, as had been expected, but was adjourned for two week in order to give the District Attorney time to get ready answers to the affidavits prepared by Harris's counsel.

I suffered from a severe cold in my head for months and could get no relief. Was advised to use Ely's Cream Balm. It has worked like magic in its cure. I am free from my cold after using the Balm one week, and I believe it is the best remedy known. Samuel J. Harris, wholesale grocer, 139 Front street, New York.

The children's health must not be neglected. Cold in the head causes catarrh. Ely's Cream Balm cures at once. It is perfectly safe and is easily applied into the nostrils. The worst cases yield to it. Price 50c.

I was a sufferer from catarrh for fifteen years with distressing pain over my eyes. I used Ely's Cream Balm with gratifying results. Am apparently cured. E. C. Warren, Rutland, Vt.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 66 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 8-16-7

QUADRUPLE AMPUTATION.

Extraordinary Operation the Last Chance to Save a Man's Life.

Drs. Zeglio, of Washington Valley, J. T. Fritts, of this city, and Anderson, of Bellevue Hospital, will perform an unprecedented surgical operation to-morrow on Andrew Mantz, a brother of Mrs. Jacob Voehl, of Somerset street. The dangerous operation will take place at Mrs. Voehl's residence and will include the amputation of all four hands and feet. The patient is acquainted with his condition; it is not at all likely he can survive, but it is the only chance.

The facts in the case are as told in THE PRESS at the time: Mantz married his second wife several years ago, and the family, including a 20-year-old son lived in "Dog-Watch Hollow." Two years ago his wife left him; and he and his son continued to live on the farm. The son is now learning the painter's trade at Bergen Point.

Four weeks ago to-morrow night Mantz started for a neighbor's, a mile away, to make arrangements for having some hub wood carted. He started for home near midnight, and was almost exhausted by the snow, then nearly a foot deep. He had lost his key to the house, and slept in the barn. Mantz was found at 9 a. m. next morning, nearly frozen to death, and within a few yards of his house, where he had crawled from the barn. Dr. Zeglio attended him. He was brought to North Plainfield, and the best of care given him. Mortification set in, and both hands and both feet are now almost jet black from discoloration. The patient views the situation with evident composure, and expresses himself ready for the end. He is conscious and talks rationally.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

The last of the Assemblies will be given at the Casino to-night.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Rial's company will play "Uncle Tom's Cabin", at Music Hall, Wednesday evening.

James T. Powers, formerly of "The Straight Tip", is to appear in Plainfield to-morrow evening in his new play, "A Mad Bargain".

The pulpit of the Crescent Avenue church was occupied yesterday by the Rev. E. B. Cobb, of the Second church of Elizabeth. He is a Presbyterian.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vail have been rejoicing over the advent of a bright baby boy, but their joy is now tempered with affliction, for Mrs. Vail is suffering with the mumps.

John A. Murphy, for the past seven years in the employ of the Swift Chicago Dressed Beef company, and now manager of their business at Yonkers, spent yesterday with his parents in this city.

Is Secretary Foster of the U. S. treasury a Seventh-Day also? He did nothing on last Sabbath day, but yesterday (Sunday) he held a business conference in New York with the bank presidents.

Abram Storms, father of Mrs. M. C. Dobbins, at whose home on Elmwood place he had spent the past five years, died yesterday at the age of 82. Last Friday he suffered his third stroke of paralysis, which was fatal. The funeral will be held this evening at 8, with interment at Caldwell.

The funeral of the late Mrs. George Strayer took place from the German Reformed church yesterday, the Rev. Cornelius Schenck officiating. The attendance was so large that fully 300 were crowded out of the church. All lamented the untimely death of so popular a young woman.

AS "THE PRESS" SAID.

Rector Jennings Will Not Heed the Bishop's Order Removing Him.

(From the New York World.)

Rector Jennings, of Grace church, at Westfield, announced yesterday that he would hold the fort in spite of Bishop Scarborough's order removing him Feb. 15, [as stated exclusively in THE PRESS of Saturday.] Eighteen persons attended service yesterday morning besides the choir of sixteen voices. Mr. Jennings said that next Sunday evening the four Episcopal clergymen and Dean Rodman, of Plainfield, would be present. He referred in his sermon to his troubles and said he knew all would come out right for him.

An exciting scene took place in the church yesterday morning. A reporter presented himself for admission, which was refused by Mr. Jennings, who exclaimed:

"I order you to leave this church! I am the pastor here! This is my church and these are my people. In their presence I order you to clear out. I have nothing to do with you."

"But, Mr. Jennings", interposed the reporter.

"Don't talk to me! I refuse to be interviewed. I refuse to answer your questions. I order you again to leave and if you don't go, I'll put you out. If I'm not able to put you out there are others who will help me."

Rector Jennings stood in the centre aisle of Grace Episcopal church, when he thus addressed the reporter. The morning service had just been concluded and the congregation were preparing to leave.

Eve's Daughters.

Marion Harland, on pages 103 and 445 of her popular work, "Eve's Daughters; or Common Sense for Maid, Wife and Mother" says:

"For the aching back—should it be slow in recovering its normal strength—an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER is an excellent comforter, combining the sensation of the sustained pressure of a strong warm hand with certain tonic qualities developed in the wearing. It should be kept over the seat of uneasiness for several days—in obstinate cases, for perhaps a fortnight.

"For pain in the back wear an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER constantly, renewing as it wears off. This is an invaluable support when the weight on the small of the back becomes heavy and the aching incessant.

One of my children had a very bad discharge from her nose. Two physicians prescribed, but without benefit. We tried Ely's Cream Balm, and, much to our surprise, there was a marked improvement. We continued using the Balm and in a short time the discharged was cured. O. A. Gary, Corning, N. Y.

SUSPICIOUS FIRE.

Plainfield's Department Has an Early Morning Call.

One of the brick buildings owned by the Heidelhoff estate at 15 Somerset street was damaged by fire shortly after 2 Sunday morning.

The fire started under the stairway at the front of the store, on the first floor, which was occupied by George Albert as a cigar shop and pool room. Albert's goods were damaged to the extent of $300.

The fire was well handled, and the damage on the building kept down to $1,000.

Mantz Bros., occupying the second floor, had $300 damage to their stock mostly by water.

The Emmanuel Baptist church, on the third floor, lost two hymn books and a lamp chimney.

The origin of the fire is mysterious, not to say suspicious. A clue is being followed up.

The alarm was sounded from box 12, and the department quickly responded and did good work. They were so quiet and orderly that the people next door to the fire were not awakened but slept through it all.

George Mehl had his wrist badly cut, and James Martin had his nose scratched, by falling glass. A number of firemen were bruised by falling plaster.

Charming Celebration by a Hale and Hearty Bride and Groom of Fifty Years.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Darby celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage at their residence, Fanwood, Saturday. At 12 o'clock the marriage ceremony was re-performed by the Rev. J. H. Parks of the Scotch Plains Baptist church. After congratulations, the guests, numbering about sixty, were served with a bountiful repast. The floral center-piece, presented by the grandchildren, was a bouquet of fifty Marechal Nell roses, symbolical of the occasion. There were present three children, twelve grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Other guests were present as follows:

FATHER CUSHING'S TRANSFERRAL.

Father Smyth Denies that He Caused the Removal, and Father Cushing Reiterates His Charge.

THE PRESS had an interview this morning with Father Cushing, with regard to Father Smyth's statement made yesterday in St. Mary's church. Father Cushing was very unwilling to be interviewed. He thought there had been already too much publicity given to his removal, and that the whole subject should be dropped.

"But, Father, the words of Father Smyth contradict the assertion that he caused your removal. Moreover, he says he tried to find you a position elsewhere."

"Well,"—said Father Cushing—"I do n't like to throw doubt on Father Smyth's words, but in self-defense I must say that Father Smyth alone caused my removal; and instead of interesting himself to find me a place with another Bishop, he refused my request to stay in his house for a week or two until I could get one. Indeed, to be candid with you, he told me 'the sooner I left the better'. I asked him where I was to go, and his reply was—'the world is wide for you.'"

Father Cushing refused to answer any more questions.

WHY MR. ROSS WAS SUPPRESSED.

He Wanted to Show the School Board How It Could Save $8,000.

In the report in these columns of the last meeting of the Board of Education, it was told how ex-councilman Ross was present presumably to state his views as a tax payer upon the action of the board in paying $13,500 for a new school site, but he was coaxed outside the room by a member of the board before the meeting began, and was never seen again.

It was understood why Mr. Ross was there. He wanted to tell the board of a big lot of property on Madison avenue—about four times what they would need for years—between Fourth and Fifth street, which joined on to the Stillman and Franklin schools, and which they could buy at a saving of $8,000 at least.

But Mr. Ross was told that it was n't a public meeting and that he had better run home.

CHAPS

And How to Get Rid of Them.

Nothing more annoying than chapped hands. And the more you wash the worse they chap! Soap cleans, but soap chaps. That is the philosophy of REYNOLDS'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE, and by using it as directed, you can get rid of the chaps. Originated and made only at

EXTRAVAGANCE AND FAVORITISM.

Interesting Questions for The Board of Education to Answer.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—When the Fourth street school building was erected and the steam plant put in (with the Babcock boiler), was it not the intention of the Board at that time to heat the High School building from the Fourth street plant? It most assurely was, or it would not have been done, which was the case about four years ago at a cost of about $2,700; and now we have a recommendation from the Board to purchase a new boiler for the High School building, and in the meantime the janitor is to receive $1 per night extra to attend the fires and keep the steam up. If the janitor is not competent to rake his fires and keep the steam up, say from 10 or 11 p. m. until 5 or 6 a. m., why not get someone that can? The fire should be cleaned out and rebuilt not later than 5 a. m. to insure properly heated rooms; 7 or 8 o'clock on cold mornings will not do.

When the Bryant school was erected and the steam heating plant was put in by the H. B. Smith Co., who by the way were the favored ones on all the schools, they having no competitions only in one instance, why did they not put in the boilers large enough for any additions that might be required to the building which has been the case, the first cost of which would have been smaller compared with what has been paid for the additional boiler to heat the new extension. The above building now has three boilers, whereas two would have been sufficient. And instead of including in the original contracts, at no extra cost, the fitting of all pipes in the cellar to prevent condensions, it is omitted, and the janitors wonder why it is they cannot get the rooms warm. Result, send for the pipe fitters at an additional expense and cover all pipes in the cellar. And the same may be said of the Irving school. The steam plant there was put in by the same company with the same results, and the piping had to be fitted at an additional cost. And why is the State law so disregarded by having materials furnished and labor performed on the school buildings without inviting competition?

TAX-PAYER.

COMING THIS WAY.

The Electric Railroad from Elizabeth Will Connect All Intervening Towns with Plainfield.

The Cranford town committee has granted a franchise to the Plainfield and Elizabeth electric railway company to lay its tracks through Cranford, and the right of way is now fully secured as far as Westfield. From Westfield to Plainfield will be the next step. The company will by grading improve the road over which it is to run through Cranford. It formally agreed to grade at its own expense all that part of South avenue, between the old road to Westfield, so-called, and the dividing line between the townships of Cranford and Westfield, for an additional eight feet, making a total of sixteen feet to be so graded. For some time past the question of grading South avenue has been discussed by the taxpayers and it was a question who should bear the burden of the expense, the township or the Fourth district. The railroad steps in and relieves everyone else.

The way Lorraine property has been benefited by the prospects of the road is told by the Elizabeth Journal:

"If there is anyone opposed to granting a franchise to the Elizabeth, Lorraine and Plainfield electric railroad, for fear it will injure property interests, all such hallucinations should be dispelled when it is known that property has been sold at $40 per front foot on the contemplated route, when the land was formerly worth not over $400 per acre for farming purposes. As soon as the rails are laid over the route, the south side of the Central railroad will be rapidly built up, as there is no finer location for building sites in this section."

A Mixture of Red Skirts, Bronze Slippers, Etc.

In the second act of "A Mad Bargain" the farce-comedy to be given at Music Hall, to-morrow evening, by James T. Powers and company, there is presented to the view of the auditor suddenly a flash of red, the color of the attire worn by Miss Leona Forrest. Then there is a tap of the drum, a blast of the cornet, a strain of the violin, and a drawl of the bass viol, and this nimble lady begins one of the most amazing and audacious dances seen on the stage. She does n't seem to have any name for it, at least, none is given on the programme, but then it would be a hard matter to describe such a manœuver. It is apparently a mixture of red skirts, pretty face, dainty feet, bronze slippers, grizzly locks, clash and a bang, a whirl and a whiz, and like the alluring Will o-the-Wisp the very moment one feels absolutely assured of its existence it has vanished into the wings like the dew of the morning.

When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

MUMMIES, RUINS, TOMBS,

And Other Cheerful Relics of Bygone Days, to Be Pictured to All Plainfield.

The interesting photographs of Egyptian scenery, life and people now freely displayed in the show windows about town are from the valuable private collection of Mrs. Edward D. McCarthy, of 202 Park avenue, who is one of the enthusiastic and public-spirited women of Plainfield who have made possible the delivery of a delightful series of Egytian lectures in All Souls' church. The photographs have already aroused great interest in the course, and Prof. Wm. H. Goodyear is sure to have a large and attentive audience at his opening lecture, this week Thursday evening.

These lectures not only afford the best of entertainment, but are highly educational. Prof. Goodyear is curator of the Brooklyn institute. He returned from Europe a few months ago. While there he attended and spoke at the ninth oriental congress in London. He was the only American who was given that privilege.

In response to the query what books may be consulted at the Plainfield library in connection with these lectures, the following list is given:

Hulett Bound to be in the Lead.

F. M. Hulett has just included the famous Gildemeester & Kroeger piano with his immense stock of other well-known and first-class makers. Mr. Hulett is a man who knows a good piano when he sees it. He has had many years of experience, and anyone wishing to purchase a good instrument can safely rely on his judgment. He has one of the finest music stores in the State, and carries a stock such as was never before seen in Plainfield. It is needless for anyone to go to New York when there is such a store as Mr. Hulett's in town. He carries as large and well selected a stock as can be found in any of the large cities. It would be well to give him a call before making a purchase.

In considering the Gildemeester & Kroeger piano, it is well to understand that Mr. Gildemeester was managing partner with Chickering & Sons, and Mr. Kroeger was 20 years superintendent of the factory of Steinway & Sons. The experience and knowledge Gildemeester & Kroeger have of piano building is sufficient guarantee of the strictly high grade in which their pianos belong.

Delightful Music at Holy Cross.

The special musical service in Holy Cross church yesterday afternoon was attended by a very large congregation. The choir sang the Gloria Excelsis from Gounod's Messe, in which the solo parts were taken by Wm. Holmes and L. S. Bond. Sweet-singer Bingham of Naugatuck, whom everyone was eager to hear, was prevented by illness from singing. He had sung at the morning service, and was taken ill afterwards. He will sing again at the Ash Wednesday morning service.

Choir-master Wm. H. Miner will remain here till May 1, when he will take charge of the music at St. George's church, Brooklyn. He will continue his instruction here, coming to Plainfield twice a week.

Varney To-Night at Reform Hall.

A grand lecture-entertainment will be given to-night at Reform Hall by Mr. Varney, the famous London phrenologist. Mr. Varney will lecture on "How to read heads", after which a performance, including dancing, singing, etc., will be given by several well-known artists. The admission to the hall is free. Reserved seats will cost 5 cents each. The lecture will begin at 8. Go and take your wife, and enjoy a very profitable evening.

Ten Cent Diamonds.

What's the use of spending so much money for clothes, when with diamond dyes, old dresses, feathers, ribbons, etc., can be made to look like new?

A package costs but ten cents, yet it often saves dollars. They come in all colors, are easy to use, make rich and unfading colors, and are the great money savers of the age.

New so-called remedies spring up every day like mushrooms; but the people still cling to Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. DECOYED SCHOOL GIRLS.

A Pennsylvania Town Convulsed by Scandal.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13.—A special from Shamokin says that warrants have been issued for the arrest of 35 men prominent in business circles here as a consequence of the confession made by a school girl.

In accounting to her father for an unusually prolonged absence from home she admitted that she and many other school pupils had been decoyed by a married woman at Sunbury and in her home introduced to the business men.

The woman implicated by the confession has fled and Northumberland county is convulsed by scandal.

A Centenarian to be Knighted.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Feb. 13.—The order of knighthood will be conferred on Companion Thomas F. Brown, of Fish House Chapter F. and A. M. by Holy Cross Commandery, Knights Templar, Tuesday evening. It will be a remarkable event in the history of the order, as the candidate is 102 years old, and is the oldest man upon whom this initiation was ever conferred. After the ceremony a banquet will be served.

The Delaware River Rising.

TRENTON, Feb. 13.—The Delaware was again higher last night and further damage to property is feared. The ice moved slowly all day yesterday until the return tide set in when it became fixed again. The ice at Perriwig bar rises 30 feet high. The lowlands below Trenton are completely submerged while the mills along the river are invaded with water and none of them opened for business this morning.

Peary Preparing to Go North.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13.—Lieut. R. E. Peary, United States Navy, has purchased part of his food supplies for his two years exploration of Greenland, and is negotiating with ship owners in St. Johns, N. F., for a whaler or sealer to take his little party North. The expedition will cost about $25,000, and the explorer is raising the necessary funds by a lecture tour ending early in May.

No Flood Danger at Toledo.

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 13.—There seems to be little danger that there will be a flood in Toledo. The ice as far as Marengo Park is solid and with the prospects of a cold wave, the people may reasonably rest easy. Old river men are of the opinion that there will be no flood, and that seems to be the impression of everybody.

Efforts to Disbar Speaker Davis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 13.—The motion to disbar Ralph Davis, Speaker of the Tennessee House of Representatives, from practising law in any court of record in the State, because of the charge against him of blackmailing a client out of $1,500, and with accepting a bribe, is now being heard here.

Plainfield, N. J., February 10, 1893.

AN ORDINANCE

To Provide a New system of street numbers.

The Inhabitants of the city of Plainfield by their Common Council do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the several parcels of real estate fronting on the streets, lanes and alleys of the city of Plainfield shall be renumbered, and each of said parcels shall be known and designated by the number or numbers indicated on the official maps adopted by resolution of the Common Council February sixth, eighteen hundred and ninety three, on file with the city clerk, and entitled as follows: "Map of the city of Plainfield, Wards No. 1, and No. 2, showing new system of numbering, 1893," and "Maps of the city of Plainfield, Wards No. 3, and No. 4, showing new system of numbering, 1893," made by F. A. Dunham, C. E., and said maps are hereby adopted as the official maps of the city of Plainfield for the purpose of establishing street numbers.

Section 2. That the owner or owners of each and every dwelling house or store which now fronts upon any of the public streets, lanes or alleys of said city, shall within sixty days after this Ordinance goes into effect, cause the proper number of such dwelling house or store to be placed in figures in some substantial manner in some conspicuous place on the front part of such dwelling house or store, so as to be plainly visible from the sidewalk, and in default of compliance herewith, shall be liable to a penalty of five dollars for each and every offense.

Sec. 3. That the owner or owners of every dwelling house or store that may hereafter be erected within the limits of said city, shall, within thirty days after the completion thereof, cause the proper number of such dwelling house or store to be placed in figures in some substantial manner in some conspicuous place on the front part of such dwelling house or store so as to be plainly visible from the sidewalk, and in default of compliance herewith, shall be liable to a penalty of five dollars for each and every offense.

Sec. 4. That to enable the owner or owners of any parcel of real estate fronting on any of the streets, lanes or alleys of said city to ascertain the correct number thereof, it shall be the duty of the city clerk, upon application made to him, to furnish his certificate in writing giving the necessary information, to be derived from said official maps and said official maps shall also at all proper times be open to the inspection of the public at the office of the city clerk.

Sec. 5. That in case the owner of any lot or lots shall at any time desire the renumbering thereof he shall be at liberty to apply to the Common Council by petition, which petition shall be accompanied by a properly prepared map showing the changes desired, and clearly showing how the numbers for the entire block would stand in case such renumbering is ordered. The applicant shall present with his said petition, proof by affidavit that a copy of said petition together with notice of his intention to apply to the Common Council has been served upon all of the owners of property fronting on the said block or published in all the official papers of said city at least ten days prior to date of presentation of such petition, and thereupon the Common Council may in its discretion by resolution order said block to be renumbered in the manner specified in such application or in such other manner as they may deem best. In case the Common Council order any change in the numbering of said block, a map duly authenticated shall be filed with the city clerk showing the changes as made, and upon said map being so filed, the numbers designated thereon shall, as to the block in question, supercede those on the original maps referred to in this ordinance.

DID YOU EVER RIDE BEHIND AN OX TEAM?

Rather Slow, Ain't It.

There is just the same difference between our way of doing business and the way others do it, as there if between a Blue Line Flyer and an ox team.

Wouldn't you rather do business and buy your goods of a cencern that believes in moving things on the fast line principle? Buy goods to-day and sell them to-morrow on a close, quick profit—or on the ox team principle, buy to-day and sell next year or never, because they want big profits.

We believe in close, quick profit, hence our great success.

WITH THE INDIANS.

Night Scenes Witnessed by a Traveler in Their Camps.

Antics That Would Not Be Considered Proper in Polite Society—An Underground Gambling Den—A Courtship Without Waste of Words.

[COPYRIGHT, 1892.]

An Indian camp at night is the noisiest spot on earth. However the savage may wrap himself in silent and stoic dignity when in the streets of the crowded city, he is invariably found to be a rollicking, shouting calathumpian in his night drawn camp. If it is not the "Indian german," in which a woman instead of a man leads, and from which "modern civilization" has stolen our "german" bodily, then it is blind man's buff, or story telling, accompanied by peals of laughter, or love-making, or the recounting of exploits, hunts, battles, journeys, tortures, dances, myths, legends, traditions, or private theatricals on a large scale, or games of various sorts, or geography taught from sand pictures.

It is night. The tom-tom sounds. The crowds assemble. What shall be the fun? That will depend upon the locality of different camps. Sometimes it is noisy, sometimes noiseless. Let me describe some of these night scenes in Indian camps as I have witnessed them. I was riding near the outskirts of one of these camps at evening. The night was falling and nothing was to be heard in the haunts of the Indian reservation save the stirring of wild game under the brake and the twitter of the birds. The horses were given their heads on the trail and we passed by at a smart gallop.

ALL HANDS GAMBLING.

Suddenly the hoofs of my horse rang hollow. It was a cavernous sound and had a ghostly, muffled echo.

"Did you hear that sound?" I asked, turning round in the saddle toward the guide.

"Yes," said the trained scout, whose nice ear detected instantly each different shade of sound, "come back here a bit, sir, we've struck a shack."

"A what?" I queried, reigning my horse round and drawing up to the guide.

"A shack. A gambling hole under the ground. Now be still, please, sir," said Happy Jack.

The scout dismounting kneeled down on the ground over the hollow sounding spot, and after dipping his finger tips through the sand and auscultating it very much as a surgeon would a lung drum called down as he rapped:

"Hello there! ——, open up, old boy."

I could hear dim, stifled voices under the ground at the sound of the scout's call, as if they were arguing the advisability of lifting up the door of the "shack."

Finally, however, the earth suddenly started up almost under the very feet of the guide, and a red, swart Indian, with long black hair and a fierce glance, peeped suspiciously out at first, but on recognizing the guide raised the trap to the top.

A light shone up through the opening and cast a dim ray on the soft, spongy, sheep tracked earth.

I looked down through this hole as I sat on my horse and saw by the help of the light a lurid picture.

At the centre of the "shack" was a small table, covered with cards and cups. On one side of the table sat three Indians in a half intoxicated condition. Behind them stood two squaws also in a partially inebriated condition. On the opposite side of the table, and resting his elbows on it, sprawled a huge, desperate-faced man, a professional gambler. He was the best monte player in that country. He was never beaded. He had won $3,500 from the Indians in that very "cache," and had put properties of more Indians in pawn than any other man about the place.

The Indians are intense gamblers. The women watch the men, and will stake their necklaces, leggings, ornaments, and in fact their all, on the play, which is done sometimes with blue wild plum stones, hieroglyphically charactered, and sometimes with playing bones, but oftener with common cards. Above ground the tom-tom would be sounded, but below the ground the tom-tom was buried.

The thing that moved me most in this dissolute den was the spectacle in the furthest corner of the "shack" of an Indian mother with a papoose in its baby case peeping over her back. There she stood behind an Indian gambler to whom she had joined her life, painted and beaded and half intoxicated. The Indian husband had already put his saddle in pawn to the white professional gambler for his five dollars and it was not five minutes before the white gambler had the saddle and the five dollars both. Then, when they had nothing else left to bet, so intense was their love for gambling, they began to put themselves in pawn, piecemeal, saying: "I'll bet you my hand, my arm, my leg," and at last, when all the capital organs of the body were lost, "I'll bet you my whole body." That means: "I'll put myself in pawn to you as your slave, to serve you as you will for a specified time."

So it was that this Indian mother stood leaning back wearily against the wall, half drunk and dazed with smoke and heat, when all at once the Indian who lived with her said to her in Indian: "Put in the baby for a week. Then pay day will come." It was done. The baby was handed over. That is what civilization has done for the Indian. Its virtues escape him; its vices inoculate him.

One of these vices is gambling. The Indian is kept poor the year round and plucked of every pinfeather. That is the principal reason why he steals not only to reimburse himself for loss, but also to revenge himself upon the white man, who he knows well enough has constantly robbed him.

Gambling as witnessed in an Indian camp at night, is a very different affair from the cache. The tom-tom notifies all that the bouts with fortune are about to begin. During the game the music is steadily kept up. In the intervals between the game the players all sing. Crowds surround the camp. When a man loses heavily the whole camp know it in a few minutes, and not infrequently the wife rushes in and puts a stop to the stake by dragging her chief away. Gambling is the great winter game. It is often played from morning till night and right on all night long. Cheating and trickery of every sort are all practiced.

The Utes play with two bones in each hand, one of which is wrapped about with a string. The game is to guess the hand that holds the wrapped bone.

The plum stone game is played by the plains Indians. It is only another name for dice throwing. The plum stones are graved with hieroglyphics, and counts are curiously made in a way that often defies computation by white men. The women gamble quite as much as the men, and grow even more excited over the game than their lords. Their game as witnessed by me among the Cheyennes is played with beads, little loops and long horn sticks made of deer foot.

The Indians have all sorts of tricks that were originally invented by them and long afterward learned by the white men. Some of these tricks have even crept into the schoolbooks and arithmetics of civilization. They can be very easily traced to the savage.

An old Comanche trickster, Me-la-quetah, said to me: "I will show you a little string trick which, after I show you, you cannot do for a long time, even after you see it done, and when you can do it you will soon forget how to do it till you are shown the second time."

The trick is to take a little loop of string, catch it on the two fore fingers, bring the thumbs to the fingers and, giving the latter a dexterous turn, suddenly leave the tied loop lying loose on the two fingers. It is one of the simplest and hardest string tricks that can be tried. It was originally devised by the Comanche Indians.

Here is a Cheyenne puzzle in arithmetic which, although placed in a progressive ratio, is not easy to solve. If any white civilian thinks it inconsequential let him try it. The problem is this: An Indian mother had three sons. To one she gave ten apples, to another thirty, and to the third fifty, saying: "Go, my sons, sell all your apples for the same price and bring me back each of you the same amount of money."

How did they do it? Mu-la-que-tah can tell you.

This is the way the plains Indians split buffalo hide.

"What is the half of twelve?" Everybody says "six," of course.

Mu-la-que-tah says seven. Of course it is a trick, but how possibly? The Indians simply take the numeral XII. and draw a line through one-half of it, or fold one-half back on paper, and say: "See? VII.; the half of twelve is seven." The halved top of the numeral tells the story.

Curious tricks like these serve to while away the night.

Geography is taught by rude tracings in the sand. I saw an old Indian teaching a little Indian boy the whole country from the Mississippi to the Pacific coast by river and railroads and large towns drawn in earth.

But dancing with the Indians, as with us, is the main pastime of the nocturnal hours. For these dances both men and women robe themselves in their best attire and deck their hair, limbs and bodies in beadwork of all devices and descriptions. The dances are as many as the dancers. A few only it fell to my lot to witness.

The "sign dance" is a very clever and curious one. A pretty woman leads a man into the room set apart for the purpose. This is one of two tepees thrown together. In one are the tom-tom beaters, in the other the dancers. In this room the couple begin to dance, making signs to each other, the meaning of which may be: "Well, what do you think of me? Do you like me? Do you think me pretty? How do I affect you?" and so on, the signs being all closely watched by the spectators, who applaud, giggle, chuckle or laugh uproariously by turns as the case may be. Such a dance is a questioning bee, a collision of wits on the part of two really facetious Indians. Wit is a universal trait of the savage. Some white [illegible] Some white [illegible] diance gambling, [illegible] humorous. All Indians are witty. They wit, with a proverbial philosophy in it which would have delighted the soul of Tupper, is indigenous to the Indian. The Indian is the finest epigrammatist on earth. His sentences are pithy and sententious because short—never long and involved. A book of Indian wit and wisdom would have an enormous sale and would reveal the very core of his thought on a typical scale.

I saw one of these women, who was a true type of an Indian flirt. She was sweet, saucy, subtle, seductive. She had the art of keeping in stock constantly about her a score of bucks, each one of whom flattered himself that he and he alone was the special object of her admiration. Every tribe has had its belle, Pa-quita for the Modocs, Ur-skate-na for the Navajos, Mini-haha for the Dacotas, Romona for the neighboring bands. These belles have their foes among Indian women, but however cordially hated they never brawl or come to blows.

AN OLD HOMESTEAD.

The Teller Mansion at Matteawan, N. Y., Built in 1709.

People go over to Europe and admire the old cathedrals there and marvel at the magnificent piles of architecture, saying the while that America has nothing to compare with them, quite forgetting the old Spanish church at St. Augustine, Fla. But old cathedrals, however charming to the antiquary, haven't the human interest that an old homestead has, in which generation after generation of children have been born, have passed through the perils of teething, of croup and all other midnight alarms, have had scarlet fever and got well, have had diphtheria for which the white streamer has fluttered from the door-handle and a mother's heart has broken; a house where little boys have played around in summer with stubbed toes or have built snow forts in winter; have fought with their brothers and other boys; have grown up into the squawky hobbledehoy period; have married and gone away; a house which has had happy brides, happy mothers and mourning widows, and which still offers a cozy, warm shelter to its own—this is an antiquity far more interesting than any cold-footed old cathedral which was ever built with the money twisted out of the unwilling hands of a half-starved peasantry.

The oldest homestead of this kind in America is the Teller house at Matteawan, Dutchess county, N. Y., of which a picture is here given. It is still held by the heirs in a direct line from old Roger Brett, who built it in 1709. Perhaps it isn't right to call him "old," seeing that he built it for his bride, who was the daughter of Francis Rombout, who was a pretty big man in his day. He was a rich merchant in New York away back in the last part of the seventeenth century. He was mayor of the town and owned a lot of property on "De Herres Staat," which he probably considered a fairly good investment. What would Mr. Rombout have said if he could have foreseen that the "Herres Staat" was to be the Broadway of modern New York, whereon one front foot is worth what would have been a fortune in those days? This Francis Rombout, whose only daughter married Roger Brett, was the man who, with Giulian Ver Planck, secured from his Christian majesty, King James II., a patent for 16,000 acres of land extending as far north as Poughkeepsie.

In those days Thomas Dongan was vice-admiral of New York. Some seventy years after, about when modern built houses would be tumbling down, this homestead was occupied by Robert Brett's son-in-law, who was quartermaster for a pestiferous rebel named George Washington. Salt and provisions were stored in its cellars, and ragged continental soldiers slept in rows on the floors of its spacious chambers. The old mansion was the ancestral home of Isaac Teller and his sister, Mrs. R. B. Van Kleeck. It is now owned by Mrs. Robert Fulton Crary, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and is in an excellent state of preservation, although it is 183 years old.

The Giant of All Timepieces.

The greatest horological wonder in the world to-day is the gigantic clock in the tower of the immense "public building" at Philadelphia. When everything is in running order this marvel of the clockmaker's art will be stationed a distance of 351 feet from the pavement. Its bell weighs between 20,000 and 25,000 pounds and is the second largest bell of any kind in America, the great bell at Montreal being the largest, weighing 28,000 pounds. The dial of this Philadelphia titan is 25 feet in diameter and the striking hammer is as large as a pile-driver weight. The minute hand is 12 and the hour hand 9 feet in length. The machinery is arranged so that the clock will strike every fifteen minutes, the quarter, half, three-quarters and hours. The Roman numerals on the face are each about 2 feet 8 inches in length, the dark part of the figures being 3¼ inches in width. As it is entirely out of the question to talk of winding such a monster by hand, a three-horse power engine has been placed at the square of the tower for that especial purpose.

Very Impolite.

Little Dot—Mamma, isn't it impolite for folks to whisper?

Mamma—Yes, my dear.

Little Dot—Well, Dick an' Johnny has been whisperin' ever so long. They's in the nursery.

Mamma—That is very impolite. Were you near them?

Little Dot—Yes'm. I was peekin' through the keyhole.—Good News.

HIS PLEA FOR HOME RULE

Gladstone's Speech Pronounced a Matchless Effort.

LONDON PRESS ON THE MEASURE.

Retention of the Irish Members at Westminster Regarded as Its Weakest Feature—The Times Calls the Bill a Great Disappointment—The Premier's Enthusiastic Greeting.

LONDON, Feb. 14.—Commenting on the Home Rule bill as introduced by Mr. Gladstone, the Times says:

"Those whom Mr. Gladstone failed to convince in 1886 will not be convinced now by a less powerful and less persuasive appeal. The speech, indeed, was marvellous for a man of 84 years. But if he has shown that he can still bend the bow of Ulysses, his most uncritical admirers will hardly refuse to confess that he can no longer send the arrow straight to the mark.

"The case presented abounded with ingenuities and plausibilities, yet it produced an impression of profound disappointment. The exclusion of Irish members from Westminster, the very cornerstone of Mr. Gladstone's policy of 1886, has disappeared. The most indulgent will fail to discern the faintest sign of finality in the scheme, and his omission of any reference to the land question until questioned on the subject, indicates plainly how he has artificially restricted his views.

"The proposed upper council is an exceedingly doubtful protection for the minority. The most fertile source of quarrel will be the financial proposals."

The Daily Telegraph speaks of the sight of Mr. Gladstone delivering his speech as a spectacle to which the world cannot supply a parallel. "It was," says the Telegraph, "a truly wonderful exhibition of that form of moral courage which shows itself in lighthearted unconsciousness of difficulties. Until this complex bill is printed, it will only be possible to glance at the airy manner in which Mr. Gladstone meets the objections urged to the Home Rule bill of 1886. Marvelous as a physical and intellectual tour de force, it is not statesmanship, nor does it bear the remotest resemblance to anything deserving the name."

The Daily Graphic says: "The prospects of the bill are not rosy. The measure bristles with difficulties. A controversy is likely to rage over the veto power and the retention of the Irish members at Westminster. The latter proposal is undoubtedly the weakest part of the bill, giving the Irish, as it does, an enormous lever with which to exact any further concessions."

The Chronicle says: "Mr. Gladstone achieved a feat unique in the life of any legislator of ancient or modern times. The retention of the Irish members at Westminster is, according to our judgment, one important feature that makes the bill acceptable to both England and Ireland. Altogether the present bill is a great improvement over that of 1886, and those opposing it ought to produce some alternative plan of their own."

The Morning Post says: "The measure is more futile and fantastic than before submitted to a civilized assembly. It impugns every principle of equality which it asserts and omits the case of Ulster as it does the land problem."

A despatch from Dublin quotes the Freeman's Journal as follows: "Whilst open to improvement the bill is altogether a good water-tight measure."

The Irish Times says: "Seven years have failed to teach Mr. Gladstone respect either of the rights of the Irish minority or the facts of history. Ulster says simply that it will not have it."

GLADSTONE'S GREAT SPEECH.

Declared by Many a Matchless Effort—Congratulations for the Premier.

LONDON, Feb. 14.—Naught but praise is heard of Mr. Gladstone's speech in introducing the Home Rule bill. Justice Harlan, of the United States Supreme Court, in conversation with Mr. Gladstone's secretary in the lobby of the house, declared that the entire speech was matchless, and that the peroration was the most beautiful in pathos he had ever heard.

Among the distinguished auditors in the House were the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, and the Duke of Teck, who, seated above the clock, listened intently to the speech.

On the table lay the Premier's lozenge pot—an item of all his long speeches. The presence of a lamp to aid his failing sight added pathos to the scene.

Mr. Gladstone began in a slow, measured voice, his evident intention being to husband his resources. But his voice, though fine at the start, weakened manifestly during the preliminary sentences.

Many eloquent passages were wasted upon the audience, owing to impatient curiosity to hear the details of the scheme. Indeed the introduction suffered from prolixity. Hence, by the time the speaker arrived at the provisions of the bill his voice had lowered considerably, and the financial statements were almost inaudible beyond the table.

He recovered his voice somewhat, however, during the peroration, which was remarkably fine and impressive.

At the conclusion of his speech Mr. Gladstone was overwhelmed with congratulations.

He took tea at the House of Commons, and, after resting an hour, drove home in high spirits. He dined with his family, and maintained his vivacious mood during the entire evening.

Throughout the time Mr. Gladstone was speaking Messrs. Balfour, Goschen, Chaplin, Bartlett and other prominent members of the opposition took copious notes.

Mr. Gladstone entered the House of Commons at half past three o'clock.

Every Liberal and Irish Nationalist in the House stood up, and greeted him with prolonged and enthusiastic cheers.

When Mr. Gladstone arose at forty-three minutes past three, to introduce the Home Rule bill there was another demonstration so earnest, so enthusiastic and irrepressible that it was several minutes before he could be heard.

Mr. Gladstone spoke in part as follows:

"I may, without impropriety, remind the House that the voices which usually pleaded the cause of Irish self-government in Irish affairs have, within these walls during the last seven years, been almost entirely mute.

"I return, therefore, to the period of 1886, when a proposition of this kind was submitted on the part of the Government of the day, and I beg to remind the House of the position then taken up by all the promoters of these measures.

"We said that we had arrived at a point in our transactions with Ireland where the two roads parted.

"You have, we said, to choose one or the other. One is the way of Irish autonomy, according to the conceptions I have just referred to, the other is the way of coercion. That is our contention. It will be the recollection of the House how that contention was most stoutly and largely denied. It was said over and over again by many members opposite 'We are not coercionists; we do not adopt that alternative, and neither can we adopt it.' (Ministerial cheers.)

"That assertion of theirs was undoubtedly sustained by the proposals, especially from the dissentient Liberals of various plans dealing with Irish affairs. These plans, though they fell entirely short in principle and in scope of Irish self-government, yet were of no trivial or mean importance. They went far beyond what had heretofore been usually proposed in the way of local self-government for Ireland.

"Well, what has been the result of the dilemma as it was then put forward on this side of the House and repelled by the other? Has our contention that the choice lay between autonomy and coercion been justified or not? (Liberal Cheers.)

"What has become of each and all of those important schemes for giving Ireland self-government in provinces, and giving her even a central establishment in Dublin with limited powers? All vanished into thin air, but the reality remains. The roads were still there, autonomy or coercion. The choice lay between them and the choice made was to repell autonomy and embrace coercion.

"You cannot always follow coercion in an absolutely uniform method. In 1886 for the first time coercion was imposed on Ireland in the shape of a permanent law added to the statute book.

"This state of things constituted an offending against the harmony and traditions of self-government. It was a distinct and violent breach of the promise on the faith of which union was obtained. That permanent system of repression inflicted upon the country a state of things which could not continue to exist. It was impossible so bring the inhabitants of the country under coercion into sympathy with the coercion power."

Mr. Gladstone proceeded to dilate at length upon the circumstances under which the act of union was passed, the promise of equality in the laws, and of commercial equality under which union was effected.

It was then prophesied confidently, he said, that Irishmen would take their places in the Cabinet of the United Kingdom, but it had been his honored destiny to sit in Cabinets with no less than sixty to seventy statesmen, of whom only one, the Duke of Wellington, was an Irishman, while Castlereagh was the only Irishman who had sat in the Cabinet since union.

Mr. Gladstone concluded his speech as follows.

"Ireland has asked you to save for yourselves every imperial power. She has consented to accept the House of Commons and the universal supremacy of the Empire. In return she has asked you only that she have the management of her own affairs, which reason and justice, combined with the voice of her people, I hope, will soon, move this nation to say shall be awarded her.

"If this is to be the end of the matter I think dispassionate men would say the sooner ended the better; the sooner we stamp the seal which will efface all our former animosities and open the era of peace and good will—the sooner done the better. But these are matters which human vision is hardly equal to penetrating.

"I must say, however, for my own part, that I never will and never can be a party to bequeathing to my country the continuance of this heritage of discord which has been handed down from generation to generation, with hardly momentary interruption, through seven centuries—this heritage of discord with all the evils that follow in its train. I wish no part nor lot in that process. It would be misery for me if I had foregone or omitted in these closing years of my life any measure it was possible for me to take towards upholding and promoting the cause which I believe to be the cause not of party or one nation, but of all parties and all nations.

"Viewing them as I do with their vast opportunities not as a living union for power and happiness, to these nations I say: Let me entreat you—if it were my latest breath I would so entreat you—let the dead bury their dead and cast behind you forever recollections of bygone evils; cherish love and sustain one another through all vicissitudes of human affairs in times that are to come."

When the cheering had died out Sir Edward Clark, who was Attorney General in the Salisbury administration, congratulated Mr. Gladstone on the magnificent physical effort which he had just made and then proceeded to enlarge on the proposals of the bill.

The text of the bill will not appear before the end of this week.

GRAVE APPREHENSION AT TRENTON.

Many Mills at a Standstill—Six Thousand Hands Out of Employment—Water Supply Growing Short—The Big Ice Gorge at Perriwig Bar to be Blown Up with Dynamite.

TRENTON, Feb. 14.—The flood in the Delaware river is causing the gravest apprehension here. The water is now within a few inches of the superstructure of the Pennsylvania Railroad bridge.

Telegrams from the upper Delaware say that miles of ice have given away above, and that the ice is coming down with a rush.

Engines and loaded coal cars are kept in readiness to be run on the railroad bridge.

The one small engine that has been in use at the pumping station of the city water works is shut down, and now the city's supply of water is limited to that in the reservoir.

A rise of a foot more will flood the engine room of the State House.

Yesterday the Board of Public Works held a meeting and determined on an attempt to start the ice out of the river by the use of dynamite.

A force of men will go to Perriwig Bar to-day and begin operations on the great gorge there.

All the bridges between Trenton and Lambertville are now in danger.

The flour mills of the city are all at a standstill, owing to the inundation of their lower floors, and altogether there are now more than 6,000 hands out of employment.

The Delaware is higher than ever before in its history.

FOSTER SEEKS OPINIONS.

New York Bankers Consulted on the Gold Situation.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Secretary Foster was due at the Sub-Treasury at noon yesterday to consult with Assistant Treasurer Roberts. At that hour a number of men called to see him. It was 3 o'clock before he arrived, however, and he saw only Mr. Roberts.

To reporters Secretary Foster said he was personally opposed to issuing bonds at present.

Still, he is glad to get the advice of bankers on the matter. He believes that altogether too much stress has been put upon the action of the banks in transferring a part of their gold to Assistant Treasurer Roberts.

It was a good thing at the time, but he does not believe it was necessary to convince the financial community of the solidity of the government's resources.

Many Wall street men and bankers expected that he would announce his decision yesterday, but Assistant Treasurer Roberts said the Secretary would do nothing until after he returned to Washington.

The President and his Cabinet will meet to-day, and Mr. Foster will lay before them the entire situation for them to take action upon.

A few days ago it was said on good authority that the banks, which had supplied the Treasury with gold, were ready with $8,000,000 more which they would transfer from their vaults to the Treasury on the same conditions.

There seems to be less willingness now, the banks feeling that they have done more than their duty.

There was a report that Mr. Foster intended to call upon President-elect Cleveland and Senator Carlisle, who is to be his successor in the new Cabinet. Whether he did so or not is not publicly known.

DOINGS IN CONGRESS.

Nicaragua Canal Bill in the Senate—Local Bills in the House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The bill which is intended to secure the construction of the Nicaragua ship canal occupied the attention of the Senate yesterday.

It provides that 6 per cent. bonds of the company to an amount not exceeding $100,000,000, shall be guaranteed, principal and interest, by the Government of the United States—these bonds to be issued according as money is actually paid out and expended by the company in the construction of the canal.

The Government is then to own the capital stock of the company, with the exception of 12,000,000 of it, which is to be retained by the company and except the shares to be delivered to the governments of Nicaragua and Costa Rica.

Mr. Frye (Rep. Maine) undertook to show that the work would, with the guarantee, be fully completed at a cost of $100,000,000 and that its fixed charges would be only $5,000,000, whereas without the guarantee the cost would be not less than $200,000,000 and its fixed charges $14,000,000 a year.

Mr. Morgan (Dem., Ala.) discussed the diplomatic features of the measure which went over without action till to-day.

The District of Columbia Committee, notwithstanding the protest of the Committee on Appropriations, held the floor in the House yesterday. Half a dozen measures of entirely local import were passed.

THE WHITE HOUSE ROBBED.

President Harrison Misses Some Private Papers and Jewelry.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Shortly after the recent illness of one of the children of the President's household, when the patient had become convalescent, the President decided to have the White House fumigated, and he notified the Health officer, Dr. Hamnett, to that effect.

In the meantime the family moved to the Arlington. The Health Officer turned the job over to the public bound master, who, together with several assistants, fumigated the house from top to bottom.

When the President a day or two ago went to get some private papers and jewelry which he had left at the White House, he was informed that both papers and jewelry had been burned.

Although the President does not accuse anyone, he intends to make an investigation.

NO FAIR EXHIBIT.

Chili Not to be Represented at the Great Exposition.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 14.—In an interview the Chilian Consul General at this port, N. Guerrero, said: "There will be no exhibit from Chili at Chicago. My government has delined to take part in the World's Fair, and I have received advices that there will be no exhibit of Chilian products."

In denying that a government vessel was en route from Chili with exhibits, Mr. Guerrero said it would be a long time before any port in the United States would see a Chilian warship.

The Chilians have not forgotten either the Itata or the Baltimore incident, or how the Charleston steamed down there.

A Bill Against the Crinoline Craze at Albany.

MANY COMMITTEES AFTER IT.

Assemblyman Smith's Bill Causes Much Merriment in the Legislature—To Prohibit Their Manufacture, Sale and Use—The Real Estate Exchange Rapid Transit Bill.

ALBANY, Feb. 14. — Assemblyman Smith's bill to prevent the approach of a crinoline epidemic, as introduced last night, is creating much amusement. Mr. Smith made a short speech, saying he introduced the bill to encourage women of sense and good judgment to resist the foolish dictates of fashion.

The bill makes it a misdemeanor to manufacture, sell, give away, or wear hoopskirts or crinoline.

Tim Sullivan was at once on his feet to move a reference to his Committee on Commerce and Navigation. He referred to the narrow streets in lower New York, and said that if several women wearing crinoline should pass along it would be difficult for a man to navigate. Hence, his committee was the proper one.

Duffy commenced to acclaim for his Committee on Public Health, while John Kerrigan was equally strenuous for Trades and Manufactures.

Sullivan's idea, however, caught the House, and his committee got the bill.

In the way of new legislation proposed, the most important bill was the Real Estate Exchange Rapid Transit bill, introduced by Assemblyman Ellison, of New York.

The bill continues the existing commission, and enables it to submit the franchises again for sale.

In case of a failure to sell, the commission shall certify that fact to the county clerk.

At the general election in November the question shall be submitted to the people as to whether or not the city shall construct and equip the road, according to whatever system the commission approves, the city to pay therefor by the issuance of 5 per cent. bonds, the road to be leased at a minimum rental of an amount sufficient to pay the interest on the bonds and an additional 2 per cent. for a sinking fund.

The bill is to be vigorously pushed with all the backing the Real Estate Exchange can bring to it.

In the Senate a bill was introduced by Senator Abern limiting the gross amount of life insurance that may be policied, written by any one company to $1,000,000. This would restrict the three big companies from doing new business after a few years.

Blaine Nominated by the Legislature.

ALBANY, Feb. 14.—The time of the Senate last night was devoted to eulogies of James G. Blaine. Senators Saxton, Cantor, O'Connor, McCarren, Edwards, Roesch, Smith and McClelland spoke.

TESTING THE NEW FUSE.

Trials with High Explosives on the Vesuvius To-day.

PORT ROYAL, S. C., Feb. 14.—The question of the efficiency of the Rapieff fuse is all important on board the Vesuvius just now.

Captain Rapieff stoutly maintains that in each instance the fuses have exploded. He admits that it is more than probable that the gun cotton primer did not detonate the gunpowder charge, but is inclined to ridicule the idea that the fuse itself failed to perform its functions.

The Board took 15 pounds of gunpowder, lowered it 10 fathoms below a buoy and had it exploded by electricity. No smoke was observable after the explosion and there was no surface indications which could be seen at a distance equal to that occupied by the Wahneta in reference to shells fired Saturday. This will strength Captain Rapieff's claim that all the fuses have proved efficient.

This was practically the only thing of much importance that was done yesterday.

To-day actual tests with high explosives will be made. Three shells will be loaded with 90 pounds of gun cotton each. A small charge is used to avoid any possible accident from premature explosion of the shells.

Money Enough to Pay All Depositors.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Feb. 14.—The run on the Economy bank continued without abatement yesterday, and at times the crowd was so great that it was almost impossible to get inside the bank. All demands were met promptly, and Cashier Reeves says there is enough money on hand to pay all depositors. Despite the rush, many merchants made large deposits as proof of their confidence in the stability of the institution.

MAKE IT AN EXCURSION!

EVERYBODY INVITED TO TRENTON ON THE 28TH INST

To Tell Why the Plainfield Board of Education's Absolute and Arbitrary Powers Should be Restricted.

Corporation counsel C. A. Marsh, ex-judge John Ulrich and lawyer W. M. Stillman were in Trenton this morning directing their attention to the bill having in view the taking from the Plainfield Board of Education its power to purchase lands, erect buildings, and tax and bond the people as it pleases.

The bill is No. 224. It was introduced by assemblyman Kyte last Wednesday. It is now in the hands of the committee on municipal corporations of which Mr. Daly is chairman. Messrs. Marsh, Ulrich and Stillman were introduced to the committee this morning and Tuesday the 28th, after the morning adjournment, was appointed as a time when the committee will hear from every citizen of Plainfield who cares to appear and tell why or why not the bill should be made a law.

The full text is as follows:

An Act concerning the purchase of lands and the providing of buildings for school purposes in cities.

Sec. 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no municipal board of any city other than the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body of said city shall have power to purchase land or to erect or alter any building for school purposes, the expense of which shall exceed one thousand dollars, without the concurrence and approval first obtained of the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body of said city.

Sec. 2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts, general or special, so far as they are inconsistent with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

The bill as it is, however, has already met strong outside opposition, as it effects Trenton, Camden, New Brunswick and other second-class cities. It will have to be amended so as to apply only to cities of the third class, and then it will go.

There is some talk of engaging a special train to take down the large body of Plainfield citizens who will go to Trenton on the 28th inst., in favor of the bill. The merchants should close their stores and make an excursion day of it.

COLLISION ON PARK AVENUE.

A Coachman's Drunk Followed by Serious Consequences.

Because he was drunk last night, John Dugan lost his employer's horse, wrecked two carriages, knocked himself out of a job, and became financially liable to the city.

Dugan was coachman for the Sandfords. At 12:30 last night he essayed, while intoxicated, to drive to the Casino for some of the family. He proceeded in a reckless manner down Front street and rounded up at Somerset with almost an upset. He succeeded in turning about, and after a warning from policeman Frederickson drove on down Park avenue. He again permitted his horse to attain a furious speed. Doc Vail, driver for Al. Hedden, was on the avenue, and crowded up against the curb in an effort to get out of the way. The Sandford carriage, however, crashed into his, and both vehicles were wrecked. The horses were freed and ran away. Hedden's was found this morning at Evona. Sandford's probably did not stop this side of Metuchen. Search is still being made for it.

Policeman Frederickson arrested Dugan and locked him up. Dugan said he did n't believe he could afford the $10 fine judge Coddington imposed on him this morning. He was given the alternative of going to jail. Dugan will not work for the Sandfords any more, nor will he get a "recommend".

A Caterer's Unfortunate Neglect.

Mrs. C. S. Langdon, of 10 First place, entertained a select few of her friends at tea, Saturday. Through some misunderstanding the caterer's goods which were expected at 2:30 did not arrive until the 5 o'clock express, and not until most of the guests had left. They all had a fine time, however, for Mrs. Langdon is a most charming hostess.

Eve's Daughters.

Marion Harland, on pages 103 and 445 of her popular work, "Eve's Daughters; or Common Sense for Maid, Wife and Mother" says:

"For the aching back—should it be slow in recovering its normal strength—an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER is an excellent comforter, combining the sensation of the sustained pressure of a strong warm hand with certain tonic qualities developed in the wearing. It should be kept over the seat of uneasiness for several days—in obstinate cases, for perhaps a fortnight.

"For pain in the back wear an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER constantly, renewing as it wears off. This is an invaluable support when the weight on the small of the back becomes heavy and the aching incessant.

THE SECOND CHORAL.

A Fine Concert on an Unpleasant Night—Soloists and Chorus Both Highly Pleasing.

Despite the inclemency of the weather, a large audience was gathered at Music Hall last evening to hear the second concert of the Choral society. The chorus also was well represented, although the night was too bad for some of the gentlemen to be out.

The chorus was assisted by Miss Ella Wernig, soprano, and Rafael Diaz Albertini, violinist.

Miss Wernig has a clear, sweet voice, of which she understands the management. Her selections were "Villanelle" by Dell Acqua, "When Phyllis Comes" by C. Johns, and "The Dark Blue Eyes of Springtime" by F. Ries. For the first of these she received an encore.

Mr. Albertini played with sweetness, precision and expression. His first selection was a Fantasie from Faust arranged by Sarasati. As encore he played a Berceuse by Faure. His second selections were Chopin's Second Nocturne also arranged by Sarasati and a Mazourka by Zarzacke. He was recalled and gave a Romanza by Sivori.

The work of the society was excellent. The first number, Mendelssohn's "Judge Me, O God", was sung with accuracy and precision. True harmony was preserved even where the work was separated into eight parts. "To Stay at Home is Best", a trio by Tours for ladies' voices, was a pretty little selection, sweetly sung. Webbe's "When Winds Breathe Soft" is a dramatic and descriptive piece in which the theme changes from the soft wind to a stronger gale and then the furious storm which at the voice of Jehovah becomes quiet. It requires many changes in expression, but was successfully interpreted last evening.

The "Boat Song" by Lohr, followed by Cowen's "Rowing Homeward", were beautifully sung, and a repetition of the latter was called for. "The Little Drummer", a serio-comic song by Kappry, was the most difficult selection of the evening, and required the most study; but, though well sung, it hardly paid for the time that had been spent upon it. Balfe's "Excelsior" was received with favor, and the programme closed with H. Leslie's "Resurgam", which is a fine selection and was well rendered with the exception of a certain E flat.

Miss Utter as accompanist gave the greatest of satisfaction. Her playing was all that could be desired.

THE OPERATION SUCCESSFUL.

Andrew Mantz Given a Chance for His Life by Skillful Surgery.

The operation of quadruple amputation was successfully performed on Andrew Mantz to-day at the home of his sister, Mrs. Jacob Voehl, 65 Somerset street, in accordance with the announcement exclusively published in these columns yesterday. Mantz is the unfortunate man who was so badly frozen four weeks ago on his farm in the mountains.

Dr. Zeglio was the operating physician. He was assisted by Drs. Fritts, Allis and Carman. The patient was under the influence of ether from 11:30 to 1, and both feet and all of his fingers and thumbs were removed. The case was handled with such skill that the sufferer has rallied remarkably; and, though very weak from the terrible shock to the system, has a fighting chance for recovery.

It is one of the most extraordinary cases on surgical records.

Their Plainfield Relatives Congratulated Them.

A very brilliant social event took place at Phillipsburg on the Delaware, last Friday evening, when the silver wedding of Dr. James A. Petrie was celebrated at his elegant residence in that city. Hundreds of invited guests assembled, and the display of sterling gifts was literally dazzling. The home is filled with curiosities from all parts of the earth, for the wedded pair have spent many years in traveling and collecting beautiful things to adorn their home; and these were the admiration of all. The golden-wedding gown was a miracle of Parisian workmanship; with its rare point-lace trimmings and diamond adornments, it was fit for a princess. Mrs. Petrie and Miss Flora Petrie, of Sixth street, Plainfield, were guests from this city.

A Dunellenite's Death.

Andrew Bauescher, who had been engaged in the bakery business for the last two years at Dunellen, died of pneumonia at his residence Saturday afternoon at 3, after a short illness. Mr. Bauescher occupied one-half of the building with Peter Herlich, whose tragical death affected him seriously. He was a member of the Knights of Honor. Funeral services were held this morning at 10 in the Dunellen Presbyterian church.

CHAPS

And How to Get Rid of Them.

Nothing more annoying than chapped hands. And the more you wash the worse they chap! Soap cleans, but soap chaps. Now by neutralizing the alkali of the soap by means of a harmless acid we may prevent chapping. That is the philosophy of REYNOLDS'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE, and by using it as directed, you can get rid of the chaps. Originated and made only at

CATHOLIC REGULATIONS FOR LENT.

List of Dispensations Granted for the Diocese by the Holy See.

The following regulations to be observed during the Lenten season were made known in St. Mary's and St. Joseph's Roman Catholic churches Sunday:

All the week days of Lent, from Ash Wednesday to Easter Sunday, are fast days of precept on one meal, with the allowance of a moderate collation in the evening.

The church excuses from the obligation of fasting (but not of abstinence from flesh meat, except in special cases of sickness) the infirm, those who are attaining their growth, those whose duties are of an exhausting or laborious character, women in pregnancy or nursing infants and those who are enfeebled by old age.

The following dispensations are granted for this diocese by authority of the Holy See:

First—The use of flesh meat, as also of eggs and white meats, is permitted at every meal on the Sundays of Lent and at the principal meal on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, with the exception of Ember Saturday and Holy Saturday.

Second—The use of white meats is allowed every day in Lent at the evening collation and also at the principal meal on the days on which the use of flesh meat is forbidden.

Third—A small piece of bread, with a cup of coffee, tea or chocolate, can be taken in the morning.

Fourth—Where it is not convenient to take the principal meal at noon it is lawful to invert the order and take a collation in the morning and dinner in the evening.

Fifth—Dripping and lard may be used in the preparation of the kinds of food which are permitted.

Sixth—On Sundays there is neither fast nor abstinence, but fish cannot be used with flesh meat at the same meal at any time during Lent.

Seventh—Those who are exempt from the precept of fasting can partake of flesh meat at every meal during the day when, by special indult, flesh meat is permitted at the principal meal.

The time for fulfilling the Easter precept of communion in the archdiocese extends from the first Sunday in Lent to Trinity Sunday, inclusive.

Reply to Tax-Payer.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I wish to reply to Tax-payer's letter in your last night's paper. There are only two boilers in Bryant school, not three as he says; and when the new addition was built they thought the one boiler would not heat it in very extreme cold weather, so they put a small one in and had the two connected so as to run one in moderate weather. And in regard to pipe covering, when the new addition was built and the steam fitting all in, I wrote to H. B. Smith & Co., to know if their contract called for covering of pipe. They answered it did, and sent a man and had it done. JANITOR.

A Ferry Boat Wanted to Save Fairy Boots.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I will kindly call your attention to the condition of East Fifth street near Richmond. For three years or more we have had to trudge along in mud and slush over our shoe tops. It's a shame to see young ladies wading through this mud puddle. Does the city pay a street commissioner? If so, let him go where duty calls him, and that is near the Bryant public school on East Fifth street. Hoping we'll have a ferry boat there before the winter is over, I remain, as ever, Canned Eggs Made Into Omelettes By Means of a Lemon Squeezer.

Life in New York apartment houses is most happily burlesqued in James T. Powers's new and extraordinarily successful farce comedy, "A Mad Bargain". The second scenes of the comedy illustrates a flat in a New York apartment house, which shows on a limited scale, the unique accommodations of parlor, bed room, sitting room, bath room, dining room and kitchen. The proprietor of the flat has to sit on the fire-escape to get his dinner, while the main substance of the family are canned eggs made into an omelette by means of a lemon squeezer, and cooked in a stove which is usually kept in the cook's hat box. The entertainment is brim full of the newest and most novel specialties. Mr. Powers himself does a widely extravagant burlesque on the serpentine dance. Mr. Dalley is without a rival as a singer of parodies on the topics of the times, while Miss Forrest can kick 18 inches above her own blonde head. These are a few of the innumerable incidents which have made "A Mad Bargain" the biggest comedy success of the year. Its engagement at Music Hall is for this evening.

SAILORS SWEPT FROM THE DECK.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The British steamship Hurona, which left Dundee for this port on January 27, arrived at this port this morning, after a tempestuous voyage. She lost one of her crew and had two seriously injured during the trip. William Aitchaison, a seaman, was washed overboard on February 1 by a heavy wave that swept over the vessel, and another sailor was injured by being thrown against the wood-work of the vessel. On February 4, John Decker, the third officer, was swept from the deck by a heavy sea that was shipped, but was brought back by the return current to the side of the steamer, where he was caught by the crew.

DETECTIVE GARDNER GETS TWO YEARS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Charles W. Gardner, the detective of Dr. Parkhurst's society who was convicted last Wednesday of attempting to extort money from the keeper of a disorderly house, was today sentenced to two years at hard labor in State Prison by Recorder Smyth in Part II. of the General Sessions Court.

MR. BULLOCK MAKES REPLY.

He Says He Does n't Owe the Plainfield Mrs. Bullock One Farthing.

To the Editor of The World:

In regard to the article headed "He Had Three Wives", I can not see what interest or benefit such information is to the public, or why I am not entitled to three wives if I want them. Many a better man than I has had three wives; besides, No. 2 does not count according to your article. In your article you speak of evidence. There was none; no witnesses examined or sworn. It was only lawyers' talk. They, the other side, were knocked out and had the costs to pay. There are a number of inaccuracies, particularly that she (No. 2), gave me $10,000 in 1880 to engage in the rice business. This money was given me to purchase United States 4 per cent. registered bonds, which was done, and in 1881 she sold them and put the money in real estate. "You can't eat your cake and have it too." I am not indebted to her one farthing. Her suit is for revenge solely. I have never knowingly wronged a person out of a dollar. It is absolutely false—the statement that I had no capital to begin business. I had a profitable business long before I ever heard of her, and if I had not would not have been able to buy her diamonds and dresses before we were married and keep her at a first-class hotel afterwards. Nor would she have had me. Nothing is ever said of my suits against her for the sale and possession of my property, some of which I owned before knowing her. I think both sides should always be heard.

A Successful Masquerade.

The fifth annual masquerade ball given under the auspices of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein was held in their hall, 86 Somerset street, last evening. The attendance was large, the hall being handsomely decorated. The grand march began at 9:30 and was led by Chas. F. Meyer, after which the chairman of the committee, on behalf of his fellow-members, made a few stirring remarks expressing his gratification to the public in general for the patronage they had bestowed.

There were among those present some very elegant costumes, especially those by the committee. There were also some very good representations of many nations—Indians, Chinese, Negroes and Irishmen; also some very good make-ups of some well-known statesmen. The committee who had the affair in charge deserve mention for the manner in which the conducted the evening's enjoyment. The music was of the best; O'Reilly furnished it.

Not Afraid, Only Disgusted.

The Elizabeth Journal says: "Base-ball enthusiasts of Plainfield evidently fear Somerville. Perhaps the pace set last season by the Harkinsville management was too hot for them. At any rate it seems certain that these two teams will not meet in any league contests this coming season. Manager Mack has decided not to attach his team to any league, and though he will have a professional battery, local amateurs will compose the remainder of the nine. And as to Plainfield the intention is to have a team of some kind in the field, but whether the team will enter the league is unknown as yet. At any rate, should Somerville enter, Plainfield can be safely counted upon to stay out."

Who Were Those Good Plainfielders?

The New York Herald, in its Sunday account of the French ball, said: "Good, honest sightseers from Plainfield and Harlem clutched at their vitals as if afraid of losing breath. Two girls under the press gallery sat in the lap of a handsome broker. Another sat on the shoulder of her bald headed escort, clicking time to the can-can music with her heels. Other girls stood on their hands and tried to turn somersaults, and so on through the night scenes were enacted impossible to narrate."

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. How We Got the Bible, and Its Triumphs.

The Rev. Dr. Baum's second illustrated lecture on the Bible, which was to have been given last night, was postponed on account of the storm to Wednesday evening at 8 in Grace church chapel. On account of the lecture being given on Ash Wednesday evening, no admission will be charged, but a collection to meet expenses will be taken as on Sunday evening.

Rather Slow, Ain't It.

There is just the same difference between our way of doing business and the way others do it, as there if between a Blue Line Flyer and an ox team.

Wouldn't you rather do business and buy your goods of a concern that believes in moving things on the fast line principle? Buy goods to-day and and sell them to-morrow on a close, quick profit—or on the ox team principle, buy to-day and sell next year or never, because they want big profits.

We believe in close, quick profit, hence our great success.

THE WOMAN OF FASHION.

What the Gay Thoroughfares on Crowded Streets Look Like.

The Fad for Purple Still On—A Startling Street Gown—Evening Gowns, Bonnets and Capes—Revival of Summer—Pretty Things for Pretty Women.

[COPYRIGHT, 1893.]

What a gay people we are these bright winter afternoons! How we love to join the Broadway promenaders and saunter along with the rest, watching the brilliant costumes and stopping at the bright shop windows to look at the novelties. Every one has lost the worried air and relaxed the hurried step so prevalent at Christmas time, and the world again looks careless and happy and easy going. The crowd is very great on Broadway this Saturday afternoon, but it is a good-natured one, and so everything gets along smoothly.

The first thing we notice about it is the favorite purple veil. One would think that by this time the bright green one, which has been introduced, would supersede the purple, but it has not done so thus far. Every other woman has an eminence veil over her black hat, and as far down the thoroughfares as one can see there are folds after folds of the purple veiling. I even saw it combined with a green and brown costume—brown cloth, with narrow edgings of very dark rich green velvet, with brown fur between, long mink cape, and brown and green hat with the ubiquitous veil surmounting all.

Then I saw it again—and in connection with a costume that I must describe to you in detail, that you may know just how the lady looked. When I have finished, you may decide for yourself whether she looked well or not. I'll commence with the skirt, which was a pale blue gray cloth, a sort of stone color, edged with narrow rows of purple velvet. Her Russian blouse was trimmed with the same, and had two broad tabs of velvet in front, hanging loosely. Over the blouse, but not covering it, was a long cape of black velvet made up of four divisions—two long ones and two short ones. The hat was black, with wings and tips, adorned, it is needless to say, with a purple veil. At the back, presumably trimming the hat, but actually lying low on the lady's coiled hair, were deep pink velvet roses. In one hand she carried a black muff with more roses, and at the left of her black cape, near her shoulder, lay a bunch of pink carnations. Not a bit cared she for the eyes that were turned upon her. Walking easily with the gentleman at her side, she sauntered slowly along, so slowly, indeed, that one wondered whether it was not an accommodation on her part to allow the passers-by full opportunity to note her appearance.

But what's the matter with all the winter styles? Surely the shopkeepers must be tired of seeing the heavy win ter goods piled high in the windows, for there are yards upon yards of light, dainty summer goods. Last August an observant person could forecast with little difficulty the styles for the coming winter from the goods that had then made their appearance; and now, in January, one is enlightened by a great sign which reads: "Spring Novelties in Organdies Faconne, Mousseline de l'Inde, Parisienne Plumetics and Batiste." Here's another: "Batistes, Lawns and Dotted Muslins." And when we enter the shops we find the counters piled high with them, and with pretty challies as well. Truly this is a queer country. The seasons are changing, they say, and we are doing our best to help them along. But it pays to invest in these goods now, for the daintiest of them costs but fifty-two cents per yard, and some other beautiful ones but forty-two. Whereas last summer we had the greatest difficulty in getting them at any price a few weeks after the season had fairly opened.

But I hope you still feel some slight interest in winter gowns, for I want to tell you about the latest for evening wear. In almost every one made gauze cuts a very prominent figure, and if you have an old figured silk, make it up with one of the bright new gauzes; you'll never recognize the old gown, I assure you. Some most wonderful effects can be secured from their combining. For instance, I saw a red and green shot silk, made with overdress of black gauze thickly besprinkled with yellow blossoms. Then there was a red silk with golden flowers upon it and black gauze over, run with a satin stripe. It is quite interesting to puzzle the combinations out, for when they are drawn closely together it is almost impossible to tell whether the stripe is on the silk beneath and the flowers above, or vice versa. And the whole forms an extremely brilliant effect, so desirable these gay months.

Then so many evening gowns have their colors brought out and accentuated by velvet sleeves of a trifle deeper shade than is the color of the flower in your silk or the thread running through it, or the trimming edging it. The velvet should be of the minor color in your costume, but always of a deeper tint.

Two beautiful gowns were spread before me as I came pleading for something new to my old friend, the maker of gowns. She smiled at the "something new" in a sort of incredulous fashion, but answered by picking up two beauties, whose exquisite loveliness made one forget to look for freshness of design. The first was of white, striped with a satiny diagonal in pale water green. Over panes of rich sabce sleeves and bottom hung soft drapings of white gauze, caught in loose knots at short intervals; the fur and gauze were again combined in the low bodice with beautiful effect.

The second, of heavy old-rose satin, cut princess, had a tunic over of old-rose brocade with white design. This tunic was very original, being plaited into the left shoulder in three large folds, then brought loosely across the front, falling over the right hip and down the back in a long full train. The dress had rich ivory-white feather trimming at feet and neck, interspersed with velvet bows.

It looks as if evening bonnets would soon be regarded with complete disfavor, even by the feminine world. Now that the Theater of Arts and Letters has so effectually succeeded in removing the bonnet during the performances, other theaters may take it up. The popular bonnet has been so minute of late that no one could possibly object to it, and yet large enough hats are still worn to make things uncomfortable. But the women are very easily turning their thoughts in another direction and putting all their pretty geegaws in their hair. And that theater presents a pretty spectacle every evening as one gazes at the fanciful arrangements. It will, no doubt, soon become a fad, and then the bonnet will get but scanty attention. Just now, however, one made of golden spangles, closely strung, is the proper thing, with a small bunch of black tips in front and black velvet strings.

The evening cloak grows no less assertive and magnificent. In fact, there is something almost insolent in its manner of appearing. Here, for example, is a long cape of pale blue brocade, very thickly and heavily embroidered. It is lined with rose silk, and edged down the front with the thickest white feather trimming one can possibly find. The shoulders have the queerest puffs, standing straight out from the wrap, and above them is a great ruche of tulle, so large that it rests upon the shoulder puffs in its way around. Then above this ruche is another band of the feather trimming. It is difficult to get into the garment, there is so much about the neck. The feathers reach fully to the ears, and threaten to prevent one's vision when the wind blows fiercely.

But I saw one sensible coat the other day, and it was quite a relief to look upon it, with the quiet dark blue vigogne neatly bordered with black silk chenille trimming. Pretty triple cord ornaments fastened it at the side, where it opened, and also hung from the tight-fitting undersleeve. It had moderately puffed shoulders and plain high collar. EVA A. SCHUBERT.

Another Yarn About Benjamin.

Benjamin Franklin was dining with a small party of gentlemen, when one of them said:

"Here are three nationalities represented. I am French, my friend here is English and Mr. Franklin is American. Let each propose a toast."

The Englishman arose and in the tone of a Briton bold, said: "Here's to Great Britain, the sun that gives light to the nations of the earth."

The Frenchman was rather taken back at this but he proposed: "Here's to France, the moon whose magic rays move the tides of the world."

Franklin then rose, and with an air of quaint modesty said: "Here's to George Washington, the Joshua of America, who commanded the sun and the moon to stand still—and they stood still."—Spare Moments.

DONELSON CAFFERY.

Something About the New Senator from Louisiana.

Donelson Caffery, whom Gov. Foster, of Louisiana, has appointed United States senator to take the seat made vanant by the death of Gen. Randall L. Gibson, like the governor, was born and reared in St. Mary's parish. His birth occurred on the 10th day of September, 1835. He was the son of Donelson Caffery, a native of Bedford county, Va., who was a prominent Louisiana sugar-planter and an early-century politician, and a nephew of the wife of President Jackson. He resided for some years at Hermitage before going south. Young Caffery's mother, Miss Murphy, was the sister of the mother of Gov. Foster, who is therefore Senator Caffery's cousin. Mr. Caffery was an aggressive factor in the election of Gov. Foster, and one of the most unyielding and sturdy opponents of the lottery in the campaign which saw its death in Louisiana.

Cows Kept on Horseback.

Speaking of cows, the funniest thing I have yet discovered in their management by our Southern cousins is the Peruvian fashion of keeping them on top of the house. The big rambling casas of Lima have adobe roofs, flat as a board floor, and there are hundreds of them in the suburbs of that proud old city which serve the purposes of a barnyard. The mules and horses are housed in the lower rooms of the house—for in Spanish America it is not generally the fashion for humans to inhabit the ground floor—while on top fowls, pigs and goats are raised, and the cow spends her days there, having been carried up when a calf.

A Revolution In Eating

has been brought about by the introduction of COTTOLENE, the new vegetable shortening. The discovery of this product, and the demonstration of its remarkable qualities, has attracted the widest interest. Hitherto the common shortening has been lard, or indifferent butter. Every one has probably suffered occasional discomfort from lard-cooked food; while it is well known that thousands are obliged to abstain entirely from everything of that kind. To such people, COTTOLENE is of peculiar value, widening as it does, the range of what may be eaten and enjoyed. COTTOLENE is a cooking marvel. It combines with the food—imparts to it a tempting color, a delicate flavor, and an appetizing crispness. No trace of greasiness remains to offend the taste, or disturb the digestion.

COTTOLENE is worthy of the careful notice of all those who value good food, of itself or for its hygienic properties.

NAMED BY CLEVELAND

Gresham, Carlisle, Lamont and Bissell for the Cabinet.

THEY HAVE ACCEPTED PORTFOLIOS

The President-Elect Sees No Reason for Any Mystery and Will Announce the Rest as Soon as the Places Are Filled—Stated that Connecticut Will be Represented.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Feb. 15.—Mr. Cleveland officially announces the names of four members of his Cabinet. They are:

Walter Q. Gresham, of Illinois, Secretary of State.

John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky, Secretary of the Treasury.

Daniel S. Lamont, of New York, Secretary of War.

Wilson S. Bissell, of Buffalo, Postmaster-General.

On making the announcements Mr. Cleveland said: "There is no need of any mystery in regard to the Cabinet and it is useless to speculate and indulge in guesswork. I shall make no secret of the matter but shall announce the names of gentlemen selected to fill the positions as soon as I receive their acceptances and permission to make the matter public."

Mr. Cleveland would say nothing in regard to the other positions or the men who have been mentioned in connection with them. It is evident that Hoke Smith, Hilary A. Herbert and others who have been mentioned are still under consideration. A conference which will probably settle Mr. Smith's chances one way or the other, will be held at Mr. Cleveland's office some day this week. Senator Gordon and other Southerners will be present.

Mr. Cleveland does not care to say what day he will visit the city, as he desires only to meet the men who have an appointment with him and thus be able to dispose of important matters without interruption.

Senator John Martin of Kansas and Dr. S. J. Neeley of the same State, had a long talk with Mr. Cleveland yesterday. They put in a strong claim for a representation in the Cabinet from Kansas. Senator Martin urged the selection of ex-Gov. G. W. Glick and left Lakewood in a happy frame of mind as to the chances of his candidate.

He said that Mr. Cleveland informed him that Judge Gresham had not been selected to temporarily fill the place of Secretary of State until Minister E. J. Phelps finishes with the Behring Sea controversy, but has been selected for good.

Connecticut Man for the Navy.

HARTFORD, Feb. 15.—A special from Washington says that it is reported there that the Secretaryship of the Navy is to go to Connecticut, and that ex-Congressman Carlos French, of Seymour, is to be a member of Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet.

CONGRESS MOVING SLOWLY.

Invalid Pension Bill in the House—Canal Bill in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—After a short conflict between the Democrats and Republicans of the House yesterday the Democrats were obliged to yield gracefully and to agree to the terms which the Republicans presented. These were that general debate on the Invalid Pension bill should continue until the minority was accorded six hours' debate.

Then the debate continued but it was without special interest.

The Nicaraguan Canal bill was before the Senate again for a couple of hours, and was then laid aside so that the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill might be proceeded with.

The Canal bill was the subject of two speeches and of a running discussion in which Mr. Sherman, who is in charge of it took a leading part. He explained why it was that 12,000,000 of stock, already issued, was left outstanding.

At one point in the discussion, Mr. Teller, (Rep., Col.) referred to a statement of Mr. Sherman as a misrepresentation whereupon Mr. Sherman exclaimed that that was false, as he had misrepresented nothing.

Lindsay to Succeed Carlisle.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 15.—The two Houses of the State Legislature yesterday afternoon ballotted successfully for a successor to Hon. John G. Carlisle in the United States Senate. The joint ballot will be taken to day.

HUGH O'DONNELL'S TRIAL.

Testimony of Newspaper Correspondents Who Were at the Riot.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 15.—The afternoon session in the O'Donnell trial was given up to hearing the testimony of newspaper correspondents who were present when the rios occurred.

Frank McQuiston testidtd that he was up in the cupalo with O'Donnell during a part of the battle. A number of other correspondents were present, and O'Donnell warned them "not to see anything which could be used as evidence."

George Campbell, editor of the West Elizabeth Star, said that he was standing on the river bank when the rioters were pumping the oil at the barges, and he heard some one behind him say: "That is no way. Build a raft, load it with oil, set fire to it, and let it float down against them."

He turned around and saw it was O'Donnell. On cross-examination witness said he did not know for sure that O'Donnell said that, but he heard the words, and on looking around saw O'Donnell standing there.

Harry Hosborn, of the Pittsburg Despatch, was in the cupalo and corroborated the other witnesses.

In conversation with O'Donnell about the matter, he said, speaking to several men: "Gentlemen, this is no longer a riot, it is a revolution."

Robert W. Herbert, another Despatch reporter, said he was in bed at the Carnegie hotel when the general alarm was sounded.

When he came out men, women and children were running about, shouting, calling to each other, and making all manner of noises.

"It was," said Mr. Herbert, "the wildest, most thrilling scene of excitement I had ever enjoyed."

"Did you enjoy it?" asked Mr. Patterson.

"Yes, I really enjoyed it," said the witness, and then everybody laughed.

Mr. Herbert was still on the stand when court adjourned.

During the session in the morning W. H. Burt, who had charge of the Chicago contingent of the Pinkertons, testified that O'Donnell called out: "Don't land. If you come ashore every ——— of you will be killed."

Joseph Malloy, another Pinkerton, testified that O'Donnell gave orders to armed men on the bank, and replaced one man with a pistol with one who had a shotgun. He then came to the bank and called to Capt. Cooper that he wanted to talk to him.

THE HOME RULE BILL.

Balfour's Speech Indicates that the Tories Will Vote Against the Retention Clause.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The Home Rule bill will be read first on Friday, and will be distributed among the members on Saturday. The number of clauses is about the same as in 1886, but the bill is much briefer.

Lord Salisbury's decision to visit Ulster is the result of a meeting of Irish Unionists in this city yesterday.

The Duke of Abercorn and the Marquis of Londonderry, who were present, advocated the organization of demonstrations throughout the United Kingdom against the bill, and the meeting voted a resolution in this sense.

The Standard says editorially: "Mr. Balfour's speech indicates that the Tories will vote against the retention of Irish members at Westminster and as many Radicals will take the same course the Irish members will probably be excluded."

William O'Brien, M. P., for Cork City, said in an interview regarding the Home Rule bill:

"It seems to me that the main principles of the bill provide for a better settlement of the home rule question than the bill of 1886.

"It remains to be seen whether Mr. Gladstone's surplus of half a million pounds is real. Mr. Sexton, Mr. Dillon, Mr. Clarke and others of our friends fear that the full extent of Irish local charges has not been taken into account. The proposed contribution for the support of the police will involve a formidable drain for the first few years. Irishmen will hold their opinions on such matters at present, and do the threshing out when the figures are fully examined and understood.

"Nevertheless, the main lines of the bill are a noble and sufficient settlement of the national claim. We are able to heartily recommend Irish acceptance of the measure. It gives substantial control over our domestic affairs. We should not be justified in resenting the provisions giving the minority adequate representation, and providing for a veto by the Crown and the supremacy of the Imperial Parliament."

Mr. John Dillon, in an interview, said that the main fact was admitted on all sides that the bill was a great advance on the Home Rule bill of 1886. "Hence," he added, "the Irish feel that, although they cannot approve the present financial proposals, and the provision regarding the land question, they are bound to recognize in the heartiest manner the noble courage and fidelity of Mr. Gladstone in offering this constitution to their country."

Student Guides at the Fair.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—A novel scheme by the managers of the Fair is to be put in operation for the benefit of college students. Nearly a thousand men will be required to push rolling chairs over the grounds, and the preference for this class of employment has been awarded to college men. The pay is to be $60 a month and an enlistment for six months. It is also proposed to use 500 college boys as guides.

Wants to Give Odds on Goddard.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Billy Madden is redbot to have Charley Mitchell fight his man, Joe Goddard. As an inducement to the Englishman to take up the Australian instead of Jim Corbett, Madden offers to wager $10,000 to Mitchell's $7,000 that Goddard will get the decision if they ever meet in the ring.

FILIBUSTERS ONCE MORE

An Expedition Being Fitted Out in Key West.

AGAINST A SPANISH COLONY.

Cubans and Americans Congregated to the Number of 700—Armed With Repeating Rifles—They Have Chartered a Steamer—Causing Much Excitement in Shipping Circles—U. S. S. Kearsarge Ordered to Cruise Near Key West.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—News of a filibustering expedition against a Spanish colony in one of the Central American states, which reached this city several days ago, was first made public yesterday and caused a genuine sensation in shipping circles and among the hundreds of merchants who have large interests in Cuba and the little republics in the tropics.

As the story is told, an expedition is now being fitted out at Key West, Fla., by Cubans and Americans to proceed to Honduras for the purpose, primarily, of conquest, and, incidentally, for plunder.

The company of filibusterers have been gradually augmented at the Florida seaport until several hundred fighting men, armed with repeating rifles, and with abundant ammunition, are ready to embark in the expedition.

It is said that a small steamer has been chartered at a northern port, and is even now en route to Key West, where it is expected to arrive to-day.

The hold is well ballasted with cannon, gatling guns and field artillery, sufficiently formidable, when in desperate hands, to make war against the government of Honduras.

Consul-General Jacob Faiz, of Honduras, said his lips were sealed.

No amount of persuasion could induce him to talk about the filibusterers until there was laid before him the copy of a telegram to a well known merchant of this city and dated Comayagas, Honduras, Feb. 10, which reads:

"Government has advices that an expedition against Honduras is now being fitted out at Key West."

Senor Baiz reluctantly confirmed the news and said that he had learned some days before of the proposed sailing of adventurers for Puerto Cortez and had promptly investigated the matter.

"It is altogether likely," said Senor Baiz, "that Puerto Cortez will be used simply as a place of rendezvous for the adventurers, with the designs of ultimately moving against some other country. But these fellows will be given no asylum in Honduras, they may depend upon that. There is no doubt that President Lovia, who is known as a fearless man, will have the filibusters arrested the moment they set foot upon Honduras soil."

Color was given to the disquieting rumors of the proposed revolutionary movement by the arrival of the United States warship Kearsarge. The sudden appearance of this vessel at the Florida port is thought to have been caused by the authorities at Washington for the purpose of watching the movements of any mysterious ship which may possibly be chartered by parties inimicable to the interests of any neighboring country.

The Kearsarge will remain in Key West harbor until all danger of the sailing of a hostile expedition shall have passed away.

CANADIAN CANAL TOLLS.

An Order Discontinuing Discrimination Against the United States.

OTTAWA, Feb. 15.—The Dominion government has issued an order reducing canal tolls ten cents per ton on food products through Canadian canals for the present season.

The effect of this order is to discontinue the discrimination against the United States ports. Last year vessels going through from the West to Montreal received a rebate of 18 cents per ton on a 20 cent rate.

This year the rebate is only 10 cents.

Called on the Sheriff for Protection.

FAYETTE CITY, Pa., Feb. 15.—The attempt of the coal operators to start their mines with non-union men was met yesterday with great opposition on the part of the strikers and threats of violence were made. The operators called on Sheriff Wilhelm for protection and the latter came to Fayette City and admonished the strikers to keep the peace. The sheriff does not apprehend any trouble whatever.

Honolulu News May be Received To-day.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15.—The Occidental & Oriental steamer Belgic, which was expected here yesterday, stopped en route from Hong Kong at Honolulu, and will arrive here probably to-day. The Oceanic steamer Monowai is due from Sidney via Honolulu Thursday. The Monowai and Belgic will bring Honolulu advices about a week later than those brought by the steamer Australia.

LONG ISLAND'S POSTMASTER.

How Mr. Glendenning Survived a Terrible Experience and was Able to Attend to His Office in the Busy Season.

LONG ISLAND, Me., Feb. 14—Postmaster F. M. Glendenning owes his life to a suggestion of his wife's.

The whole story, which begins last winter, is bluntly told by the postmaster, who says:

"In January I was stricken down with la grippe. I was attended by Dr. L. Hall; he did all that a man could do to save my life. I cannot express the suffering I went through to March 1. Then I was so weak that I had very little hopes that I would recover. I was a mere skeleton. I had no appetite, and anything I would eat distressed me.

"I keep a general assortment of medicines in my store, Paine's celery compound being one of them. On the 24th of March my wife called my attention to the compound, and asked me why I didn't try it. While we were talking the doctor called, and I told him that as he had done all he could for me, I should try the compound. He said it might do good, so I commenced to take it.

"The first dose gave me a desire for food, and as I kept on using it I found I was improving, and to make a long story short, I was soon able to attend to the post-office all through the busy season. I have this much to say, that I owe my life to celery compound, and I am not the only one here who will certify to its goodness.

"There was never such a demand for a remedy in this county."

A DELIGHTFUL CONCERT.

Successful Termination of a Most Enjoyable Series.

The closing concert of the Philharmonic club, held last evening in the Casino, was very gratifying. The soloists were Miss May Lyle Smith, flutist, and Wm. H. Rieger, tenor.

Miss Smith showed herself an artist of no mean ability. She produced a pure, sweet tone and showed that even here can woman successfully encroach upon what has heretofore been purely man's vocation. For her selection, the "Andantino" and "Bolero" from Wm. Popp's "Spanische Concert", she received an encore.

Mr. Rieger was pleasing, as usual, and received recalls after both his numbers, the Introduction and Aria from "Cavalleria Rusticana" — P. Mascagni, and the Romanza, "Foska"—A. C. Gomez. The effect of the former, which was sung behind the scenes, was excellent.

The first selection by the club was a sextette composed by Chas. Kurth. All the movements were fine, the andante and intermezzo being especially enjoyable. The "Kaiser Quartette" by Haydn for two violins, viola and violoncello, and the "Nocturne" by Fr. Doppler with solos for flute, violin and 'cello, are especially worthy of mention. The other numbers were Bilder aus dem Osten—F. L. Nicode, and a Barcarolle by Fr. Brandels.

A delightful progressive euchre party was given by Miss Musgrave and her cousin, Miss Graham, at the residence of John G. Musgrave, Mercer avenue, North Plainfield, yesterday afternoon. The artistic home, every room of which is beautiful as a picture, looked its best with clusters of roses, lilacs, jonquils and lilies of the valley for decorations, and about forty guests to make an animated scene. On the score cards were written sentiments appropriate to St. Valentine's day. Four beautiful prizes were carried away as trophies by the more successful players, and two prizes, also beautiful, compensated the least successful contestants. Mediocrity alone was unrewarded.

FANWOOD'S FIRE-BUG.

A Fellow-Townsman Arrested on the Charge of Burning Barns and Horses.

Larry Wallace, of Fanwood, was arrested yesterday on complaint of Dr. Frank Westcott, chief of the Scotch Plains fire department, on the charge of setting fire to C. W. Smith's lumber yard two weeks ago, John Marsh's barn a week ago, and Smith's barn Friday night. He was committed by justice Vincent W. Nash to the county jail to await the grand jury's action. All three of the fires mentioned were of incendiary origin, and the villagers believe that they have evidence sufficient to convict Wallace. Detective Keron, who made the arrest, has been working on the case assiduously. Wallace is a poor working-man.

AMATEURS IN "THE MIKADO".

An Excellent Performance at Westfield Last Evening, with Plainfield Talent Leading.

The Alcaeus Society of Westfield produced Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera, "The Mikado", last evening, before an audience which filled the pretty hall of the Westfield Athletic club. The cast was as follows:

The Mikado	B. P. Moore
Nanki-Poo	Ogden Ring
Ko-Ko	Wm. Holmes
Pooh-Bah	G. P. Haynes
Pish-Tush	Julian Couch
Yum-Yum	Miss Blanche Trevey
Pitti-Sing	Miss Sadie J. Brown
Peep-Bo	Mrs. G. R. Haynes
Katisha	Miss A. M. Stacy

The performance was an excellent one throughout, and richly deserved the success it achieved. Much of this success was due to William Holmes of this city, who made the hit of the evening as Ko-ko. Mr. Holmes's acting showed careful study and a thorough understanding of the part. He kept the house laughing continually and was recalled after each of his songs. One of the verses of the "Never Will be Missed" song was written for Mr. Holmes by George Taggart of North Plainfield. It was very well received.

B. P. Moore was an excellent Mikado. His make-up was very good, and he sang well. The work of Mr. Ring as Nanki-Poo was exceedingly good, especially his singing, which received much applause. Mr. Haynes and Mr. Couch both played their parts well.

Miss Trevey as Yum-Yum left little to be desired. Miss Sadie J. Brown made a pretty and graceful Pitti-Sing, and sang very sweetly; and Miss Stacy and Mrs. Haynes filled their roles acceptably.

The chorus was well trained, and the scenery and costumes were remarkably good.

The Goodyear Lectures at All Souls' Church.

The methods open to students of Egyptian civilization are three in number. The subject may be approached through the objects seen in the museums, through the books which have been written about it, and through actual travel. The aim of the Goodyear course of lectures to be begun at All Souls' church, to-morrow evening, is to combine as much as possible these methods by illustrating the objects seen in museums, by summarizing the results obtained from books, and by showing the monuments seen in travel. These lectures will be to those who attend, not only a delight but an education.

May Have to Drag Him From the Pulpit.

(From the New York World.)

The order of Bishop Scarborough requiring Rector J. B. Jennings, of Grace church, Westfield, to vacate the parish, goes into effect to-morrow, but it is not likely that anything will be done until Sunday. The rector says no power on earth can drive him out of the church. He has given out the usual notices for regular services next Sunday, and the vestry have telegraphed to the Bishop asking for instructions in case Mr. Jennings refuses to obey the order. The vestry fear they will have to use force in order to restrain him from preaching.

The smallest is the best in pills, other things being equal. But, with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, nothing else is equal. They're the best, not only because they're the smallest, and the easiest to take—but because they do more good. They cleanse and regulate the liver, stomach and bowels in a way the huge, old-fashioned pill doesn't dream of. Think of trying to regulate the system with the ordinary pill. It's only good for upsetting it.

These are mild and gentle—but thorough and effective, no pain—no griping. One little pellet for a laxative—three for a cathartic. The best Liver Pill known. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels are prevented, relieved and cured.

Put up in sealed vials—a perfect vest-pocket remedy, always convenient, fresh and reliable.

They're the cheapest pill you can buy for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. It's a plan of sale peculiar to Dr. Pierce's medicines.

$7,276 FOR HER LOST DIAMONDS.

Hotel Man DeRevere Took Them "Outright, Unseen", and They Were Stolen.

A jury in Part I. of the Court of Common Pleas, New York, awarded Mrs. Samuel Collins $7,276 yesterday for the loss of a package containing $8,000 worth of diamonds which she gave to George B. DeRevere, formerly proprietor of the Park House and the City Hotel, of Plainfield, and whose summer home is on Woodland avenue, this city.

The story of the disappearance of this package runs back to Nov. 14, 1891. On that date Mrs. Collins and her husband, a wealthy picture dealer, went to the Hotel Dam, New York, which Mr. DeRevere now runs. That evening she gave Mr. Webb, the clerk, a package, which, she told him, contained $30,000 worth of jewelry, and asked him to keep it in the safe for her. The jewelry, she afterward said, was worth only $8,000, but she wanted to impress upon the clerk's mind the necessity of taking good care of it. The package, she said, contained a solitaire worth $1,000, a diamond daisy and tiara worth $1,600, two diamond stars worth $600, two diamond bracelets worth $325, and a pair of earrings, a ring, and other trinkets making up the $8,000.

Mr. Webb put the package in the safe and gave Mr. Collins a duplicate envelope as a receipt for it. The Collinses went to Stroudsburg, Pa., to spend Christmas. Mr. DeRevere refused to keep the package while they were absent, unless they gave up the receipt for it and allowed him to put the jewelry in his private office. To this they consented. When they returned the package was missing.

Inspector Byrnes was notified, private detectives were employed, and all possible means were taken to recover the diamonds. One of the diamond pins was afterward found in the possession of a thief who was caught trying to obtain baggage from the Hotel St. Denis on a forged check. A gold chain was found in Seaton's fence on Sixth avenue. The rest of the jewels were never recovered.

So Mrs. Collins began suit against Mr. DeRevere for $8,000. Mr. DeRevere admitted the receipt and the disappearance of the package, but said that he did not believe it contained jewelry. He said that the Collinses had lost diamonds before, and had found them where they had mislaid them.

The case came up before Judge Daly yesterday, but there was no defence. Mrs. Collins told her story and several witnesses corroborated it. The jury soon brought in a verdict for $7,276. Mr. DeRevere will appeal.

Reed has very graciously and gallantly rendered a legal opinion that North Plainfield women will be entitled and privileged to vote on the school question. The justice of this right is appreciated by every woman here, and we women are very grateful for this recognition.

Will Mr. Reed kindly give us another opinion: one of just as much interest and value? Are we not entitled to vote on the liquor question as much as on school matters? This question is of far greater importance to women than are the educational problems of the day, and one which they of all tax-payers should be given an opportunity of governing.

TEMPERANCE.

It May Be Interesting to Know that when excursion rates are made to Chicago for people who live in the East, to enable them to attend the World's Fair this year, it is contemplated by the Western roads to also make excursion rates from Chicago to all principal business and tourist points in the West, Northwest and Southwest, so that those who desire to spend a few weeks among their friends in the Great West, may have an opportunity of so doing without incurring much additional expense. It may be well to consider this subject in advance of actual time of starting, and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Co. has issued maps and time tables and other instructive reading matter, which it will be glad to furnish free of expense upon application by postal card addressed to John R. Pott, District Pass. Agent, 42 So. Third street, Philadelphia, Pa. 2t-

To the Inauguration via B. & O. R. R.

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad announces that on the occasion of the inauguration of Cleveland and Stevenson on March 4 it will sell excursion tickets to Washington and return at low rates. Tickets reading via the B. & O. will be on sale at its own offices and at the offices of the principal railroad companies throughout the country. Tickets will be sold March 2, 3 and 4, and will be good for return journey until March 7 inclusive. For information in detail concerning time of trains, rates of fare, etc., address C. P. Craig, general eastern passenger agent, 415 Broadway, New York, or James Potter, district passenger agent, 833 Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

Beware of imitations. Take no just as good. See that you get the genuine Dr. Bulls Cough Syrup, the peerless specific.

I suffered from a severe cold in my head for months and could get no relief. Was advised to use Ely's Cream Balm. It has worked like magic in its cure. I am free from my cold after using the Balm one week, and I believe it is the best remedy known. Samuel J. Harris, wholesale grocer, 119 Front street, New York.

The children's health must not be neglected. Cold in the head causes catarrh. Ely's Cream Balm cures at once. It is perfectly safe and is easily applied into the nostrils. The worst cases yield to it. Price 50c.

HIS HAIR TURNED WHITE.

Singular Result of an Accident to Violinist Musin.

Ovide Musin, the celebrated violin virtuoso, who has at different times during the past three years delighted the music-loving residents of Plainfield, received serious injuries in a train wreck near Story City, Ia., a short time ago. Mr. Musin, it will be remembered, was a man of fine physique, having dark brown hair and beard. He is to-day completely changed in appearance, his form is bent and his hair and beard are changed to snowy whiteness. He seems to have exchanged places with an aged man.

Mr. Musin was born in Liege, Belgium, in 1854. At the age of 8 years he evinced such remarkable talent and strong inclination for music that his father sent him to the Conservatory at Paris. Shortly after he had entered his 11th year he received the first prize at that well-known institute for performance on the violin. It was owing to the intercessions of Leonard, the celebrated violin player, who heard his execution in 1870, that his parents decided to let him choose the career of an artist. From that time to the present day he has ranked among the foremost violinist of the world.

In Vienna he played in the celebrated Philharmonic concert, under the direction of Herr Richter, and from his efforts earned the highest compliments of the board of directors.

When Musin left America last May he went to Australia, there meeting with great success. Last fall he returned, and again appeared at Plainfield.

The fact of his hair and beard turning white has caused considerable comment, yet there are many instances of such a change in history. The hair of Sir Thomas Moore and of Marie Antoinnette on the eve of their execution turned as white as snow.

A more recent instance, and one equally remarkable, was the physical change which took place in Ursini, one of the conspirators against the life of Napoleon III. When his jailors left him on the eve of his execution his hair rivaled the raven's wing, but when the morning came, and he was led out to be guillotined, his hair had turned the color of snow.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. One of my children had a very bad discharge from her nose. Two physicians prescribed, but without benefit. We tried Ely's Cream Balm, and, much to our surprise, there was a marked improvement. We continued using the Balm and in a short time the discharged was cured. O. A. Cady, Corning, N. Y.

LAWMAKERS IN A FIGHT

Trouble in the Kansas House Coming to a Head.

ARREST OF THE POPULIST CLERK.

Each House Appoints 100 Extra Sergeants-at-Arms — Two Republicans Knocked Down in the Street—Blows Exchanged—Populists Victorious.

TOPEKA, KAS., Feb. 15.—War is on in real earnest between the two Houses of Legislature and blows have been exchanged. There are now open threats by the Populists of sensational hostilities and at any moment there may be something more than the talk which has been so long indulged in.

An attempt by Deputy Sergeant-at-Arms of the Republican House to arrest Ben C. Rich, Clerk of the Populist House, on orders from the Republicans, caused a conflict during which two Republicans were knocked down and several men on both sides were badly bruised by blows of fists.

It is believed that to-day will witness the most exciting scenes known in Kansas in years.

E. W. Hoch of Marion arose in the Republican House yesterday and offered a resolution for the arrest of Ben C. Rich, Populist Clerk, on the charge of disturbing the legal House by his actions. The Sergeants-at-Arms succeeded in finding Rich, after considerable search, in the parlor of the Dutton hotel, read their warrant to him and demanded that he accompany them.

John W. Briedenthal, Fred Bailey and others interfered in behalf of Rich. Republicans present took a hand in the melee and a free fight followed in which many blows were exchanged and nobody was seriously hurt.

In the end the Populists got their man away and took him to the Governor's office from where, a few minutes later, he was triumphantly escorted into the Hall of the House of Representatives.

There is likely to be a conflict here soon which may end in riot and bloodshed. Republicans are determined to arrest Rich, and the Populists say they will never submit to it.

Both Speakers swore in 100 extra sergeants-at-arms last night, and they are all armed.

Speaker Douglas, of the Republican House, says that the end of this revolutionary business must come, and that the law should be upheld, no matter at what cost.

Gov. Lewelling is advising the Populists to resist by force all attempts at arrests.

Sergeant-at-Arms Clevenger, of the Republican House, will be here to-day with a Populist witness whom he arrested in Labette county, and it is believed that the Populists will attempt to rescue him when he reaches here and another fight will ensue.

Read and Reflect.

The great mass of mankind lose their health through inattention to catarrh of the head and throat. This insidious disease was considered incurable until the discovery of the American Catarrh Cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.00.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 43 Warren avenue, Chicago, Ill.

In a Pastoral Country.

Isabel had spent the most of her five years on a cattle ranch, and while at her grandfather's home in the city she was taken to Sunday-school for the first time.

The teacher told the story of Lot's wife, and Isabel listened very attentively. The teacher ended the story by saying: "For all I know, the pillar of salt may be there now."

"Say, was that a cattle country?" asked Isabel.

"Yes; I think so," replied the teacher.

"Well, let me tell you," with an air of superior knowledge, "those cattle would have licked her up long ago."—Life.

There Are Rocks and Rocks.

"Dear father," wrote the son who had gone to the city, "since leaving the old New Hampshire farm I have been doing splendidly, and am just piling up the rocks."

"Dear Thomas," was the old man's reply, "if all you went to the city for was to pile up rocks, you might have stayed at home and helped me to build a stone wall around the six-acre field."—Texas Siftings.

Artful Dodging.

Bilson—Hello, Jimson! I've caught you at last. I've been trying for three weeks to get hold of you, so as to pay you that ten dollars I owe you, but every time you suddenly disappeared.

Jimson—Eh? Have you been wanting to see me for that?

"Of course."

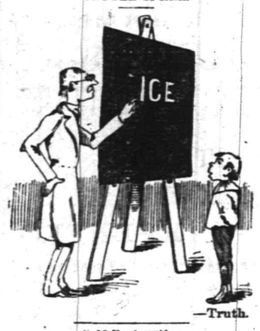
"Great snakes! I thought you wanted to borrow more."—N. Y. Weekly.

The Difference.

She (reflectively)—There ought not be such a difference between capital and labor. Can you explain it?

He (realizing his opportunity)—Certainly. To sit here like an unresponsive stick and watch you is labor, but (kissing her) this is capital.—Lippincott's Magazine.

A COLD SPELL.



—Truth.

Self-Destruction.

"I have often thought," said Marjorie, abstractedly, "that each community should have an official known as the fool-killer."

"I think I'll apply for the position for this city," said young Freshe.

"But, Mr. Freshe," and Marjorie looked seriously alarmed, "there is a law against suicide."—Buffalo Express.

A Professor.

Stranger—I notice you called your friend professor. Is he really a professor?

Bowery-ite—I should say so. Why, dat feller swollers a sword eighteen inches, stands on his ear and eats glass out of a churn. Professor? Well, I should just smile.—N. Y. Herald.

DID YOU EVER RIDE BEHIND AN OX TEAM?

Rather Slow, Ain't It.

There is just the same difference between our way of doing business and the way others do it, as there if between a Blue Line Flyer and an ox team.

Wouldn't you rather do business and buy your goods of a concern that believes in moving things on the fast line principle? Buy goods to-day and and sell them to-morrow on a close, quick profit—or on the ox team principle, buy to-day and sell next year or never, because they want big profits.

We believe in close, quick profit, hence our great success.

WHAT CONGRESS IS.

Facts Not as Well Understood as They Should Be.

The Senate and House of Representatives Constitute the Congress of the United States—Functions and Life of the Two Bodies.

[Special Washington Letter.]

The general reader understands, of course, that a great many things are written for the information of people, who, although fully informed upon every subject within the range of their business experiences, are not wholly conversant with affairs at the national capitol. To the majority of general readers the facts contained in this letter will not be new; yet, to the younger patrons of the paper the facts presented will prove beneficial, and probably interesting.

During sessions of congress it is not an unusual thing for habitues of the capitol to have experiences similar to the following. An elderly gentleman entering the main door of the house of representatives to-day said: "What is this place?" Upon being informed that it is the house of representatives, that all the little desks with revolving chairs before them are occupied by the representatives, and that upon the platform opposite him is the chair and desk of Speaker Crisp, he inquired: "Where is congress?" This inquiry having been answered with the explanation that this is one part of the capitol set apart for congress, and that the other part is in the senate chamber, at the other end of the capitol, he said: "I have been there. I have seen the senate, and now I see the house, but won't you please tell me where congress is?"

This old gentleman was by no means an ignorant man. He looked like a well-to-do country merchant, and he is but a type of a certain respectable class who do not understand what congress is. There are two houses of congress, the house of representatives and the senate. Representatives are elected every two years. The members of the present house of representatives will serve until noontime on the 4th day of next March, when their terms of service will expire. They will no more be representatives in the house after that date than if they had never been sent there, unless they were recently re-elected for two years. They are each elected by direct vote of the people. Under the constitution the senate and house of representatives meet, in congress assembled, on the first Monday of December, every year. From this fact there has arisen a popular fallacy that members of congress commence their terms in December. Members of congress commence their terms, both in the senate and in the house, at noon the 4th day of March. The representatives hold their positions for two years, commencing and ending on March 4. You will understand this better when your attention is called to the fact that our presidents commence their terms in March. For example, Grover Cleveland will be inaugurated upon the 4th of March next. At the same day and at the same hour with the beginning of a new executive administration a new congress commences to exist. The representatives whose terms then begin are elected to serve their people until March 4, 1895. By that time another election will have been held, and representatives chosen to succeed those who constitute the house of representatives for the Fifty-third congress.

The senate, which is a co-ordinate branch of congress, does not altogether expire at any one time. The senators are not elected by a direct vote of the people, but by the legislatures of the several states, and each senator is elected for a term of six years. You will therefore understand that while the representatives whose terms commence on the 4th of next March, will serve only until March 4, 1895, the senators whose terms commence at the same time will serve until 1899. Under the constitution, the terms of one-third of the senators expire every two years, their successors having been chosen in the meantime. Two-thirds of the senators will therefore retain their places next March, while the terms of one-third will commence at that time. The terms of the entire membership of the house of representatives will expire, and the terms of an entire new house will begin, on March 4, next. The terms of only one-third of the senators will expire at that time, and one-third of the membership of the senate will commence at the same time. Congress consists of both the senate and the house of representatives, and neither one of those bodies can be called congress. Inasmuch as two-thirds of the members of the senate are always members of that body, regardless of the expiration of any administration, the senate has been properly termed "a continuous body," and it can be called together at any time, and have a quorum to do business.

"WHAT IS CONGRESS?"

Sometimes the senate is called to Washington in extra session by the president when the house of representatives is not called. At any time when the president desires the advice and consent of the senate to the appointment of men to prominent offices, or for the consideration of treaties with foreign countries, he may issue a proclamation calling the senate in extra session. You will soon have an example of this relation of the executive with the legislative branch of the government. Some time in February President Harrison will issue a proclamation calling the senate to meet at noon on March 4, 1893, "to consider communications from the president of the United States." This is always customary whenever there is a change of administration. The outgoing president calls the senate to meet upon inauguration day in order that the incoming president may nominate his cabinet ministers and have them confirmed by the senate. For you must know that the president cannot appoint his cabinet ministers without the confirmation of the senate.

In accordance with the proclamation which will be issued by President Harrison, promptly at noon on the 4th of next March the senate will be called to order, and the new vice president will be sworn in. Vice President Morton will be presiding over the senate, and every seat will be filled, when Vice President-elect Stevenson will enter the chamber. Vice President Morton will administer to him the oath of office, and then announce: "The senate is adjourned sine die." Vice President Morton will then descend from his dais and Vice President Stevenson will immediately take the gavel, rap once, and say: "The senate will be in order." Thus quietly will the senate of the Fifty-second congress expire, and the senate of the Fifty-third congress begin its existence. Vice President Stevenson will then administer the oath of office to the one-third of the senators whose terms commence on that day, and they will take the seats which have already been chosen for them. Immediately after the ceremony of organizing the senate, some senator will move that the senate "take a recess of two hours." This motion will be declared carried, and the entire body will march out upon the east portico of the capitol, where the chief justice of the supreme court will administer the oath of office to the new president, who will then deliver his inaugural address. This will occupy about two hours, when the members of the senate will return to their places, Vice President Stevenson will call the senate to order, and then the senate will adjourn until noon on the following day, when they will receive a message from President Cleveland, announcing the names of the members of his cabinet. From that day on, for about a month, the senate will daily receive messages from the president nominating certain gentlemen for appointments to our most important foreign and domestic positions.

You will understand that at noon on inauguration day, although the terms of the new senators begin and they are sworn in, they are no more absolutely members of the Fifty-third congress than are the members of the house of representatives, who are not likely to be sworn in until December, 1893. The senate will be in "extra session," as it is called, but the house of representatives will not be in session, unless sooner called here by proclamation of the president, until the constitutional time, in December. There are very few people who understand these facts concerning the dates when the terms of senators and representatives begin and end.

After the president has sent to the senate all of the names of men whose appointments he desires to make thus early in his administration he will send a message to the senate announcing that he has no further communications to make. Then, in accordance with custom, the senate will fix a date for adjournment, after which, an adjournment having been declared, they cannot come together in session again until the following December unless called by proclamation of the president. However, when the senate is in session, as it will be next March, the body can remain in session, if it so desires, until the following December. No power is given to the president to adjourn congress, or either house of congress.

After these simple explanations concerning one branch of the machinery of our government it is not likely that any of my readers will ever come to Washington and ask the question: "Where is congress?" after they have seen but one of the two houses. They will understand that they have seen congress in its entirety only when they have seen both the senate and house of representatives.

SMITH D. FRY

The Origin of Sandwiches.

The everyday popular sandwich, without which no picnic party would be complete, is said to owe its name to a certain English Lord Sandwich, who was a devoted gambler. At one time when more than usually absorbed in the game, he had sat with the players for more than twenty-four hours, without even thinking of the necessity for food. During a momentary pause, his stomach asserted its rights, and he asked an attendant to bring him anything which might be obtainable in the way of food. This consisted of a piece of meat and two slices of bread. As a matter of convenience, to bring them into the compass of one hand while he played with the other, the meat was put between the slices of bread, and in that manner was devoured with great gusto. This peculiar method of taking a lunch immediately became popular, bearing the name of its originator, and is one of the few commendable heritages of a gaming table.

IN A DROP OF WATER.

A Lively Little Animal Built Like a Steamboat.

Under the Microscope It Appears a Ferocious Object—The Common Rotifer and Its Interesting Habits and Antics.

Of all the interesting microscopic objects contained in our everyday drinking water, I think the common rotifer is the most wonderful. The first view one gets of this interesting little animal, after the one drop of water is mounted in the microscope, is apt to be disappointing. The handling of the water and closing down of the cover-glass seems to frighten the rotifer, when he will contract himself into an almost globular form and play 'possum for a time. A short interval of perfect quiet will generally restore confidence, and then the circus begins. First a sort of unsheathing of the body will begin. The globular body is drawn out, telescope fashion—first a forward section, then an after one, another one in front and another section is pushed out at the rear, the latter section disclosing two or more extensions, which serve as feet when propelling itself along the plate, by drawing the rear portion of its body forward, anchoring its feet to the surface of the plate, then by a considerable muscular effort shoving the whole body forward. This movement will sometimes be continued until the patience of the observer and the desire of the rotifer to travel are about exhausted. But the little animal seems to have an idea of just what he is looking for, if the observer does not.

Suddenly and without warning the body, except the feet, shot forward, drawing out the little animal into a form ten times as long as he is broad, showing for an instant only two bright red little eyes, exhibiting all the ferociousness of a tiger when seeking its prey. The next instant, quicker than thought, the head seems to split asunder or turn inside out, assuming the form of the hammer-headed shark, and carrying on each side of the head, apparently, two little propeller wheels which revolve so fast that the eye cannot follow their revolutions. The movement of these cilia or wheels causes a current of water to set in from the head and sides near the head, bearing on the flood such small animalcula as might be unfortunate enough to be caught in the neighborhood. Just inside of the head and below the wheels is situated a set of grinders working together like two segments of cog wheels, performing about one-eighth of a revolution back and forth and at a rate of about six or seven movements in a second. These grinders are occasionally given a little extra movement, and the food that has been masticated is dropped into the channel that carries it to the stomach. There is also a movement of cilia near the head which casts outside the radius of the wheel's influence any objectionable substance that does not exactly suit the taste of this little epicure. When startled by the near approach of danger, Mr. Rotifer contracts himself into the globular form so quickly that the human eye cannot even guess how he did it. I have also frequently seen him when he seemed to be in a hurry to get to some distant station stretch himself out to his full length, produce a little propeller wheel, directly on the end of his nose, and in the exact manner of a steamboat going backwards, pull himself forwards at an almost lightning speed. I have frequently shown the little fellow to visitors and cannot remember that anyone ever tired of watching him. Certainly of all of the wonderfully constructed microscopic objects the common rotifer is as interesting as any.—O. E. Cartwright, in Detroit Free Press.

Gov. Lewelling Threatens to Drive the Republicans from the House To-day.

HE CALLS OUT THE ENTIRE STATE MILITIA.

Feared That the Matter Will Not End Until Blood is Shed—How the Republicans Effected an Entrance into the House, After Being Barred Out by the Populists—Action of the Douglass House Endorsed.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 16.—The political situation here has reached a crisis. An open conflict is now believed to be inevitable.

The bitterness engendered between the opposing parties during the campaign and since the organization of two rival Houses of Representatives may be wiped out with blood.

Violence has already been resorted to. The Republican House, which was barred by armed Populists from the Hall of Representatives, has taken forcible possession.

The Populists have temporarily abandoned their places in the Hall and adjourned until 1:30 to-day to await the outcome of executive interference in their behalf.

Gov. Lewelling has issued a proclamation calling out the entire State militia.

When the Republicans went to enter the hall of Representatives yesterday they found the doors had been barred.

They were barred by the Populists.

The Republican leaders soon determined to force an entrance and sledge-hammers were secured for this purpose.

They were used to such effect upon the doors of a side entrance leading to the hall that they were soon demolished and the members of the Republican House filed quickly through and entered the hall.

Had the Populist House been in session a conflict would surely have resulted, but fortunately the Populist House was not to meet until one o'clock, and consequently was not in session at the time.

As soon as it became known by the Populists what had occurred, Governor Lewelling was notified.

He promptly called out the militia and instructed them to proceed to the hall and eject the members of the Republican house from the floor.

The soldiers started on their mission.

The Republicans being informed of the action of the Governor, held a hurried conference to determine upon what course of action to pursue. No definite plan was decided upon but individual Republicans went to work trying to induce the Santa Fe Railroad to call out its shop hands to oppose the militia in ejecting the Republicans from the hall.

Other industries that were known to be in sympathy with the Republicans were also asked to furnish men for the same purpose.

Down stairs the Populists were not idle. Company C, a local militia company which Adjut.-Gen. Artz had notified to stand in readiness, was already on the ground and orders were telegraphed to Holton and Marion for companies D and G.

While these warlike preparations were going on the Republican House was making a show of business, but nobody took any interest in the proceedings, until Mr. Hale of Rush, arose and said that it was fitting that the efforts of Speaker Douglass should be recognized by his brothers and he desired to present to him in the name of the House the instrument which he had used to call the House to order.

As he said this he produced from behind his desk the big sledge-hammer the Speaker had used to help effect an entrance into the hall of the House, and which he afterwards used in rapping the House to order.

This was the signal for more cheering, and when Douglass received it from the hands of the page he held it aloft, the members stood up and shouted, and when Douglass used it as a gavel the members fairly danced.

The Populists, anticipating the events of the day, attempted to throw the burden of the situation on Sheriff Wilkinson, of this county.

The Governor informed him officially late in the afternoon that rumors, apparently well founded, were in circulation, to the effect that a lawless mob (the Republican House of Representatives) contemplated the forcible invasion of the Hall of the House of Representatives, and called upon him to summon a sheriff's posse comitatus to resist such lawless invasion and to preserve the peace. Speaker Dunsmore, of the Populist House, sent the following to Sheriff Wilkinson:

"Sir—I hereby call on you, as sheriff of Shawnee county, for sufficient force to preserve the peace and authority of the House of Deputies."

The sheriff after taking legal advice refused to comply with the demand of the Governor and the Populist Speaker and notified them that if there was a House of Representatives legally organized it was clothed with the power to appoint a Sergeant-at-Arms who would have all the power necessary to call to his assistance any number of citizens necessary to enforce the authority with which he was invested by the House; that he did not wish to decide which House is the legally organized body and should take no part as long as the peace and quiet of the citizens remained undisturbed.

This reply of the sheriff determined the Governor to call out the militia and after the Republicans made forcible entrance to Representative Hall, he wired the commanders of the various companies to repair at once with their commands to the scene of hostilities.

The various companies which had been drawn up about the State House according to the ideas of the individual commandants were given positions at the four main entrances to the capitol on its four sides.

Squads of men were posted at all the basement entrances. Sentinel lines were thrown out, and the situation assumed a really military aspect.

The forces were divided into three parts, each to remain on active duty eight hours, while the other two, while being held in reserve, are permitted to obtain rest and refreshments.

This plan was adopted to aid in carrying out the general plan of a siege.

The Populists decided not to force the issue by an assault upon the Republican position in Representative Hall, but to conquer the enemy by siege, and thus avert a conflict and possible bloodshed.

Last evening Gov. Lewelling appeared at the door of the House and asked admission. He was permitted to enter and as he made his appearance the members rose in respect. He made an impressive speech.

"I came," he said, "not as the Governor of the State, to order you from the hall. I come to you as a man and I entreat you as citizens of Kansas and men of honor to surrender to the legal authority of the State and to vacate this hall."

Continuing, he said the events of the past two days seemed to have robbed both sides of their reason and that the situation was now so strained that the slightest incident might lead to a conflict and bloodshed.

Speaker pro tem Hoch interrupted the Governor to ask if it would not be fair for each side to agree to vacate the hall pending a settlement of the difficulty.

The Governor said he would consider no compromise and no appeal from the Republicans. If the Republicans would not surrender, then he would be forced to order the militia to drive them from the hall at the point of the bayonet. A voice from the seats asked: "Will you abide by the decision of the courts?"

The Governor declined to reply and left the hall.

Since the inauguration of the Populist movement the State militia has received but little official attention. The appointment of Adjt.-Gen. Artz was confirmed only yesterday.

He is not very conversant with military affairs and during the excitement of the day he served more in the capacity of an orderly to Gov. Lewelling, commander-in-chief, than in high military authority. The only capable officer of rank on the ground is Col. J. W. F. Hughes. To him late in the afternoon Adjt.-Gen. Artz delivered an order to assume command of all officers and men of the Kansas National Guard assembled in Topeka and around the State House, and upon receiving the order Col. Hughes at once took charge and brought order out of chaos.

The Republicans' Action Endorsed.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Feb. 16.—A tremendous meeting of citizens of all parties was held last night in Chickering hall, this city, to endorse the action of the Douglass House at Topeka. Mayor Hooker presided, and Hon. Edward Carroll, John Hannon, E. N. Morrell, D. R. Anthony, and M. W. Hook made speeches strongly endorsing the action of the House in taking possession of and holding Representative Hall.

BUSY DAY IN THE SENATE.

Debate on Appropriation Bill—Message Received—Pension Bill in the House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The Nicaragua Canal bill, though having the advantage of being the unfinished business, had to give way yesterday in the Senate to the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill.

All the amendments to that bill reported by the Committee on Appropriations, including the World's Fair items, were disposed of, with the exception of the series relating to river and harbor improvements, and these were in the full tide of debate when the President's Hawaiian message was delivered, and then, without the delay of a minute, the Senate, on Mr. Sherman's motion, went into executive session.

The Invalid Pension Appropriation bill monopolized the attention of the House yesterday.

The general debate was enlivened by Mr. Boutelle, of Maine, who made one of his vigorous and characteristic speeches. But the House at large looked upon the controversy without excitement, and it ended without any gain on either side.

Against the amendments changing the existing pension laws points of order were made, the determination of which was postponed.

SPLIT OVER GRESHAM.

The Illinois House Would Not Congratulate Cleveland.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 16.—The lower House of the Legislature was thrown into an uproar for half an hour yesterday by a member moving to suspend the rules for the introduction of a resolution congratulating President-elect Cleveland upon the selection of Judge Gresham as a member of his Cabinet.

Consideration of the resolution was opposed, but the yeas and nays were demanded, to the embarrassment of the Democrats.

Amid great disturbance and the vain attempts of several gentlemen to explain their votes, the roll was called, resulting in the defeat of the motion to suspend the rules by a vote of 86 to 56.

Mrs. W. C. Whitney's Will.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The will of Flora Payne Whitney, wife of William C. Whitney, who died on Feb. 5, was filed yesterday with Probate Clerk Tiney. Mrs. Whitney gives all her property to her husband, William C. Whitney. The witnesses to the document are Francis Lynde Stetson, John Seager and Philip E. Bray. An affidavit of William C. Whitney accompanying the petition for the probate of the will states that the personal property which was left by his wife is valued at $2,200,000, and the real estate at about $750,000.

SENATE HAS THE TREATY

The Hawaiian Question at Last in Congress.

DOCUMENTS NOT YET MADE PUBLIC

The Whole Voluminous Correspondence Has Been Turned Over to the Senate and is Now Being Printed—The Treaty Is Signed by the Commissioners and Secretary of State Foster—Speculation Regarding the Provisions of It.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The President sent his message recommending the annexation of the Hawaiian islands to the United States to the Senate late yesterday afternoon. It is accompanied by a treaty of annexation concluded between the Secretary of State and the Hawaiian Commissioners, and a mass of correspondence relating to the questions at issue.

The treaty is brief, providing merely for the annexation of the islands under the present provincial government and leaving the details of the permanent form of Government, etc., to Congress. The correspondence is very voluminous, going back many years, and gives a complete history of the islands so far as negotiations with the United States are concerned.

Contrary to general expectation, the Senate in executive session declined to make the treaty public immediately, but decided to first have the message and documents printed for the confidential information of Senators.

The papers were accordingly sent down to the government printing office to be put in type for confidential uses with the probability that the seal of secrecy will be released this afternoon.

A well informed authority says that under the treaty the ex-Queen and the heir apparent, Princess Kalaulani, will be provided for with pensions, said to amount to $25,000 a year each. The United States Treasury, however, will not be put to any expense on that account.

The crown lands will become the property of the United States under the process of annexation, and they now produce revenues which amount to $70,000 per annum, a sum, the commissioners assert, that would be doubled under judicious management.

Hence the crown lands could be made to more than pay for the pension to the Queen.

It is also stated that the treaty contains a provision for its reference to the provisional government of Hawaii, after its ratification by the United States Senate, to be returned to this country with the approval of the Hawaiian government within two months after its arrival in Honolulu.

Then, upon the return of the treaty, if Congress should be in session, or as soon thereafter as Congress convenes, the legislation necessary to provide a form of government for the new territory and to carry out the financial obligations imposed by the treaty will be initiated.

One of the troublesome questions in regard to the treaty has been that concerning the sugar bounty.

The treaty, it is understood, will not provide for the payment of the bounty or say anything about it. But if the bounty law is continued it is presumed that the Hawaiians will get the benefit of it.

Gresham May Not Attend.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—"I do not know when I shall resign my position on the Federal Bench," said Judge Gresham, "for the reason that I have a large amount of business to get through, and it would be utterly impossible for me to fix any date now. I have so much work to do that I may not be able to go to Washington to be present at the inauguration of Mr. Cleveland."

A Chickering Charged with Embezzlement.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Charles F. Chickering, head of the piano firm of Chickering & Sons, who died two years ago leaving a name that was synonymous with honesty and integrity, was charged yesterday in the Supreme Court before Judge Andrews, by his brother, George H. Chickering, with having embezzled money of the piano firm.

The President Off to Shoot Ducks.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The President left Washington yesterday afternoon for Benjies, Md., to spend a few days in duck shooting there. He was accompanied by ex-Senator Sewall, of New Jersey, his companion on a number of similar trips. The President will be the guest of the club at Benjies.

Telegraphers Convention in Full Swing.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 16.—The delegates in attendance at the convention of Commercial Telegraphers continued their deliberations yesterday behind closed doors. The principles of the organization and the methods of working were the subjects discussed at the morning session.

Duggan Declared Not Guilty.

BUFFALO, Feb. 16.—The jury in the trial of James Duggan, for election frauds, came in with a verdict of not guilty. The verdict was received with cheers and hand clapping by the crowd which filled the court room, and it was some minutes before order was restored.

The "Scabs" Were Won Over.

WHEELING, W. Va., Feb. 16.—Another turn was taken in the street car strike yesterday when a large number of the men employed by the company to take the strikers' places quit and joined the strikers. The strike has lasted nearly four weeks and during that time from four to five cars a day have been run under police protection while the public [illegible]

HOKE SMITH ACCEPTS.

Mr. Cleveland Announces His Secretary of the Interior.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Feb. 16.—Mr. Cleveland announced the fifth member of his Cabinet last evening. It is that of Hoke Smith of Georgia for Secretary of the Interior.

In making the announcement Mr. Cleveland said: "I met Mr. Hoke Smith of Georgia at my office in New York. He called at my request. I offered him the position of Secretary of the Interior and he accepted. I wish to say that I have not written him or received any letters or other communications from him and that this was the first time I have seen him since election."

Mr. Cleveland went to New York on the 8:30 train and returned at 5:10 p. m. He remained at his office in the Mills building all day and saw only those who called by appointment. Mrs. Cleveland accompanied him to and from the city. The selection of Hoke Smith with that of Gresham, Carlisle, Bissell and Lamont, fill all the positions except the portfolio of the Navy, the Attorney-General and Agriculture.

Hoke Smith of Georgia is the proprietor of the Atlanta Journal and is known as the original Cleveland man in his State. He favored the nomination of Mr. Cleveland while the Atlanta Constitution and other influential papers were booming David B. Hill.

Mr. Smith is not yet 38 years of age and is a native of North Carolina. He is a lawyer and is said to have the largest practice of any lawyer in his state. His fortune is estimated at $300,000.

Mr. Smith is tall and athletic in appearance with a smooth shaven face not unlike that of the late Henry W. Grady. He is a good speaker and has a deep musical voice. His wife is a niece of Howell E. Cobb, who was Speaker of the Georgia Legislature.

Sterling Morton for the Cabinet.

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 16—It is rumored here that Mr. Cleveland has offered the portfolio of Agriculture to Sterling Morton. There are good reasons for giving the rumor credence.

THE O'DONNELL TRIAL.

Prosecution Rests and the Defense Begins Its Case.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 16.—The defense in the O'Donnell trial opened its side of the case this morning.

The greater part of the session yesterday was taken up in examination of newspaper reporters who were at the scene of the riot.

H. B. Layton, a Chicago reporter, saw the defendant in the rink about noon of the day of the strike.

O'Donnell then told him that six Pinkertons had been killed.

As the fire engine that had been used in pumping the oil on the barges passed the rink, O'Donnell said to witness: "That is the best work that engine ever did."

W. W. Wool, a Newcastle newspaper man, heard O'Donnell make his speech, pleading with the crowd to let the Pinkertons go. The surrender followed O'Donnell's speech.

Richard Collins, a reporter for the Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph testified to having been in the mill during the evening when O'Donnell made his speech advising that the Pinkertons be allowed to cut loose the barges and float down the river. According to the witness, O'Donnell said:

"We have lost heavily and the Pinkertons have, too. Let's let them go and have no more bloodshed."

A man in the assembly called out: "No, burn the bloody beggers."

"Who is that man?" cried O'Donnell, he was shown and O'Donnell said: "You go down and kill them yourself. We have been trying all day. We will wait."

Afterward it was agreed to let the Pinkertons surrender and O'Donnell said they must be protected.

H. B. Layton, of Chicago, A. A. Wood, of Newcastle, and several employees of the Carnegie Company, testified to seeing O'Donnell on the river bank and behind the barricade during the riot.

Robert Herbert, a reporter, continued his testimony. He met O'Donnell twice during the day in the vicinity of the river.

Witness understood O'Donnell was at the battle as a newspaper correspondent. Had known him to act in that capacity.

When questioned as to the probable outcome of the battle, O'Donnell replied: "We'll win." Witness said O'Donnell was correspondent of the Tri-State News Bureau. He considered O'Donnell's remark, "We'll win," to refer to the lockout.

MANY LETTERS RECEIVED

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT MEN WHO HANDLE THE MAILS.

A Chat With the Employes of the New York City Post-office—Better Times for Supts. Conklin, Morgan and Jackson.

The postman's whistle is a sound which no one ever forgets. The instant it is heard one feels an interest. "Are the letters for me? Who can they be from? Does it mean good news, or is it, perhaps, an announcement of death?"

Mr. D. C. Conklin is superintendent in charge of carriers at the New York post-office. In the cours of an interview, he said: "I had swamp fever some years ago in Alabama. Ever since that time I have been a sufferer from billousness and malaria. It has attacked me regularly about every two weeks. I have had protracting headaches and general unfitness for work with these attacks. I have tried almost everything, and to no purpose, until I began to use Paine's celery compound It has cured me in each attack since I began to take it, and I am a great believer in its power."

Edwin M. Morgan, general superintendent of the city delivery, New York post-office, says: "My wife was not well and I had her try Paine's celery compound, and it has done her much good- I shall have her continue to use it."

Mr. R. C. Sackson, superintendent of the railway mail service, made the following interesting statement: "My wife has long been an intense sufferer from asthma I gave her some Paine's celery compound, and it strengthened her nerves, acted as a tonic and benefitted her asthma greatly."

Mr. Samuel B. Bowne, of the advertised letters department, cheerfully indorses the foregoing in the following words: "Nothing heretofore ever gave me more than temporary relief from a long standing case of sciatica, until I tried Paine's celery compound. That splendid remedy has done me a world of good, and I am confident it will make a perfect cure. It is a delightfully easy and pleasant aperient, too, and I am glad I tried it."

Mr. T. A. Jardine, auditor of the post-office, speaks from experience. "I induced my father to try the compound," he said, "and with satisfactory results. He is much delighted with it and much improved in health."

W. W. Wool, a Newcastle newspaper man, heard O'Donnell make his speech, pleading with the crowd to let the Pinkertons go. The surrender followed O'Donnell's speech.

SET FIRES FOR FUN.

WALLACE WORKED LIKE A HERO EVERY TIME A BARN WAS BURNED.

He Always Gave the First Alarm, and Fanwood Citizens Did Not Suspect He was the Incendiary.

Lawrence Wallace, of Fanwood, is now in the Elizabeth jail accused of arson. Three complaints have been sworn out against Wallace. They all charge him with arson.

On the night of Jan. 22 J. R. Marsh's barn, near the village of Fanwood, was discovered to be on fire. The firemen and all the villagers turned out and fought the flames to little avail. Two horses, a cow and sixty chickens perished, also all the stores of grain and feed in the barn. The loss was about $1,600.

No one thought the fire was of incendiary origin. It was the general impression that it was caused by sparks blown from the house.

Mr. Marsh was thankful to his neighbors for their services and was particularly obliged to Lawrence Wallace, who was the first person at the fire. Wallace worked so earnestly and recklessly that he was regarded as the hero of the occasion.

At 12:30 on the night of Feb. 10 there was another fire. A man named Allen was leaving a friend's house, near the home of Mrs. John Marsh, when he was accosted by Wallace, who, in an excited manner, said he believed Mrs. Marsh's barn was on fire.

"Why do you think so," asked Allen.

"Why? Don't you see the flames rolling up?" returned Wallace.

Allen declared that he could see no flames, whereupon Wallace seized him by the arm, exclaiming:

"Come along with me and I'll show you."

When they reached the barn Wallace pointed to a blaze which was then gaining great headway. It soon burst forth, and before the firemen could reach the building it was nearly destroyed. Several horses and other live stock were burned. The loss was heavy.

Wallace worked so heroicly that he was not suspected by any one, and the incident between him and Allen was thought nothing of.

There was a general belief abroad, however, that a fire-bug was operating in the village, and the leading citizens determined to run him down. There were no clues upon which to work, and they could only abide their time. They had not long to wait.

A fire which threatened to destroy the entire town broke out last Sunday night. It was the actions of Wallace on that occasion that caused him to be suspected.

A young man named Johnson, who had been visiting friends in a neighboring town, returned on the midnight train. The station is half a mile from the heart of the village of Fanwood. He had gone a short way from the station when he saw a man standing in the road some distance ahead.

At the same time he saw a blaze in the direction of the village. Johnson's presence was still unknown, and it dawned upon him that perhaps this man was the fire-bug. This suspicion was increased when Johnson accosted the stranger. It gave him such a complete surprise that he trembled. It was Lawrence Wallace. Johnson asked him where the fire was. He replied in a trembling voice he did n't believe there was any fire.

Johnson assured him that there was no mistake about it and ran towards the burning building.

Wallace followed, declaring as he ran that he would now settle the question as to which fire-engine got there first.

The fire was in the stable attached to C. A. Smith's lumber yard. It was burned, with its contents. The flames spread rapidly and at one time reached the lumber yard and threatened to sweep over the town.

Wallace worked hard and proved himself to be more reckless than ever. Johnson, in the meantime, began to whisper to others, and they watched Wallace carefully.

The fact that all three fires had occurred at the same hour of the night and that he was the first to discover them was looked upon as justifying suspicion. Moreover, it was recalled that the stable at Wallace's mother's was burned a few months ago, and that the young man was at the time suspected of having set it on fire to secure a small insurance. Other records were against him. He was once charged with petty larceny and at another time spent six months in the county jail for stealing a horse.

The citizens of Fanwood decided to lay the case before State Detective John Keron, of Elizabeth. He investigated and found such a strong chain of evidence that he went to Wallace's home and arrested him night before last.

Keron said yesterday that Wallace did not know at the time that he was suspected of having set the fires, and was greatly surprised when arrested. He declared that it was a scheme of his enemies to punish him, and said he would tell some things that would make some people's heads swim at Fanwood. This is believed by Keron to be mere talk. He says Wallace is the right man.

Wallace is twenty-three years old and has lived with his mother and sister, at Fanwood, all his life. He is a hard drinker. He is a hod-carrier by trade.

THE CRESCENT LEAGUE REVIVES.

Funds Subscribed to Maintain the Society on a High-Class Basis.

The outcome of last night's meeting of the Plainfield Crescent league proves that that institution is still alive, and promises to last forever, displaying a life and vigor which will make it a benefit to the community. After all the evil reports generated by certain members and gleefully spread by the Somerville papers, that the Crescent League could not pay its debts, and was going to be sold by a West End sheriff, the Crescent League has pulled through, and reanimated will go on its way rejoicing.

The league is largely indebted to president Chas. Leggett, the most popular president that the league ever had, to the most congenial R. A. Meeker, faithful street commissioner, to Aaron Kline, and to all the subscribers who toed the mark and helped the club. In two weeks' time, with those gentlemen as committee who had the good of the league at heart, nearly $1,000 was raised, and at last night's meeting it was ordered to settle all the debts outside of the note and also to pay the amount of $300 on account of the note held by the trustees.

During that two weeks time, proofs that the league had still a good name and was still deserving of confidence were given by outsiders, and by merchants of the town who came forth and helped the Crescent League in subscribing for certificates. That enterprising builder, Charles Hand, has given the free use of his large hall on Broadway, and the Crescent League will give a grand entertainment on Feb. 24, in the Crescent Rink. A committee of five was appointed, and no doubt the entertainment will be a success.

President Charles Leggett also announced that at the next meeting he would advise that the By-Laws be amended and also that a new Constitution be made. The club decided also to stay one more year in the present location, and ordered the lease to be signed.

The trouble is over, and everything now will be settled. The Crescent League will go on as smoothly as if nothing had happened. Though the bowling team lost a great many games this winter, there is still time to show what they can do, and at to-night's game they should win. All the games lost this season were lost by very small margins, and there is no doubt that with more team practice they should have won most of them. Every game won will add fame to the league, and also to Plainfield, who was very proud last year of its base-ball team.

The faithful members of the league rejoice that next season the Crescent league colors will float once more over their grounds.

NOT S. B. MONTGOMERY.

His Son Says He Isn't the Man Found Dead at Metuchen, With a White Silk Handkerchief.

A man found dead in Metuchen yesterday, who was identified by another as one who had three weeks ago asked that word be sent to the Montgomerys of Plainfield if anything happened to him, is not, as was at first thought possible by chief Grant, S. B. Montgomery for so many years a resident of this city at Central avenue and Fifth street, whose wife is the daughter of the late Peter Balen at one time one of Plainfield's wealthiest citizens.

There was found on the body of the dead man—who had shot himself through the head in the woods—a white silk handkerchief with the embroidered initials "S. M." All of S. B. Montgomery's friends in this city, and also his niece, Mrs. Abraham Hooley, remembered that he always carried just such handkerchiefs.

But a PRESS reporter this morning interviewed his son, William, and learned that S. B. Montgomery is alive and well, and at home with his wife on Grand avenue, Brooklyn. The coroner of Middlesex county went to New York yesterday to William Montgomery's place of business and told of the case. The latter at once hurried to his father's house where he had his fears dispelled.

There are two other Montgomery families in this city but they can give no information as to who the man can be. He may never be identified as the body is so near decomposition it will have to be buried within a few hours.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

The eleven-year-old son of David W. Pond is seriously ill of membraneous croup.

A sociable and dance will be given at the home of H. H. Connett, Broadway and Fourth street, this evening.

The Rev. Dr. Lewis will preach at the Seventh-Day Baptist church Saturday on "Temperance" by request of the W. C. T. U. The other Plainfield clergymen will preach against license of the liquor traffic on Sunday.

—It is said that train No. 56 left Plainfield ahead of time yesterday, and had to back up for a passenger who might have been left.

A prompt refund of your money, if you get neither benefit nor cure. Risky terms for the doctor, but safe and sure for the patient. Everything to gain, nothing to lose. There's just one medicine of its class that's sold on these conditions—just one that could be—Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's a peculiar way to sell it—but it's a peculiar medicine. It's the guaranteed remedy for all Blood, Skin and Scalp Diseases, from a common blotch or eruption to the worst Scrofula. It cleanses, purifies and enriches the blood, and cures Salt-rheum, Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, and all manner of blood-taints, from whatever cause. It costs you nothing if it doesn't help you. The only question is, whether you want to be helped.

"Golden Medical Discovery" is the cheapest blood-purifier sold, through druggists, because you only pay for the good you get.

Can you ask more?

The "Discovery" acts equally well all the year round. Made by the World's Dispensary Medical Association, at 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

LEGISLATIVE AID INVOKED.

North Plainfield Asks that Plainfield's Green Brook Nuisances Be Stopped.

Senate bill 148, introduced by Senator Keys of Somerset county, now in the hands of the legislative committee on agriculture, has for its especial object the abolition of sewage connection with Green brook in this city. The bill was prepared in North Plainfield, whose authorities have abolished sewage nuisance from their side, and who are seeking to secure similar reform from Plainfield's side. Bill 148 prohibits the throwing or depositing of dead animals or any refuse into open streams.

A hearing will be given to Plainfielders and North Plainfielders before the bill is reported by the committee.

Farewell Reception to Their Parting Friend.

Ed. Young was tendered a surprise party last evening by his young friends at his home on South Second street, previous to his going to Florida Saturday, for an indefinite time. On behalf of his friends, Dr McInnes presented him with a handsome traveling valise. The evening was spent in dancing, playing games, speech-making, etc., after which refreshments were served in abundance. Among those present were: Mr. and and Mrs. McInnes, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, Misses Lily Young, Rosa Pierce, Lizzie Sears, Fanny and Lucy Westphal, Agnes and Jennie Reed, Bessie Mague, Maggie Page, and Messrs. Alex. Muir, John Cose, George Firstbrook, William Peebles, Bertram Littell, Will and Bert Tallamy, A. Campbell, Fred. Schomp, Arthur and Will Leland, Thomas Reid, Walter Mague, David Thompson and others.

The Society of Friends and the Liquor Traffic.

The Society of Friends, through the following memorial to the legislature, adopted by the temperance committee at a meeting held in Plainfield, protests against the continuance of the liquor license system:

To the Senate and Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

The Temperance Committee of the Shrewsbury and Plainfield Half-Year's Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends records its deep conviction of the great evil of the liquor license system, and especially protests against the infamous County Commission Law, and hereby earnestly asks for the repeal of all license laws, and for the legal prohibition of the manufacture and sale of all intoxicating liquors for drinking purposes.

No. 2's Lawyer Published as Untrustworthy.

The New York Commercial Advertiser says: "An unintentional injustice was done Mrs. T. O. Bullock by an article in our issue of Jan. 3, which reported her to be the notorious Blanche Douglass. We are now satisfied that our information, on the faith of which the article in question was published, was untrustworthy and that Mrs. Bullock and Blanche Douglass are two different persons."

In this connection it is of interest to know that Albridge Smith, attorney for Mrs. Bullock No. 2, of this city, is reported to be the source of the New York paper's "untrustworthy information".

It Does Not Own or Represent Them.

(From The Somerset Messenger.)

Apropos of reorganizing the Central New Jersey Base Ball League the coming Summer, The Plainfield Courier says, "should Somerville enter, Plainfield can be safely counted upon to stay out." We doubt very much if The Courier owns the Crescent club or voices the sentiments of its members, but, if it does, that organization is surely in a deplorable condition, mentally as well as financially. When we see such an exhibition of spleen and lack of backbone, we can only say, "How have the mighty fallen!"

It May Be Interesting to Know that when excursion rates are made to Chicago for people who live in the East, to enable them to attend the World's Fair this year, it is contemplated by the Western roads to also make excursion rates from Chicago to all principal business and tourist points in the West, Northwest and Southwest, so that those who desire to spend a few weeks among their friends in the Great West, may have an opportunity of so doing without incurring much additional expense. It may be well to consider this subject in advance of actual time of starting, and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Co. has issued maps and time tables and other instructive reading matter, which it will be glad to furnish free of expense upon application by postal card addressed to John R. Pott, District Pass. Agent, 42 So. Third street, Philadelphia, Pa. 2t

Skin Disease.

What spectacle is more disgusting than that of a man or woman with a skin disease which shows itself in pimples or blotches on hands, arms, face and neck? It is simply impure blood. See what BRANDRETH'S PILLS did for a chronic case: George Chapman, Pinconing, Mich., says: "For four years I was in the Mounted Infantry in the U. S. Army, residing during that time principally in Texas. Almost all of that time I had a chronic skin disease, characterized by an eruption over the entire surface of my legs and thighs, arms and chest. The doctors termed it eczema. I had given up all hopes of ever being cured, when BRANDRETH'S PILLS were recommended to me. I concluded to try them, and I have thanked God daily since then that I did so. I used them for about three months, and by that time, was completely cured and have never had any trouble since."

Lew Dockstader Coming!

The big minstrel organization headed by Lew Dockstader will be the attraction at Music Hall, Monday evening next, and a delightful performance is assured. Seats will be on sale to-morrow morning. Mr. Dockstader takes the humorous side of nature for his foot-light mirror and therein reflects the vagaries and amusing peculiarities of a self-possessed and ambitious race. The amusing mistakes which are common to humanity and the special features of the negro of to-day be good-naturedly travesties and politely satirizes, and his singular genius for melody, mirth and harmony are illustrated for the benefit of the public. This is legitimate negro minstrelsy. Mr. Dockstader this season has surrounded himself by an exceedingly large and unusually accomplished coterie of artists among whom are George Powers, Frank Dumont, Falke and Semons, Blocksom and Burns, John C. Harrington and the Columbian Quartette. Also eight superb vocal soloists and a large chorus. Harry J. Clapham, the manager of the company, is very enthusiastic over the engagement of Frank Dumont, the Minstrel Shakespeare, whose sketch "The Cake Walk" is extremely humorous.

Horrible Burning Accident at a Budapest Carnival.

PARNELLITES AND HOME RULE BILL.

Boats Lost in a Gale and Nearly 500 Seamen Perished—Two More Panama Conspirators Sentenced—Mgr. Satolli's Acts Indorsed by the Pope.

BUDAPEST, Feb. 16.—A carnival dance was given on Tuesday evening in Deutsch Pereg. At 11 o'clock, when about 100 persons were dancing in the hall on the first floor, a child playing in the cellar dropped a lighted taper through the bunghole of a cask filled with petroleum oil.

The cask exploded, killed the child, tore up the dance floor, and scattered the burning petroleum oil among the dancers.

A dozen persons, enveloped in flames, ran for the windows or doors, spreading fire and panic among the rest of the company.

Half the people in the hall were at the end from which there were no exits, and and as the floor on the side near the windows had been torn by the explosion they were obliged to run the whole length of the blazing room in order to escape.

Ten persons fell through to the cellar, and were burned to death, while seven more, whose clothes had caught fire, died a short time after reaching the open air.

Three were trampled into unconsciousness in the panic, and were burned to death as they lay on the floor.

Five men and seven women, whose clothes were half burned from their backs, are now lying in a critical condition.

Many others have slight fractures or burns.

But 30 or 40 persons escaped without sustaining injuries.

THE HOME RULE BILL.

John Redmond Announces that the Parnellites Will Support It.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—John Redmond, the Parnellite leader, said in an interview yesterday:

"The main principles of the Home Rule bill are sound. It confers a Parliament on Ireland with full control of Irish affairs, subject only to a veto by the Crown on the advice of Irish Ministers. One or two subjects are reserved from that control, but only for three and six years respectively.

"There are many defects in the machinery provided, and there are certain restrictions which we regard as vexatious. In the present form of the bill nobody can regard it as affording a final settlement of the Irish question, but we conceive our duty to be to improve it as much as possible, and reserve our decision as to whether it will be accepted or not until the third reading, when we will know definitely the precise shape it will assume after discussion and amendment."

Justin McCarthy, the Nationalist leader, said that Mr. Balfour's speech in answer to Gladstone was "the carping, unmilitant speech of a philosophic skeptic."

The House of Commons spent the afternoon in a dreary discussion of the bill reforming the election of poor law guardians, which was read a second time, the opposition assenting.

The bill regulating railway rates was withdrawn, President Mundella of the Board of Trade, promising that if the railway companies should fail to revise their rates within a reasonable time the government would introduce a measure dealing with the question.

THE MONITOR PURITAN.

A Very Wicked Ship That Uncle Sam Is Building.

An Ugly Armored Monitor Carrying Four Ponderous Guns and a Regular Arsenal of Lighter Weapons—Her Fighting Strength.

The double-turreted monitor Puritan, a much larger vessel than the Miantonomoh, and differing from her in some essential points, was until recently the largest armor-clad vessel projected by the navy department.

The Puritan was begun in 1875 at the shipyard of the late John Roach, Chester, Pa. She is 286 feet 6 inches long, with 60 feet 1¾ inches greatest breadth and a draught of water of 18 feet. Her displacement is 6,060 tons, while that of the Miantonomoh is only 3,990 tons.

She carries four 12-inch breech-loading guns in two turrets and six 4-inch rapid-fire guns protected by armor shields or sponsons, besides fourteen other guns of smaller caliber.

After the assignment of the shipbuilding firm of John Roach in 1885 the Puritan was taken first to the navy yard, League island, for an engine trial, and afterward to the navy yard at Norfolk with the intention of having her completed at that yard. She was subsequently taken to the navy yard, New York, where she is now nearing completion.

It was the original intention to have her finished similarly to the Miantonomoh—that is, her 12-inch guns were to have been placed but a few feet above the deck, or so low as to render them useless in a moderate seaway. All around the base of the turret, which passed through the armored deck, was a clearance space of four inches—equal to an area of twenty-four square feet—covered with a thin flexible flap secured to the turret and resting loosely on the deck around the opening. This, when broken through by wave or shot, would have exposed the low freeboard vessel to the risk of foundering by the shipping of only one heavy sea. Besides this, she was intended to have an upper deck supported on stanchions and open on both sides, the same as the Miantonomoh.

In the latter part of 1885 Naval Constructor Philip Hichborn returned from a tour of Europe, where he had been sent by the navy department to investigate ships, dock-yards, and navy construction generally, and, knowing the difficulties of making a successful coast-defense ship of this large vessel he made some radical changes in her design. The proposed turrets were replaced by what has since become known as Hichborn turret, which made it possible to raise the guns to a height of 10 feet 6 inches above the water line. These turrets do not project down through the deck as do those in the Miantonomoh, but the lower part, or barbette, is secured to the deck, forming a water-tight wall around the base of the turret to the height of five and one-half feet above the deck. The upper part of the turret containing the guns is made to revolve above the barbette just referred to, and has inclined sides, which make it appear something like a gigantic rivet head. Both the upper and the lower parts of the turret are well protected by heavy plates of steel armor, the latter being fourteen inches thick, while the inclined sides of the upper part present, but a small target and are very difficult to penetrate by the shot of an enemy.

Besides this she is provided with a large deckhouse or superstructure extending from one turret to the other and subdivided into quarters for both the officers and the crew. This will give excellent opportunities for the ventilation of the ship and for communication with the engine-room and other quarters below even in a storm at sea, and will no doubt prevent such discomfiture as has been experienced on board the Miantonomoh from the excessive heat below deck.

The ship is provided with eight boilers, which are now being fitted with appliances for forced draught. She has twin screws, with engines of the horizontal compound type, capable of developing 3,700 horse power with natural draught, which will develop a speed of twelve knots, while with forced draught she will develop nearly 5,000 horse power and a speed of more than thirteen knots.

The hull is protected by an armor belt 5 feet 7 inches deep, 14 inches in inches in thickness to a point below the water line, from which it tapers to six inches at the armor shelf. This belt extends 180 feet along the middle part of the ship, protecting engines, boilers, magazines and shell rooms. Immediately forward and aft of this belt, says the New York Herald, the armor is reduced in thickness to 10 inches for a distance of 20 feet, and is further reduced to a thickness of 6 inches at the ends of the ship. The armor is strongly supported by a wood backing and a system of rigid frames and girders. The main deck is covered by steel plating 2 inches thick. The ship will carry 450 tons of coal.

She has all of her engines and boilers on board and the hull construction is all completed, but the armor for the turrets and sides, though contracted for some time ago, has not been delivered. It is hoped, however, that deliveries will be made soon and that the ship will be ready to put in commission within the next two years.

DID YOU EVER RIDE BEHIND AN OX TEAM?

Rather Slow, Ain't It.

There is just the same difference between our way of doing business and the way others do it, as there if between a Blue Line Flyer and an ox team.

Wouldn't you rather do business and buy your goods of a concern that believes in moving things on the fast line principle? Buy goods to-day and and sell them to-morrow on a close, quick profit—or on the ox team principle, buy to-day and sell next year or never, because they want big profits.

We believe in close, quick profit, hence our great success.

WOMEN WILL LIKE IT.

And No One Will Think of Blaming Them.

Perfectly Right That Women Should Regard Their Complexion.

And This Is So Much Better and Such an Excellent Way.

We believe it perfectly right that women should regard their complexion. Nothing makes them more beautiful. We take pleasure, therefore, in publishing the following letter to women written by that most popular and brilliant newspaper correspondent, Miss J. Holland, of 39 W. 26th st., New York City. Miss Holland is a noted and gifted writer, and her regular communications and articles in the New York World, New York Recorder, New York Times, Home Journal, Cleveland Tribune and other papers and magazines, will be remembered most pleasantly. She writes for our paper as follows:

"So many friends ask how it is that I am always in such good health and spirits and have a complexion that requires no cosmetics, I would like to state for the benefit of many besides friends that I owe it all to Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

"Several years ago a severe illness left me with so little vitality the doctors said I might linger for a time but would never recover.

"I then began taking Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. In a week much to the surprise of all, I was much better and in a month I was out shopping and going into society again.

"I then took several bottles of this medicine and after taking them my constitution was so thoroughly built up, although I have since passed through severe mental strains from the loss of dear ones by death, I have never been sick since.

MISS J. HOLLAND.

"Whenever I begin to feel over-taxed, mentally or physically, I take this remedy, and so keep in perfect health and spirits. I find it makes the skin soft and wonderfully improves the complexion. It increases the appetite and produces natural and peaceful sleep.

"This testimony is gratefully and willingly given in the hopes that it will benefit others. I will gladly communicate with those desiring it, substantiating this."

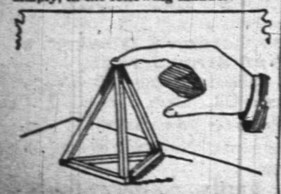
Now leaving aside the question of good health, strength and spirits, how much better it is for women to keep their complexion pure and clear, their cheeks plump and rosy and their eyes bright by the use of this wonderful vitalizer and invigorator for blood and nerves, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy! The testimony of thousands of women corroborates the words of Miss Holland. All druggists keep this remedy for $1, and it is purely vegetable and harmless.

In fact, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is the prescription and discovery of a physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th st., New York, the successful specialist in curing all forms of nervous and chronic diseases. He can be consulted in any case free of charge, personally or by letter.

TWO ENGLISH TRICKS.

A Geometrical Puzzle and a Clever Combination of Figures.

If you have a somewhat conceited friend who is in the habit of boasting of his scientific attainments, tell him that, in one department at least, you think you are more than a match for him, as you have given so much attention to the study of geometry that you have discovered how to form four triangles having altogether six lines of equal length; and throwing down half a dozen matches on the table you challenge him, with all his learning, to accomplish what you can do with the greatest ease. If he is not already in the secret you will find a good deal of amusement in watching the various devices by which he will endeavor to solve the problem you have set him. He will most likely lay out the matches upon the table in every imaginable position—and all to no purpose. Let him have half an hour at it, just to take the conceit out of him, and then show him that the thing can be done very simply, in the following manner:



"One hundred to one." Tell your friend that you will name a number under 10; that he shall add to it a number also not exceeding 10; that you and he shall go on alternately, each adding not more than 10, until one of you has reached 100; and that the chances are 100 to 1 that you will always be the one to name 100 first. In all probability he will not see why he has not the same chance of naming 100 as you have, and he will make several attempts to do so; but it is very simple. If he is going to start with 1 he cannot, according to the above conditions, name a higher number than 11, whereupon you say 12. Whatever numbers he mentions after that, you must be careful to name, in succession, 23, 34, 45, 56, 67, 78 and 89, and as his last number cannot be more than 99, you say "100," and claim the victory. Read over once or twice the series of numbers we have given, and you will easily remember them, and see why they are essential. Of course, if your friend does not know the secret, you may begin with some other number than 1, or you may even let him begin, but in any case you must take care to fall into the above series before you have proceeded too far.—Leeds Mercury.

ODD CALCULATIONS.

A Number of Curious Scientific Facts Not Generally Known.

A flea can jump straight upward and vault over a barrier 200 times its own height. If a man could display as much agility he could clear a wall a mile high at a single bound. If he could jump as far forward according to his weight as a flea can, he could make two and a half trips around the world at one leap.

According to the best and most recent calculations 100,000,000 tons of water pour over Niagara every hour. This represents 16,000,000 horse power. The total coal production of the world, either daily, weekly, monthly or yearly, would not furnish steam power sufficient to pump it back again.

A bell that could be heard at a distance of 45,000 feet in water could be heard at a distance of only 656 feet in the open air. Dogs barking on the earth can be heard by balloonists sailing at a height of four miles.

All the gold in the world (not counting that still in a virgin state) would not make a block of more than six hundred and thirteen cubic yards. A cube of the above dimensions could be put in a room twenty-four feet each way.

No wonder the fish crop is never "short." The flounder lays 7,000,000 eggs annually, several others from one million to three million, while the turbot is credited with depositing from eleven million to twelve million during each breeding season.

A CASE for holding a watch and a dry battery and lamp by which the dial of the timepiece may be illuminated when desired.

Southern California's Glacier.

Southern California's glacier has been located. For many years tradition has told of such a phenomenon of nature, and recently an expedition was sent out by the Los Angeles Herald to investigate the matter. The tradition was verified, for upon the upper levels of Grayback mountain the greatest of the San Bernardino range, a glacier one mile long, and on the average two hundred feet in depth, was found. The icy mass, according to computation made, moves downward at the rate of forty-seven feet a year.

COUNTESS DE HAARTMAN.

She Is Young, Beautiful and a Major in the Salvation Army.

America has just seen the daughter of one of the first families of New York abandon her church and, burning her social bridges behind her, join the Salvation army as a common soldier. Her career, which, if continued, cannot but be eventful, might well enough furnish for a future period a new play with an old name: "The Banker's Daughter." If her heroism and faith required the stimulus and support of a precedent, Miss Emma Van Norden could look abroad and in far Finland find Maj. Von Haartman at Helsingfors a field officer of the Salvation army. The major received her commission publicly in London at the hands of Gen. William Booth, who then for the first time betrayed to her astonished comrades that their fellow soldier who, with them, had succored the starving and prayed with the sinners in the slums of Whitechapel was a countess of the Russian empire. The then ensign, now, by hard-earned promotion, a major, bade good-by to her wondering companions and set out for her native Finland, where she became a missionary among the lowly of her compatriots, and, as the event has revealed, was destined to encounter greater opposition and persecution than is even usually the fate of Salvationists in distant savage lands.

COUNTESS VON HAARTMAN.

The persecutions of the Salvationists in Finland have been many and varied. They are forbidden to use their military titles, and in their paper they refer to the soldiers and officers only as ladies and gentlemen. They are not allowed to designate the Salvationist scheme as "an army." These, and many other interdictions, have culminated in the banishment of all Salvationists not natives of Finland by a ukase of the czar promulgated by the Nardin, or imperial minister of finance. Ostensibly the Salvation army has been suppressed and expelled from Sweden. Its faithful leader, Major the Countess Von Haartman, reports to her general that it is really very much alive, and that its leaven is working and its seed is bringing forth fruit in high and unexpected places.

A LION AT LARGE.

A Cart Horse the Only Victim of His Unusual Excursion.

The accompanying illustration represents an incident which lately occurred in the streets of Bordeaux. A traveling menagerie had taken up its quarters on the Boulevard de Cauderon, on the outskirts of the city near the Parc et Jardin d'Acclimatation, and, during feeding time, one of the lions managed to evade the keepers and escape from his cage. The wild beast tore down the spacious boulevard to the consternation of the passers-by, and suddenly turned into a by street. Here he observed, outside a tavern, a sleepy cart horse harnessed to a hay cart, and evidently awaiting the return of its driver from the estaminet. Although pursued by his keepers and a crowd of police, the lion at once flew at the horse and fixed his jaws into its neck. The poor beast plunged and kicked, but it was of no avail, and while he neighed piteously the police began firing with their revolvers at the struggling pair. The firing does not seem to have injured the lion, for, as soon as he had had his fill of horseflesh he turned to continue his promenade. At this moment a young man proposed to attempt to lasso the beast, and, covered by the revolvers of the gens d'armes, he made the attempt. After many futile efforts, the noose eventually fell about the neck of the lion, and, being pulled tight by the excited crowd of pursuers, the animal was dragged, half-strangled, back to his den. It was fortunate that the cart horse was the only victim of this unusual excursion.

A SAD AFFLICTION.

Judge—What is your age, madam?

Aged Witness—I have seen thirty-seven summers.

Judge—How long have you been blind?—Texas Siftings.

Well Up on History.

At a lecture on "The Decline of Literature" the eloquent orator shouted: "Where are the Chaucers, and Shakespeares, and Miltons, and Spencers, and Macaulays? Where are they, I say?"

And a voice answered sadly from the gallery: "All dead!"—Boston Globe.

Considerate Employer.

The young woman in the gay headdress had called in response to an advertisement.

"Yes, I want a good cook and general housemaid," said the woman of the house, "but six dollars a week seems pretty high."

"I never work fur less, mem."

"What will you expect in the matter of afternoons out?"

"You can hev two afternoons out durin' the week, mem," said the caller, stiffly.—Chicago Tribune.

Great Expectations.

The chief of police, who was dressed in civilian's clothes, saw how a cab driver insulted and abused people who refused to hire his vehicle. The chief, who refused, entered the cab and told the jehu to drive on.

"Where shall I drive you?" asked the cab driver.

"To police headquarters."

"And what will I get?"

"About ten days."—Texas Siftings.

A Tender Spouse.

Wife—Here comes a friend of mine. Let's turn into this side street until she passes.

Husband—Quarreled with her?

"No, but I don't want you to see her."

"Hum. Why not?"

"I know you'll admire that new dress of hers, and it will only worry you to think what a ridiculous fuss you made over the bills for this cheap thing I've got on."—N. Y. Weekly.

THE FIGHT AT TOPEKA

Temporary Truce Between the Belligerents, But Blood May Flow To-day.

GOV. LEWELLING OFFERS TO COMPROMISE WITH THE REPUBLICANS.

The Proposition Rejected, But They Finally Submit Amendments Which the Executive Has Under Consideration—Populists Will Probably Reject the Terms of the Republicans—Troops Side With the Republicans and Refuse to Obey the Governor—The Besieged Supplied With Food.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 17.—The only thing needed to make war in Kansas is fighting. The conditions of war are all present. Opposed bodies of armed men, something to fight about, and the disposition to fight are all evident, but the war does not open.

Bellicose preparations were carried on briskly by both sides all day yesterday, but the Governor, by offering to compromise the difficulties which are keeping the two houses apart, tapered the crisis off into a very tame-armed truce.

The proposition for a compromise was offered to the Republican house at 2 p. m. by the Governor's private secretary, Ben Close, who stated that the Governor proposed it as a last resort to avert bloodshed.

It the Republican House declined to accept it, then the Governor would be forced to drive the Republicans out of the House at the point of the bayonet, and, he added, "Their blood be on your heads."

This threat has been made so often that the Republicans received it with jeers. They received the proposition, however, and it at once became the subject of earnest consideration. After debating it for three hours the Republicans finally amended it to suit their own ideas and returned it to the Governor, the committee charged with that duty being instructed to inform the Governor that the blood of innocent men slain by reason of his refusal to accept the amendments would be on his head.

The committee had been out but a few moments when it returned and announced that it had performed its duty, that the Governor desired time to consider the amended proposition and would give the committee his answer to-day. He proposed that in the meantime an armed truce should be established and neither side should make any hostile move before noon; that the Republicans should be allowed to come and go as they pleased. This struck the Republicans favorably and they agreed to it willingly.

The whole City of Topeka, on its face, appears to be under martial law.

The capitol on all sides is surrounded with soldiers and citizens. At every approach to the building a picket line is maintained. No one is allowed inside without a pass signed by the Governor and countersigned by the Adjutant-General.

Legislators without passes stand no better chance of getting through the lines than the multitude of the anxious and curious who pack the streets.

In straggling lines the State militia parade the streets from their quarters to the capitol square.

Battery A of the First Regiment from Wichita, forty-two strong, under the command of Captain Metcalf, was put on duty at the principal approach to the capitol. They have with them a Gatling gun and a plentiful supply of ammunition. Battery B of Topeka, eighteen men, under the command of Lieutenant Parker, guards the State arsenal on the square.

Business is depressed, and there are more school children about the streets near the State buildings than in the school houses. Men walk in groups. A lone pedestrian is a rare sight.

Many old men have brought out their flint locks in anticipation of grayer developments and are seen frequently in the crowds.

The troops are composed of a decided majority of Republicans, and are, to say the least, lukewarm in the performance of their duties. The example set for them by Col. Hughes, who refuses to obey the Governor's orders to eject the Republicans from Representative Hall, has had a decidedly demoralizing effect.

The Adjutant General issued an order that no provisions should be allowed to be taken into the hall by any means whatever. Friends from the outside took well-filled baskets of provisions to the capitol and the guards on duty allowed them to be drawn into the halls by means of ropes.

The Wichita Battery even went so far as to allow their Gatling gun to be placed in position in no condition for use. An examination of the piece shows that a very essential party of its mechanism had been removed rendering it entirely useless.

Capt Metcalf, of the Battery, appeared to be greatly surprised when that fact was brought to his notice, and bringing his company into line he questioned each man individually as to his knowledge of the occurrence. Each one denied all knowledge of the gun being disabled and the piece now stands in position apparently a dangerous implement of war but in reality a useless piece.

The outlook yesterday was a belligerent one. The refusal of Col. Hughes to obey the Governor's order balked the Populist programme. The Governor would make no statement as to his plans for the day, but it was believed they included an order to the provisional troops to eject the Republicans. Should that attempt be made, it was fully known that it would be met with armed resistance on the part of the Republicans.

Col. Hughes, although not officially informed of the plan to forcibly eject the Republicans, learned its details and apprised the Republicans of them, giving them to understand at the same time that they had nothing to fear from him. A little later he was summoned to the Governor's office where the plan was laid before him and he was ordered to carry it out.

The colonel informed the Governor in forcible language that he was on duty to maintain the peace and not to break it. The Republican House, he said, was the legally constituted House of the State of Kansas, and he did not propose to interfere with it in the transaction of its business.

The Governor made reply that the colonel would obey the order or would be relieved from his command.

The colonel retorted that when the Governor relieved him of his command his regiment would relieve itself from duty and would disband on the spot.

The first regiment of which Col. Hughes is commander, comprises most of the companies in the vicinity of Topeka, and they form a decided majority of the men in the field.

The colonel's retort staggered the Governor, and the colonel's action embarrasses him to that extent he has about decided to place no more reliance on the State troops.

The prospects to-day are that the Populists will decline to accept the proposition of compromise as amended by the Republicans, and that the situation will then lapse back into the condition of yesterday.

In that event the only resource left the Populists will be reliance upon provisional troops.

The general feeling this morning is one of renewed uneasiness, and predictions are freely made that to-day may see the long anticipated war inaugurated.

NO NEW CABINET APPOINTMENT.

Smith's Selection Makes New England or Western Men Probable for Other Places.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Feb. 17.—Mr. Cleveland remained at home all day yesterday, and had no caller of political prominence.

He is not yet ready to name the men who will be Secretary of the Navy, Secretary of Agriculture, and Attorney-General.

The candidates who were supposed to have the best chances for the three positions were Congressman Hilary A. Herbert, ex-Gov. Francis, of Missouri, and ex-Solicitor General Jenks, of Philadelphia.

The selection of Hoke Smith, of Georgia, and Senator Carlisle, of Kentucky, is, however, said to weaken the chances of Hilary A. Herbert, for the reason that he would make the third Southern man, while New England and the Far West would go unrepresented in the Cabinet.

There is no certainty, however, that Mr. Cleveland will regard geographical lines in the selection of his Cabinet.

ANOTHER RIOT AT WHEELING.

Strikers Stone a Car and Drive Off the Operator.

WHEELING, W. Va., Feb. 16.—As the electric street car strike continues, the situation grows more threatening. Another riot occurred last night, this time within the city limits.

As a street car manned by non-union men was running up Market street it was compelled to run the gauntlet of a mob numbering fully 2,000 men and boys, scattered along for a distance of several squares.

All sorts of missiles were thrown at the car, and the operator was forced to desert it.

The car was then run off the track. The police were hastily summoned, and, a squad arriving on the scene, the mob was finally dispersed. But one man was arrested.

So far there have been three serious riots, and several men have been badly injured.

HOUSEBURNER DEARBORN CAUGHT.

He and Collins Got $7.50 for Setting the House Afire.

FARMINGTON, N. H., Feb. 17.—Lawrence Dearborn, who is wanted for complicity in the burning of a house in West Newbury, Mass., wherein Thomas Addison and his son William were burned to death, has been arrested here and turned over to the officers from Massachusetts.

David Collins, who was the principal in the affair, committed suicide in jail last Saturday.

He owned the house, and before he died confessed that he hired Dearborn and a man named Hubbell to burn the building, so that he could get the insurance, not knowing that the Addisons were in the house.

Hubbell has turned State's evidence and corroborates Collins' story. He says that he and Dearborn got $7.50 each for the job.

He insists that they all supposed the Addisons were away.

TOO ILL TO TESTIFY.

Ex-Secretary Thompson Gradually Growing Worse.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Feb. 17.—Ex-Secretary R. W. Thompson's condition is gradually growing worse.

His family do not consider it wise to allow him to be interviewed regarding the evidence being adduced before the Panama Canal Committee in his enfeebled condition. The House Committee will have to come to Terre Haute to secure his evidence.

Fatal Duel in Kentucky.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Feb. 17.—Shirley Quilling and James Ewing have settled a recent quarrel by fighting it out with pistols. They met near the house of Ewing's father, who lives about four miles from Cattlesburg, Ky. It was a duel to the death. Both parties fired and Ewing fell dead shot through the heart. Quilling was mortally wounded and has since died. The trouble grew out of a quarrel which occurred two weeks ago when Ewing struck Quilling with a club.

Joe Donoghue Defeated.

RED BANK, N. J., Feb. 17.—The National Amatuer Skating Association held its eighth annual championship meeting yesterday at Red Bank. The ice was poor. Joe Donoghue was beaten in all the races in which he competed. Mosher won the quarter-mile, Rudd the mile and Johnson the five-mile race. Johnson also won the ten-mile race. He will attempt to break records to-day. Donoghue was in bad form, nevertheless his defeat was a great surprise.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—The memorial services in honor of Phillips Brooks were held last night in Carnegie Music hall. Every religious denomination was represented, and men prominent in politics were seated on the platform. Rev. Dr. David H. Green presided.

THE FUSES NOT RIGHT

Experiments With the Vesuvius' Guns Unsatisfactory.

THE ORDNANCE BOARD PUZZLED.

Further Experiments Yesterday Put More Faith in the Accuracy of the Pneumatic Guns and Less in the Certainty of the Fuses—500 Pounds of Gun Cotton Put in One Shell, But Failed to Explode.

PORT ROYAL, S. C., Feb. 17.—While the Vesuvius continues to fire shells with an accuracy truly wonderful, the cause of action continues uncertain, and every one concerned is utterly at loss to account for its apparent failure to do the work for which it was designed.

It seems difficult to believe that a select Board of Ordnance experts, assisted by the commanding officer of the vessel under trial, the officer who for years has had direct charge of the guns, and also assisted by the designing engineer of the system, cannot determine from the firing of 15 explosive shells and from experiments conducted on shore whether the action of the fuse is trustworthy and deserving of further trials or worthless and a drag to the entire system. Yet such is the case, and in all fairness to these men, who are anxiously trying to solve the numerous and varied problems presented, it must be said that the accumulated evidence is most perplexing.

The last live shell, charged with 500 pounds of gun cotton, was fired yesterday from the pneumatic guns of the dynamite cruiser Vesuvius.

A premature explosion would have blown up the ship.

The Vesuvius steamed by the 2,000 yard range at a 17 knot speed, and discharged at the target the projectile containing the dynamite. In accuracy the shot was superb.

Shortly after impact with the water a distinct sound of explosion was heard. There was not the great upheaval of water expected.

This was explained by the theory that the detonation was only partial; merely the fuse had exploded.

Then a 500 pound shell filled with gun-cotton was thrown at a point on the beach. It struck with the nose slightly deflected and plowed its way through 14 feet of sand. Then the projectile leaped into the air, made another plunge ahead, turned a complete somersault, and fell on its side about 75 yards from its first point of impact.

No explosion followed. An accident had occurred to one of the pins which jammed the plunger that should have exploded the cap.

SALE OF BONDS PROPOSED.

The President Said to Have Reconsidered His Decision Against It.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—It is learned on high authority that President Harrison has reconsidered his determination not to allow the sale of bonds to make good the gold deficiency.

Before leaving the city the President authorized Secretary Foster to offer bonds for sale whenever, in his judgment, such action is absolutely necessary to maintain the Government's gold reserve.

There was only eight millions of gold left in the Treasury at the close of yesterday's operations, but the President and Secretary Foster are hopeful that an emergency necessitating the sale of bonds will not arise, at least that it can be avoided until March 4.

Democratic Committee to Participate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Chairman Harrity has notified the members of the Democratic National Committee that the headquarters for members during the inaugural season will be in the reception parlor of the Arlington hotel. The committee will participate in the parade to the reviewing stand in front of the White House, upon which seats for the members of the committee and their families will be provided.

New York Pool Rooms Raided.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Anthony Comstock raided the pool room at 9 1-2 Barclay street yesterday afternoon, capturing four prisoners and all the appliances and furniture in the place. The place was raided on the ground that the tracks in this State and New Jersey have no legal right to run at this time.

Perivier Denies the Charge.

PARIS, Feb. 17.—Presiding Judge Perivier of the Court of Appeals has given out a denial of the reports that the sentences of the Panama prisoners were determined at the last moment before the reading of the decision. The sentences were fixed, he says, at a meeting of judges held directly after M. Wilcock-Rousseau finished his speech.

Fulford Wins the Second Shoot.

LARCHMONT YACHT CLUB, N. Y., Feb. 17.—The second pigeon shooting match of the series between members of the Larchmont Yacht club and E. D. Fulford, the professional champion wing shot, took place at the club grounds yesterday, and resulted in a victory for Fulford, he defeating H. S. Thompson. Fulford used both barrels 56 times while Thompson used both barrels 61 times.

Telegraphers Still in Session.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 17.—The Commercial Telegraphers' Association is still in session here and will probably not finish up its business before Saturday. The question of a defense fund is receiving attention. This fund will be used in case of strikes or lockouts and will be put out at interest. Demands for higher wages and strikes are not being considered.

WHAT WAS DONE IN CONGRESS.

Senate Continues Appropriation Bills—House Working over Pension Bills.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—The Senate session yesterday was again occupied in the consideration of the Sundry Civil Appropriation bills. The various amendments recommended by the Committee on Appropriations to reduce the amounts inserted by the House of Representatives for some of the great internal improvements, were discussed and voted down.

During the discussion, Mr. Vest, (Dem., Mo.) ridiculed the inconsistency of Mr. Chandler (Rep., N. H.) for proposing the unconstitutional annexation of the Hawaiian islands—Kanakas, Chinese, Lepers and all—immediately after proposing legislation for the exclusion of European immigrants and Asiatic cholera.

An amendment involving the continuance of the office of Supervisor of Elections gave rise to a long and heated political discussion.

The session of the House was almost entirely devoted to the consideration of the Pension Appropriation bill. The new legislation proposed by the Committee on Appropriations was, as far as it was material, ruled in order by the Chairman, Mr. Wilson of West Virginia. His decisions were sustained but the amendments were rejected.

The feature of the day was a personal collision between Turpin of Alabama and Waugh of Indiana, which, but for the bodily intervention of friends, might have resulted seriously; but as it turned out any injuries that were received were received by the peacemakers.

HE CAME TO FIGHT.

Pugilist Mitchell, Who Arrived Yesterday, Will Cover Corbett's Money.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Mitchell, the English pugilist, who arrived yesterday on the Majestic, has been having a pretty hard time of it so far.

At first he was prevented from landing by the Custom House authorities on the ground that he was an ex-convict and came under the law prohibiting such people from living in this country. He was released late in the afternoon on a writ of habeas corpus.

Finally when he and his crowd applied for rooms at the Hotel Brunswick and were refused, his ardor was somewhat quenched. He is now occupying the most of the fourth floor in the Gedney House.

Mitchell says he is not bluffing this time and that he is going to fight Corbett first. He informed a reporter this morning that he would get his money changed to-day and as soon as possible cover Corbett's $10,000.

WESTERN SENATORIAL SITUATIONS.

No Choice in Any of the States—Near the End in North Dakota.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 17.—Sixty ballots have been cast without any change for United States Senator.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Feb. 17.—Two more ballots have been taken for United States Senator with no choice. The only feature was the entrance of a new candidate, R. H. Homer of Laramie.

HELENA, Mont., Feb. 17.—Every member of the Legislature was present and voting at the joint session for the first time since the opening day. Mantle's vote was the largest since he has been a candidate but he lacked six of a majority over all. The vote stood: Mantle, 50; Clark, 25; Dixon, 12; Couch, 2; Carter, 1; Hunt, 1.

BISMARCK, N. D., Feb. 17.—Three ballots were taken yesterday by the Legislature, making 53 so far, but there was no election. H. F. Miller, however, made a considerable gain.

Cholera and Typhoid Fever in Turkey.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Spiridion Zavitsiano, United States representative on the International Sanitary commission at Constantinople, in a despatch to the State Department, says that the cholera news from Yemen is bad, and that the Turkish authorities seek to suppress it. A decrease in the number of cases in the Black Sea region is reported. Typhoid fever prevails to an unusual extent in Constantinople. The city is represented as being very dirty.

New England Street Railway Trust.

BOSTON, Feb. 17.—The horse railways of Boston, New Haven, Providence, Springfield and other cities in New England have been consolidated in one company under the name of the New England Street Railway company. The certificate of incorporation which has been filed in New Jersey provides for a capital of $5,000,000, which may be increased to $50,000,000.

The President Didn't Shoot a Duck.

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 17.—President Harrison spent yesterday at the Bengies ducking shore. Not a duck approached the blind in which he and Gen. Sewell were, although a flock was seen feeding on the opposite side of Gunpowder river. The President believes the ducks will come to Bengies, perhaps to-day. He will remain at the shore until Saturday afternoon.

Illinois Lynchers Foiled by an Officer.

MARION, Ill., Feb. 17.—The town of Carterville, near here, was a scene of excitement Tuesday night, caused by a mob attempting to lynch Ira Carmichael, a prisoner held by officers for rape. The officer, with his prisoner, stepped out of a back door as some of the crowd entered the front door, slipped away in the darkness, and walked nine miles to this city.

Couer d'Alene Mines to Shut Down.

BOISE, Idaho, Feb. 17.—Advices from the Couer d'Alene silver mining district in Shoshone county are that owing to the low price of silver the mines will, within a few weeks, be compelled to shut down. This action will throw about 2,000 men out of employment.

Repeals the Farmers' Alliance Charter.

RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 17.—The Populists in the Legislature were astonished yesterday when the Democratic members arose as one man and passed a bill in the House to repeal the charter of the State Farmers' Alliance, granted four years ago.

Senators Banquet Carlisle.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—A parting dinner was given to Senator Carlisle last night by his late associates of both parties in the Senate at the Arlington hotel.

HEIRS MAKING PROTEST

Annexation Treaty and the Hawaiian Crown Lands.

ASK FOR A COMMISSION TO DECIDE.

Petition from the Hawaiian Consul-General at San Francisco—Provisions of the Treaty as Presented to the Senate Yesterday—More Than Two-thirds of that Body Said to be in Favor of Its Ratification, But There Will Probably be a Stubborn Fight.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 17.—The following communications have been telegraphed to Washington by the Hawaiian Consul-General at this port:

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16, 1893.

HON. LEVI P. MORTON, VICE-PRESIDENT, WASHINGTON:

Dear Sir—As a person directly interested in the Hawaiian treaty now before the United States Senate for ratification, I have the honor to request that you submit the following protest to that honorable body to be considered with the said treaty. Respectfully, F. S. PRATT, Hawaiian Consul-General.

TO THE PRESIDENT AND SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES:

On behalf of my wife Hekaanian and other heirs of the royal line of Liuebamba, founder of the Hawaiian monarchy, I hereby protest against the ratification of so much of the treaty of annexation negotiated between the United States Government and the commissioners appointed by the provisional government of Hawaii as purports to convey the crown lands of Hawaii to the United States Government for the following, among other reasons, which shall be elaborated and sustained by proof upon opportunity for doing so being afforded before an independent and unprejudiced commission to be appointed by the President of the United States:

First, the crown lands of the Hawaiian Kingdom constitute a trust created by Kamehameha III. out of his personal and individual estate to maintain the state and dignity of the Hawaiian crown.

Second, that this trust has been scrupulously observed.

Third, the rents from the crown lands have never been treated as public, but have gone to sustain the state and dignity of the Hawaiian sovereigns up to the date of the late revolution.

Fourth, that the monarchy having been abolished and a Republican or Provisional government having been established the specific object for which the crown lands trust was created simultaneously disappeared, and these lands revert to right to the legitimate heirs of Hamehamena, the Third.

Fifth, that the late reigning house of Kalakaua had no property right in the crown lands, either by blood descent or adoption, but simply enjoyed an income therefrom in the terms of trust created by Kamehameha the Third, providing a fund to support with becoming dignity the sovereign state to which they had been called by an election.

F. S. PRATT, Hawaiian Consul.

THE ANNEXATION TREATY.

Poll of the Senate Shows Votes Enough to Ratify It.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—A poll of the Senate, which has been carefully made, indicates that the Hawaiian annexation treaty will have more than the two-thirds vote necessary for ratification.

The treaty itself provides for the cession of all rights of sovereignty over the islands, all public buildings and property to the United States revenue from public lands, except such as are reserved for Government purposes to be used solely for benefit of the people of the islands.

Accompanying the message and the treaty is the correspondence upon the subject between the two governments, tables giving full details as to the area of the territory proposed to be annexed, the public debt, the public lands, the annual allowances to, and revenue of, the late royal household, and statistics as to the population and revenues, commerce and other economic matters relating to the islands, altogether a bulk of several hundred pages.

Until Congress provides otherwise, the existing government and laws of the Hawaiian Islands are continued subject to the paramount authority of the United States.

A resident commissioner is to be appointed who shall have power to veto any act of said government.

Until Congress enacts the necessary legislation existing commercial relations of the Hawiian Islands, both with the United States and foreign governments shall continue.

Further immigration of Chinese into the Islands is prohibited, and Chinese now in the Islands shall not be permitted to come into the present territory of the United States.

The public debt of the Islands is assumed by the United States to the extent of $2,250,000. The United States agrees to pay Queen Liliokalani $20,000 a year during life, and to Princess Kaiouliani $150,000. Provision is made for the exchange of ratifications of the treaty at Honolulu as soon as possible, on the part of the United States by the resident commissioner provided for in the treaty.

How the News is Received Abroad.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—The Daily Chronicle says: "Mr. Harrison takes overmuch for granted when he declares that the leading Powers will acquiesce in the annexation of Hawaii by the United States."

The Daily News says: "If the Senate rejects Mr. Harrison's treaty the well-wishers of the Republic abroad will regard it as having escaped a serious danger. Americans have no advantages to gain which counterbalance the perils of complications in the spread of the Republic beyond the seas."

Disgusted With the Fair Management.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 17.—The merchants and manufacturers of this city are thoroughly disgusted with the way they have been treated by the World's Fair management. They claim that the space offered is so small that they cannot make a satisfactory exhibit. Many will make no attempt at display.

South Carolina Must Back Down Again.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Feb. 17.—The U. S. Court has decided the railroad tax case against the State. The marshal has been ordered to place the property in possession of the receiver and the county sheriffs have been fined $500 each for contempt. They will be imprisoned until the fine is paid.

OH FOR A GOOD BALL TEAM!

Since the League Can't Afford It, Let Private Enterprise Provide It.

The best thing to be done in base-ball this year is for a dozen public-spirited citizens to put their hands into their pockets and generously contribute $25 to $50 apiece to meet the deficiency that a season's work with a good team is bound to produce. The experience of the judicious managers of the past proves that money must be lost, and since the Crescent League is not in financial position to assume such a load again the league should yield its grounds to some such combination as THE PRESS suggests. THE PRESS is sure that the men can be found to assume the responsibility as proposed. Let the league heed this proposition, and Plainfield will have as good a ball team as ever, and the league's treasury won't have to suffer. A little individual enterprise will do it all.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Andrew Vanderbeek is in the South.

Benjamin F. Hoard of New York city is visiting friends in this city.

Edward Stephenson has returned from the West, and is now employed in a West Front street grocery store.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert S. Martin on Duer street was made happy this morning by the advent of a 10-pound baby girl. Mother and child are doing well.

The merry minstrels are coming next Monday evening, headed by popular Lew Dockstader. Enough said, as Lew is never connected with anything but the best.

Mrs. C. C. Snell and daughter Louise returned yesterday to their home at Everett, Pa., after a very pleasant visit with the family of Jacob Field on Park avenue.

Senator Keys is one of the active workers in the legislative halls at Trenton. He is always to be found at his desk, is affable and courteous to all, and ready to render his constituents all the favors possible.

Among the names of members of standing committees appointed at the business session of the Knights of Pythias held in Trenton Thursday, appear those of the following Plainfield Knights: Lewis R. Blackford, on printing and supplies, and John Neagle on law and supervision.

A very pleasant time was spent last evening at the social and dance given by H. H. Connett and W. C. Force at the residence of H. H. Connett, Broadway and Fourth street. The attendance was large, and all enjoyed themselves highly. Music was furnished by Sorenson's orchestra of five pieces. Everyone returned home at an early hour this morning, well pleased.

Everything Good, from Widow's Mite to Refreshments.

An entertainment was given in Hope chapel last evening under the auspices of the Willing Workers. The chapel was well filled with attentive listeners. The first on the programme was a piano solo by Miss Lizzie Firstbrook, which was well rendered. The "Widow's Mite" came next, a tableau in which Miss Fanny Westphal, who took the part of "Aunt Emeline", rendered her part well and showed perfect ease in doing so. Next was a duet on the violin and guitar by Messrs. Littell and Tallamy. This was well received. Then came a comic recitation by Miss Raybert. The comic quartette, "The Opera", made a fine hit. This event kept the audience in a roar of laughter. The one-act comedy entitled "Confidential Clerk" was well played and received high praise, for the members who took part did it well, especially Mr. Tallamy, who took the part of the Irishman. Last on the programme, but not least, was a cornet solo by Edward Young. After the entertainment, refreshments were served in abundance, and all present enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

Lounsbury, Adaline Brock and Firman Long, who think their assessments too heavy. The points raised were covered by the former writ granted on behalf of Jacob Miles, and the entire proceedings of the commissioners will be reviewed under each writ by the Supreme Court.

If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 62 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-7

DEFECTIVE FLUE AGAIN.

One of the Leo Daft Houses Badly Damaged by Fire.

George D. Galpin was burned out at 93 Richmond street early this morning.

It was 12:50 when the night watchman on East Front street saw a blaze over towards Putnam avenue, and pulled box 16. Train hands meanwhile told policeman Frederickson that there was a fire, and he pulled box 13. The other box was just a second ahead, however, and the wonderful automatic mechanism prevented any confusion by sounding 16 and shutting 13 out.

The fire department promptly responded. 93 Richmond was locked up, and a colored man and woman left in charge were asleep with the flames overhead, when neighbors aroused them.

An icy gale blew from the north, but the firemen worked bravely and fought the flames well. They did not get through work, however, till after 3.

The house was damaged probably $1,000. The insurance is $2,500. Isaac Vail owned the property, having bought it of Leo Daft who built it. The family of Mr. Galpin, the tenant, had been out of town some time. Their furniture was ruined.

A defective flue undoubtedly caused the fire.

Jeff Newman of No. 2 and Wm. Newman of No. 1 narrowly escaped death in the burning house. The heavy frame and adjoining wood-work of one of the dormer windows crashed in upon them, badly bruising and cutting them. Had it fallen a moment sooner they must have received the full weight of the timbers and been frightfully crushed. Luckily they had changed their positions just in time.

STILL GOING DOWN HILL.

The Crescent Bowlers Don't Brace up a Little Bit.

MR. ULRICH WITHDREW.

Another Had 100 Votes More Than He for Supreme Representative.

At the twenty-sixth annual session of the Grand Lodge of Knights of Pythias, of New Jersey, in Masonic Temple, Trenton, yesterday, the ballot for supreme representative resulted as follows: James R. Rutan, 281; John Ulrich, 181; Dewitt C. Bolton, 125. In accordance with the usage of the order the lowest name was dropped and the contest was then between Rutan and Ulrich. Mr. Ulrich rose and stated that Mr. Rutan having an apparent majority of the Grand Lodge he withdrew. Then Mr. Rutan was declared the unanimous choice of the Grand Lodge.

Fulford Won This Match.

In the second shoot of a series of three arranged between E. D. Fulford, recognized leader of the professional wing-shots of America, and three members of the Larchmont club, which was contested yesterday at the club grounds, L. S. Thompson being the representative of the club, the former was the winner. Though defeated, Mr. Thompson suffered no disgrace. He killed 90 birds to Fulford's 92. Mr. Thompson killed two more than Geo. Work, the winner of last Tuesday's match. Considering, too, that the birds were even a better lot, his performance was especially creditable.

The final match between Fulford and the third member of the Larchmont club will be shot at Larchmont Saturday, and the club will likely select either Captain Money or Fred Hoey as its representative.

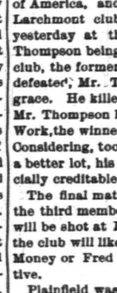
Plainfield was represented at the match yesterday by Charley Smith and Thomas Keller, and Fanwood by Jacob Pentz.

"Nat's" Party Short of the Necessary Two-Thirds Vote.

The caucus nomination by the Democratic councilmen of N. K. Thompson, superintendent of the State buildings at Trenton, for street commissioner of Elizabeth, to succeed Patrick McKeon, has fallen through, owing to the oversight that it required eighteen votes where there is an expenditure of money. It was proposed to raise the salary from $1,500 to $1,800 per year. As a consequence no commissioner was elected.

Agnes Invites the Men.

Invitations have been sent out for "a night on the farm" at Sam Allen's. The "invite" reads: "All who desire a good time should not fail to visit the farm on Feb. 22, and partake of the good things that are to be served there. There will be music, ——? and dancing." Tickets, including dinner and liquid refreshments, are only $3 "Agnes" signed the invitations, and everyone of the old Leland avenue frequenters got one.



Recovered—sound health for every consumptive who hasn't delayed too long. There's a positive cure with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Just as it cures the worst of the many forms of scrofula, so it cures, and just as certainly, the scrofulous affection of the lungs that's called Consumption—through the blood.

But, even with this remedy, it won't do to wait. It can't make new lungs, but it can make diseased ones healthy when nothing else will. As a blood-cleanser, strength-restorer, and flesh-builder, there's nothing like it known to medical science. For Scrofula in all its forms, Bronchial Throat, and Lung affections, Weak Lungs, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and every disease that can be reached through the blood, it's the only remedy so unfailing that it can be guaranteed.

If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back.

On these terms, it's an insult to your intelligence to have something else offered as being "just as good."

CHAPS

And How to Get Rid of Them.

Nothing more annoying than chapped hands. And the more you wash the worse they chap! Soap cleans, but soap chaps. Now by neutralizing the alkali of the soap by means of a harmless acid we may prevent chapping. That is the philosophy of REYNOLDS'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE, and by using it as directed, you can get rid of the chaps. Originated and made only at

A GOOD BEGINNING.

Judging These Lectures by the First, Not One of Them Should Be Missed.

The first of the series of illustrated lectures on Egypt by Mr. Goodyear was given yesterday afternoon at All Souls' church. The building was well filled, and the audience thoroughly enjoyed every minute of the hour and a half that the lecturer spoke.

The first part of yesterday's lecture was devoted to a general introduction. Mr. Goodyear said:

"Some studies are taken up from necessity, others because they are interesting and instructive. Archaeology, or, in this special case, Egyptology, belongs to the latter class. There are three ways of access to information concerning this study: first, the monuments of Egypt of to-day; second, the collections of articles excavated from tombs and temples and to be found in the large museums of Europe and America; and third, books."

He then enumerated the various collections of Egyptian relics. Among these were the Abott collection in the museum of the Historical Society of New York, the collection at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, the Hoy collection in the Boston museum, and collections in the British museum, at the Louvre in Paris, and at Berlin, Turin, Leyden, Florence, Athens, and Yizeh near Cairo.

After this the names of the great archeologists and students of hieroglyphics, Mariette, Maspero, Leapius and and others, were given, together with brief accounts of their special discoveries, all told in an exceedingly interesting style and accompanied by pictures that brought the scenes of the excavations vividly before the audience.

If one may judge the course of lectures by the first, which is usually the most dry, it may be said that they bid fair to be absorbingly interesting, and no one who can conveniently attend should miss hearing them all. The importance of archaeological investigation to history and even to the Christian religion can hardly be overestimated, and the spirit of advanced thought is characteristic of the church under whose auspices this series of lectures is given.

A LAW TO ABROGATE THE SABBATH

And Other Curiosities of Legislation That Have Already Appeared at Trenton.

It is a praiseworthy desire on the part of every legislator, says the Newark Times, to do something to earn his salary, and if he can bring in a bill that will be noticed in the papers, and cause some little stir in political or social circles, he walks with his head a little higher, and his good opinion of himself is much higher than his altitude.

Senator McMickle is making a bid for notoriety, if not for popularity, in a bill stating what business may be legally transacted on Sunday. Were the bill before the legislature of New York, we should attribute it to the World and call it a bill for the abrogation of the Sabbath, but as it does not come from that quarter we shall have to judge it on merits. It has been temporarily withdrawn for amendment but will be offered again. In its essential features it is an annulment of those old laws forbidding all kinds of work on Sunday, and it legalizes the publication of newspapers and their sale; also the sale of milk, medicines and other absolute necessities. Whether it permits the saloons to be open we do not know. It would make little difference as to them, for they will open anyhow, and so will the cigar and most of the candy and fruit stores. It might be as well to throw a legal sanction around all those stores that the laws are not able to reach. It will look better.

Mr. Salinger seems to be a very lively member in the House, and if he has not already "a name known of men", we think he will obtain one before the session closes. Two bills of his have passed the senate: one making it unlawful to take a plea of guilty of murder in the first degree, and another making an appropriation of $500 for a burial plot for the Soldiers' Home at Kearny. In the house he has several bills on the carpet and is pushing them energetically. We cannot describe them clearly, as we have no copies of them, but one seems to be in the interest of the liquor sellers, and another relates to tax assessments. Mr. Salinger will make his mark.

Low and His Merry Associates.

The performance of Low Dockstader's minstrels will occur at Music Hall Monday evening. It is just to say the entertainment given by this company is always first-class. The music generally is of a high order, the solos and choruses are admirable and the varied diversion of the second part is made up of really enjoyable specialties. The comedians have made a commendable endeavor this season to provide new material, and the announcement is made that an entirely new programme will be given.

Low's leading associates in fun are Geo. Powers, John C. Harrington, Falke and Simons, the Columbian Quartette, Blocksom and Burns, eight solo singers and a large and carefully trained chorus. In giving this list we must not forget Frank Dumont, who has the sobriquet of "The Minstrel Shakespeare". Mr. Dumont's funny sketch, "The Cake Walk", no doubt will prove as bright and pleasing as anything in the long and brilliant programme.

WESTFIELD MATTERS.

Chief French's Commission to be Contested—The First National Bank's Doors Opened—A Conservative Democrat to Run Against a Republican Water Bonder.

The officers of the Westfield fire department, elected at the annual meeting, are: Charles French, chief; P. Traynor and Cyrus Wilcox, assistant chiefs. The commission of Mr. French as chief will probably be contested on the ground that he is not a resident of the township. He has been secretary of his company for several years.

The Ladies' Missionary society of the Baptist church held a sociable at the residence of N. B. Gardiner Wednesday evening. The evening's programme consisted of recitations, readings and singing.

The township committee held a meeting Wednesday evening to prepare their annual report. Aside from the regular financial report it will contain a resume of the work done the past year, and suggestions as to what is desirable for the further advancement of the town during the coming year.

The First National Bank, of which Alfred D. and Robert H. Cook of this city own the principal interest, opened its doors for business in the new building Wednesday morning.

The collector reports the amount of unpaid taxes less this year than in any of the past five years.

As to candidates for the vacancy on the town committee, Hiram L. Fink is spoken of as the candidate of the Republicans and Theodore McGarrah for the Democrats. Mr. Fink is an advocate of bonding the town for water-works. Mr. McGarrah is conservative.

UNION COUNTY AGRICULTURISTS.

In Annual Session at Elizabeth Yesterday With Interesting Addresses on Various Subjects.

The Union county board of agriculture yesterday held its annual session in the board of freeholders' chamber in the court-house at Elizabeth, for the purpose of discussing farming topics. Well-known farmers from all parts of Union and Essex counties were in attendance. Several ladies were among the gathering.

John O. Magie, president of the board, presided at the meeting. The feature of the morning session was an interesting address by Professor A. J. Devoe, the Hackensack weather prophet, who illustrated his subject by means of large charts which were fastened on the wall. The professor was given a vote of thanks by the farmers at the conclusion of his remarks. Other interesting addresses were made on various topics.

A fine exhibition of different varieties of corn, potatoes, apples and other agricultural products from the Plainfield farmers and others in the county, was displayed on the long table in the room.

THE GAME AND FISH LAWS.

A Good Bill to Remedy Them.

The fish and game laws of New Jersey have for many years been a subject of ridicule on the part of all who have endeavored to fathom their mysteries. Legislatures generally ignore the worst features of the laws and content themselves with tinkering at one end, frequently making the incongruous mass worse than it was before. The present Legislature seems inclined to strike at the root, two bills having been introduced with that end in view. Assemblyman Packer has introduced a bill providing for the creation of a commission to revise and codify the laws, reporting to the next Legislature such changes as ought to be made and endeavoring to make the laws conform to those of New York and Pennsylvania. Senator Drake has introduced a bill fully covering the matter and repealing all previous legislation on the subject. It is known as Senate 76. Both bills are in the hands of the committee on fisheries and will probably be reported some day next week. No. 76 is a good bill, and with a few corrections would meet the wants of sportsmen. There is no job in the bill. It simply codifies all the good and necessary laws in a condensed form, and repeals all useless laws now on the statute books since 1847. All sportsmen should unite in securing its passage.

Rector Smyth Makes 'Em Take It Back.

The out-of-town papers are now busy denying what they swallowed from the Courier shop, in the following style:

THE PLAINFIELD PAROCHIAL SCHOOL NOT TO BE DISCONTINUED.

Father P. E. Smyth, rector of St. Mary's R.C. church, Plainfield, N.J., says that his parochial school is not going to be discontinued, as has been reported. In place of losing pupils it is gaining them, and the attendance has increased so much that he has applied for an additional teacher.

World's Fair Exhibits Left Behind.

Specimen papers reserved from the exhibit for the World's Fair will be on exhibition in the Assembly Hall and classrooms on the third floor of the High School to-morrow and Monday, from 2 to 5 and from 7 to 9 p. m.

Each grade in each of the school buildings will be represented by papers in arithmetic, language, writing and geography.

The drawing will be represented by a series of papers intended to show comprehensively the progressive plan of the work in the various grades.

All interested in school work are cordially invited to view the exhibit.

To Wipe Out Plainfield Bar-Rooms.

At the meeting in the W. C. T. U. rooms, last evening, a committee was appointed to perfect plans for effective organization against the local liquor traffic and to call the next meeting through their chairman, Aaron M. Powell.

—Two new members were installed in Franklin Council, 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., last night.

—During Lent, visiting clergymen will preach occasionally in the Rev. Father Smyth's church.

—A Plainfield schoolboy caused excitement in his class room yesterday by setting fire to the papers in his desk. He had a box of matches in his pocket, and they ignited. He threw them from him to save his clothing and life, and they landed among his treasures and burned them up. The teacher was cool, and the fire was not permitted to spread.

Papa's Consent.

Her Question.

He—Dear Fanny, it is now a year since we we married. How well I remember when were plighted our troth under the rustling leaves.

A Joke.

Milligan—What's the matter, Filligan? You look as funereal as a humorist.
Filligan—Well, I'm thinking of turning over a new leaf.
Milligan—That settles it. You are indeed a humorist.—Lippincott's Magazine.

The Other Way.

Ferguson—Are you going to sue Rakely for damages?
Henpeck—What for?
Ferguson—What for? Why, for running off with your wife.
Henpeck—Great Scott! No. I'm afraid he'll sue me.—N. Y. Herald.

They Were Not Twins.

Mrs. M. met frequently two charming little girls each much like the other. One morning she asked one of them: "Are you twins, my dear?"
With an indignant shake of her curls she answered: "No'm! We's bofe girls." —Texas Siftings.

A Quick Mind Changer.

George—I should certainly have proposed to Ethel last night, but for the fact that she showed her hand.
Jack—What did you discover?
George—That she already wore an engagement ring.—Truth.

The Wrong End.

Little Dot—There's a lady gettin' up a typewriter class, an' Susie Smart is goin' to join.
Little Ethel—The ideal Why, she can't even play the piano yet.—Good News.

Why He Didn't Want to Come In.

"Come in, Jack," cried his mother, "it's going to rain; besides, it is time for you to take your bath."

The great mass of mankind lose their health through inattention to catarrh of the head and throat. This insidious disease was considered incurable until the discovery of the American Catarrh Cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.00.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 40 Warren avenue, Chicago, Ill

THE TRIAL OF O'DONNELL.

Endeavoring to Prove that He Worked to Maintain Peace.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 17.—The trial of High O'Donnell for murder was continued yesterday with the opening of the case for the defense.

In his opening address O'Donnell's lawyer said that they would show that O'Donnell spent all his time and energy during the riot in keeping the crowd back and urging the people to cease rioting, and that he did his best to protect the Pinkerton men after they had surrendered.

A large number of witnesses were examined, their testimony in brief being that the defendant, O'Donnell, had advised the people to keep away from the river and had even ordered them to stop firing.

These witnesses were both men and woman who were present during the riot. Two of the most important ones were Dr. Furman and a constable, both of Homestead.

The trial is being continued to-day, with O'Donnell himself on the stand. It is expected that the case will be given to the jury late this afternoon.

Norvin Green's Funeral.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 17.—The funeral of the late Dr. Norvin Green, President of the Western Union Telegraph company, who died Sunday morning, occurred yesterday. THE SOUTH OF FRANCE.

The Natural Beauties and Social Charms of the Riviera.

The Mecca of the Rich and Opulent of Every Civilized Nation—Nice, Menton, Monaco, Cannes and Historic Sainte Marguerite.

(Special Letter.)

When the thermometer falls to freezing point the well-to-do inhabitants of gay Paris begin to feel cold; they fly from the capital to warm themselves in the sunny climes of the Riviera. The south of France, or to be more precise, that section of the coast of the Mediterranean sea comprised between St. Raphael and Menton, is the winter home of a vast multitude of Europeans of all nationalities and also of a considerable number of Americans. Although Nice, Monte Carlo, Cannes and Menton, the four most frequented spots on the shore, are situated at a distance of less than a thousand miles from Paris, yet the journey down south is looked forward to with a considerable amount of apprehension. A Chicagoan will make a trip to California or Florida with far less concern than the modern Parisian will go down to Nice. Facilities for covering long distances are so plentiful in the United States that visitors to France are very often amazed at the inconvenience a twenty-hour trip offers on the other side of the Atlantic ocean.

The "fashionable" time to remain absent from Paris on a visit south is three weeks, but some fortunate individuals of course spend the winter, November until April, in those lovely spots where the sky is ever blue. In May the weather is too warm, and the summer months quite insupportable for inhabitants of the temperate zones.

Nice, however, is not evacuated like her sister cities when the winter is over, for Nice has grown to be a city of importance and also a military station since the annexation of Savoy by France. Its population is a mixed one, and in some quarters Italian is still spoken. From thirty-five thousand inhabitants the number has increased four-fold within the last twenty years, which, if not to be compared with the wondrous growth of Chicago and other cities of the new world, is still a very remarkable augmentation for an European town.

But who cares for statistics in the Riviera? Half the visitors are down in the sunny land for their health, and the other half—by far the greater one—are there for enjoyment. And Nice, above all places, is a home of pleasure. It abounds in opera houses and theaters, in cafe-chantants and casinos. Those who are not inclined to spend the evening out of doors find their days fully occupied with walks along the magnificent promenade des Anglais, the public garden and the different quays. That modern Nice owes its prosperity and ornamentation mainly to her American and English visitors is a fact acknowledged by all. To the latter nation is due the promenade, called after the sons of Albion, for they first perceived the capabilities of their admirable site, which has been transformed into a broad roadway lined with palm trees and with grand hotels, stately houses and luxuriously-fitted clubs overlooking the bluest of all the seas.

But I do not go to Nice for its operas, its theaters, itsconcerts, or its balls. I do not go to see its elaborate and amusing carnival, neither do I journey down south for the horse racing. I merely go to Nice because I wish to be at Monte-Carlo. So say many. And strange as it may appear, for Monte-Carlo is about twenty miles to the east of Nice, it is nevertheless the truth. Yes, hundreds and thousands of gamblers go to Nice year after year to see what has been somewhat harshly described as "the sewerage of all creation flowing into a cesspool of iniquity." They dare not stay in the little principality of Monaco itself for fear of spending their entire existence in the gambling rooms of Monte-Carlo, the capital of that little country, and so they stay at Nice and ride down by train every day to help fill the coffers of the prince of Monaco, maintain his army and his police force, and settle all the expenses of the government in addition to distributing a fabulous dividend to the lucky shareholders who run the establishment. Gambling in the south of France has attained such a pitch that to restrain themselves in a certain measure some men live at Nice and deposit their funds at Cannes, which is situated as far to the west of Nice as Monte-Carlo is to the east, so that when they are "broke" they must make a three hours' journey by the steam cars to procure more of the sinews of war. This cessation in the fight against the tables often gives them time for reflection, but not always.

It seems indeed a crime to talk of all this folly when in so charming a country. Rather let us leave the principality of Monaco to the fascination of the fickle goddess and hasten to scenes more beautiful and to an atmosphere more pure. We have spoken of Cannes; to Cannes then let us adjourn. A century ago there were but three streets in the village and they were inhabited by the lowest class of sailors. Now Cannes is the favorite resort of all the crowned heads of the world. Damp, dirty, despised little Cannes has become coquettish and charming, superb and magnificent, the wintering station of all titled persons and of a fair number of wealthy ones. Grand houses have sprung up where there were only huts, and fair gardens have grown where all was bare and bleak. Empresses and duchesses ride in costly equipages upon the smooth roads, where the poor fisherman dragged his net on the shingle.

But bright, prosperous and aristocratic as Cannes may be, with royalty and nobility gazing in fond admiration on the little islands of its bay and on that scene of transcendent beauty, which from the same dungeon. And besides it possesses the most remarkable and interesting garden which we have ever seen or heard of—the Valetta Californie—the property of a Frenchman, M. Camille Dognin.

To the east of Nice, only a few miles beyond Monte-Carlo, lies Menton, which suffered so terribly from an earthquake a few years ago. It has neither the diversified attractions of Nice nor the bright vivacity of Cannes, but its scenery is nevertheless grand and its climate is said to be the mildest and least variable of all the coast. There is a legend that Eve brought nothing out of Paradise except a lemon, which in her wanderings she left at Menton; and another, equally authentic, that a gentleman, calling on a friend, left his stick outside the door, forgot it, and repeating his visit next year, found it grown into a flourishing tree! The healthy visitor eschews Menton where he finds there are altogether too many consumptive people.

But without doubt one of the prettiest spots on the whole coast-line is St. Raphael, the home of that great French writer, Alphonse Karr. It has this peculiarity about it that whereas the "swells" visit it more or less during the winter months, as soon as the regular season is over the provincial people and the bourgeois from Lyons, Draguignan and other neighboring cities make it their summer resort. It has a solitary and something of a savage look about it. One is not compelled to walk through the streets of St. Raphael in a stiff collar and fashionable clothes as at Nice and Cannes. Here fruit trees are in abundance, young trees of eucalyptus are more plentiful than even at Menton, and its pine trees and its rocks have acted like a magnet on all the most celebrated artists of the day who love wild spots and cheerful retreats. FREDERIC MAYER.

Sleeping Her Life Away.

The German village of Grambke is greatly excited over a case of persistent somnolency in the person of the daughter of one of the town officers. The girl, a pretty, slender girl of some thirteen years of age, has been in a continual sleep since the second week in May, and even now does not show the least trace of arousing from her protracted slumber. During the first week of her enforced sleep the family seemed grieved to the verge of distraction, and all was mourning in the house where the child lay in the embrace of "death's twin brother." After awhile, however, when it was discovered that she would swallow liquid nourishment, their fears for her safety seemed to abate to a certain degree, and now, after a lapse of more than half a year, the family go about their daily labors as if the little maid was really dead and half forgotten. Highest medical authorities have been consulted, but all efforts to keep her awake have resulted in total failures.

KOSSUTH THE PATRIOT.

His Death Now Only a Matter of a Few Months.

The Strange, Eventful History of a Man Who Loved His Country Better Than Himself—His Life in Turin.

Louis Kossuth, the eminent Hungarian patriot, whose declining days are being spent in voluntary exile at Turin, has appealed with his pen on more than one occasion in behalf of his country and people.

Louis Kossuth will always challenge the admiration of the youth of this country as a patriot of the highest stamp. He was born of noble parentage at Monok, Hungary, April 27, 1802, and received a legal and philosophical education at the college of Tatak, an institution animated thoroughly by a spirit of opposition to the rule of Austria. Hungary was oppressed and exhausted by a tariff calculated to keep it forever in a state of colonial dependence on the German provinces, which, by another tariff, were protected against the competition of England, France and Belgium. This system formed one of the chief grievances of the nation, and Kossuth gained his first prominence as a leader by forming a protective union, the members of which pledged themselves for five years to use exclusively homemade goods wherever they could be had. This agitation so affected the elections in 1847 that Kossuth was elected to the house of deputies. March 3, 1848, Kossuth delivered a speech before the Hungarian diet at Presburg, proposing an address to Emperor Ferdinand urging the restoration of Hungary to its former independence as a state and the granting of a charter of liberty for the whole Austrian empire. The proposition was accepted by the deputies, and an independent Hungarian ministry was formed, with Kossuth in charge of the department of finance. An internecine struggle precipitated the war of revolution. It was from beginning to end a struggle for life or death under inauspicious circumstances. The overwhelming power of Russia and the connivance of the governments of Europe with Russia finally decided against Hungary, which had been declared independent and Kossuth its governor.

On August 11, 1849, he resigned his powers to Gorgey, who treacherously surrendered to the Russians two days later. Kossuth became an exile in Turkey. The demands made by Russia and Austria for his extradition were resisted by the porte, and through the intervention of the United States and England he was allowed to depart. On September 1, 1851, Kosuth embarked on the war steamer Mississippi, which had been dispatched by the United States government in accordance with a resolution of the senate to convey him to America as the nation's guest. He reached the United States in December, 1851, and addressed deputations and meetings in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and other large cities, urging the acknowledgment of the claims of Hungary to independence, and the interference of the United States jointly with England in behalf of the principles of nonintervention, which would allow the nations of Europe fair play in a new struggle for liberty.

Kossuth's efforts received much sympathy and some financial aid, but a chain of circumstances conspired against the cause he advocated. He returned to Europe in 1852, and his activity as an agitator resulted a year later in the banishment of his mother and sisters from Hungary. In 1862 Kossuth removed to Turin, where he has since resided, and where he successively lost his daughter and wife. He has been a voluntary exile, declining several elections to the diet of Pesth and devoting his time to writing and scientific study. His old age makes his death only a matter of a few months.

and saw enough of it, your digestive organs may perhaps be equal, ostrich like, to any task you impose—even to the digestion of lard-cooked food.

If however, like thousands of other people, you have learned that you must "draw the line at lard," this is to remind you that there is a clean, delicate and healthful vegetable substitute called which if used in place of lard permits you to eat pies, pastry patties and such "good things" without fear of dyspeptic consequences.

There's abundant proof, but none so convincing and so pleasant as a trial for yourself. We invite it. For sale everywhere.

J. Sterling Morton Accepts the Agriculture Secretaryship.

THE WEST IS REPRESENTED NOW

Mr. Cleveland Announces the Appointment at Lakewood—The Appointee Not Very Well Known Outside of His Own State—Mr. Morton Founded Arbor Day in Nebraska.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Feb. 18.—Mr. Cleveland announced last evening that J. Sterling Morton of Nebraska, who visited him at his request yesterday, has been tendered the portfolio of Secretary of Agriculture and has accepted it.

Mr. Morton is one of the most prominent Democrats in the State of Nebraska. He has been in the State Legislature and was talked of as a candidate for Governor last fall. Very little is known of him in the East, but he has been a prominent figure in the West for a number of years. He owned a proprietary interest in an Omaha newspaper at one time.

Col. Dan Lamont, Mr. Cleveland's Secretary of War, came out in the early train from New York and had a long talk with the President-elect. After he had departed Mr. Morton arrived.

He was driven through a blinding snow storm to the cottage. After a short talk Mr. Cleveland asked him to look after the Department of Agriculture and Mr. Morton accepted. This leaves only the Navy and the Attorney Generalship to be provided for.

Later in the afternoon Mr. Carlisle arrived and went to the cottage, and was Mr. Cleveland's guest over night.

Senator Berry, of Arkansas, came out on the train with Mr. Carlisle and had a short talk with Mr. Cleveland, and he also remained at the Lakewood hotel over night.

He said his presence here was for the purpose of attending the kindergarden entertainment, of which Mrs. Cleveland was one of the patronesses, and a party of friends accompanied him.

FOR HONEST EXAMINATIONS.

The College of New Jersey Takes a Step in the Right Direction.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 18.—The committee appointed to investigate the dishonesty during the recent examinations has drawn up the following report:

"We have carefully examined all testimony brought before us and have reached the following decision.

"Four men have been proven guilty, and have been dealt with in accordance with the sentiment expressed by the mass meeting. Inasmuch as these are first offenses under the new rules, the committee has acted with leniency.

"The offenders have been given the alternative of applying to their several professors for re-examination or of having their names recommended for expulsion from the college.

"The committee applauds the unqualified success of the new rules in the two upper classes and the almost universal observance of them in sophomore and freshman classes.

"We would recommend that in all future examinations all dishonesty be dealt with summarily on the spot by the students, and that there be but one punishment, namely, expulsion from college."

Mrs. Cleveland's Entertainment.

HUGH O'DONNELL'S CASE.

Closing Scenes in the Trial of the Homestead Leader.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 18.—Judge Stowe began his charge to the jury in the O'Donnell case at 7:05 last evening and concluded at 7:50. The jury retired, and court adjourned until this morning. The judge's charge was altogether impartial.

The greatest interest was manifested yesterday when the defendant was put on the stand.

O'Donnell testified that prior to July 6 he had been employed as correspondent of the Tri-state Bureau. He then repeated the story of the riot and in answer to the question upon which side he was he replied "the side of a peaceful man."

Upon cross-examination he denied that the men had a military organization, but admitted that they were divided into three turns at watching the property, for the purpose of protecting it.

"How far away from the Carnegie property did the turns exist?"

"Around the fence."

"Did not you have guards across the river?"

"Yes, sir. They were working there and dissuading men from going into the mill."

"That was the way you were guarding the mill then, was it?"

"No, sir, not altogether."

"From whom were you guarding the property then?"

"To keep the firm may be from destroying the property."

"To keep the Carnegie Steel Co. from destroying its own property?"

"To keep its watchmen."

"To keep its watchmen from destroying its property?"

"I mean exactly what I said."

"Were those turns armed?"

"I don't know."

"Did you ever hear any one advising the men not to go armed on those turns?"

"I had nothing to do with them."

The Judge here interposed and the cross-examination ended.

THE DOVER INQUEST.

Verdict of the Coroner's Jury in the Insane Asylum Horror.

DOVER, N. H., Feb. 18.—The coroner's jury in the inquest into the cause of the fire which destroyed the County Insane Asylum and caused the loss of forty-one lives, have submitted their verdict to the clerk of the court here.

They find that the origin of the fire was not made apparent to the jury, except as to the strong probabilities gathered from the testimony of Keeper Driscoll, led to the conclusion that the Frenchwoman, Mrs. La Fountaine, in some way obtained a match, and in her disordered state of mind fired her bed or chair cushion.

Whatever may have been the immediate cause of the fire, it appears that each and every one connected with the institution did all within his or her power to extinguish the flames and save the inmates.

"We find in the next, or proximate cause, a condition of things not in keeping with an enlightened age or in harmony with our duties to the poor unfortunates who are our voluntary wards.

"Mistaken judgment erects our alms houses remote from centres of population. False economy crowds our helpless insane into wooden structures which almost invite the devouring element, and the black bordered page of our county's history, written on February 9 by the lurid flames as they wrapped those two score victims in their fiendish embrace, is an indictment against our people to which there is no answer."

THE MILITIA GONE HOME

Lewelling and the Republican Leaders Sign the Compact.

DOUGLASS HOUSE HOLDS THE HALL.

Republicans Rejoicing in Their Victory and the Populists Grumbling at Their Governor Question to Go to the Supreme Court—Col. Hughes to be Court-Martialed.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 18.—Peace again reigns in Kansas. The Republicans have won. Governor Lewelling has signed the peace agreement, the troops are to be sent home, the militia disbanded and the Republicans left in possession of the House. They are wild with joy. When they learned that the Governor had signed the agreement, cheer after cheer echoed through the broad corridors of the State House. Hats were thrown in the air, coats were taken off and waved wildly.

The Populists are very much discouraged and abuse the Governor for agreeing to the terms of peace. Many of their leaders say they will not obey the Supreme Court if it decides against them.

Late in the afternoon Gov. Lewelling signed the following agreement:

First—It being the understanding that the House presided over by Dunsmore, the Populist Speaker, has secured a hall in which to meet, the House presided over by Douglass, the Republican Speaker, shall remain in possession of Representative Hall, undisturbed and unmolested.

Second—The House presided over by Dunsmore shall in like manner be undisturbed and unmolested in the possession of the hall which it has secured, and may, if it desires, select a room in the State House for its meetings other than Representative Hall.

Third—No arrests to be made by either House of officers or members of the other.

Fourth—The militia to be immediately relieved, including the new recruits sworn in, and the sheriff's posse to be immediately disbanded.

Fifth—Militia companies now en route for Topeka to be immediately telegraphed to by the Governor to return to their homes.

Many and various complications will arise out of the dispute between the Populists and Republicans as to which House is the legally organized one.

The latest developments announced last night are that Brig.-Gen. Hollinger stated that Col. Hughes would be court-martialed. The ground for the proceedings will be based upon the refusal of Col. Hughes to obey the instructions of the Governor to eject the Republican members of the House. It is not unlikely that other court martials against officers for refusal to do their duty will be instituted.

The present trouble will no doubt be a death blow to the Kansas National Guard which has long been the military pride of the State.

WILL IT BE RATIFIED?

The Hawaiian Treaty Now Before the Senate—Latest News from Hawaii.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—The Committee on Foreign Relations reported to the Senate in executive session yesterday the Hawaiian annexation treaty, with the recommendation that it be ratified. It was placed on the executive calendar, where it can be reached at any time.

The steamship Belgic, which arrived at San Francisco from Honolulu yesterday, brings the following advices:

On the 5th inst. martial law was declared off by the provisional Government of Hawaii. Everbody was anxiously awaiting news from the United States, and the sentiment of annexation was steadily growing.

Ex-Queen Liliuokalani is still in retirement at her private residence. She is confident that her envoy to the United States will meet a favorable reception.

The United States steamer Mohican, which sailed from Mare Island navy yard Jan. 29th, was just entering the harbor of Honolulu as the Belgic sailed, but there was apparently no necessity for any increase of naval force.

A detachment of sailors and marines from the United States ship Boston is still quartered on shore and the whites and natives are willing to await action by the Washington government.

The provisional government has in a great measure won over public confidence, having amply demonstrated its ability to cope with the situation.

S. M. Damon, Minister of Finance in the Thurston Cabinet, has been appointed Vice-President in the Provisional Government. This appointment was made by the Executive Councils.

Mr. Damon is one of the commissioners now in Washington.

On the 24 inst. President Dole and other members of the Provisional Government paid an official visit to the United States ship Boston. The Hawaiian flag was run up to the mast head and a salute of 21 guns was given in recognition of the new government.

PNEUMATIC MAIL TRANSIT.

Successful Test in the Postoffice at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18.—In the presence of 100 distinguished persons the first official trial of the pneumatic tube for mail transit in America was successfully given in the Philadelphia postoffice at noon.

The tube runs from the sub-postoffice, 123 Chestnut street, to the general office, Ninth and Chestnut streets, a distance of a little over half a mile.

Postmaster General Wanamaker, after declaring that the system meant rapid communication between cities all over the world, at 4:18 o'clock sent through a Bible wrapped in an American flag and a message which he composed, as the initial message, to Postmaster Field, at the sub-station in 1 minute and 8 seconds, or at a rate of 45 feet per second, with a pressure of six pounds to the square inch.

The tube is an ordinary six-inch iron water pipe, bored out smooth, so that its diameter is 6 1-8 inches, and there are over 6,000 feet in the double line.

The carriers into which the mail will be put are made of sheet steel and fit so closely in the pipe that the air forced in behind them cannot pass and must necessarily send them whizzing along at a great speed.

In every respect the test was a success, and at its conclusion Mr. Wanamaker had nothing but words of praise for the new system. Postmaster Field also commended it, as did the guests generally.

Canadian Farmers Want Tariff Reform.

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—The decision of the government to postpone tariff reform until next year, as announced in Tuesday's budget speech by the Finance Minister, has created much feeling among the farmers who want access to the American markets. They demand that coal oil, binder twine, American corn and wire fencing be placed on the free list, and that it be made a criminal offence for men to combine to raise prices unduly.

Dr. Graves Anxious to be Tried.

DENVER, Feb. 18.—Dr. Graves was arraigned in the West Side Criminal Court yesterday morning on his request to have a new trial. Decision will be rendered Monday.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 18.—A sensation has been caused in business, financial and manufacturing circles by the failure of Robert I. Walker, a prominent banker and capitalists. Ex-Member of Parliament Arrested.

BELFAST, Feb. 18.—Edward Samuel Wesley de Cobain, formerly M. P. for Belfast, who was expelled from the House of Commons because he fled the country in order to avoid trial on a charge of unnatural practices, was arrested yesterday at his residence, Hampton House. It is said that he is now prepared to face the prosecution.

Skater Joe Donoghue Ill.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Feb. 18.—Joe Donoghue, the skater, has arrived home in charge of his brother. He is ill and confined to his bed. He says his stomach failed him in the first race, and thereafter his limbs almost failed to respond to his efforts to forge ahead.

DOES A WORLD OF GOOD.

Why Mr. S. C. Dimick Recommends Paine's Celery Compound

Surgeon General Hamilton is authority for the statement that there is no more prevalent condition of mental derangement than the inability to sleep.

The state of excitement in which people of the present day live, the demands of business, the struggle for wealth, position, or even a bare living, all of which were never so great as now, produce just that state of the brain which makes sound and healthy sleep to many an impossibility.

And then how easy things go wrong!

And how easily, as thousands know, everything can be made to go right again.

All the functions of the body are under the control of the nerves. And even sound organs work to cross purposes when contradictory and confusing demands are made upon them by tired, played-out nerves. It is because Paine's celery compound is a true nerve food that it makes people well. Here is a case in point. Mr. S. C. Dimick of Bowling Green, Ohio, whose likeness appears above, writes:

"I broke down from overwork something over three years ago. Our family physician said that my trouble was heart disease, and said that I had organic trouble.

"After treating me six weeks and becoming satisfied that he did not understand my case, I visited doctor No. 2. He told me that I had no organic trouble with the heart, that my heart trouble was sympathetic, that I was worn out, and my whole trouble was nervous prostration. He said that what I needed, and what would do me more good than medicine, was absolute rest and a change of climate.

"Not being fully convinced that he was correct in his views, I consulted doctor No. 3, this time a homeopathic. He agreed in the main with No. 2, the only essential difference being that he thought one lung was not right.

"I decided to try a change of climate, and spent nearly three months in Minnesota. The following winter I had an attack of the grip, which left me in a low condition, and the last season I was able to do but little work.

"Last winter I had another attack of the grip, and for seven weeks was confined to the house, most of the time in bed. After recovering sufficiently to get about, I concluded to try Paine's celery compound. I have taken several bottles, and it has done me a world of good. I have done more work than I have done before in three years.

"I am surely gaining in strength and power of endurance. I am already much better than I expected to be, and am sure that by a faithful use of the compound I shall be fully restored."

Caroline A. Cook died suddenly at her home on East Front street last night in her sixty-sixth year. She was the mother of Charles S. Cook, who has been the faithful CONSTITUTIONALIST carrier since that paper was started over 25 years ago. Her other son, Albert, was at the Salvation Army meeting last night, while Charles was at work. Mrs. Cook had been complaining of not feeling well, but would not have a doctor. She told Albert to be home early, and when he went home he found her lying dead on the floor. She had evidently died while asleep in her chair, from which she had fallen. Heart failure was the cause of death. The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2, in Runyon's undertaking parlors. The interment will be private, at Samptown.

You Can't Lose Kenney.

Came Near Drowning at Tier's.

A sixteen-year-old boy named Martin fell through the ice on Tier's lake, yesterday afternoon, and came near drowning. He ventured out on the channel, one hundred yards west of the Water street bridge, where the ice was rotten, and he went through. The lad called for help, and John Tier, jr., and an employe went to his rescue. It was a dangerous and difficult task to bring the boy to shore, but they finally got him there, benumbed by the cold water and the ducking he got. Mr. Tier warned the reckless boy before he went on the ice.

Will Close a Year's Good Work, Monday Night.

The North Plainfield Borough Council accomplished nothing at last night's session. It had been hoped that the accounts would be ready for final report, but expert Ezra Loomis has instituted a new system of book-keeping so that in the future all accounts will be perfectly lucid. The change has made much extra work, and final report will not be ready till Monday night. The council adjourned to that date, when final reports of the year's work for each department of the borough government will be submitted.

To Round up a Prosperous Year.

The anniversary of the dedication of the Park Place M. E. chapel is to be celebrated in both the congregation and the Sunday-school. To-morrow night there will be short addresses and very interesting exercises, with letters from two of the former pastors of the church. The following Sunday, appropriate exercises will be held in the Sunday-school, which was organized a week after the dedication.

Had to Re-enforce the Current.

The Plainfield electric railway was blocked for the first time in its history, by the deep snow, this morning. The electric current was not strong enough to operate the big snow-plough, and ten powerful horses had to help propel it. Cars were running again by noon.

Do n't Know Hoke?

Tho' it may not be definitely known who Hoke Smith is, everyone knows what rheumatism is. Tho' it does not seem now as if we would escape the first, the last we can not only escape but cure by wearing one of Kimball's anti-rheumatic rings. Sole agency for the same at Collier's, 3 Park avenue.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup has always been kept up to the standard. It is the same it was forty years ago, the best sold.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 66 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-18-7

FIRE IN MR. POND'S HOUSE.

Snow Drifts Do Not Daunt the Brave Fire Laddies.

Fire caused excitement in the household of David W. Pond this morning. At 8 Chief Engineer T. O. Doane received message by telephone that Mr. Pond's house on West Seventh street was afire. The chief ordered No. 2's hose wagon to the scene, and went there himself in a hack. In spite of the snow, good time was made. Meanwhile workmen armed with extinguishers had been summoned from the Pond Machine Tool works. The fire was found to be in a dining-room closet. Extinguishers put it out. When the house had been cleared of smoke Mrs. Pond treated the men to coffee and oranges. They expressed their appreciation by saying they wished she had been on hand at the early morning fire at 93 Richmond street the day before. The goods in the closet were badly damaged. The origin of the fire is unknown.

A Crescent League "Smoker" and Grand Entertainment.

The Crescent League "smoker", announced in THE PRESS of Thursday last, will take place next Friday evening in the Crescent rink. The committee appointed, consisting of Messrs. Leggett, Stevens, Sangston and Kline, met last night and adopted the kind of programme, which, although still indefinite, promises to be the best show of the kind ever offered in Plainfield, where local talent is given an opportunity to take part.

There will also be a wrestling match of great interest, and the first of the kind in Plainfield; and a fencing match between two well-known instructors of New Jersey and New York. The admission will be 50 cents. No pains or expense will be spared by the committee to make the entertainment a success, and no doubt all the friends of the Crescent League and admirers of good sport will turn out in great numbers. The programme will be published in these colums on Tuesday next.

Fractured a Leg in Two Places.

Mrs. I. D. TenEyck, mother of Mrs. Wallace Miller of Hotel Grenada, met with a most distressing accident yesterday afternoon. She was walking along Orchard place shortly before 5, when she slipped on the snow and fell heavily to the pavement. She was unable to arise, and was carried into the house of her sister, Mrs. Putnam, at Second and New streets. Dr. Long was summoned, and found that she had sustained fracture of the leg in two places. She had but recently recovered from rheumatic trouble which confined her to the house, and her husband also has long been crippled by rheumatism. In such an extraordinary series of affliction, the family have the deepest sympathy of all.

An American Bath Tub Goes to England.

A very agreeable order was that received the other day from Sir Francis Knolly, private secretary to the Prince of Wales, of London, England. It was for the shipment of the best made and latest improved pattern of the Oswego indurated fibre bath tub, of which Tobin & Addis and A. M. Griffen of this city are agents. The tub, which was shipped on the 9th ult. by the steamer Majestic, was one of the handsomest of its kind ever placed upon the market, being embossed and traced in gold, with heavy silver-plated fixtures. It was sent direct to Marlborough House, London. It may be considered quite a compliment to American goods to have the royalty of the old country prefer our patterns to their own.

All Rejoiced at Their Silver Wedding.

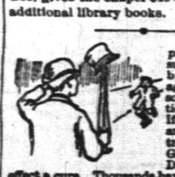
Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Shearer celebrated their twenty-fifth marriage anniversary Thursday evening, when they entertained a congenial gathering of friends. The happy host and hostess were showered with handsome gifts. Those present included, among many others, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Runyon and daughters, Mrs. Sims and Mrs. Barnes, Dr. Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. Norbury, all of Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. Parker and daughter and Prof. Granger, of Harlem; Prof. Jones and wife, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Van-Blareum and Mrs. Aymar and daughter, of Delawana, N. J., and Mr. Sole and daughter, of Newark.

Fifty Chapters to Gather at Vincent Chapel.

Thursday, May 25, is the day selected for the convention of the Epworth League, which is to be held in the Plainfield M. E. church. The district includes about fifty chapters and Endeavor societies, and a large and enthusiastic gathering is promised by the Rev. Dr. Hurlbut, founder of this wonderfully flourishing institution. There will be plenty of work for Plainfield's young people in welcoming the delegates, and preparing and serving the collation.

Building a Chapel Library.

The Visitor reports that at the last teachers' meeting, of the Monroe Avenue chapel a very generous donation was made by Miss Georgie Beekman's class of young ladies towards the Sunday-school library, which, together with a donation from the Epworth League and James McGee, gives the chapel $40 00 to spend for additional library books.



Stopped—the progress of Consumption. The best authorities agree that it's a scrofulous affection of the lungs. If taken in time, and given a fair trial, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will effect a cure. Thousands have been saved by it—thousands more are putting it off till too late. For every form of Scrofula, Bronchial, Throat, and Lung Affections, Weak Lungs, Severe Coughs, and kindred ailments, it is a positive remedy. It's guaranteed to do all that's claimed for it. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, your money is returned.

The "Discovery" is the only Liver, Blood and Lung Remedy that's sold so. Think what a medicine it must be!

Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Salt-rheum, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands.

Don't think it's like "sarsaparilla." They claim to be good—for the blood in March, April, and May. "Golden Medical Discovery" works equally well at all seasons.

CHAPS

And How to Get Rid of Them.

Nothing more annoying than chapped hands. And the more you wash the worse they chap! Soap cleans, but soap chaps. Now by neutralizing the alkali of the soap by means of a harmless acid we may prevent chapping. That is the philosophy of REYNOLDS'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE, and by using it as directed, you can get rid of the chaps. Originated and made only at Plainfield Clergymen and Rector Jennings.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Having seen in some paper of Thursday notice of a Westfield report that the Episcopal clergy of this city, with a "posse comitatus" of the Holy Cross choir, were going to hold a service in Grace church, Sunday evening next, to testify their sympathy with the "deposed pastor" (so-called), will you permit me as one knowing the simple truth, of which this report is a sad perversion, to deny that the Episcopal clergy of this city have any such intention. The service to be held there on Sunday evening is one of a course to be given throughout the season of Lent in which the rector will be assisted by clergyman from the adjoining towns. It is purely a religious service and beyond this has no significence. The Rev. Dean Rodman by appointment will preach the first sermon and I am sure his visit to Westfield and his discourse will be as acceptable to the good people and vestry of Grace church as they will be grateful to the rector himself, and have no reference or allusion to differences existing between priest and people. TAU.

A Plainfield Counselor Praises a New York Verdict.

The New York Evening Post has achieved a notable triumph in defeating Dr. Funk who sued for $100,000 damages. The Post had directed a fierce crusade against Funk for his publication of pirated editions of books, notably of the Encyclopedia Brittanica. He claimed to have been grossly libeled. The trial of the suit was a most interesting one. It was the first time the direct question of literary honesty had been submitted to an American jury. That jury vindicated and sustained the Post in every particular, and gave Mr. Funk not one cent.

Here is what one of Plainfield's most expert lawyers says of the verdict:

TO THE EDITOR OF THE EVENING POST:

SIR:—I beg to be permitted to give expression to the pleasure I have in hearing of the verdict in the case of the Evening Post vs. Funk. From my point of view, the Evening Post was the plaintiff seeking to justify, not an attack upon Dr. Funk, but upon the school of thought which he represented. The aggressive and always intelligent fight which you have made against literary piracy in every form has tended, more than all other influences combined, to lift the people of the United States out of the slough of misconception into which they early fell. This righteous verdict must be, I think, a source of great satisfaction to you. It may be said to indicate that the public have seen and understood the real character of your labors, and that the evil things which were yesterday of robust energy are to-day near their end. It is a distinction, I beg to say, to have been at the front of so good and genuine a reform. I hope unfeignedly that you find much compensation in a verdict which says: "Do n't take down the flag".

Believe me, with areat respect, yours very truly, ROWLAND COX.

Another New Station on the Central.

(Bound Brook Chronicle.)

It is understood that the Central railroad station about to be erected near the works of the American Engine company is to be called "New Bound Brook", and that our neighbors on the east will hereafter be known as dwellers in New Bound Brook. Some people object to the use of this term "new", for fear that in distinction the present borough may be designated as "Old Bound Brook". Our citizens rejoice in our Revolutionary history, but "Old Bound Brook", might seem a little dierespectful.

Locked up to Escape the Blizzard.

The two tramps arrested on suspicion of being of the gang that stole a line full of clothes from Edward Vanderweg's yard were tried before judge Coddington yesterday afternoon. They were not the clothes thieves, but the court gave them 30 days apiece for railroad trespassing. Mike Tluhey and James Flynn were the names they gave. Tluhey could spell his name, and Flynn could n't. They were glad to get a month's shelter.

Almost Another Victim.

Frank Hart, of West Second street was hurt by the cars near Grant avenue at 11 Thursday night. He attempted to jump on a freight train and was dragged fully 100 yards. Hart had a friend with him who succeeded in boarding the train. Hart was assisted on board the train and carried to Easton. The man was badly bruised about the body, but aside from this the injuries were slight.

A Plainfield Clergyman Sees His Congregation at the Theater.

The VISITOR was present at a Choral concert in the Music Hall a few evenings ago. It was one of the most disagreeable evenings of the winter; sleet above and slush below; but the concert was well attended, notwithstanding the weather. We noticed a goodly number of our congregation, some of whom we always see at prayer meeting, others of whom have given good excuses of "bad weather" "poor health", "can't go out evenings", etc., as reasons for not being present. We thought that—well, no matter what we thought.

Skin Disease.

What spectacle is more disgusting than that of a man or woman with a skin disease which shows itself in pimples or blotches on hands, arms, face and neck? It is simply impure blood. See what BRANDETH'S PILLS did for a chronic case: George Chapman, Pinconing, Mich., says: "For four years I was in the Mounted Infantry in the U. S. Army, residing during that time principally in Texas. Almost all of that time I had a chronic skin disease, characterized by an eruption over the entire surface of my legs and thighs, arms and chest. The doctors termed it eczema. I had given up all hopes of ever being cured, when BRANDETH'S PILLS were recommended to me. I concluded to try them, and I have thanked God daily since then that I did so. I used them for about three months, and by that time, was completely cured and have never had any trouble since."

Books and Games for Young Men's Evenings.

(From The M. E. Visitor.)

The Young Men's association of the Monroe Avenue chapel is getting into working trim. On February 1 the association spent a pleasant evening at the home of D. P. Hicks. It is contemplated having the chapel open one or two nights during the week for reading and games. We should be glad to welcome all young men in our vicinity. A donation to this association of some paper, periodical, books or proper game would be thankfully received. Anyone whose heart might be opened to make a money contribution can be assured that it will be well expended.

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. HOME RULE BILL READ

Gladstone Presents His Measure for the First Time.

CHAMBERLAIN MAKES HIS REPLY.

He Says the Bill Sows Seeds of Future Trouble—A Danger in Time of War—It Deprives the Irish Parliament of All Trade and Commerce—Second Reading Fixed for March 13.

LONDON, Feb. 18—In the House of Commons Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, in speaking on the Home Rule bill, declared that it sowed the seeds of future discontent and paved the way to demands that would be certain to be urged when England's emergency became Ireland's opportunity. It was recommended as a final settlement, yet it deprived the Irish Parliament of all control of trade and commerce. Instead of guaranteeing imperial unity the bill invoked risk to the existence of the United Kingdom. He hesitated to think of what the country's position would be in time of war.

"Supposing," Mr. Chamberlain asked "that Great Britain should become involved in war with the United States—which Heaven forbid, for it would be patricide—Ireland might owe gratitude to England, but did she not owe gratitude to the United States? Suppose Great Britain became involved in war with France or Russia? With 80 Irish members coming to the Imperial Parliament to embarrass and hamper the government in times of difficulty, Ireland would get what she wanted or seriously cripple Great Britain's struggle for existence."

Continuing, Mr. Chamberlain declared that the measure left the Imperial Parliament with not a shadow of genuine supremacy.

He next referred to the financial proposals, which, he said, were extremely complicated, and would inevitably lead to imperial interference.

With respect to the retention of Irish members in the Imperial Parliament, there were only two practical ways to this scheme to be carried out.

First the Irish government and legislature must be wholly subordinate to the Imperial Parliament, like the London County Council. The supremacy of the Imperial Parliament and the unity of the Empire would not be attacked.

Second, if Ireland gets a Parliament, then Scotland, Wales, and England ought each to have a Parliament, with a fifth for the United Kingdom. That would be a large order.

Upon the moving of the first reading Mr. Gladstone stated that he was ready. Loud cries of dissent and assent greeted this declaration.

Mr. Gladstone retired from the Bar, while the Liberals, Radicals and Irish members made a scene of wild enthusiasm.

Amid the waving of hats and tremendous cheering, Mr. Gladstone advanced up the floor of the House and presented the bill.

The Home Rule bill was then read for the first time, and the second reading was fixed for March 13.

WILL RAISE THE FLAG.

President Harrison to Participate in the City of New York Ceremonies.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The arrangements for the raising of the American flag on the steamship New York, formerly the City of New York, on Washington's Birthday are being completed.

President Harrison and Cabinet, it is now announced, will leave Washington at 7 a. m. on Feb. 22, and breakfast will be served on the train.

They will arrive at the Pennsylvania railroad depot at 11:30 a. m., where one of Starin's boats will meet the party and transfer them to the New York, which will be anchored off the Battery.

President Harrison and guests will be received at the ship by President Griscom, of the line. President Harrison will raise the flag in person.

As it reaches the masthead the United States cruiser Chicago, anchored just astern, will fire the national salute of 21 guns, which will also be fired by the ships in the harbor.

At the conclusion of the ceremony a banquet will be served.

The list of toasts and speakers has been sent to the President for his approval.

Horrible Scalding Accident in Indiana.

COVINGTON, Ind., Feb. 18.—This city was the scene of a terrible accident yesterday which resulted in the loss of two lives and the narrow escape of three others. The two section hands went into the engine room of the Big Four sand drying house to eat their dinners, when the washout plug of the boiler blew out enveloping the men in scalding water and steam. The flesh was literally cooked and fell from their bones presenting a most sickening sight. They both soon died.

Mitchell Delaying Matters.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The fight between Corbett and Mitchell is all but on. Mitchell has covered Corbett's $10,000, and many details were talked over and agreed to until Mitchell suggested that $20 per cent. of the stake—which will be about $75,000—should go to the loser. Corbett's man refused this concession, and Mitchell threatens to back out altogether. Articles have not yet been signed therefore.

Dynamiter to be Sent Back.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Superintendent Owen has been officially advised that the English government has released a dynamiter named Galla, undergoing an 18-year sentence, on condition that he emigrate to the United States. Instructions have been sent to all commissioners of Immigration to be on the watch for Galla and return him if caught.

Murderer Wing Escapes the Gallows.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 18.—Albert Wing, the wife murderer, who himself confessed that he ought to be hanged, has been given a life sentence for his crime. His life was saved by the father of Miriam Eaves, the murdered woman, asking the jury that justice be tempered with mercy and only a life sentence imposed.

Long Island Policy Shops Raided.

LONG ISLAND CITY, Feb. 18.—Capt. Woods, with a posse of officers, last night raided a policy shop here and arrested Henry Danizglosk, the proprietor, with 23 other persons. The raid was under the direction of the new police commissioner appointed by Mayor Sanford.

Read and Reflect.

The great mass of mankind lose their health through inattention to catarrh of the head and throat. This insidious disease was considered incurable until the discovery of the American Catarrh Cure. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.00.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances here need it with unusual results.—Chas. Ostrum, 45 Warren avenue, Chicago, Ill.

They'll Put John in the Box Again.

(Somerville Democrat.)

As stated some weeks ago in the DEMOCRAT, the base-ball team of the West End club will be composed this season of amateurs, with a professional battery. The season will open May 6 on the home grounds, but with what club is not yet decided. Manager L. C. Mack has already begun to hustle for dates, and has issued challenges to every team of like class in the State. There are as yet but five men signed to play on the team for the coming season. Harkins will do the twirling for the fifth consecutive year. Harry Francis, his side partner on the old Unions of New Brunswick, will play behind the bat. Lewis C. Mack will hold down the first bag with an increased weight of forty-five pounds. C. Pool will, in all probability, play at short, while W. W. Major will take care of the right garden. There are any number of candidates for the other positions, and it will require all the calm judgment of Manager Mack to pick out men who are best fitted to hold up the glory of the club.

MAY BREAK IN WYOMING.

The Legislature Has But To-day to Elect a United States Senator.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Feb. 18.—There was no little excitement in the Legislature yesterday over an attempt on the part of the Republicans to find a candidate for Senator who could not only command his party strength, but also get three votes from the outside.

There were four ballots. The Republicans stood 22 for Congressman Clark on all four. The Democrats gave 14 to Gen. Thompson, 6 to Baxter and Homer 2. The Populist vote is solid for William Brown. To-day the Legislature must adjourn and no election is probable.

Simpson to be Tried Monday.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Feb. 18.—Edward Simpson, the desperado who robbed Mrs. Scherzerhorn at Prattsville about four months ago and who was afterwards captured in New York city, will be tried at Catskill next Monday, on the charge of grand larceny, assault and battery.

A Lawyer Arraigned for Forgery.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Lawyer Lionel J. Nash has been arraigned before Judge Ryan at the Tombs Police Court upon District Attorney Delancey Nicholl's complaint under a charge of forgery in the first degree.

AN HONORED NAME.

Some Surprising Statements by the Bearer.

A Well-Known Man Whose Son is a Brilliant College Professor.

Says Just the Right Thing and at Just the Right Time.

A name honored wherever spoken.

Such is the high reputation of the Hon. Walter S. Lovejoy of Tapleyville, Mass., who has lately been brought so prominently before our people.

Mr. Lovejoy is of an illustrious family. Indeed, the brilliant and scholarly Prof. Lovejoy of Macon (Ga.) University is no other than his son. The professor, in passing through town, spoke feelingly of his father's recent serious illness, and became enthusiastic concerning his restoration to health. He stated that it was perfectly wonderful to see the change in his father's health since he took the well-known medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

And the Hon. Mr. Lovejoy himself was found overflowing with gratitude toward this great remedy.

"I was very low indeed," he said, "I suffered from vertigo and heart disease. I had frequent attacks of faintness and failure of heart action. These attacks were sometimes so bad that it was with great difficulty the heart could be restored to its natural action.

"I was totally incapacitated for either

mental or physical labor. I have been a sufferer from these complaints more than twenty-five years, and I have used many medicines, but have never found a medicine from which I have derived so much substantial benefit as I have from Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy.

"If this should meet the eye of any one whose is a sufferer from these or any other nervous disease I earnestly recommend a trial of this wonderful remedy."

We emphatically indorse Mr. Lovejoy's advice. The sick and suffering should by all means use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, for if the disease is curable this truly remarkable medicine will certainly cure. It is indeed the great health and strength giver. All druggists keep it for $1.

A discovery so great among purely vegetable medicines and prepared by the eminent specialist in nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene of 35 W. 14th street, New York, carries the indorsement and recommendation of physicians, which is in itself a guarantee of its marvellous curative powers. The doctor, too, can be consulted by anyone free of charge, personally or by letter.

TO FIGHT A SNAKE.

The Way to Kill a Reptile Is to Strike Its Tail.

If any reader of this article should ever be so unfortunate as to experience the embrace of a boa-constrictor it is recommended that he try to release himself by taking hold of the creature's tail and unwinding it from the end. It can be easily unwound in that way, but otherwise it is not possible. The way to kill a snake is not to attempt to crush its head, the bones of which are very hard, but to strike the tail, where the spinal cord is but thinly covered by bone and suffers readily from injury. It is the same with an eel. Hit the tail two or three times against any hard substance and it quickly dies.

The boas are not venomous, but their fangs are sufficiently powerful to inflict serious wounds, and large specimens have been known to swallow men whole. The case is related by the traveler Gironiere of a criminal in the Philippine Islands who hid from justice in a cavern. His father, who alone knew of his hiding place, went sometimes to see him and to take him rice for food. One day he found instead of his son an enormous boa asleep. He killed it and found his son's body in the snake's stomach. As serpents sometimes swallow prey so much too big for their digestion that they actually burst from repletion. The instance is recorded of a boa-constrictor which swallowed a goat, the horns of which pierced the belly of the monster and killed him.

An Accurate Explosive.

Rhipbone is the name of a new explosive compound that is being introduced in Australia. It is stated to be an Australian invention, and to possess many advantages over dynamite, prominent among which are great strength, cheapness and safety. The ingredients are not stated, but it is said that they are not individually explosive, and that some are not combustible, but that in combination they form a powder which will burn slightly in the open, but cannot be exploded except in close confinement and then simply with common fuse.

A Criticism.

"Don't you think," the mother said, proudly, "that her playing shows a remarkable facility?"

"Yes," replied the young man, absently, "but she was a long time getting to it."—Jury.

Wouldn't Say a Word.

Burglar—What would you say if I was to blow yer head off for not telling me where your money is?

Mr. Joker—Not a word, sir; not a word.—Boston Globe.

BUYING AN ISLAND.

An American Syndicate to Purchase San Domingo.

Everything in the Little Republic Is Mortgaged—If the Scheme Goes Through the United States Will Secure a Safe Harbor.

The project of certain American financiers to purchase the sovereignty of the island of San Domingo is likely to meet with effective opposition from a very natural source. The natives do not fancy the scheme. They think they see in it the beginning of the loss of their political independence. And they fought so hard and so well for that.

The concessions which give the Americans virtual control of the republic of San Domingo, says the Illustrated American, were hitherto in the possession of a firm of Amsterdam bankers, who represented the Dutch holders of San Domingo bonds. The price paid for the rights to collect the customs revenues of the country is kept a secret, but it is understood to be about $3,500,000 in five per cent. debentures.

San Domingo, though rich in natural resources, has been so poorly governed that the republic is head over heels in debt. Everything is mortgaged to the money-lenders, even to the sale of the postage stamps. If you want to buy one you do not go to the post office, but to the branch of the Credit Foncier of Paris, which got the stamp concession for a loan of $70,000. The island's finances are so low that it is at present unable to send an exhibit to the world's fair. This grieves the Dominicans very deeply, for they are very proud of the fact that Christopher Columbus was imprisoned there. The beautiful statue of Columbus in front of the old cathedral in San Domingo city is not paid for. The only flourishing American enterprise there is a lottery, which has also a concession to brew lager beer in addition to the sale of lottery tickets.

Despite the monetary embarrassments, the people of San Domingo do not care to seek a way out of them through the surrender of their political autonomy. They believe firmly that the real object of the negotiations which have now ended in the purchase of the San Domingo concessions by an American syndicate is, if not the direct incorporation of the republic of San

GEN. ULISES HEUREAUX, PRESIDENT OF SAN DOMINGO.

Domingo with the United States, at least the partial management by North America of the business of this republic.

Though the men who have acquired the financial control of the island maintain that they have no thoughts beyond a mere speculative enterprise, there is no denying that the political importance of their venture is very great to the United States. Through it, this country will acquire their harbor and coaling station. The holders of the concession practically rule the republic, because they pay the officials. When the negotiations for the purchase were first talked of, it was hinted that ex-Secretary Blaine and Messrs. Jay Gould and D. Ogden Mills were in the scheme, and that it would be sprung upon the country for campaign purposes. It was also suggested that the United States government was the real instigator of the scheme. It was reported that Minister Phelps, at Berlin, had officially intervened in the action of Germany in San Domingo, and had been snubbed by the under secretary of foreign affairs. One of the most active negotiators at that time also was said to be Mr. Isaacs, son of the late lord mayor of London.

It is certain that in the hands of men of enterprise, energy and wealth the island could soon develop vast prosperity.

The chief products of San Domingo, which is the oldest settlement of European origin in America, are tobacco, sugar, cocoa, mahogany and a great variety of other woods, wax, honey, turtle shell and hides. Of these, sugar, though the most recent industry, is now the most important and productive.

The minerals are gold, copper and iron. The imports in 1887 were £452,258, and the exports £573,425. In 1889-90 the revenue was estimated at £393,750. The internal debt was stated in 1886 to be £212,500, but there is in addition an acknowledged debt of £714,806 contracted in London.

San Domingo, the capital city, has a population of 16,000 and among its chief attractions are the cathedral and the Columbus residence. The area of the country is about 20,596 square miles, while the population has almost reached 550,000.

The members of the purchasing syndicate, as far as known, are Charles W. Wells and Willard Brown, of New York, and John W. Taylor, of Newark, N. J. Postmaster General Wanamaker and Senator Matthew Stanley Quay are also mentioned in connection with the scheme.

Siamese-Twin Pheasants.

A peculiar Siamese-twin pair of pheasants was shot on the wing, by a sportsman near Bellefonte, Pa., a few days ago. Both birds were perfectly developed, and were connected by a fleshy link, half an inch thick, just in front of the wings.

Varieties of Apples.

There are more than 2,000 varieties of apples raised in the United States.

As a Cure for Envy.

A curiosity which a woman brought back with her from an African trip is a piece of gum copal in which a tiny lizard is imbedded. A drop of water in its stomach is clearly seen through the transparent casket of the dead reptile and moves as the curio is handled. "It was given to me by an Arab," tells the woman, "because I noticed and was attracted by its unique interest. The next day I received it and my husband told me I must be extremely careful how I looked at or admired anything when I was accepting Arabian hospitality. The cure of envy by bestowing the thing envied is a part of their creed which they carry to the last degree."

There are many other brands, each represented by some interested person to be "just as good as the BULL DURHAM." They are not; but like all counterfeits, they each lack the peculiar and distinctive qualities of the genuine.

We also wish to say to the public that we have no connection with any other manufacturer of BULL DURHAM TOBACCO for the present or future. Beware of imitations. SCIENTIFIC NOTES.

No BIRD can fly backward without turning. The dragon fly, however, can do this and outstrip the swallow in speed.

THREE hundred and sixty different mountain peaks within the limits of the United States exceed 10,000 feet in height.

THE copper plating of sheet zinc has been successfully accomplished and the process is recommended where weak takes place. The zinc readily combines with copper either by ordinary electrolyic processes or by the ordinary means. The main thing to be considered is that the surface of the zinc shall be clean before being operated upon.

IN regard to the heat of the sun at the northern and southern hemispheres M. Tromelin contributes a memoir to the Paris academy of sciences in which he states that the true cause of the difference of annual mean temperature is to be found in the difference of loss by radiation, which depends on the extremes of temperature. The southern hemisphere is nearer its sun in its summer, and farther away in its winter than the northern; consequently though the mean temperature is the same, the southern hemisphere loses the greater quantity of heat.

HYGIENIC TREADMILL.

An Apparatus Intended to Develop Muscular Force.

Gymnastics are much in vogue at the present time, and the apparatus illustrated herewith is intended to assist in the development of muscular force in a similar manner to that obtained by walking or running, without the necessity of leaving the house and of being exposed to the inclemency of the weather. The apparatus illustrated also gives relief to those troubled with obesity, as exercise with it tends to a reduction in weight without the fatigue attendant upon going to and from places where more scientific treatment is administered.

It is composed of an inclined plane formed by a series of rollers kept in place by axles running in the side pieces, which, with the pieces at the end uniting them, form the principal part of the apparatus. The rollers and their mountings rise and fall in a groove in the upright support, which is composed of two uprights fastened together by cross pieces at several places. These upright pieces form the points of support for the persons making use of the apparatus. The rollers are made of wood covered with cloth over stuffing, or covered with rubber, which gives greater purchase for the feet. The method of working is very simple. The person desiring to exercise mounts the rollers, which are set in motion by the weight of the body. By their motion they tend to carry the feet to the lower portion of the apparatus. This can only be counteracted by a brisk movement of the limbs and feet, similar to walking or running, and must be kept up continually or the feet will be thrown off the apparatus. The amount of the exercise can be regulated by raising or lowering with the screw. The higher the top of the inclined plane, the more violent the exercise. The effect produced by the rapid motion of the limbs is to produce a sensation of heat over the entire body, equivalent to that obtained by running or a long walk.—Les Inventions Nouvelles.

HAS NOT ISSUED BONDS

Foster Says the Emergency is Not Great Enough.

NONE HAVE BEEN SOLD IN EUROPE.

He Emphatically Denies the Stories that Have Been Circulated in Financial Circles—Treasury Now in Good Substantial Condition.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The attention of Secretary of the Treasury Foster was called last evening to the report that arrangements had been made with New York bankers for the sale of $25,000,000 worth of United States bonds in England. The Secretary denied the truth of the report, at least to the extent of saying that he had no information whatever on the subject. If any such arrangement had be made, he said, he was not aware of the fact.

"You may say emphatically," he added, "that I know nothing whatever about the matter."

The Secretary is inclined to think that certain American capitalists, having sent large quantities of gold out of the country through foreign Wall street bankers, are endeavoring to avoid just criticism of their actions by having the censure fall upon the heads of those who acted as the agents.

These bankers have become impatient at being made scapegoats of, and have ceased, in a measure, their shipments of gold.

This policy, the Secretary thinks, will be continued, and as a result there will be much less gold sent out of the country hereafter.

The Secretary said that the Treasury is in much better shape now than it has been.

There are $8,000,000 on hand, in addition to the $100,000,000 gold reserve fund, with no prospect of an unusual reduction at present, but rather of a substantial increase.

In answer to a direct question as to whether he had issued any bonds, the Secretary said:

"No, I have not, I would not take such a step unless it was a case of necessity, which doesn't exist. I have a right to issue bonds under the existing law, and I would not hesitate to do my duty in case of an emergency. Before issuing bonds I would feel obliged to consult my successor, for I have but two weeks to remain in office, and I would not care to do anything in that direction without first consulting him."

"How does the adoption of the Sherman bond amendment in the Senate affect the financial situation?"

"It provides that bonds may be sold to protect the gold reserve fund. Some of my predecessors established a system by which the gold reserve fund is to be kept up to a certain point. Under the Sherman amendment, if there is a prospect of the reserve fund falling below the point fixed by the existing practice, I may sell bonds to keep the fund intact. Without the Sherman amendment I am permitted to sell bonds, but I cannot demand that they shall be paid for in gold. Under the existing law they may be paid for in coin or coin certificates."

The Secretary concluded by saying that even if he desired to issue new bonds he would hardly have time to prepare them at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing before the close of the present Administration.

ALBANY, Feb. 20.—It is stated on the very best authority that Drexel, Morgan & Co. have offered $25,000,000 of United States bonds to bankers in London. This is regarded as establishing the decision of the Secretary of the Treasury to issue bonds. Whether the offer was a bona fide one to deliver bonds or was made simply to test the London market is unknown. It is regarded, however, as indicating a policy of accumulating gold for the treasury in foreign rather than domestic markets.

Arrested on a Serious Charge.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Mrs. Helen Hoppe, a midwife, and Mrs. Clara Schmidt and her son Jean were arraigned in the Essex Market Police court yesterday. Mrs. Hoppe is charged with malpractice, and the Schmidts, mother and son, are accused of being accomplices. The victim is Minnie Green, a very pretty woman, 25 years old. She is now in a precarious condition.

Ex-Assemblyman Short in His Accounts.

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 20.—Thomas Cavanagh, who was last year an Assemblyman elected from one of the districts in this city, has left town and is short in his accounts. He was one of the most promising young men in the Assembly, but the fast life at the capital was too much for him and since his return to this city he has been a frequent visitor at the pool rooms.

Western Freight Car Famine Increasing.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 20.—The car shortage situation here is as bad as ever. The Western roads are cramped for transportation facilities because Eastern roads have been holding cars for storage purposes and in many cases for local business. The shortage is mounting up rapidly. Western roads are short about 500 cars a day.

The Stabbed Man Will Recover.

LONG ISLAND CITY, Feb. 20.—Philip O'Connor, of New York, who was stabbed Saturday night during or after a brawl in a saloon here, is in St. John's hospital. He will recover, the physicians say, unless pneumonia develops. Edward Bidwell and John McGill, who were with O'Connor, are held in $1,500 bail each.

THE READING COLLAPSE.

Over $23,000,000 Lost in the Concern's Stock and Bonds in Two Weeks.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—The collapse of the Reading speculative pool has caused one of the greatest sensations of Wall street.

The excitement and the losses of Friday and Saturday will be spoken of many years to come as one of the most exciting episodes in the history of the street. In seven hours over 1,200,000 shares of Reading stock were sold in New York and Philadelphia, worth at par $45,000,000. The whole capital stock of the company is $40,000,000, so that more than the entire capital stock changed hands in less than two days in the two cities.

The loss in the market value of the stock and bonds in the seven hours was about $16,000,000, and within a fortnight it has reached the sum of $23,000,000—or to be exact, $115,238,000 in the stock, and over $8,000,000 in the preference bonds.

The names of the losers of these millions are not announced. They are mostly rich men, and, whoever they are, they conceal their losses instead of proclaiming them.

The cause for the decline seems to be that the Reading company suddenly needed a sum of money which it was impossible to command. The necessity was so great that two pay cars were stopped and the checks to individual operators for coal were not forwarded in some cases. As soon as these facts became known in Wall street, immediately began the heaviest selling movement the street has ever seen. There was a multitude of stories circulated, most of which were falsehoods

BISHOP WIGGER SPEAKS.

Explains the Pope's Letter on Free Masonry at the Jubilee Concert.

JERSEY CITY, Feb. 20.—The Pope's Jubilee concert took place at the Academy of Music in this city yesterday afternoon and was attended by many prominent priests and laymen from all the Roman Catholic parishes of the diocese.

Bishop Wigger was present and made an address from the stage explaining the Pope's encyclical letters in regard to Free Masonry and the labor question. He said that the Roman Catholic Church was opposed to all secret societies, but the Pope had selected Masonry for illustration because it was the most prominent seret organization in the world.

In regard to labor he said that the church would always be a friend of the working people so long as their cause was just.

The music services were conducted by Prof. Dossert, organist of St. Bridget's Church, Jersey City, and composer of the Pope's Jubilee Mass which is to be sung in Rome next summer.

OPPOSED TO ANTI-OPTION.

The New Secretary of Agriculture Gives His Views on Important Questions.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—J. Sterling Morton, of Nebraska, who has accepted the office of Secretary of Agriculture in Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet, was interviewed in this city yesterday. He is a man of fine appearance and carries his 61 years well.

"I am opposed to the Hatch anti-option bill. What the farmers of this country most need is protection from some of their alleged friends. I could not be called a protectionist, but I should be heartily in favor of that kind of protection. The farmers need a change in some of their ideas, and they would be materially benefitted by a certain kind of education. It is generally said and believed that the farmers are the instigators and supporters of this anti-option bill. In my opinion they should be its most vigorous opponents. The Produce Exchange and Boards of Trade which this bill is intended to destroy are of the greatest advantage to the producers of grain.

POPULISTS DON'T LIKE IT.

The New Election Law in Alabama Will Disfranchise Their Voters.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 20.—The Senate has passed the Sayre election bill. It had already passed the House. The Governor will sign it, and it will then become a law of the State.

The new election law provides the Australian ballot.

Its effect will be to disfranchise illiterate voters to the number of 40,000 or more in the State.

The penalties for violation of the section governing registration and voting are very rigid. The new law will go into effect with the next general election.

The Kolb Third Party Populists in both Houses were against the bill all the way through. They had been clamoring for a new and fair election law for two years past, and when this one was offered them they opposed it directly.

Ohio River Still Slowly Rising.

PORTSMOUTH, O., Feb. 20.—The Ohio river has passed the danger point here, being 58 feet 8 inches and is still rising slowly. The low lying portions of the city on East Front, Mill and Jackson streets, have been flooded and residents compelled to move out. A rough river prevails and threatens further damage to the flooded part. As yet the business portion of the city has suffered no damage and none is expected.

Will be in Lakewood All the Week.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Feb. 20.—Mr. Cleveland remained quietly at home yesterday. He had no callers, and made no announcements last evening in regard to places in his Cabinet which are not yet filled. He expects to remain at Lakewood all of this week.

Big Snow Storm at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Feb. 20.—Snow has been falling for 24 hours, and it is now more than three feet deep on Main street. Steeet cars are blockaded. The wind at one time reached a velocity of 60 miles an hour.

BUSY WEEK IN CONGRESS

But Little Will be Accomplished in Either House.

EXTRA SESSION MORE LIKELY NOW.

Sundry Civil Appropriation, Pension, Postoffice and Nicaragua Bills and the Hawaiian Treaty in the Senate—Appropriation Bills Also in the House, Together With the New York Bridge Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—The backward state of appropriation bills lends serious interest to the remark that Senator Vilas dropped during the long debate on the Sherman bond amendment, that there might be only a short interval between the adjournment of this Congress and the assembling of the next.

There are two or three other matters of discussion still to come up in connection with the pending Sundry Civil bill in the Senate, whose consideration has already consumed the best part of the week. Included among these is the proposed amendment in regard to the site for a new Government Printing office, round which many opposing interests seem to have centered and to have enlisted champions on the Senate floor. After that bill is disposed of, there is the Legislative Appropriation bill, ready for action, upon which there are half a dozen hot fights imminent. Then there are the Pension and Postoffice bills to follow and it is not likely that they will be lightly passed over in the Senate.

The Nicaragua bill, another fruitful subject of talk, is the unfinished business and there is the Hawaiian treaty to be disposed of in executive session.

The Appropriation bills are also in a backward state in the House, owing largely to what threatened to be an interminable debate over the Pension Appropriation bill and recourse will be had to-day to rapid transit in parliamentary procedure by passing the Agricultural and Naval Appropriation bills under suspension of the rules.

It is possible that the New York Bridge bill and the Utah Admission bill also may come up under suspension of the rules. The passage of the Agricultural and Naval bills will leave before the House only the Postoffice and Indian Appropriation bills.

Mr. Hatch is getting very restless over the delay in the Rules Committee on his request for a day for the anti-Options bill and it is almost certain that a move of some sort will be made by him during the week.

Notice has been given that the Car Coupler bill, with Senate amendments, will be called up Tuesday.

WILL FORM A NEW SOCIETY.

Profs. Briggs and Smith May Leave the Presbyterian Church.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Dr. Charles S. Briggs has returned from his trip to Cincinnati. He was preceded by statements as to his plans for the future that are somewhat startling to the religious world, the more so as they come with some show of authority.

It is said that if the General Assembly decides against him he and Prof. Smith, of Cincinnati, will secede and form a new church.

Incidental to the project of the two "heresy" leaders, it is said that they will command the influence and active support respectively of the Union Theological and Lane seminaries.

They have assurances, besides, that they will be supported by controlling majorities in the larger congregations in New York, Chicago, Cleveland and Cincinnati.

During his absence Dr. Briggs has delivered lectures at Detroit, Toledo, and before the students of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Body Snatchers at Albany.

ALBANY, Feb. 20.—Some time during Saturday night the vault of St. Mary's cemetery in the west end of this city was entered by means of a duplicate key and four bodies were removed from their coffins. Early this morning the police arrested two medical college students named A. G. Burns and Herbert Tanner, and John Revles, janitor of the institution, while they were in the act of removing the stolen bodies from the college to a sleigh in waiting. All the bodies were recovered.

Secretary Foster Returned to Washington

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 20.—Secretary of State Foster reached here from Washington Saturday to visit his wife and daughters. He left unexpectedly for Washington last night to see the Queen's representative from Hawaii, whose arrival at the national capital he learned of soon after he reached this city. He expects to sail on Wednesday from New York for Paris.

Suspected Chinamen Under Arrest.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Tan Yan, Jip Jan Chan and Tan Kin Chan, three Chinamen were arrested at the Pennsylvania railroad station in Jersey City by Special Agent Carter and Detective Briton. They came from Florida, and it is thought that they were landed at Tampa from Cuba in violation of the Chinese proscription act. They are held for examination.

Arose and Sang the Doxology.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Feb. 20.—G. Parsons Nichols, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, announced to his congregation yesterday morning his declination of the call to the Calvary Presbyterian Church of Buffalo. A GREAT DAY IN ROME

Pope Leo XIII. Celebrates His Jubilee Mass.

WATERS RISING AT BRISBANE.

Twelve More Lives Lost Already—Crops Destroyed in New South Wales—Rising Waters Floated Out the Stranded Boats—Gladstone Visits Balfour.

ROME, Feb. 20.—At daybreak yesterday the pealing of church bells announced the celebration of the Pope's episcopal jubilee. By 4 o'clock thousands of pilgrims, tourists and citizens were crowded before the doors of St. Peter's. At 5 o'clock two battalions of infantry in full uniform were drawn up before the cathedral, so as to help the 200 or more gendarmes in preserving order.

The crowd swelled steadily, but remained quiet despite the tremendous pressure caused by some 5,000 ticket holders in their helpless struggles to get near the doors.

At 6 o'clock the cathedral doors were opened, and the foremost of the crowd went in. Within half an hour the great building was packed to the steps. Thirty thousand pilgrims and 25,000 or 30,000 Catholics from this city had gained admission. Not fewer than 40,000 persons, many of them ticket holders, were turned away by the military, who cleared the spaces round the building so as to prevent disorder when the service closed.

The scene at the Cathedral was brilliant and impressive. The interior was hung in crimson and was profusely dressed with flowers. The Pope, in full canonicals, was borne on the sedia gestatorio up the nave to the altar, accompanied by a gorgeous procession of richly robed and bejeweled cardinals and officers of the Swiss Guards. As he entered the cathedral rang with tumultuous cheering. His Holiness was apparently in better health than usual and officiated at the special jubilee mass, intoning the opening words of the Te Deum and giving his blessing in a clear, penetrating voice.

The mass lasted until 10:45, but apparently did not fatigue His Holiness. He remained in the cathedral 45 minutes after the celebration, and then proceeded to his apartments. The crowds dispersed slowly. At noon most of them had gone and a quarter of an hour later the military withdrew.

The weather was magnificent. Last evening St. Peter's and all the other churches, all the convents and hundreds of private residences were brilliantly illuminated.

The streets were thronged, and the square in front of St. Peter's was almost impassable.

Without exception, however, the people have been orderly.

The vigor of the Pope's movements during mass and the energy of voice and gesture as he gave the blessing astonished the people.

A little incident occurred during the day which slightly marred the general peace and joyousness of the occasion.

A transparency before the Belgian college attracted a group of Liberals, who shouted, "Long live Italy," to which the Catholics replied, "Long live the Papacy." There was a little excitement, and gendarmes removed the transparency. Otherwise nothing occurred to mar the peace and pleasure of the day.

FLOODS IN AUSTRALIA.

Continued Rains Causing Trouble Again in Brisbane and Other Cities.

MELBOURNE, Feb. 20.—Steady rain for several days has caused the rivers of Queensland to rise rapidly and threaten a repetition of the recent floods. Gales have accompanied the rainfall, so that between wind and water most of the railways and telegraph lines have been rendered temporarily useless.

Ipswich, Brisbane and several smaller towns are partly under water.

In Brisbane the water is but 10 inches below the highest mark reached during the last flood, and some 10 or 12 lives have been lost.

The three vessels which were left stranded in the botanical garden of this city during the last flood have been got back to the river.

In New South Wales the floods have done enormous damage to the crops.

As she enters womanhood, every young girl needs the wisest care. Troubles beginning then may make her whole life miserable. But the troubles that are to be feared have a positive remedy. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription builds up and strengthens the system, and regulates and promotes every proper function. It's a generous, supporting tonic, and a quieting, soothing nervine—a legitimate medicine, not a beverage, free from alcohol and injurious drugs. It corrects and cures, safely and surely, all those delicate derangements and weaknesses peculiar to the sex.

A remedy that does cure is one that can be guaranteed. That's what the proprietors of "Favorite Prescription" think. If it doesn't give satisfaction, in every case for which it's recommended, they'll refund the money. No other medicine for women is sold on such terms.

Decide for yourself whether something else sold by the dealer, is likely to be "just as good" for you to buy.

"NO. 5" KILLED BY A FLYER

Just as He Received the Wages He Was Saving to Send for His Wife.

The Central railroad employs several gangs of Hungarians who by reason of their unpronounceable names are designated on the pay-rolls by numbers. Saturday afternoon about 4, construction train No. 1 was working at Dunellen station, when the paymaster stopped there. The laborers and other employes crowded into the car to get their money, and among them was "Hungarian, No. 5" who received his month's wages, $32, in a ten and a twenty dollar bill, and two silver dollars.

Just as he left the car he was struck and instantly killed by the fast Blue Line flyer bound south, which leaves New York at 3:30. The man was hurled a distance of forty feet, and when picked up every bone in his body was found to be broken. His money was missing having been knocked from his hand. An hour afterward the two bills were found in the snow but the silver pieces could not be discovered. The man was removed to his home in Raritan late Saturday evening. The deceased leaves a wife in Hungary and has been trying to save money to pay her passage over.

And How to Get Rid of Them.

Nothing more annoying than chapped hands. And the more you wash the worse they chap! Soap cleans, but soap chaps. Now by neutralizing the alkali of the soap by means of a harmless acid we may prevent chapping. That is the philosophy of REYNOLDS'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE, and by using it as directed, you can get rid of the chaps. Originated and made only at

BEDLOW'S WILL IS GOOD.

His Wife and Children Get Just Their Dollar Apiece.

The decision of Surrogate Ransom admitting to probate the will of Alfred Bedlow, after whose ancestors Bedlow's Island was named, has been affirmed by the Supreme Court, General Term. Bedlow left almost all his estate, estimated at $80,000, to Miss Sarah A. Stillwell, daughter of his boarding-house mistress, with whom he lived after leaving this city. He gave his wife and three children $1 each, for these reasons:

As my wife, Fanny M. Bedlow; my daughter, Florence B. Townsend; my son, Alfred Bedlow, Jr., and my daughter, Julia A. Frothingham, have, to the best of their respective abilities, endeavored to prevent me, and have prevented me, from possessing and enjoying my property, and have otherwise treated me with gross disrespect and ingratitude; and as my said wife has unjustly commenced and is prosecuting a suit against me for a divorce, now, in order to show to them and to others my appreciation of such disrespect and ingratitude, I do hereby bequeath the sum of $1 to each of said persons.

Bedlow married his wife in 1855, and after living with her in Plainfield for over a score of years and raising a large family at the corner of Fifth street and Park avenue, he separated from her in 1887. The will was drawn by Lawyer Charles C. Keeler, uncle of Miss Stillwell. It was contested by the wife and children. The General Term says it does not follow because a man is weak and easily influenced that undue influence has been exercised. It is declared that Bedlow seems to have exercised his will and that it was the result of a pertinacity of purpose.

'T WILL BE A MODEL FOR THE STATE.

Every Modern Convenience to Be Provided in the Fine New Home of Plainfield's Bravest.

THE PRESS to-day presents to the public its first complete conception of what architect Fosgate's new fire department building on East Second street near Peace is to be like.

The plans depicted herein, which speak eloquently of their own excellence, show the building to be a perfect model of its class. It has been designed according to the most modern and improved ideas of what is requisite in such a structure.

The building will be an ornamental acquisition to local architecture, as may be judged from its front elevation.

On the ground floor, in the main space, will be No. 2's steamer and hose wagon, the new extension ladder truck, the proposed chemical engine, probably Alert's hose wagon, and the chief's wagon.

EXTINCT MONSTERS.

Huge Creatures That Ruled the Primeval World.

Strange Reptiles of the Mezozoic Period—Flesh-Eating and Graminivorous Dinosaurs That Had the Faculty of Kangaroos.

Cuvier it was whose fine imaginative reasons invented the great science of comparative anatomy and paleontology. His vast and splendid knowledge of existing beasts and birds enabled him to reconstruct from a fossil skull or a vertebra, sometimes from nothing but a single tooth, the long extinct creature in its true semblance as it had lived, to clothe it with flesh and skin and show it in imagination in the haunts in which it lived and moved.

This, which Baron Cuvier did in graphic description of great scientific and literary beauty, Mr. H. N. Hutchinson, in his work on "Extinct Monsters," has now done popularly and yet learnedly, and with the accompaniment of many most admirable illustrations. Baron Cuvier showed how our planet was once inhabited by reptiles of enormous size and hideous aspect, the dinosaurs. The crocodiles and alligators are the degenerate descendants of these terrible primeval lizards that in size and in their ungainly shapes were liker to the dragons of our tales and legends than any beast that at present roams the earth.

It is now established by science that during the mezozoic period of the world's history evolution had proceeded so far as the development of life into the form of these strange reptiles. This was the "Age of Reptiles," but of such reptiles as the earth has not since held upon its surface. As yet mammalian quadrupeds did not exist. The horse, the ox, the elephant, the lion, the deer and the thousand genera of four-footed mammalian beasts which tenant the earth to-day had not been created or evolved. The seas, the estuaries, the marsh, the forest and the plain were lorded over by the dinosaurs, reptiles indeed in a scientific point of view, but that mimicked in their structure and habits the nature of the mammalian quadrupeds of to-day. Of some of the dinosaurs the bodies and limbs were as massive as those of our elephants and rhinoceroses. They were four-footed, but many of them walked the earth erect on their hind feet. Some were horned creatures of terrible aspect, feeding on vegetable food, while others were carnivorous animals with formidable teeth and claws. Most of the flesh-eating and many of the graminivorous dinosaurs were kangaroo-moving creatures with powerful hind quarters and the faculty of leaping as a kangaroo or jerboa leaps. In the case of the vegetable-feeding dinosaurs it is conjectured that the creature was enabled to stand upon its hinder legs and feed on the branches of trees—as is here shown in the case of the gigantic dinosaur known as Iguanodon Bernissartensis.

There is no scientific reason why the sea serpent should not have survived from the "Age of Reptiles," for creatures that exactly repeat in size and shape the fabled sea serpent of nautical men, incapacitated by fertility of imagination, or other more temporary causes, from observing scientifically, were abundant in the seas in mezozoic times. "Come, now," said an inquiring savant to an old sea captain, "have you ever seen a sea serpent?" "Why, no, sir; I never did. I'm a teetotaller." The sea serpents have, by best accounts, died out of our seas, with the toothed reptile birds that held the air before the kites and falcons, the eagles and the hawks became supreme in that element.

One thing is apparent from a study of mezozoic life on the globe. Man may thank a kindly Providence that he only came on the scene in quieter times than mezozoic ones. He could hardly have lived comfortably with his neighbors. The earth was a huge zoological garden, or rather a huge reptile house. He could not have gone to sea, because the first mosasaurus that passed his ship would have lifted thirty feet of neck from the depths and picked the steersman from the rudder or the reefer from the yards. He could not have tilled the earth, for it would have been preposterous to yoke the mildest dinosaur to a plow. Flying ramphorynchuses would have pecked his eyes out. When he took his walks abroad the winged dimorphodon—a cross between a bat and an alligator—would have chopped his nose, perhaps his head, off with his cruel rat trap jaws.

A Precautionary Measure.

"Dwiggins has an awfully fine revolver, hasn't he?"

"Yes. Why doesn't he carry it?"

"He's afraid somebody'll hold him up and take it."—Chicago News Record.

No Wonder She Refused.

"And, besides offering you his large fortune, he offered his whole heart, too, and you refused him?"

"Yes, dear, but you must know it was a whisky heart."—Banner of Gold.

A Bright Bird.

"Is your parrot a bright bird?"

"Oh, yes, awfully bright. He's yellow and light green."—Harper's Young People.

VICTOR NAPOLEON.

How He Was Placed at the Head of a Party Opposing His Father.

Prince Victor Jerome Frederic Napoleon was born July 18, 1862, and is the elder son of Prince Napoleon and of the Princess Clotilde. He was educated at the Lysee Charlemagne in Paris, and after having done a twelve months' volunteer service in the Thirty-seventh regiment at Orleans returned to the paternal residence only to quarrel with his father and to head a Bonapartist party of his own. The secession took place after the death of the prince imperial in 1876, when Prince Napoleon took the position of head of the house of Bonaparte. The claim was disputed by M. Paul de Cassagnac and several other impecilities who put forward the young Prince Victor as his father's heir. It was understood at the time that Victor was nominated in the prince imperial's will as his successor. When the expulsion bill of 1886 became a law, Prince Victor took up his residence in PRINCE VICTOR NAPOLEON.

Brussels, whence he occasionally issues manifestos. At Prince Napoleon's death in 1891 he left his entire fortune to his second son, Prince Louis, but at a family council, held at Moncalieri in April, Prince Louis declared that he would not accept the financial arrangements made by his father's will in his favor and to the detriment of his brother and sister (the duchess of Aosta), and formally acknowledged Prince Victor as head of the house of Bonaparte.

What number would Prince Victor put after his name of Napoleon in the remote contingency of his ascending the throne? The great majority incline to the opinion that he could call himself Napoleon VI., the prince imperial and his father being the fourth and fifth, but it is also argued that his proper title would be Napoleon VIII., for the following reasons: The great Napoleon and his son, the king of Rome, were first and second, but when the last emperor took the third place he overlooked the fact that his uncle and his own father, Louis, king of Holland, had respectively held the positions of heads of the Bonaparte family—so the emperor was really Napoleon V. This was the view taken by Prince Metternich, who contended that, if the emperor had been consistent, he would have assumed this title as a matter of fact. However, Prince Metternich contended that in accepting the presidency of the republic in 1848 Napoleon virtually admitted that his dynastic claims were worthless. The prince therefore argued that, instead of reviving the old empire in 1852, Napoleon founded a new one. Some time before Napoleon had issued his first proclamation, and there were three notes of exclamation after his name, which the people mistook for Roman figures. "Vive Napoleon Trois!!!" they began to cry, and the affair was regarded as being of such happy omen that the hint was taken and the emperor called himself the third Napoleon. But generally speaking, history in England, for instance, pays no attention to pretenders or claimants who have not actually occupied the throne.

An Unintentional Recommendation.

He—I want you to introduce me to Miss Boreby.

She—Oh, no! Don't. She's awfully dull—never says a word.

He—What a wife she'd make! I want to meet her more than ever!—Judge.

Just as Good as New.

Janso—Honesty should be the best policy.

Rodd—Why?

Janso—Because it hasn't been used enough to make it the worse for wear.—Boston Globe.

A Reproof.

"I am dripping wet," said the mackintosh, as it came in and shook itself.

"You ought not to complain," replied the gold watch, "you are not soaked half so much as I am."—Clothier and Furnisher.

No Gun Wanted.

Crummer—When Vokes goes hunting he never takes a gun with him.

Gilleland—Well, how does he manage?

Crummer—He gets loaded himself.—Truth.

The Main Point.

"You shouldn't argue with mamma," said Mrs. Witherup. "You got her all wound up this morning."

"Really?" said Witherup, eagerly. "Did she go?"—Truth.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

McKINLEY'S LIABILITY IS $90,000.

The Governor and His Wife Will Meet the Whole Amount.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 21.—Gov. McKinley still remains in Cleveland awaiting developments in the Walker failure at Youngstown, in which he is so heavily involved as indorser. The liability of the Governor now amounts to more than $90,000.

Mrs. McKinley has arrived from New York very much improved in health. She joins the Governor in declaring that the notes shall all be paid if it takes every dollar's worth of property they possess.

The Governor's friends account for his being so heavily involved by saying that he supposed many of the notes he indorsed were renewals of others which had been taken up and that he at no time believed he had loaned his credit for more then $20,000. A host of friends called upon the Governor yesterday and tendered him their sympathy.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 21.—Hugh Dempsey, district Master Workman of the Knights of Labor, who was recently convicted of complicity in the Homestead poisonings, was arrested again last night and lodged in jail, the charge being felonious assault and battery.

There is a good deal of mystery surrounding the arrest, and all parties concerned refuse to talk.

The process was issued by Judge Stowe shortly after the hearing on the application of Dempsey for a new trial.

The accused was admitted to bail in the sum of $2,500.

The fire is supposed to have been of incendiary origin.

Washington Deadlock Unbroken.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 21.—The 73d ballot for United States Senator yesterday showed no result. There seems to be no prospect of breaking the deadlock. Both Republican factions have unavailingly endeavored to break into the opposing ranks, while the Democrats and Populists are determined never to vote for a Republican.

Sullivan Writes a Letter.

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—John L. Sullivan and James J. Corbett may punch each other when they meet. The latter denounces the ex-champion in very strong terms. John L. has written a long letter, and among other things says: "I do not wish to be understood to be against Corbett in the proposed fight with Mitchell, for my sympathy is with the American. However, should the former be defeated, there is a probability that I shall again appear in the ring, and I sincerely believe that I have a good chance to regain the championship."

LEWELLING'S POSITION

He Says the Populists Have Carried Their Point.

REPUBLICANS TO ELECT A SENATOR.

A Skull and Crossbones Hung Up in Representative Hall — The Populist House Meets in Its New Quarters—How Bloodshed Was Avoided.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 21.—The following statement was given out yesterday by the Governor's stenographer. It was prepared by a Populist editor, and is an editorial for this week's Populist papers. It is approved by Gov. Lewelling, but he does not wish it to be classed as an official document:

"Now that peace has been declared, it should be borne in mind that the Populists have carried their point, and have wrung from the Republicans a solemn pledge to cease all further attempts to molest or attempt the extinction of the Populist House.

"The compulsory vacation of Representative Hall may not be pleasant to the personal feelings of the Populists, but it is the price the Populists pay for believing that the Republicans have no part in loyalty or respect for law or official oaths.

"Hence, when it is said that the Governor has made terms with a power, which, but a short time ago, he termed a lawless body, he frankly admits and says he did it just as the Union men did at Fort Sumter when they recognized Jeff Davis, or the loyal people of Lawrence when they recognized Quantrell."

A human skull and cross bones hanging over a door in the main corridor of the State House attracted much attention until it was removed by Secretary of State Osborne. On the wall a hand pointed to an inscription which read: "This man ventured too far up. Observe his fate. Sabe?" On the floor beneath was a large valise lying wide open and partly filled with human bones.

The Populist House met in the afternoon in the south basement corridor of the House building. Carpenters were at work Sunday and yesterday morning fixing up the corridor. An imposing stand was made for Speaker Dunsmore out of pine lumber and a low platform was made for the clerks of the House. No provision was made for reporters.

The desks of the members are merely high benches of pine and are 20 inches wide. Each desk will be used by three members and they are arranged in two rows with an aisle between. Sergeant-at-Arms Dick made no attempt to secure the State desks fearing there would be trouble.

Since all danger of war has passed it has come out that but little was needed to have provoked bloodshed. Shortly after signing the compact the Governor gave out that he intended to retract his signature.

Upon hearing of his intentions Mr. Cubbison, of Wyandotte, went to him and said:

"Governor, do I understand that you wish to take your name from this paper?"

The Governor answered that he had signed it under duress and under mistaken ideas. Doster is said to have been with him, and told him that the Populists would never forgive him, and possibly he would not escape serious trouble, so he decided to withdraw from the agreement.

Mr. Cubbison then said to him:

"Governor, if you withhold your signature from the paper there will be 1,000 men killed within 20 minutes, and you will be one of them. The House is ready to fight for its rights. It will tolerate imprisonment no longer. It has been hard to hold the members back. The sergeants-at-arms are ready and well armed, and the sheriff cannot control his men on the outside much longer. The fight will begin as soon as you say so, and it will begin in this corridor in front of your office. Think what you are doing."

Gov. Lewelling reached out his hand and said: "Give me the paper. Let it stand."

This alone averted war.

Republicans in caucus have decided to elect another Senator this week.

The cause of this action is said to be the assurance from national Democratic leaders that if the Republicans will elect a stalwart Democrat he will be seated over John W. Martin.

The choice of the Republicans is Bailey P. Waggener, who is here looking after his interests.

The Republicans claim to have positive assurances that Waggener will be seated if he is elected.

CONGRESSIONAL DOINGS.

Appropriation Bills Passed—N. Y. and N. J. Bridge Bill Passes the House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Senator Gorman, in some remarks which he made in the Senate yesterday in opposition to appropriations for public buildings, spoke of the various and alarming conditions which confronted the country, and said that extraordinary action would have to be taken by the Treasury Department, or else Congress would have to reassemble before next July to meet the condition.

His warning did not prevent the Senate from agreeing to all the amendments that were offered making appropriations for or increasing the limit of cost of public buildings.

The only yea and nay vote taken upon them showed all the Republican Senators in the affirmative, and all the Democratic Senators except Mr. Vest in the negative.

The Sundry Civil Appropriation bill occupied the attention of the Senate the whole day.

Filibustering against the New York and New Jersey Bridge bill proved ineffectual yesterday in the House.

It was led by Messrs. Stone and Dalzell, both of Pennsylvania, but they were never able to muster more than seven men to their support, and the bill was finally passed, practically without opposition.

After the disposition of two private bills, the Naval and Agricultural Appropriation bills were called up under suspension of the rules and passed.

DEPUTY ZERBI DEAD.

He Was Largely Connected With the Banca Romana Scandal.

ROME, Feb. 21.—Deputy Zerbi, whose has been prominently connected with the bank scandals, is dead.

A committee of the Chamber of Deputies recently reported in favor of delivering Deputy Zerbi to the Public Prosecutor to be dealt with in the courts on the charge of having received lagre bribes to induce him to support the interests of the Banca Romana in legislation.

Zerbi was very much prostrated by the charges against him, and is known to have been physically as well as mentally affected by the prospect of facing a public prosecution. His death, nevertheless, excites surprise similar to that caused in France by the death of Baron Reinach.

The Lairds also desired to send a model of the rebel cruiser Alabama, which was built in their yards, but United States Consul Thomas Sherman was informed from Washington that such an exhibit would be distasteful to the government.

Confidence in the Ministry Waned.

LISBON, Feb. 21.—Several reasons are given for the retirement of the Fereira Cabinet. The officially authorized statement is that irreconcilable differences were caused by the question of annulling the contract with the syndicate for the manufacture and sale of alcohol. The real reason is undoubtedly the general waning of confidence in the Ministry.

Dempsey Trying for a New Trial.

THE READING CRISIS

Wall Street Turned Upside Down Over It.

THE COMBINE DID NOT LIVE A YEAR.

Receivers Take Charge With the Stock Down to 28—The First Blow Came When New Jersey Attacked It and Compelled the Central Road to Pull Out—The Story of the Day in the Stock Exchange—The Effect in London.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—The credit and power of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad which went into the hands of receivers yesterday, as far as the financial world is concerned, are gone, and the ownership of its panic-blown, widely scattered stock is unknown.

The rise and fall of one of the most extensive and ambitious railroad combinations ever attempted are embraced in the comparatively brief period of one year and a fortnight. It was just a year ago this month that the formation of the great Reading-Jersey Central-Lehigh Valley alliance was publicly announced. To-day the president of the Lehigh Valley and the president of the Reading are two of the receivers of the broken corporation.

The dissolution of the combination, which culminated yesterday, was begun by the opposition of the New Jersey authorities and courts in the formation of a coal trust.

Although Mr. McLeod and his associates pooh-poohed that opposition for a while, they finally had to give way to it, and a complete severence of the relations between the Reading and the Jersey Central was announced.

The facts relating to the Reading's incursion into New England, the series of brilliant moves which apparently placed the new Poughkeepsie bridge, the Boston & Maine railroad, the New York & New England railroad, and the Connecticut River railroad in the hands of the great combination are still familiar events in the public mind.

The invasion of the territory of the Consolidated system has been the direct cause of the present ruin of the Reading combine.

The corporation is now practically where it was a year and a half ago.

The scene in the Stock Exchange was one never to be forgotten.

Tens and twenties of thousands shares of the stock were thrown upon the market by demoralized holders, and the sellers seemed indifferent as to what they got for the stock as long as some one else would pay them something for it.

For minutes the tape was given up to Reading quotations. When not used for Reading, Northern Pacific quotations were sent out, for Northern Pacific shared the panic with Reading and broke almost as badly.

In the Stock Exchange the groups which trade in Reading and Northern Pacific adjoin each other. Long before the opening the brokers began to gather in these groups and discuss the situation. Away over in another part of the room was a smaller knot of men.

This was the New England crowd, for it was understood that these three stocks would, to a large extent, monopolize the trading and the excitement.

When business finally opened one-half of the crowd of brokers in the Exchange was in these three crowds. While waiting for the drop of the Chairman's gavel the brokers stood almost quivering with excitement.

The enormous shrinkage in Reading securities, coupled with the unparalelled selling of the stock, brought about a panicky feeling. No thorough explanation of the difficulty had been made, but every one felt that one of the greatest of American corporations was in danger. The ominous silence on the part of the company's managers added to the mystery and increased the panic.

The opening quotation for Reading was 36. Rather that was the first recorded quotation, for the howling, crazed crowd of men dealing in the stock made it impossible to say what the first sale was made at. Reading quickly retired to 29 1-2, against 36 5-8 on Saturday, and New England to 34 1-4, against 41 1-8. The antagonisms brought out by the stockholders' reports brought a serious decline in Northern Pacific perfered; that stock was quickly depressed to 74 3-4 against 48 3-8 on Saturday.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 20.—The excitement at the opening of the Stock Exchange yesterday was intense and almost a panic prevailed.

The first sale of Reading was at 15, a loss of 3 3-8 over the closing quotation Saturday.

Following this drop the stock steadily declined any was soon quoted at 14.

Then a rumor became current that Reading would go into a receiver's hands.

The stocks of the roads allied to the Reading were also hammered down, New England showing a loss of 1 1-8 cent on the opening sale at 40, while it soon dropped to 34 5-8. Lehigh Valley opened at 53, a loss of 1 1-2 cents, and dropped in just twelve minutes to 44 1-2.

In the London Market.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Although news of the heavy sales of Reading in Wall street did not reach Capel Court until the closing, the movement in American "rails" showed that a scare was on in New York. Heavy selling orders received by brokers from holders of Reading were executed immediately after the opening, and had a depressing effect upon all American railroad securities.

Receivership Will Not Last Long.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 21.—It is not believed that the receivership will last long. The system is in a condition to meet its fixed obligations. This will soon be demonstrated to the receivers and when this fact is established the property will be returned to the stockholders.

The Storm at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Feb. 21.—The snowstorm which began on Friday night and continued for 50 hours was the heaviest of the season, the fall of snow being 8 inches on the level. The temperature is very cold. Railroads are badly blocked in all directions, and trains are from one to seven hours late.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The Ohio from Pittsburg to Parkersburg is falling; from Cincinnati to Cairo it is rising. The Cumberland is rising at Nashville. The Tennessee is rising at Chattanooga. The Mississippi from Cairo to New Orleans is rising.

PLAINFIELD REMAINS "WET".

Councilmen Decide to Keep the Liquor Traffic Under Municipal Control.

The anti-license delegation was on hand early last evening, to protest before the Plainfield Common Council against the legalizing of liquor-selling, but their efforts were fruitless, for the council granted the petitions of reputable applicants just as most people had anticipated.

Eight women, among others, were present in the interests of prohibition, and on motion of Mr. Case they were shown the courtesy of Council and given the right to speak if they desired.

Mrs. J. C. Fernald, representing the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, read a long protest signed by Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson as president.

The Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis presented a petition signed by all the city pastors, asking that no new applications be granted and that applicants be refused who had been convicted of violating the ordinances. Dr. Lewis accompanied the petition with a 20-minute speech.

Mr. Fernald made a 10-minute speech against license.

A petition was received signed by 200 workmen in the shops of the Pond Tool Works neighborhood, in opposition to licenses below Plainfield avenue.

The city clerk could n't decipher a temperance protest from Ethan Lanphear, and it was filed without reading.

Pastor F. G. Warnick and his deacons asked that J. J. Goff be not licensed as his place would be within 100 yards of the Mt. Olive Baptist church.

Hope chapel members also had a petition in.

All of these were filed.

W. H. Cawley withdrew his application for a wholesale liquor place on Broadway.

The various license applications when reported back to the council by the license committee were disposed of as follows:

GRANTED.

Frank Linke, wholesale, 43 West Front. To grant—Bird, Fisk, Frazee, Ginna, Johnston, See, Weber, Millington, 8. Not to grant—Case, Marsh, 2. Absent—Erickson.

Fred Caspar, hotel, 24 and 26 East Front street. All voted for inn and tavern; all but Case and Marsh for bar.

Jacob Blimm, hotel, 17 and 19 Somerset. Same vote.

John J. Goff, hotel, West Third and Liberty. For inn and tavern, all but Marsh. For bar, all but Marsh and Case.

John Rafferty, saloon, 29 Park avenue. To grant.—all but Case and Marsh.

William J. Sullivan, saloon, 66 West Third street. To grant—all but Case and Marsh.

Charles Bock, saloon, 15 and 17 East Second street. Same vote.

Charles Smith, saloon, 2 and 4 West Front street. Same vote.

James Connealy, saloon, 34 Park avenue. Same vote.

Windham & Crowley, hotel, 11 East Front street. Same vote for both inn and tavern and bar.

E. P. Thorn, saloon, 17 Park avenue. Same vote.

REFUSED.

Wm. H. Lee, wholesale, 204 West Third street, Frazee alone voting for it.

Michael F. Watson, saloon, Grant avenue. All except Frazee against it, and he said "You might better license him and have him obey the law than not license him and have him violate it."

Alexander McGuiggian, saloon, 128 South Second street. Joseph B. Coward as owner of the building withdrew his signature to the petition. Unanimous vote for refusal.

James J. Day, saloon, 97 West Third street. To grant—Frazee and Weber, only.

REFERRED BACK TO APPLICANTS FOR CORRECTION.

Wallace V. Miller, hotel, 7, 9 and 11 North avenue. Messrs. Weber and Millington of the license committee had reported the application as conforming to the ordinances. Mr. Case objected to it because there were five signatures as owners of land comprised in one 45-foot lot on Madison avenue below Ninth street. Mr. Frazee alone voted against returning it for new signers.

John E. Beerbower, hotel, Park avenue and Second street. Same sort of report, but six signers found to be from only two lots of land, and one signer was reported as acknowledging he owned no property. Mr. Frazee voted against returning the application.

WITHDRAWN.

Wm. H. Cawley, wholesale, 53 Broadway.

Mr. See moved to have the vote reconsidered on refusing Watson's, Day's, Lee's and McGuiggian's applications, but Mr. Frazee was alone in voting to reconsider. The object of this move was to prevent their being brought up at any future meeting.

Grip and Grapple.

Concerning the lecturer who is to entertain and instruct Plainfielders at Music Hall to-morrow night, the following is of interest:

SHIPPENSBURG, Pa., April 22, 1892.

While serving as county superintendent I secured the Rev. Duncan MacGregor to lecture at one of my institutes. No lecture during my six years experience in conducting teachers' institutes left a more lasting favorable impression than did he with his "Grip and Grapple of Great Men and Great Nations". It was a masterpiece delivered in a masterly manner. His fine personal appearance, sparkling humor, magnetic power and brilliant oratory, captivated my people.

JAMES F. BARTON,
Vice Principal Cumberland Valley State Normal School.

—Two or three long-delinquent city officials were to-day served with notices that they must pay their taxes or their goods would be levied on.

—Two teams of the United Tea and Coffee Growers' association became stranded in the snow, yesterday morning. One was en route for Bound Brook, and the other for Springfield. The drivers report snow five and six feet deep in some places.

How Dr. Field's Gifted Brother Turns His Hours of Amusement to Good Account.

Jacob Field, of Park avenue, a brother of Dr. C. M. Field, of this city, is not only a genius in other respects, but an artist of the first rank. During his leisure moments he devotes his time to scroll-sawing, turning, and artistic penmanship. In each and every instance his work equals that of professionals; and in many cases of designing, workmanship, etc., it far excels most of them.

Mr. Field has lately completed a history of the Field family, dating back to the year 1525. It has been artistically arranged and drawn with pen and ink on paper some six feet long and three feet wide. From this drawing fac-similes have been made for members and immediate relatives of the family. From a personal of the sheet, one wonders how even the highest human ingenuity could make such a sketch with the naked eye.

Mr. Field is also adept at carving, net-making, etc., and among his productions are many which would undoubtedly attract great attention at the World's Fair. But the owner of them simply makes these articles for his own amusement, and is too modest to place them on exhibition.

PARTICULAR MENTION

John Mantz will return home to-night from a visit to Orange and Montclair.

Mrs. J. A. Blatz of Somerset street is confined to the house by severe illness.

Charles Smith is in Trenton to-day, shooting sweepstakes with well-known shooters.

Andrew Lutkins of Somerset street has recovered from his recent illness, and is able to walk out.

F. W. Lewis and family, of Carleton avenue, will soon take up their permanent residence in New York.

Mrs. Joseph Flack was buried from her late residence, East Fourth street, yesterday afternoon at 2:30.

Cornelius Taylor, of Taylor's Hotel, Dunellen, is out again after a ten days' stay in the house from sickness.

John L Taynor, whose dangerous illness was noted in these columns yesterday, has since died. Funeral services will be held at Warren chapel to-morrow afternoon at 2:30.

Funeral services over the remains of Edward Miller, son of the late Lewis W. Miller, of Scotch Plains, will be held in the Scotch Plains Baptist church to-morrow afternoon at 3.

Messrs. H. M. Stockton, Lewis, V. Borden, A. M. Wilcox, B. O. Bowers, Conkling and Jacobs are to give a dinner to Mr. Morrison at the Union County Country club-house to-night.

Charles Schantz, in the employ of Charles Smith, of West Front street, and Miss Lizzie Schneider, of Brooklyn, were united in marriage by the Rev. T. Logan Murphy, at the home of the bride yesterday.

The many friends of Mrs. J. R. Marsh of Scotch Plains, who fell last Friday last, fracturing her hip, will be pleased to hear that she is getting along nicely. She slipped on the ice while crossing a piazza. The long confinement attendant upon her recovery cannot be other than tedious to one so active and energetic.

Electa M. Breen, wife of Philip Breen formerly chief of police of this city, died suddenly last evening at her home 534 Adams avenue, Elizabeth. She was seemingly in perfect health all day, but at 5 in the afternoon was stricken with apoplexy and died at 9. She leaves a husband, two daughters and a son. The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 3 at the house.

How the Teams Stand.

The majority of the battles in the Elizabeth Journal bowling league have been won and lost, and the work done by the several teams can be used as a base for figuring on the results of the race, but not with any certainty, for the leaders have no lead but what might be easily overtaken. Two games lost by the Y. M. C. L. A. might change the result as it appears now. The Arthur Kulls are but one game behind the Field Club, and are but one victory ahead of the Alcyones. Four games mark the gap between the Alcyones and C. Y. M. L., while the Crescents and Pioneers are tied for sixth but one game behind. The Crescents while now sixth in percentage stand third in pin average, and the Roselles eighth in the race stand sixth in average pins. Here are the figures.

CHAPS

And How to Get Rid of Them.

Nothing more annoying than chapped hands. And the more you wash the worse they chap! Soap cleans, but soap chaps. Now by neutralizing the alkali of the soap by means of a harmless acid we may prevent chapping. That is the philosophy of REYNOLDS'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE, and by using it as directed, you can get rid of the chaps. Originated and made only at

THE COOK BROTHERS AND THEIR BANK.

Burglars Can't Get at the Funds Except by Four Days' Work, and If "Held Up" the Cashier Can Summon the Whole Town in a Twinkling.

The appreciative and honest Westfield Standard quotes from and credits to THE PRESS its observations on the new Westfield bank, of which A. D. Cook of this city is president, R. H. Cook cashier, and Charles H. Endicott brother of Dr. George W. Endicott vice president. In this connection the Standard gives other interesting details of the origin and opening of the bank, and publishes cuts of the Cook brothers and other directors. The Standard says that the vaults in the bank are constructed of Farelotyn. This is an alloy harder and tougher than steel. It is the only metal now in use that offers resistance to the blow pipes as well as the drill. It will take four days uninterrupted constant work to force an entrance through it with the best of burglars' tools, by experts. This adamantine metal is protected by layers upon layers of welded steel and iron, backed up by Bessemer steel. It will thus be seen that the outer metals must first be removed before the Farelotyn. The manufacturer, the firm of F. O. Herring of Plainfield, challenge the world in the sum of one thousand dollars, to produce a safe or door of equal thickness to those in use in the Westfield bank that will resist the blow pipe and drill one-half the length of time that this secret combination of metals afford. The doors of these safes or vaults are packed air-tight with patent asbestos rubber, giving the only protection against the introduction of explosives by means of the air pump, the most powerful tool now in use by burglars.

ALFRED D. COOK, PRESIDENT.

This packing can not be destroyed by heat or acids. The locks in use are fortified with a patent interceptive spindle which prevents the bolts from being forced from the doors. These locks can be arranged so that either dial will release the bolts but can be adjusted readily so that it will require the presence of two persons, or both dials operated to release the bolts. To show how thoroughly secure these doors are when locked it is only necessary to say that 38 revolving bolts, two inches in diameter, will secure them—six in front, six at the back, four at the top and four at the bottom checked by two Dexter combination bank locks, and a patent checking device; also by a Sargent seventy-two-hour triple movement time-lock. The inside face of each door is covered by a handsome liggered brass plate, producing by contrast with the finished-bolt work a most artistic effect. The total cost of the vaults in which the money of the bank will be secured is $5,500. The technical specifications upon which the vaults were constructed cover twelve closely type-written fools cap pages. In addition to the protection we have named is a door resting upon electric attachments in front of the safe, the faintest jar of which will ring alarm bells in not less than four neighboring localities. Should cashier Cook be "held up" in the day time he can while making overtures as if to pass out the money touch an electric button that will signal the four localities already mentioned.

The bank will take care of the three-quarters of a million dollars that heretofore has been annually carried to Plainfield, Elizabeth, Newark and New York for deposit. On Wednesday, the day the bank commenced business, thirty-eight accounts were opened, deposits amounting to $9,428.25 and eight safe deposit boxes were rented. That's a good start. The bank will be open Washington's Birthday from 10 to 2 o'clock for inspection, and the officers will be pleased to receive visitors.

THE BANK'S OFFICIALS—PLAINFIELD ENERGY AND ENTERPRISE.

President Alfred D. Cook is a native of this State, his birthplace being Lawrenceville, near Trenton, Mercer county.

Mr. Cook engaged in the lumber and coal business at Princeton, N. J., when he was but eighteen years old having been previously with his father in Bound Brook while yet a mere lad.

An opportunity to sell out presented itself just as the course of the railroad was about to be changed, and taking prompt advantage of this, he united with his father, William S. Cook, and his brother, Robert H. Cook, in the lumber and coal trade in Plainfield, under the firm name of William S. Cook & Sons.

The sons succeeded the father in the year 1870 and formed a copartnership under the firm name of A. D. Cook & Bro. They remained in business together for almost a quarter of a century, selling out in Plainfield December 28, 1892. Alfred D. Cook enjoys a reputation for upright dealing and business ability that any man would have a right to be proud of. He is a man of quiet tastes and domestic habits, avoiding public office, although frequently approached with a view to being placed in public life on account of the strong appeal he would make by his high character, for popular preferment. He is a member of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, of Plainfield. Mr. Cook is extensively known, not only by reason of his wealth, but especially for his business ability and sterling character. "The Cooks" are well spoken of in business circles, and that is an eloquent statement.

Cashier Robert H. Cook, like his brother Alfred, was born in Lawrenceville, this State, and was born to business. He early developed the "trading instinct" and, impatient of school restraint, went to work for his father, whose partner in after years he was to become, while he was yet but fourteen years of age. He remained in business with his father until the retirement of the latter, and with his brother, Alfred D., continued to extend and expand the business until it grew to be one of the largest lumber and coal houses in the State. Like his father before him Robert H. Cook enjoys the reputation of being a square business man, and has earned the esteem and confidence and respect of a wide and influential circle in business and social life. Like his brother, Alfred D. Cook, he is connected with the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, in Plainfield. The Cook brothers are regarded as a strong team, and their new and important relation to the business affairs of Westfield makes them and their career objects of deep interest. It runs in the Cook family to be good business men, a third brother, C. Scudder Cook, being president of the East Trenton Pottery company, one of the largest in the country. He is also treasurer and superintendent of the same company. Robert H. Cook as cashier of the First National bank of Westfield is personally an acquisition to Westfield's business outfit, distinguished looking, courtly and kind—an American gentleman.

Vice-president Charles G. Endicott has been an active business man for many years, his place of business being in Jersey City, where he has been engaged in ship chandlery since 1871. Mr. Endicott went to Westfield only eight years ago. But no name is better known now, nor stands higher than he in the people's estimation to-day. He served as town committeeman for the term 1889-92, and, from the start of the Building and Loan association, five years ago, he has been the president of that institution. He is regarded as being a man of executive ability and has a good deal of that uncommon article—common sense. He is a man looked up to for sound business judgment and good advice. An elder and trustee in the Presbyterian church, he has a host of friends, and by every measure he is one of Westfield's most substantial citizens.

—The cold wave interfered with the employes at the Potter Press Works, yesterday morning, and several of them went home on account of the shop being too cold.

PLAINFIELD'S SCHOOL BILL.

Probability of Its Passing.

TRENTON, Feb. 21.—Mayor Gilbert, Councilmanic President Ginna, Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh, ex-City Clerk O. B. Leonard, City Auditor A. S. Patterson, ex-School Trustee L. F. Wadsworth and DeWitt C. Ivins are among the Plainfielders present at the State House to-day, to urge the passage of the bill to abridge the dictatorial autocracy of the School Board. Lawyers Ulrich and Stillman are opposing the bill. Both sides will be given a hearing by the committee this afternoon.

There is every probability of the bill passing when amended so as not to affect Elizabeth, Camden, New Brunswick and Trenton. The plan of amendment favored by Mayor Gilbert and Mr. Marsh is to make the law effective only in cities where adopted at the polls by a vote of the people. Plainfield people would of course vote for the transferral of taxing power from School Board to Common Council, as the majority now desire.

The bill as thus amended is likely soon to become a law, and Plainfield can then hold an election and wrest the power from the School Board.

HIS COUSIN THE CAPTAIN.

A Plainfielder Visited by a Kinsman Who Saved 200 Souls.

Captain Clarke Lanphear, of Waterford, Conn., made Ethan Lamphear a call, Sunday. Captain Lanphear has followed the water since he was ten years old: first as a cabin boy, rising to mate and then to captain of an ocean steamer, making many ocean trips, passing around Cape Horn to the Pacific coast many years ago. He finally accepted the position of captain of the Stonington line of steamers, over thirty-five years ago, and ran on that line and the Norwich line as captain up to five years ago, when he resigned. He is now about 66 years of age, weighs about 250 pounds; never has been sick enough to have a doctor but once; never had any serious accident to passengers or crew under his captaincy. He was on the Sound line several years ago when a line steamer was burned on the Sound, when all passengers and crew were driven overboard. He was two or three miles away when he discovered the calamity, and headed his steamer for the scene as fast as steam could drive, and arrived in time by his coolness of orders to pick up over two hundred souls and save them from a watery grave. Feeling that he had acquired sufficient competency to carry himself and family through this life, five years ago he resigned his position, leaving a salary of $3,000 a year, and purchased a farm in the town of Waterford, a few miles out from New London, where he can enjoy his happy disposition and live comfortably the remainder of his life. Captain Lanphear is a cousin of Ethan Lanphear, their fathers having been brothers.

They All Enjoyed This Birthday.

Abner Bartlett, jr., gave a birthday dinner party Sunday at his residence, 141 West Front street. The event was most enjoyable. The dinner was elaborate and sumptuously served; the decorations and menu cards were artistic and beautiful: the vocal and instrumental music was delightfully rendered. A sleighing party in the afternoon was a feature of the day's festivities. Among the guests were Joseph Feytel and his charming daughters, Misses Angie and Della Feytel of Plainfield; Miss Helene Sumbatoff of New York, a niece of the host; Miss Jessie Ward of Newark, Miss Van Courtlandt of Boston, Miss Vanderbilt of Staten Island, Arthur Cox, Edward Miller, Harry Fischer, of New York, Senor Manuel De Tornos of the Spanish Consulate, New York, John Jansen of Montclair, and Chas. LeClair of Brooklyn. Mr. Bartlett also gave a theatre party last evening at Music Hall, to witness the great performance of Dockstader's minstrels.

AN ORDINANCE

To Provide a New system of street numbers.
The inhabitants of the city of Plainfield by their Common Council do enact as follows:
Section 1. That the several parcels of real estate fronting on the streets, lanes and alleys of the city of Plainfield shall be renumbered, and each of said parcels shall be known and designated by the number or numbers indicated on the official maps adopted by resolution of the Common Council February sixth, eighteen hundred and ninety three, on file with the city clerk, and entitled, as follows: "Map of the city of Plainfield, Wards No. 1, and No. 2, showing new system of numbering, 1893," and "Maps of the city of Plainfield, Wards No. 3, and No. 4, showing new system of numbering, 1893," made by F. A. Dunham, C. E., and said maps are hereby adopted as the official maps of the city of Plainfield for the purpose of establishing street numbers.
Section 2. That the owner or owners of each and every dwelling house or store which now fronts upon any of the public streets, lanes or alleys of said city, shall within sixty days after this Ordinance goes into effect, cause the proper number of such dwelling house or store to be placed in figures in some substantial manner in some conspicuous place on the front part of such dwelling house or store, so as to be plainly visible from the sidewalk, and in default of compliance herewith, shall be liable to a penalty of five dollars for each and every offense.
Sec. 3. That the owner or owners of every dwelling house or store that may hereafter be erected within the limits of said city, shall, within thirty days after the completion thereof, cause the proper number of such dwelling house or store to be placed in figures in some substantial manner in some conspicuous place on the front part of such dwelling house or store so as to be plainly visible from the sidewalk, and in default of compliance herewith, shall be liable to a penalty of five dollars for each and every offense.
Sec. 4. That to enable the owner or owners of any parcel of real estate fronting on any of the streets, lanes or alleys of said city to ascertain the correct number thereof, it shall be the duty of the city clerk, upon application made to him, to furnish his certificate in writing giving the necessary information, to be derived from said official maps and said official maps shall also at all proper times be open to the inspection of the public at the office of the city clerk.
Sec. 5. That in case the owner of any lot or lots shall at any time desire the renumbering thereof he shall be at liberty to apply to the Common Council by petition, which petition shall be accompanied by a properly prepared map showing the changes desired, and clearly showing how the numbers for the entire block would stand in case such renumbering is ordered. The applicant shall present with his said petition, proof by affidavit that a copy of said petition together with notice of his intention to apply to the Common Council has been served upon all of the owners of property fronting on the said block or published in all the official papers of said city at least ten days prior to date of presentation of such petition, and thereupon the Common Council may in its discretion by resolution order said block to be renumbered in the manner specified in such application or in such other manner as they may deem best. In case the Common Council order any change in the numbering of said block, a map duly authenticated shall be filed with the city clerk showing the changes as made, and upon said map being so filed, the numbers designated thereon shall, as to the block in question, supercede those on the original maps referred to in this ordinance.

ALMOST BEYOND BELIEF

Things Often Happen That We Can Scarcely Credit.

This Is One of Them and We Give It To Our Readers.

It May Seem Remarkable, But We Know That It Is All True.

A strange tale comes to us from Champlain, N. Y., where the principal in this absorbingly interesting account came very near not now being alive to tell the story.

It would seem that a well-known resident of the town, Barney Wilson by name, fell ill. Now illness is a common thing, but not so that of Mr. Wilson, as he says himself, now that the danger is all over.

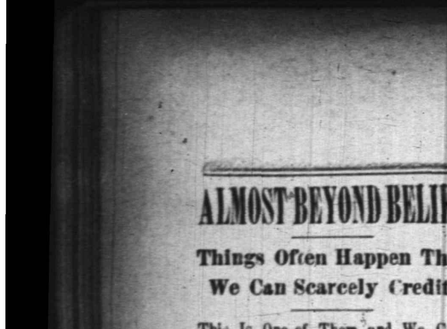
"I cannot describe how I felt or what I suffered.

"It seemed to be at first mostly in my head. I could not think easily; my head felt dull and strange, and I was tired and weak all over.

"I knew my nerves were weak and prostrated; that I had dyspepsia terribly. Why, I could scarcely eat anything from one day to another.

"I could not sleep nights, and work mornings feeling weak, tired and dragged out. It came near being my death stroke, I tell you, and we did not know what the end would be.

"Can you believe it, I lived and suffered like this for a whole year!



MR. BARNEY WILSON.

"And then, when I had become about hopeless, I saw the advertisement of a medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I procured some from the druggist at once, and before I had taken two bottles I was so much better that I was astonished!

"I continued its use and now I am feeling as well and sound as I ever was in my life. I can truly say that has it not been for Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy I should now be in my grave.

"I have recommended this wonderful remedy to all of my friends. I cannot speak too highly of this great medicine, and I earnestly recommend it to all who are suffering from disease."

Our readers would be foolish indeed if they do not follow Mr. Wilson's advice, if they are sick or out of order, for it is a sure thing that this remarkable remedy cures. Besides it is purely vegetable and harmless. The great physician and specialist in nervous and chronic diseases, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th street, New York, discovered it, and he and other physicians prescribe and recommend it. The doctor also can be consulted free of charge in regard to any case personally or by letter.

Modern Art.

Claribel—So you are engaged, I hear, Mabel? Who is the man?

Mabel—Oh! he's a charming fellow; an artist.

Claribel—What, one of those poor men who draw?

Mabel—He draws, but he isn't so awfully poor.

Claribel—He must be, Mabel. They all are. What kind of drawing does he do?

Mabel—The very nicest kind, Claribel. He draws checks and the bank pays him cash for them right on the spot.

Claribel—Er—er—um. Let me compliment you, Mabel, on your artistic taste.—Boston Globe.

A Discriminating Judgment.

Mr. and Mrs. Foxxy have been calling on the Swizzles.

"What a delightful married life they have, don't they, dear?" said Mr. Foxxy. "They're so affectionate."

"That's just like a stupid man," said Mrs. Foxxy. "Why, didn't you hear him say that he'd lived happily with his wife for thirty years? That makes her fifty, at least. I tell you he's simply brutal!"—Chicago News Record.

What He Did.

Miss Gush—So your regiment was at the first battle of Bull Run, colonel?

Col. Feerse—It was, miss.

Miss Gush—How thrilling! You must tell me all about it. What did you do, colonel, when you saw with dismay that the day was lost?

Col. Feerse—What did I do, miss? Why, I—er—er—why, I did what the bull did.—Judge.

More Likely to Find It.

Weekwit—That ridiculous advice is printed in the newspapers! Look at this: "Don't go into the water after a hearty meal."

"What is there ridiculous about that?"

Weekwit—Well, you may go in the water after a hearty meal, but I go in after a bath.—Puck.

Different Treatment.

Patient—As we have known each other so long, doctor, I do not intend to insult you by paying your bill. But I have left you a handsome legacy in my will.

Physician—Very kind of you, I am sure. Allow me to look at that prescription again; there is a slight alteration I should like to make in it.—N. Y. Herald.

Geographical.

Teacher—Do you know what a state is?

Little Girl—Yes'm. Our house is in one.

Teacher—Yes?

Little Girl—That's 'cause mamma is away on a visit, an' the new girl doesn't know where to put things.—Good News.

Keeping His Memory Green.

Miss Envyegh—Can it be that the Widow Wonscommer has put aside her weeds so soon?

CHEMICAL LABORATORY.

Mr. Sidney A. Kent's Gift to the University of Chicago.

The Kent chemical laboratory of the University of Chicago is the gift of Sidney A. Kent. Mr. Kent was the first citizen of Chicago to come forward and proffer a great contribution to the building fund. After thoroughly considering the needs of the university he decided to erect the chemical laboratory, and subscribed $150,000 for that purpose, this sum being thought sufficient to erect the most perfectly equipped laboratory in the country. Mr. Kent preferred to employ the architect and let the contracts himself, and the university was more than willing he should do so. It was found that the plans as finally approved required a larger expenditure, and in the raising of the $1,000,000 building fund last summer Mr. Kent's subscription was estimated at $182,000. It is not unlikely, however, that even this great sum will fall short of the entire cost, which may be nearer $300,000, for the building and its equipment.

Mr. Kent has desired not only to make the building as perfect as possible, but also to supply for it a complete working equipment in chemical apparatus and books. It will be a splendid monument of intelligent liberality, and will give the university the largest, finest and most perfectly equipped chemical laboratory possessed by any university in this country or in any other. The building is constructed of blue Bedford stone, and has three stories and a high basement, all the four floors being intended for use. There are six large laboratories for class and lecture-room work, and a large number of smaller laboratories for private use in original investigation and experiment. In the rear of the main building is an annex, furnishing a very large lecture-room, which will accommodate several hundred students. This annex, which does not appear in the only picture yet made of the building, forms one of the most attractive architectural features, and is much admired by all who visit the university campus. The roof of this annex is now being put on, and the walls of the main building are almost up to the roof line.

When the laboratory is finished and the apparatus and equipments are in place, the university can offer unequaled advantages for the study of chemistry. Director J. U. Nef will have an able corps of assistants and will offer opportunities for advanced students that will attract not only college men, but graduates from every part of the country. And while the university congratulates itself on this magnificent addition to its splendid scientific equipment, it is not likely to forget the debt of gratitude it owes to the generous and modest business man who has built this noble offering to the cause of science. As long as the university exists Sidney A. Kent will be honored as the builder of its first hall of science.

A Remarkable Funeral Procession.

When Tsching Tschu, the grand chamberlain and brother-in-law of Prince Kung, of China, died, he was followed and preceded by a remarkable procession. The bier was carried by 80 men, each pair of whom had poles of different lengths under it. These 80 men were preceded by 46 flag bearers, eight camels and 24 milk-white horses. Behind the pallbearers came 160 men, each bearing their portion of 16 long planks. These planks or boards were painted red, and over this in yellow letters were the names and titles of the deceased nobleman.

BLACKWELL'S BULL DURHAM SMOKING TOBACCO.

SO SAY WE ALL OF US.

I'm an old smoker, and have at one time or another tried all the different Smoking Tobaccos, but for a good smoke Bull Durham beats 'em all.

A leading characteristic of Bull Durham has always been the hold which it takes on old and fastidious smokers. What its excellence first secured, its uniformity has always retained, and it is, therefore, to-day as twenty-five years ago, the most popular Smoking Tobacco in the world.

OPPOSITION INCREASING

The Annexation of Hawaii is Being Delayed.

KAIULANI ON HER WAY HERE

She Left England Yesterday on the Teutonic—Will Appeal to the New President—Neumann is Favor of an American Protectorate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Every day opposition to the Hawaiian annexation treaty appears to grow stronger. Senator Allison, of Iowa, now expresses antagonism to ratification.

As chairman of the Appropriation committee, Senator Allison can do more to defeat the treaty than any other Senator on the floor, since he can at any time bring up an appropriation bill, which has the right of way.

By judiciously consuming time with these bills the friends of the treaty can be prevented from any opportunity of considering it before March 4, and it is charged by some of the more impatient friends of annexation that the remarkable delay in passing the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill in the Senate was mainly caused by the opposition to the treaty.

Only nine days of the session are left and the only hope of getting the treaty through is by rushing the appropriation bills. If, however, the treaty should not be ratified before March 4, it will come up as the extra session of the Senate, which will be summoned to confirm the new Cabinet and such other nominations as Mr. Cleveland may make.

It is difficult to foretell its fate under the new administration. Mr. Cleveland has been quoted as favoring annexation, but now he has become more wary and is expressing no opinion on the subject.

The commissioners themselves now believe the treaty will not be ratified before March 4, and that Mr. Cleveland may not encourage its ratification when he comes into power.

The White Star liner Teutonic, which sailed from Liverpool yesterday bound for New York, has on board the ex-Princess Kaiulani, accompanied by her English guardian, with whom she has been living at Southport.

The Princess is following out her plan as outlined in her lately published appeal to the American people.

Shortly before she set sail a newspaper correspondent had a long talk with her concerning Hawaiian affairs and her contemplated visit to America.

She treated him with great respect, although she showed some uneasiness during the interview.

She said that she had nothing to add to the appeal which she had addressed to the American people, and she expressed her thanks that her appeal had been forwarded to the American newspapers. She had, she said, no definite plans, but would be guided by her guardian, Mr. Davies.

She proposed to spend two days in New York and then visit Boston, where she would remain until after the inauguration of President Cleveland.

Then she would go to Washington, and would probably make a personal appeal to Mr. Cleveland.

The Princess added that she had no friends in America, except the friends of Mr. Davies. She timidly expressed a hope that she might gain the sympathy of the American people.

"I cannot see," she continued in a modest, hesitating tone, "why I should be summarily deprived of recognized legal rights for no fault of mine, and without being even notified to appear in defence of my rights. I ask only that right of appearance which American law gives to everybody before they are deprived of a right. I know absolutely nothing about this affair except what has been in the newspapers. No notification has been received by me regarding it."

In answer to other questions, the Princess said that she was entirely opposed to the policy of the Queen, especially in regard to the bills which the Queen is reported to have signed, and which gave rise to offense. The Princess said that she did not want Hawaii to be under a protectorate of any sort. She wished Hawaii to be independent. She believes that America and Hawaii should be warm friends. She had never seen an English official, and did not believe that England would interfere in Hawaiian affairs.

The Princess said that she favored the proposition made by Mr. Davies to the Provisional Government of Hawaii that a regency should be appointed for three years with G. H. Dole, the head of the Provisional Government as President, the Princess to be crowned Queen of Hawaii at the termination of the regency.

It was apparent to the correspondent that the Princess fears her case to be hopeless, and that the American Government is determined upon annexation. It was also evident that the Princess is guided by the advice of her guardian.

The Princess Kaiulani is tall and slender, and with a more thoughtful, deliberate air than might be expected in a school girl. She is a brunette, with the eyes of a gazelle, and features that suggest just a suspicion of Kanaka origin.

She was somewhat nervous during the interview.

Neumann Wants a Protectorate.

Secretary of State Foster has sent to the chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, for the information of the Senate, the statement which Paul Neumann left at the department yesterday, and accompanied it with a report of the interview held with the Secretary. From the latter it appears that the object of Mr. Neumann's visit to Washington is to secure the restoration of Queen Liliuokalani to the throne under an American protectorate.

THREE FATAL RAILROAD ACCIDENTS

Passenger Trains On the Penn Road Collide in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—The following is a revised list of the dead and injured in the terrible accident on the Pennsylvania railroad here yesterday:

KILLED.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Mizner, of Media.
Miss Maria, Read, Media.
Rev. James Walker, Leuni.

INJURED.

George W. Haines, Media; Miss Genevieve Zahn, Swarthmore; Rev. Jacob Wizeman, Clifton Heights; Miss Rachael W. Hilliborn, Swarthmore; Mrs. James Walker, wife of the Mr. Walker killed; Miss Kate Kercher, Morton; Mrs. W. H. Lindermuth, Morton; J. H. Huntry, Swarthmore; Miss Lillie M. Lewis, George Turner, Francis McAleef, Clifton Heights; Harry Servan, a schoolboy, residence unknown; H. W. Purchase Laudsdowne; Mary G. Armour, Morton; A. R. Armour, Morton.

None of this number are seriously injured.

A half dozen others, whose names cannot be learned, had their injuries dressed at the hospital and then departed.

The accommodation train was crossing a switch to pull into South street station. All the cars but the last one had crossed when the Southern express came rushing down the track and struck the local passenger car that was upon the switch full in the middle.

The express was made up entirely of heavy Pullmans, and the light passenger car was hurled 30 feet from the track, broken and smashed by the terrible force of the blow.

The express train escaped injury, and the engineer immediately stopped the train.

The crash of the colliding trains and the shrieks and screams of the unfortunate people pinned down beneath the broken timbers of the wrecked car speedily attracted an excited crowd to the scene.

A rumor gained wide circulation that the special train bearing President Harrison from Washington to New York was one of the trains in collision. This, however, was untrue.

The 21st district police station is but a few squares from the place where the accident occurred, and a squad of officers were soon on the scene, and the work of extricating the injured passengers was soon accomplished.

READING, Pa., Feb. 23.—A wreck occurred on the Pennsylvania, Schuylkill Valley road, between Phœnixville and Spring City, during the night. Shifting engine 1,202 going East with an empty train of forty coal cars, collided with an extra freight running West about one and a half miles west of Spring City.

The shifting engine was totally demolished and both engines lay on their sides with fourteen coal cars completely broken up.

Watson Weller, John Dennis and Walter Brunner, employed by the company at Spring City, were riding on the shifting engine on their way home to Norristown. Weller and Dennis were killed.

Fireman McCord and Flagman Davis, of the shifting engine crew, who reside at Phœnixville, were seriously injured about the legs.

DOWN AN EMBANKMENT.

A Fatal Wreck on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Feb. 23.—Passenger train No. 20, bound East on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago railroad, was wrecked two miles east of Columbia City last night.

The accident was caused by a broken rail.

The smoking car and first coach left the track, turned over and went down an embankment 15 feet high.

John W Parramore was killed and C. B. Johnson and John Kelso were fatally injured.

Twenty others were more or less badly hurt.

Wanted to Flog the Pastor.

FORT SCOTT, Kan., Feb. 23. — Last night a mob went to the residence of Rev. C. C. Goins, a colored preacher and ex-member of the Board of Education, with the intention of flogging him. They were met at the door of the parsonage by a number of Goin's friends armed with Winchesters. They threatened to shoot and the mob retired. In the excitement Goins escaped, but afterward surrendered to the authorities and asked protection from the mob. He is accused of insulting a colored school teacher.

To Ward Off Strikes.

BUFFALO, Feb. 23.—The railroad managers here are taking steps, it is said, to prevent an anticipated strike in the spring, which would interfere with the World's Fair traffic. It has been given out that complaints will be considered and wrongs righted, but any attempt to create discontent will be followed by discharge. The Central has already laid off ten switchmen who, it is said, were creating strife among the men.

Nebraska's State Railroad Scheme.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 23.—The Legislature has passed a joint resolution declaring that the States in the great interior basin should unite in building a railroad from Galveston to the Dakotas. The resolution recites the benefits of such a railroad, which it is estimated will cost $27,000,000, and it proposes to secure funds by levying a tax of five cents per acre on the lands of the States.

Yale Law Students to Have a Ball Team.

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 23.—The Law School of Yale has at last made a movement to organize a baseball team. A call has been issued for a meeting to take place this evening to form a baseball team, elect officers and transact other suitable busines. The call for the meeting is issued to law students only, but any member of the graduate or under-graduate department may join.

TRIED TO LYNCH THEM

Pennsylvania Mobs Beaten Back by Officers.

BANK ROBBERS SAFELY JAILED

In the Attempt to Rob the Leechburg Bank They Killed a Man, and Fellow Workmen Could Hardly be Restrained from Avenging His Death—Desperate Hand-to-Hand Fights—Guarding the Jail

PITTSBURG, Feb. 23.—Two separate attempts were made yesterday to lynch the two men arrested in connection with the murder at the Leechburg Bank.

That the men were not strung up by the infuriated citizens of the town is due to the courage displayed by a half dozen men before a mob of at least a thousand citizens. In both attempts there were fights in which the would-be lynchers and guards were badly used up. The prisoners were gotten out of the town safely, however, and are now in the jail at Kittanning, safe from the hands of the men who demanded their blood.

At the coroner's inquest on the body of William Shaffer, the murdered man, the prisoners were ordered to be taken to jail at Kittanning.

They were placed in charge of Constable Collar, and Citizens Cline, Wagner and Doyle. At the station a mob of fully 1,000 men and boys surrounded the prisoners and their guards.

When the train arrived the trouble began. The officers tried to force their way through the crowd.

They met with determined resistance. The prisoners were beaten, the officers hauled this way and that.

One man flourished a rope. The mob went wild at the sight of it. Then began a fight with fists and clubs.

The guards and the prisoners finally reached the car, where the fight was renewed. The mob was finally beaten off.

Word was telegraphed to Kittanning by the mob, and another crowd of would-be lynchers met the train upon its arrival and attempted to take the prisoners from the officers.

The officers fought their way through the crowd to a sleigh which was waiting for them.

Upon arriving at the jail there was another fight, in which one shot was fired to keep the crowd back. The guards had to fight their way up the stone steps and finally got inside the gates.

Every one in the party was bleeding from cuts and wounds. The prisoners were so badly injured that they had to be half carried, being unable to walk.

A strong guard of armed men has been placed around the jail, as it is is feared an attack will be made.

The men composing the mob are mostly iron workers from the mill of Kirkpatrick & Co. at Leechburg. Shaffer was a roller in the mill and one of the most popular men in the town.

Both prisoners admitted that they tried to rob the bank, but the shooting of Shaffer, they say, was caused by the accidental discharge of a revolver.

MAY DESERT MITCHELL.

"Squire" Abingdon Heartily Sick of His Treatment in America.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—There is a possibility of a separation between Charley Mitchell and "Squire" Abingdon, his backer. The police interference and the various annoyances to which the Mitchell party had been subjected since their arrival in this country are said to have made the "Squire" heartily sick of the whole business of match making. So when the temporary stakeholder prepared to hand the $20,000 posted with him back to the rival parties, "Squire" Abingdon made up his mind to get his $10,000 and cut himself off from further connection with Mitchell and his proposed fight with Corbett. Accordingly, he went to the Dramatic News office ready to grab his money at the first opportunity.

Somebody, however, told Mitchell about the "Squire's" scheme, and the wily Englishman induced two of his companions to keep Abington out of the room until he had secured the money himself. In the "Squire's" absence the temporary stakeholder handed $20,000 to Brady and "Barney" Abrahams put his hand out for the "Squire's" money. Mitchell then very adroitly waved Abrahams aside and taking the bills thrust them quickly in to his pocket.

When the "Squire" was allowed to enter the room he promptly asked Mitchell for the money but the latter told him that he must take a "chawnce," inasmuch as he had posted the money in good faith. Deprived of this little nest egg there was nothing left for the "Squire" to do but to go to his bankers and draw $40,000 with which to enjoy the beauties of America. But at the same time Mitchell's action did not leave a very good impression. Indeed the "Squire" may force Mitchell to hand over the money before long.

Denial From the "Squire."

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Feb. 23. — Sport "Squire" Abington denies the story that there is trouble between him and Charlie Mitchell.

Took Twenty Years to Reach a Decision.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 23.—The State Supreme Court at Jefferson City has decided an interesting point in a case which has been pending in the courts for over twenty years. A colored woman brought suit for $5,000 damages against a railway company, alleging that she was ejected from the ladies coach of a train and forced to ride in another. The railway company was victorious in the lower courts and also the Supreme Court which held that railway companies had the right to make such regulations in regard to the color line.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS.

Washington's Birthday Celebrated in the Senate—Wrangling in the House.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Yesterday's session of the Senate was prefaced by the reading of George Washington's Farewell Address, an appropriate commemoration of the birthday of the Father of His Country, introduced five years ago by Mr. Hoar.

Mr. Manderson, who read it, is a good elocutionist, and his reading had a close and respectful attention on the part of the Senators and the visitors in the galleries.

There was but little time wasted in finishing up the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill, after which the conference report on the Army Appropriation bill was agreed to, and the Consular and Diplomatic Appropriation bill was brought before the Senate.

Before any progress was made on this bill the Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business, after which an adjourn was taken at 5:40 p. m.

The first of what it is said will be a daily series of conflicts between the appropriation bills and the anti-Options bill until the latter is acted on, was the feature of the day's session of the House. The members were worn out from the night session and the day passed tamely.

Mr. Hatch had grown tired of the delay to which the anti-option bill is being subjected and when it was moved to take up the Postoffice Appropriation bill he antagonized the motion with the measure of which he is champion. Being defeated, he made the same fight also unsuccessfully when the Postoffice bill was passed and the Indian Appropriation bill was called up. Members were thus put on record and then the Indian question was discussed languidly for three hours.

After Mr. Hooker, who had unsuccessfully endeavored to get unanimous consent to pass a bill for the relief of a Mississippian, announced his solemn purpose to be a thorn in the side of every other member who wanted any legislation until this bill was passed, the House at 5:15 p. m. adjourned.

THREATEN TO STRIKE.

Electric Linemen at the Fair Grounds Want More Pay.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—A strike among the electric linemen at the World's Fair is imminent; 225 electric linemen have served notice that if their demands are not acceded to they will strike immediately.

The men had been working in Chicago at $2.25 for ten hours' work, but have been paid at the grounds $2.50 for eight hours' work, time and half for overtime, and double overtime for work done on Sundays.

They now demand 37 1-2 cents an hour for each eight hours' work, with same overtime and double time.

Chief of Construction Burnham addressed the men and told them that they must be satisfied with the $2.50 per eight hours or quit and make way for others.

Country Blocked Up at Canajoharie.

CANAJOHARIE, N. Y., Feb. 23.—Sixteen inches of snow fell here in 24 hours accompanied by a fierce wind. The country roads are completely blocked and it will probably be several days before they can be opened. There were no west-bound trains on the West Shore railroad for ten hours yesterday. Two passenger trains were reported stalled near Coeymans. An east-bound passenger train was abandoned at Cherry Valley. Worst storm in five years.

Reading Receivers for New York.

UTICA, N. Y., Feb. 23.—In the case of Thomas White vs. the Philadelphia & Reading railroad company, Judge Coxe, in the U. S. District Court, has appointed Archibald McLeod, Edward M. Paxon and Elisha C. Wilbur as receivers of the Philadelphia & Reading railroad company and the Philadelphia Coal and Iron company for the Northern District of the State of New York.

Tennessee Girl Fasting 40 Days.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 23.—Miss Rachel Callahan, living four miles from Sweetwater, has been fasting for the greater part of 40 days, which expire next Saturday. She is now prostrated in bed, but refuses to eat until the 40 days expire. Her brother whipped her severely to make her eat, but without effect. The fast is caused by religious fanaticism.

Danish Lutherans and Biblical Inspiration

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—A special meeting of the Danish Evangelical Lutheran Church Association of North America began here yesterday. About 40 clergymen and 68 delegates are present. The object is to discuss the controversy between T. H. Helvig and C. Vig, whose opposing views regarding Biblical inspiration threatens a split in the synod.

Where Our Gold Goes to.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—The Vienna correspondent of the Standard remarks the ease with which Austria has obtained gold from America for her currency reform, and adds that the expectations of Austrian financiers is that unless the silver purchase act be repealed soon, many millions more of American gold will find its way to Vienna.

7,000,000 Francs Presented to the Pope.

ROME, Feb. 23.—The jubilee presents of money already received by the Pope amount to 7,000,000 francs. Several officials at the Vatican have been arrested for having sold tickets of admission to St. Peter's on the occasion of the celebration of mass by the Pope. The tickets were sold in direct defiance of orders that admission should be free.

Cut His Throat and is Dead.

NEWARK, Feb. 23.—Henry Young, the unmarried son of one of the wealthy residents of this city, died last night from a self-inflicted wound. He cut his throat several days ago for some reason which the family will not divulge, and despite the doctor's efforts he died.

Snow 15 Feet Deep in the Streets.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Feb. 23.—The streets of Glens Falls and of all the villages in northern New York are buried three feet deep in snow. The piles of snow that are in many of the streets are 15 feet high. This is the heaviest storm in years.

More Smallpox and Typhus.

LONG ISLAND CITY, Feb. 23.—Three new case of smallpox are reported. One typhus fever patient in the county jail died last night, and another is very low. There are no new cases, but the list of suspects is growing.

CHICAGO SWITCHMEN STRIKE.

Freight on Seven Roads Tied Up in the Yards.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—All the switch tenders employed in the yards of the Chicago & Western Indiana Belt company went on strike last night for better pay.

All trains going in and out of the Polk street depot are unable to move, and yard traffic on the Louisville, New Albany & Chicago, Wabash, Chicago & Eastern Illinois, Chicago & Erie, Grand Trunk, and Santa Fe railroads is at a standstill.

City policemen are now on guard duty at the Polk street depot and in adjoining yards.

Between 150 and 200 men are out because they were refused, as they say, increase in wages from $45 and $55 to $55 and $65.

Police Inspector Koch says he anticipates no trouble unless the other train employes try to throw the switches.

The railroad officials say the strikers' places will be filled in a few days.

MUST SUPPORT THE ARMY BILL.

Emperor William Wants His Farmers to Help Keep Peace.

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—The Emperor has received a deputation from the Central Agricultural Association of the Eastern Provinces.

After the deputation were introduced and had briefly stated their wishes, the Emperor said that he earnestly desired to relieve the agricultural landowners of the cares and difficulties which surrounded their occupation, but he felt that many measures popularly approved for the attainment of this end only obscured the goal and retarded progress toward it.

In the first place, preservation of peace was a necessary condition of all agricultural progress, and the agrarian party might assist materially in maintaining the peace by voting for the Military bill now before the Reichstag.

Only the School Celebrated.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Feb. 23.—The celebration of Washington's birthday in this, Washington's own town, was entirely confined to the public schools. It is now 108 years since Washington announced in Alexandria his intention to pay the tuition of a number of poor pupils in a free school in this city, an offer which he continued during his life by an annual payment and for which he made provisions in his will. It was in memory of this foundation that the school exercises took place yesterday.

Montana Senatorial Deadlock.

HELENA, Mont., Feb. 23.—The joint ballot resulted: Clark, 21; Mantle, 27; Dixon, 11; Couch, 1; Hunt, 1. No choice.

—Probably one of the best entertainments that will visit us this season, will be Joseph Arthur's comedy drama, "The Still Alarm". It is said of this play that it contains the elements that constitute a popular entertainment. In it are a few tears, more smiles, and laughs innumerable. The interest of the audience is enlisted at once in the interesting story, and never ceases until the troubles and mysteries that surround the hero and heroine are cleared up in the last act. The sensational episodes of the day are very realistic and exciting, but they are part of the natural development of the story of "The Still Alarm".

The standard cure for cold and cough, Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, should be kept by every mother who loves her darlings.

The children's health must not be neglected. Cold in the head causes catarrh. Ely's Cream Balm cures at once. It is perfectly safe and is easily applied into the nostrils. The worst cases yield to it. Price 50c.

WHY THIS DISCRIMINATION AGAINST HOTELS!

Mr. Miller's and Mr. Beerbower's Applications Conform to the City Ordinance, but Are Sent Back, While the Saloon Petitions Are All Granted.

At the Council meeting Monday evening, the committee on licenses reported as correct and as conforming to the city ordinance, the applications of certain saloon and hotel keepers for the privilege of paying the city $700 for permission to sell liquor when so many others sell it without paying a cent.

The licenses were granted the saloon keepers, but the proprietors of the City Hotel and the Grenada were refused. Why?

Well, counciliman Case said that some of the signers were only property owners for the occasion. They were bunched together on one lot as real estate holders. But that was also the case with some of the saloon keepers' signers! Why make good meat of their applications and foul fish of the hotel proprietors!

And then the applications of Mr. Beerbower and Mr. Miller were sent back for "correction." But how? Will counciliman Case explain? The committee on licenses says the applications are correct in legal detail and conform to the city ordinance in relation thereto. How then can they be "corrected"? Maybe Mr. Case knows just how many inches of ground a man must be possessed of at the time, to make him a legitimate signer. If he does he should let the hotel applicants know at once so they may prepare their papers accordingly.

Appreciate Their Worthy Marshal.

The North Plainfield Borough Council met Tuesday night and closed up a well-managed year's work by auditing the accounts and receiving the reports of the officers and committees. All the labors and enterprises of the borough were reviewed as chronicled in these columns from time to time of their occurrence. Felicitous speeches were made by Mayor Saunders and the councilmen, who congratulated and thanked one another for the mutual co-operation that has existed. Especial praise was given in a speech of Mr. Neal on the record of marshal Pangborn, that highly efficient officer, whose commendable career is an honor to himself and to the borough. Not only has Mr. Pangborn been most zealous in maintaining peace and good order, but he has been of material aid to all of the councilmanic committees in their various departments.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Gorham, 48 Warren avenue, Chicago, Ill.

H. Vanderbilt family now in New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Shepard's immediate family. The table was decorated with bride roses, many hundreds of these blossoms being used and placed in silver vases. For each woman there was as a souvenir of the occasion a silver vase inscribed with the date of the anniversary, and each with mongram of the person receiving it. There were clusters of bride roses in each vase.

Dont be deceived by dealers who "cut" prices. "Cutting" prices leads to "cutting" goods. For this reason and to protect the public, the genuine medicines of Dr. R. V. Pierce, are now sold only through regularly authorized agents, who can sell only at the following long-established prices:

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, $1.00 per bottle. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, $1.00 per bottle. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, 25 cents per vial.

The genuine medicines, which can be had only at these prices, are the cheapest remedies you can use, for they're guaranteed. It's "value received or no pay." In every case where Dr. Pierce's medicines fail to benefit or cure, the makers will return the money.

Refuse everything offered as Dr. Pierce's medicines at less than the above prices. They are generally spurious.

Don't get something that the dealer says is "just as good." It may be better for him, but it's pretty certain to be worse for you.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-18-7

CHAPS

And How to Get Rid of Them.

Nothing more annoying than chapped hands. And the more you wash the worse they chap! Soap cleans, but soap chaps. Now by neutralizing the alkali of the soap by means of a harmless acid we may prevent chapping. That is the philosophy of REYNOLDS'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE, and by using it as directed, you can get rid of the chaps. Originated and made only at

TIME ON THE CENTRAL.

...ey's Best Railroad Has a Battle with the Blizzard.

...day for the celebration of the ... of the Father of... our Country!—rain, hail, a wind that amounted ...to a blizzard, and intense cold. ...om midnight until afternoon a heavy snow storm prevailed through this part of the State, accompanied by high winds which drifted highways full and made traveling by foot and horse well-nigh impossible. The Central Railroad of New Jersey ran its big improved snow ploughs all day, but with little effect. The two main tracks between Jersey City and Easton were kept comparatively free of snow, owing to the frequent running of trains; but the side tracks were totally blockaded with drifts in some places from ten to twenty feet deep. The through trains from Scranton have been two and three hours late, and trains were made up at Somerville and sent in to New York to accommodate local travel. Coal and freight trains were abandoned, and the snow ploughs were run all night for fear that the whole road would be tied up in the morning.

On the South Branch railroad, extending to Flemington, a distance of sixteen miles, the greatest difficulty has been experienced, and one of the largest ploughs pushed by the big four-wheel engine 189 was kept going back and forth all day long. Four trips in all were made in the afternoon, each time just ahead of the branch train.

There is a deep cut just east of Flagtown, and here it seemed impossible to get through. The big plough would plunge into the mammoth drifts at full speed, only to be brought almost to a standstill by the heavily packed snow. With a mighty snort that caused the snow to fly for a distance of fifty feet, the engine finally forced its way through, followed closely by the regular train. But for this plough not a wheel would have turned over the road to-day. Ten minutes after the passage of the trains the cuts were nearly as bad as before breaking. No attempt was made to break the side tracks, and as this is a single track road trains that are accustomed to pass each other were compelled to wait at each end until the road was cleared. The engines as they came off the South Branch were a sight to behold, being covered with ice and snow from pilot to tender. The side-tracks at Annandale and between Bound Brook and Dunellen used for coal and freight trains were blocked during the day and were abandoned late in the afternoon. On the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad a deep cut one mile west of Bound Brook was drifted full, and all trains going toward Washington were held at Bound Brook for hours. All trains from the South were from three to four hours late. Last evening one of the P. & R. track was cleared by snow ploughs and huge locomotives, and the stalled trains proceeded. It was almost impossible to get the track laborers employed on these roads to continue work during the day, owing to the intense cold which prevailed, and new gangs relieved them at intervals. The early evening trains from New York on the New Jersey Central carried no passengers at all, owing to the fact that the ferry boats on the North river stopped running for over two hours, because of the ice and high wind. A party of pleasure seekers out for the day returned last evening nearly frozen to death. They had to be helped from their sleigh.

Charles Crater, who carries the United States mails, and sometimes passengers, between Somerville and Peapack, left the latter place early Monday morning for Somerville. He arrived late last night. He said that when near Bedminister Monday noon the stage became fast in the huge drifts, and he was compelled to walk nearly two miles in the cold for help. The distance to Peapack to Somerville is 12 miles. To add to the other misfortunes attending this storm, a farm-house one mile from Somerville, owned by Mr. McCoy, of Brooklyn, caught fire last evening, and was burned to the ground. The glare could be seen for miles over the snow. The deep snow prevented the local fire department from giving any aid.

DEAR SIR:—The following was seen in some Minnesota paper, and supposed to have been copied from a Plainfield, N. J., paper:

CAN'T ADOPT THE FARIBAULT PLAN.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Feb. 14, 1893.—A member of the Plainfield board of education said today that the proposed adoption of the Faribault plan of education at this place would not take place during the incumbency of the present board.

He said that one feature of the plan would utterly prevent its adoption and that is the argument that all teachers in the Parochial school must be Catholics.

Those favoring and engineering the Faribault plan have taken especial pains to publish to the world that no opposition existed in this city or county to the present arrangements with the parochial school. But you will probably hear less of the Faribault plan in due time. The present system was carried through by the old school board, assisted by the county and city school superintendent. But since that much talked of departure Rice county and the city of Faribault have held elections, and the verdict by hundreds of votes against the present plan has been recorded.

And when the newly-elected officers came to make arrangements for the coming year's school, it is believed by the citizens of Rice county who are truly loyal to our free school system, that the verdict of the people will be respected, and that our grand free schools—free for all alike, Catholic or Protestant—shall not be run in the interests of any church.

MANY CITIZENS.

—The stage between Plainfield and Scotch Plains has not been running since the last heavy snow, as the road is in such a condition that it is impossible to get through with the stage.

A GIANT SNOW PLOUGH.

It Was Built Just After the Big Blizzard Experience, and Was Used This Week for the First Time.

Old Boreas played havoc with the Jersey Central railroad trains that attempted to run over the South Branch from Somerville to Flemington during this stormy week. He picked the snow up in armfuls and packed it into the narrow cuts as if he never intended it should be broken up. He drove it in stinging particles into the faces of the poor laboring men who were battling against him, until they nearly fell from sheer exhaustion, and in doing this he whistled and shrieked in his most gleeful mood. As already told exclusively in THE PRESS, the early morning trains on the South Branch experienced great difficulty in getting through, but it was not a circumstance to the trials that came later Tuesday when Ed. Kline, conductor of the South Branch train, left Somerville at noon, someone jokingly said to him that he probably would not get home at night, and he came very near not doing so. He is due to return to Somerville at 2:10, but at that time he was yet unheard of. At 3:30 a despatch was received from him saying that his train was stalled at Flagtown and he wanted assistance. There upon word was sent to Jersey City, and one of the big snow ploughs was sent out, propelled by engine 189, one of the most powerful on the Jersey Central. At 5 it left Somerville in company with another and smaller engine carrying 60 men. When the big plow struck the first drifts north of Flagtown there was a fearful upheaval of the snowy mantle, which filled the cuts to overflowing. It was a grand fight between the science of man and old Boreas himself, in which the latter came out second best. This was the first time the big plough had been used, it having been built just after the blizzard of 1888, and it did its work nobly. I was slow but sure; steadily, without a slip, it forced its way through the mammoth drifts, piling the snow on the cab, tossing it high in the air, and to both sides. The first engine was reached and hauled out. Pushing on, the Branch train was extricated, and with its thirty hungry passengers was sent to Somerville rejoicing. At 7, Flemington was reached, and the return was quickly made. The Plainfield express which leaves New York at 5:30 was waiting at Somerville to get a clear track, and at 9 Joe Case went toward home. One of the trainmen on the belated shifting engine thought his engine would be stalled all night, and he walked from Flagtown to Somerville, a distance of 8 miles. He was nearly frozen when he reached Somerville. The wind, which had full sweep all day long, became disgusted when it saw the work of the Jersey Central plough, and calmed down so that today there is no danger of any more blockade.

What's Struck Harkinsville to Talk Like This!

(From The Somerville Messenger.)

The readers of THE MESSENGER will be pleased to learn that at the meeting of the Crescent club, held Tuesday night of last week, that organization decided to continue in business at the old stand. Enough money had been raised to pay all of the club's indebtedness with the exception of one note, and a $300 payment was made on this. An athletic club, like the Crescent, may not be absolutely essential to a town's existence, but it is a wonderful tonic and goes far toward remedying the ills to which towns, as well as flesh, are heir. "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

Not all of the Somerville papers waxed gleeful over the apparent collapse of our old adversaries. A large number of our people have been entertained and invigorated by the contests between the Crescents and the West Ends in past years, and will hail with delight the news that the former has been rejuvenated and is now on a sound financial basis. We may not see the rival nines arrayed against each other this season, but it is only a matter of time when we will, and the sight will be good for both of us.

The Plainfield Teams Tie Again.

By losing a game in the bowling tournament to the Alcyones, Tuesday night, the Young Men are once more tied with the Crescents. To-night they may redeem themselves by defeating the Elizabeth Field club. The score:

—The ice in the North river yesterday interfered greatly with the operation of the Jersey Central ferry boats. At one time last evening there was a total blockade. One boat containing a number of Plainfield passengers was carried by the ice down to Liberty Island and had to be hauled back by tug boats.

"For the last twenty years I have been using ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. They have repeatedly cured me of rheumatic pains and pains in my side and back. Whenever I have a cold, one on my chest and one on my back speedily relieve me. My family are never without them."

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

ECHOES OF THE BIG WIND.

What Happened to the Farmers Just Outside of Plainfield During the Blow.

[From a Mountaineer Correspondent.]

The tornado that swept over this section Sunday night was the worst that was ever known, for the short length of time that it took to show how hard it could blow from the southwest, accompanied by a blinding snow storm, and by several vivid flashes of lightning, that were startling in their effect. Suddenly the northern lights flashed up, but in a few minutes died away, and the inky darkness settled down again.

Two men, the Messrs. Coddington, who were driving along Somerset street, near Wilson's stone crusher, were completely bewildered. Not being able to distinguish the road, they thought best to let the horse have his own way, hoping to make Demler's hotel. But the horse got confused, and, going too near the edge of rocks, the wagon upset, throwing the men to the bottom of the excavation that had been made to procure stone for the roads. They, though severely hurt, were able to climb out and catch their horse and return to Mr. Coddington's, where they stayed all night. The next morning they went to their homes at Mt. Horeb, with their hands and faces cut, their bodies bruised, and their clothes torn, to tell their experience to their friends.

The same night Robert M. Clark, who had been calling on some friends, had a most thrilling experience. He made his way all right until he got to the top of Chapel hill, when the wind struck him in full force, lifting him off his feet and throwing him against the fence, where, partialy stunned and severely bruised, he found it was impossible to walk against the wind and blinding snow, the wind having suddenly changed to northwest.

But, being able to distinguished the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel, of which he is assistant organist, he made his way to it, where he broke out a piece of one of the handsome windows so he could reach the latch that he might get in from the storm. He managed to get inside, where he remained until the worst of the storm had abated, when he made his way home, where he is yet confined by his bruises, which although painful, are not serious. Many and varied are the tales told of the wind's caprice.

One woman who had just come home from prayer meeting found her husband, whom she had importuned in vain to accompany her, sound asleep, when the wind struck the house, making it skake and every timber crack. She awoke him to tell him of his danger. He opened his eyes long enough to say he did n't care, he was saved; and dropped off to sleep again, while the rest of the family remained up the rest of the night.

UMPIRE'S LUCK.

The latest report received of Sunday night's storm from Stony Hill has just arrived to the effect that Wm. K. Simonds, so well known among the sporting fraternity of this city and vicinity as a base-ball umpire, after driving home from prayer meeting, of course went straight to bed to reflect on the sermon, but was suddenly aroused from his slumbers by a mighty wind, which brought a vision of all his misdoings and his decisions to his mind. His little cottage swayed to and fro like a drunken man. William claims he was thrown to the floor, but was not badly injured.

Specially Attractive Lenten Lectures.

Mrs. Florence Howe-Hall has arranged a course of three lectures to be given in Plainfield during Lent.

On Friday afternoon, the 24th inst., Mrs. Maude Howe-Elliott will open the course by reading her lecture, "With Booth in Darkest England", at the home of Mrs. Rowland Cox, West Seventh street. This paper gives an account of what Mrs. Elliott herself saw last summer of the workings of the Salvation Army. It has elicited so much interest that it will form part of the course of readings to be given at Daly's theater, New York, in March.

On the evening of March 4, F. Marion Crawford, the popular novelist, will read selections from his own works at Seminary Hall, and this will be the only opportunity to hear him in Plainfield.

On Friday afternoon, March 10, Mrs. Hall will read a paper on "Byron and the Heroes of the Greek Revolution", at the home of Miss Tweedy, on Crescent avenue. As Mrs. Hall's father, the late Dr. Samuel Gridley Howe, took a prominent part in the Greek War of Independence, she has had special opportunities for making a study of her subject.

Plainfield's Loss North Plainfield's Gain.

William H. Cawley, of Somerville, has sold his bottling business to Charles Voorhees for $20,000. This includes the bottling establishment and a dwelling house and lot. Mr. Voorhees formerly kept the Mansion House at Bound Brook. Cawley contemplated engaging in the bottling business in this city, and to purchase property for the purpose, but a remonstrance against granting him a license in the Second Ward being circulated, he withdrew his application, and now contemplates purchasing property in North Plainfield for his business.

A Profitable Bargain.

A Front street lady spent a dime to good advantage, yesterday, when she bought a package of diamond dye fast black for wool. With this she revived the color of a Henrietta so that the gown now looks like new. These simple home dyes are very easy to use, and will color almost anything. Their standard shades are non-fading, and guaranteed not to crock.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyond question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Avenue, opposite railroad station. 5-16-7

THE CABINET SETTLED

Herbert for the Navy and Olney for Atttorney General.

EASTERN STATES REPRESENTED.

Mr. Cleveland Made the Announcement Late Last Night—The South is Honored by Having Three Members in the Cabinet—Mr. Olney is a Boston Lawyer and Well Known in His State.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Feb. 23.—Mr. Cleveland announced last evening that he had completed his Cabinet by the selection of Richard Olney of Boston for Attorney General and Hilary A. Herbert of Alabama for Secretary of the Navy.

The complete Cabinet is as follows:

Walter Q. Gresham, of Indiana, Secretary of State.

John G. Carlisle, of Kentucky, Secretary of the Treasury.

Daniel S. Lamont, of New York, Secretary of War.

Hilary A. Herbert, of Alabama, Secretary of the Navy.

Hoke Smith, of Georgia, Secretary of the Interior.

J. Sterling Morton, of Nebraska, Secretary of Agriculture.

Wilson H. Bissell, of New York, Postmaster General.

Richard Olney, of Massachusetts, Attorney General.

The selection of Hilary A. Herbert for the Navy has been expected for several days, but Mr. Olney's name has not been mentioned in connection with the Cabinet and his selection is a surprise to everybody, particular to the friends of George A. Jenks, of Philadelphia, who, it was stated on Tuesday, had been offered the position.

Hilary A. Herbert has been in Congress for many years and has acted as Chairman of the Naval Committee of the House. He is thoroughly familiar with the work that has been done toward placing the United States Navy on a proper footing, and his knowledge of the present condition of the vessels under construction, and which have been planned, makes him a most desirable man for the head of the Department.

His selection is also practically a promotion.

Mr. Richard Olney is one of the leading practitioners of the Massachusetts bar. He has not held any political position or been prominent in political matters, but is known as one of the leading lawyers and substantial citizens of Boston.

Mr. Olney has at least twice refused a place on the bench of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, and when the last vacancy occurred in the office of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States he was very prominently mentioned in connection with that place. These offers he has refused and has devoted himself dilligently to the practice of his profession.

At present he is general counsel for the Boston & Maine railroad, the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy roads, succeeding in the latter position the late Sidney Bartlett.

Mr. Olney has always, so far as is known, affiliated with the Democratic party, except when the party in Massachusetts took Gen. Butler for its gubernatorial candidate. He then refused to support the nominee of the party.

Mr. Olney was born in Oxford, Mass., in 1835, graduated at Brown University, class of 1856, and at Harvard Law School in 1858.

His selection gives New England a representative in the Cabinet, and that of Herbert gives the South three positions.

Mr. Cleveland's callers yesterday were Daniel S. Lamont and Mrs. Lamont, who arrived from New York at 3:39 and left at 5 p. m., and Father Larkin and Capt. P. J. Cunningham, of Washington. Father Larkin is an ex-chaplain in the army, and Capt. Cunningham has a position in the War Department.

Their call was, they said, purely a patriotic visit to the President-elect on Washington's Birthday. Mr. Cleveland remained at home all day.

IS ROCKAFELLOW INSANE?

His Family May Have a Commission in Lunacy Appointed.

WILKESBARRE, Feb. 23.—The family of F. V. Rockafellow, whose private bank failed so disastrously recently, will, if any more suits are instituted, make an effort to have a commission in lunacy appointed to adjudge him insane.

Dr. Crawford, his physician, stands ready to swear that he is insane, and much corroborative testimony to the same effect has been volunteered.

Celebrated the Holiday in Canada.

WHITBY, Ont., Feb. 23.—The American colony of students attending the Ontario Ladies' college, the Vassar of Canada, celebrated Washington's Birthday by driving through the streets in sleighs decorated with the Stars and Stripes and waving the colors over the heads of the astonished citizens, whose loyal and patriotic sentiments are just now so easily aroused.

80 Years Old and Burned to Death.

BURLINGTON, N. J., Feb. 23.—Julia Van Wagoner, 80 years old, was burned to death last night at her son's house. It is supposed that after lighting the lamp she accidentally pulled it from the mantlepiece. The oil leaking from the lamp ignited her clothing. She was the mother of Mrs. Dudley Buck, wife of the well known Brooklyn composer and musician.

War Veteran Kills Himself.

CORNING, N. Y., Feb. 23.—Thomas Miller, a veteran soldier, living at Lindley, has committed suicide by blowing off his head with a shot gun. He has been sick most of the time since his return from the army and his suffering is thought to have driven him insane.

Cut His Throat With a Sword.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Victor Ponburu, 85 years old, while suffering from despondency, committed suicide at his home, 590 Leonard street, Brooklyn, at 8:30 a. m. by cutting his throat with an old sword.

Reported Indian Massacre.

Whalers Which Jam Through Ice Packs After Big Game.

The Royal Sport of Whaling Is Not What It Used to Be—When Blubber Is Boiled There Are Lively Doings on Board.

[COPYRIGHT, 1893.]

Life on a whaleship is unique and picturesque. During a voyage of many months beyond the touch of civilization there must of necessity be many days of dreary monotony; yet the queer characters of the sailors, the striking oddity of the life, its entire difference from any other calling and the indescribable fascination of being on the sea made a whaling cruise one of the most interesting and thrilling of my experiences.

Many changes have come into whaling and its methods during the past quarter of a century. As an industry it has dropped from an important place to almost the bottom of the list. The objects of the voyage also have changed. Formerly, oil was the one great object of the voyage and whalebone was of little or no consequence; now the whalebone is very valuable, being worth about five dollars a pound, while the oil is worth so little that many whales are killed for their whalebone and the carcasses are cut adrift without saving any of the blubber. Modern invention, with its powerful explosives, has made whaling a mere game of slaughter, where formerly it was royalty among sports. To-day the industry, except so far as the master of the vessel and a few officers are concerned, is mostly a novel money earning routine.

When, after many days at sea we entered the ice, we seemed to have come into an entirely new existence. The ship and whaling gear had long been all ready for service. The men were nerved up to the excitement of "raising" the first whale, and the brisk weather infused new life and animation into everybody and everything. The first week of life in the ice was frightful. A terrific gale from the northwest blew constantly, and a wild sea was running. Packs formed and disintegrated like magic. We would be for one instant in a vast expanse of open water and in the next instant so solidly inclosed in the pack that the ship's timbers would crack from the pressure of the ice. Every man had a little bundle of one change of clothing at hand at all times, so that in case the squeeze proved fatal we could take to the small boats without loss or unnecessary risk of life. I was especially favored, as my bundle included, besides a change of clothing, my manuscripts, some dry plates and a detective camera. In times of danger like this many hours were whirled away in calmly watching the pack, and planning what we should do in case we were nipped. No one was terror-stricken, for this was a danger that threatened us almost every day for six months.

The sight of these whaleships maneuvers in the ice is a grand one. Most seamanship of the pure type in the marine world of to-day is in the whaling service, for in these vessels brawn and muscle, not steam, do most of the work. Every officer prides himself on his seamanship. In fact he must be a thorough sailor before he can be an officer. A slight miscalculation in giving the command or an instant's delay in executing it when told to "haul" may send the ship crashing into the ice pack. Yet with a man aloft to survey the ice for miles and pick out the "leads" of open water, a second on the bowsprit to guide the ship around and among the the cakes of ice, a third on the tryworks to carry the commands and two men at the wheel to execute them, these whaleships squirm about in the ice, guided by such rare skill and judgment that the paint on the side of the vessel is hardly scratched except in times of stress of weather.

We had been in the ice about two weeks, with a double lookout in the "crow's nest," and one or two men on deck watching for spouts, in addition to most of the green hands. The lookout aloft sighted a genuine spout. The mate was having his watch below. "All hands!" was shouted from one end of the ship to the other, and two boats lowered away. The second mate's boat was quickly on the spot waiting for the whale to rise again, and the four other boats scattered up and down the edge of the pack. They were from half a mile to a mile and a half from the vessel, but with the long glass every move could be distinctly observed. Minutes seemed hours, when, most unexpectedly, the monster rose and spouted almost within a ship's length from the second mate's boat. In an instant there was a grand spectacle. Jose's great physique loomed up in the stern of the boat as he manipulated the long steering oar, while in the head of the boat was equally as fine a physique in the person of the Scandinavian boat steerer, harpoon in hand, watching his chance. The boat made a beautiful spurt, such a spurt as only a whaleboat can make in an emergency like this, and in an instant the harpoon had been sent on its deadly errand. The excitement, splashing and shouting which followed cannot be described. The whale—an immense one of perhaps one hundred and twenty barrels in size—was in the agonies of death, churning up the ocean most vigorously. Amidst all the din stood Mr. Jose, with his feet on the thwarts of the boat, working for dear life to escape the lashings of the whale's flukes. His deep, penetrating voice rolled in volumes over the water: "Kill him dead!" "Kill him dead!" "Kill him dead!" They did "kill him dead," but not until after the whale was lost far into the pack where the boats could not reach him.

Jolly, independent and irresponsible as sailors are, there are times when they are exceedingly thoughtful. Shortly before we sailed from San Francisco a sister whaler had passed through the Golden Gate, encountered a head wind and opposing tides, and had been swept irresistibly to destruction, with twenty-two lives lost. We passed through the Golden Gate under some-what similar circumstances: from winds delayed us until the incoming of the tide, but by skillful seamanship we kept off, and on the third day passed out of sight of land.

But a whaleship is a lively, bustling, excited community when a whale has just been caught. Immediately after a whale is killed it is "cut-in." The blubber is stripped off in "blanket pieces" and stowed away in the blubber room, while the head—the upper jaws, so to speak—which contains the whalebone is hoisted on deck, and the whalebone is carefully removed. Unless whaling is so brisk that the services of the whole crew are required, trypots are fired up and trying out begun. The greasiness of this process is beyond the conception of one who has not experienced it. One or two men are tolled off into the blubber room to cut the blanket pieces into the more conveniently-handled "horse pieces." Oil oozes out of the blubber, smearing the men from head to foot, until they wallow about in several inches of grease. In stress of weather, when the ship is pitching and rolling, the men in the blubber room are frequently thrown over on their greasy foothold and rolled about in the horrible stuff.

On deck other men "mince" the horse pieces, still others tend the trypots, the oil press and the coolers, while the cooper sets up and "flags" the casks ready to stow the oil down in the hold. And so the work in all its phases goes merrily on in a sea of grease everywhere. From one end of the ship to the other there is grease. But, the boiling once over, the ship is washed with strong lye, and made as clean as when her keel first cut the water. During the daytime trying out is dirty and disgusting work. But at night time there is an entire change. Hanging near the trypots is the "bug-light," a wire basket of about a bushel capacity. This is filled with the "scraps," that have been skimmed from the pots and squeezed in the press, but which still contain considerable oil, and which burn with a vigor that would discount a torch of pitch. This is the only light. Not unfrequently the "bug-light" of another whaler will be seen glimmering brightly through the darkness, while not an outline of the vessel is visible.

As we watch operations under this light we see the men moving about the deck like dark characterless phantoms. In the foreground are two seething pots, each with its roaring fire of scraps. A figure—made impish by the contending glows of the fire and the bug-light and by the steaming, seething oil—tends each fire. With a long-handled fork he reaches out into the empty darkness, picks up a shapeless mass and drops it into the pot. Laying down the fork, he reaches for a long pole, stirs up the pot, returns the pole into its dark corner, brings out a skimmer, takes off the scraps, then returns the skimmer, and, producing a ladle, proceeds to dip out the steaming, seething oil and empty it off into the darkness—for the cooler is simply a deep shadow.

And thus the operation goes on hour after hour throughout the entire nigh' without interruption except by the momentary delays with the few changes in the shifts of the men.

HOISTING THE HEAD ON BOARD.

It is only on such occasions as this that the full charm and fascination of whaling can be appreciated. More stories may be "swapped" and more yarns spun during the daily "dog-watch" when the starboard and port watch are together and all hands are on deck. But under the glow of the bug-light, with the excitement of the successful chase fresh in mind, and every inducement at hand to recall past experiences, there is an interchange of yarns that brings out all the picturesqueness of the whaleman's life. The bug-light casts a spell over everything. It gives marvelous elasticity to stories that have already been told during the dog-watch. It extends the imagination and lubricates the yarn-spinning tendencies of the sailors. It obliterates the lines between the possible and the impossible. And, most of all, it breeds good nature. All hands talk for the sake of talking rather than in the expectation of being listened to.

No mention of whaling in the Arctic regions is complete without touching upon the part the Esquimaux play in it. Many vessels ship two or three natives for the season as sailors and pay them partially in blubber. Many of these men have come to expect the flukes of a whale as a perquisite, and such a perquisite is of great value, since it represents food enough for one family for a considerable portion of the winter. Returning from the Arctic we stopped in Behring straits to land our three men. Each one had his perquisite, and the whole settlement turned out to help land them. Our vessel was "full." Not a gallon of oil-carrying capacity was left, and in the blubber room were two tons or more of blubber that had not been boiled out. This, too, we gave to the natives, and a God-send it was, for they were about entering upon the winter season with a short supply of food. The blubber was already in horse pieces. Two natives went down into the blubber room to heave the pieces on deck. Two men on deck threw the pieces over the rails into canoes, and a man in each canoe stowed them away to the best advantage.

As the first canoe load approached shore it was received with a shout of joy from the whole settlement. Men, women and children rushed to relieve the canoe of its load. Several of them dashed into the water up to their waists, seized the canoe and, with a shout and a heave, landed it high and dry on the beach. With the landing of the first canoe load the natives seized the blubber food and the following loads were permitted to land as best they could.

Six hours later, when we hove anchor, part of the people were still gorging themselves, while the rest, already gorged, were sleeping stupidly.

On long whaling cruises one or more deaths are liable to occur. We lost a man while at anchor under East Cape, Siberia. He was a Scandinavian and could scarcely understand a word of English. The mate announced his death as the captain and I were sitting in the cabin one afternoon. Orders were given to remove all the man's things from the forecastle and prepare him for burial. When everything was in readiness we went on deck. There lay the body, properly sewed up in canvas, and the feet heavily weighted. The whole crew with uncovered heads stood in a circle around the body. It was a touching scene. Stepping to the center, the captain examined the body carefully and found everything in proper order.

"Take out the gangplank," said he.

Several sailors obeyed the command and stepped back to their places.

"Drop him overboard," said the captain.

Before a move could be made the mate—who on this vessel was a Portuguese—stepped forward and said:

"Capt. Sherman, you no read Bible?"

"No, I guess not," replied the captain. "He's dead and couldn't hear what I read. Besides, he was Dutch and couldn't understand English."

"Oh," said the mate, "me think you ought read Bible." And with the captain's permission he went to his stateroom, got his Bible and read a chapter in Portuguese over the dead Scandinavian.

One of the curses of life at sea has been the use of grog. Formerly liquor was thought to be necessary for men in the Arctic, but experience has proved it to be harmful instead of beneficial, and only in cases of great distress is it now used. Strong coffee has taken its place, and in every whaler during times of great exposure or unusual fatigue, strong, hot coffee is always at hand, grog never. HERBERT L. ALDRICH.

CONGRESS MAKING APPROPRIATIONS

The Next Secretary of the Navy, Herbert, Receives an Ovation When He Enters the House—Regular Daily Fight Over the Anti-Option Bill Takes Place in the House—Rapid Work in the Senate—The Sub-Treasury Has Only $3,000,000 in Gold Left Now.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The open discussions in Congress yesterday were not half so interesting as the private discussion of the Harrity silver letter and the completed Cabinet of the next administration. The two subjects were interwoven in conversation, and many of the views expressed were exceedingly forcible.

Speaking of the Harrity letter, Senator Harris, of Tennessee, said: "I, for one, will never consent to the repeal of the Sherman law without the substitution of something in its place that recognizes the use of silver as money."

Senator Pugh, of Alabama, referring to Mr. Herbert's appointment, said: "He is a man of ability and well equipped by long service in the House Naval committee for the efficient discharge of the duties of the Secretary of the Navy. Mr. Herbert is the only Democrat of prominence in Alabama who agrees with the enemies of free coinage. There is not a man in Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet from the South or West who represents his State or the Democratic party on the silver question.

"If it is Mr. Cleveland's purpose, in making his Cabinet a unit against 90 per cent. of his party, to disrupt or muster it into the service of the money kings, he is doomed to the most signal failure."

Bourke Cockran said: "I think it is an excellent Cabinet. Mr. Herbert's appointment closes the task of selection in a very satisfactory manner. Judge Gresham's appointment I regarded as a little unusual.

"Like all unusual things, it had a tendency to disturb one; but, after all, Mr. Cleveland has the right to administer the government with his own instruments, and if they are satisfactory to him it is the very best reason why they should be satisfactory to every one."

"Extremely pleased," defines the position of Representative Hallowell, of Pennsylvania.

"The Cabinet is very satisfactory, indeed," said Representative Wilcox, of Connecticut.

It is the belief among the officials of the Navy Department that ex Representative McAdoo will be appointed Assistant Secretary of the Navy to succeed Mr. Soley. The latter, as soon as his successor is appointed, will make an extensive tour abroad.

Mr. Peffer, the Populist, referred to the President-elect's selection for Secretary of Agriculture as a man who is not in sympathy with Western ideas on any subject and is thoroughly committed to class legislation.

The Congressional Record.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The incident of the day in the House was the ovation tendered to the next Secretary of the Navy, Hilary A. Herbert, of Alabama. He entered the hall during the consideration of the conference report on the Army Appropriation bill, and, although he sought to escape observation, he failed to do so.

He was warmly greeted, and, without regard to party, his colleagues vied with each other in doing him honor.

Then the Indian Appropriation bill was taken up, notwithstanding the opposition of Mr. Hatch, of Missouri, who desired to call up the Anti-Option bill.

Good progress was made in the Senate yesterday in disposing of the absolutely necessary work of Congress. Within less than an hour two of the general appropriation bills—the Diplomatic and Consular and the Military Academy—were read, considered and passed.

Then the Legislative, Executive and Judicial Appropriation bill, which appropriates about $23,000,000, was taken up and considered till the time of adjournment, all the amendments that were reported from the committee having been agreed to, except as to a few reserved for discussion and action to-day.

There was no discussion at all on either of the first two bills.

The only item that might have led to a contest in the Diplomatic and Consular bill was the amendment authorizing the President of the United States to direct that the American Minister to any foreign court represented in the United States by an Ambassador, Envoy Extraordinary, Minister Resident, Special Envoy, or Charge d'Affaires, shall bear the same designation. But no point was made upon it and the amendment was agreed to.

WANT TO HELP M'KINLEY.

An Enthusiastic Club Starts a Subscription Fund for the Governor.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 24.—As a result of an editorial suggestion by the Watertown Times, the Lincoln League, the leading Republican organization of this city and county held a meeting last night at which a movement was started which is likely to extend to all parts of the country.

The idea is to start a subscription in which the amount will be limited to one dollar, the fund thus created to be given to Gov. McKinley of Ohio as a testimonial of past services to the Republican party, as an expression of sympathy in his financial affliction and as a provision against his threatened retirement from political life in order to retrieve his fortunes in business.

The meeting was largely attended and the proposition was most enthusiastically received. Checks for amounts larger than a dollar were offered but were refused. The club has appointed a committee which will receive voluntary subscriptions, but will not solicit any. Ringing resolutions were adopted.

The New Model for Ocean Steamers Makes Another Successful Trial.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 24.—The Howard Cassard has finished her second trial trip, and all interested in the success of the new model for sea-going craft express themselves as entirely satisfied with her.

Chief Engineer Sergeant, who has superintended the improvements in the engines, says that they worked splendidly, and that, while he would make some minor alterations, generally speaking the engine was as near perfect as it could be made.

"With a new propellor I expect to make 20 to 25 knots an hour, and I think I can do it. The Cassard, in my opinion, is a success, and I stake my reputation of 23 years that she will be a still greater success."

GRESHAM IN NEW YORK.

The Future Secretary of State Makes a Flying Visit to the East.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Judge Walter Q. Gresham has arrived here from Chicago. The future Secretary of State took his departure from Chicago somewhat hurriedly, and although the news of it was whispered in the inner circles, the object of his pilgrimage is shrouded in mystery as dense as a London fog.

Persons closely associated with the Judge assert that he comes in obedience to a telegram from Mr. Cleveland, so it is highly probable that the little house at Lakewood is the objective point of the Illinois statesman.

Electrical Linemen Have Struck.

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—True to their threat the one hundred electrical linemen at the World's Fair grounds in the employ of the Exposition company went out on strike yesterday morning because their demands were not acceded to. The Corbett-Mitchell Fight All But Sure Now.

DID NOT GO TO CANADA, EITHER

It Was Announced Yesterday that the Match Was Off and that Brady Was Looking for Jackson, but that Was Wrong—Mitchell Still After a Smaller Ring—The Stakeholder Thought to be Blanchard.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—Last evening it was announced that the Corbett-Mitchell fight was off, that Mitchell would not have anything more to do with Brady and that Brady was hunting for Jackson. However, the wind has changed again, this morning it was announced that the fight would come off.

Brady, Corbett's manager, and Mitchell, accompanied by "Squire" Abingdon, met at the Gedney House yesterday, and held a conference. The result of this conference is that both men have agreed to the fight and to do away with all further dickerings.

Mitchell has already deposited a certified check for $10,000 with a well known sporting man whose name both parties refuse to make public owing to the fact that if his name was made known the police would arrest him. This stakeholder is satisfactory to both Brady and Mitchell. The articles of agreement will most likely be signed in private, and not at New Orleans or in Canada as reported yesterday.

Mitchell did not go to Canada last night and will not leave the city for a few days at least. Brady has left for Boston. Before leaving he said he thought Mitchell was sincere in his desire to arrange a match. Final arrangements will be made to-morrow. In regard to a letter that Mitchell sent out yesterday, Brady refused to have anything to say.

Mitchell said to-day that the smaller the ring in which he meets Corbett, the better it will suit him. He said that he would give Corbett $1,000 for every foot that he will allow the ring to be made smaller than the regulation size.

He says he is going to New Orleans to witness the Hall-Fitzsimmons fight, and not to make a match.

The opinion prevails here among sporting men that Mitchell does not want to fight in the North, but prefers to go South. Mitchell denies this, and says he would as lieve fight here as in New Orleans.

Corbett is reported to be sick with a cold, and will not be able to appear with his company in Minnesota to-night.

The Marriage Question in Hungary.

VIENNA, Feb. 24.—The Municipal authorities of Pesth, Komorn and other cities of Hungary, have adopted resolutions approving the ecclesiastical policy of the Hungarian Government, and demanding that civil marriage be made obligatory. This action is in direct antagonism to the Roman Catholic Church authorities who are sparing no effort to defeat the movement in favor of civil marriage.

Won't Interfere in Hughes' Sentence.

ALBANY, Feb. 24.—Gov. Flower has concluded not to interfere at present with the sentence of the court in the case of James Hughes, the master-workman of the Clothing Cutters' branch of the Knights of Labor, who is serving a sentence of one year for the crime of extortion in the Monroe county penitentiary. The offense was committed during the last cloakmaker's strike in Rochester.

Flood Again Feared at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 24.—Rivermen are again excited over the prospects of a flood. GEN. BEAUREGARD'S FUNERAL.

It Was Attended by Confederate Veterans from All Over the South.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 24.—The funeral of Gen. Beauregard was one of the largest and most imposing ever witnessed in this city. All the exchanges were closed as a mark of respect to the deceased General, while business in the courts and other public offices was virtually suspended.

All day a constant stream of people poured through the City Hall, where the remains lay in state, to get a last glimpse of the form of the well known soldier.

Among those who arrived to take part in the ceremonies were Gov. Foster and party from Baton Rouge, members of Raphael Semmes Camp, Confederate veterans from Mobile, and Col. J. B. Hereford and Gen. Cabell, of the Trans-Mississippi Department.

The cortege moved from the City Hall a little after 3 o'clock for the cemetery.

THE SENATE DEMOCRATIC.

With the Vice-President's Vote They Will Have a Majority of One.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The election of William N. Roach, Democrat, to be United States Senator from North Dakota fixes the control of the next Senate in Democratic hands. The next Senate, which will assemble simultaneously with the inauguration of the President, will contain forty-four Democrats, thirty-seven Republicans and four Populists. In Wyoming, Montana and Washington Senators are yet to be chosen. As the next Senate will be composed of eighty-eight members, the election of Mr. Roach gives the Democrats a clear half of the whole number possible; and that with the Vice-President's vote in the case of a tie, puts the Democratic party in control in the Senate for two years at least.

LIGHTWEIGHTS FIGHT.

Welsh and O'Brien Meet Before the Buffalo Athletic Club.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 24.—Billy Welsh of this city and Al O'Brien of Philadelphia, lightweights, met in the arena of the Buffalo Athletic club last night for a purse of $1,000 and side stakes of a like amount. Both men had trained hard for the event and entered the ring in perfect condition.

O'Brien was the favorite in the betting and was liberally backed by a delegation of Philadelphia sports.

O'Brien won in the tenth round by a knock-out blow. The fighting was fast and interesting throughout, Welsh surprised the crowd by his clever work, but was clearly outclassed.

A Ten Year Old Murderer.

FORT SMITH, Ark., Feb. 24.—Dan Paschall, a ten year old boy, had been convicted of murder in Judge Parker's court. The crime for which Paschall was convicted was the killing of Arthur Berry at Krebs, I. T. Several boys were passing the home of the prisoner and threw rocks at him. This so incensed the little fellow that he took his father's gun and fired at them resulting in the death of one of the number.

Flower has issued a proclamation ordering a special election to be held on Tuesday, March 21, to fill the vacancy in the office of State Senator for the Ninth Senate district of the State of New York, in consequence of the death of Edward P. SUNBEAMS IN BOTTLES.

FOR MEN OVERDOSED WITH WORK AND WORRY.

Paine's Celery Compound the Outcome of the Best Science—None Travel from Dan to Beersheba, Crying, "All is Barren."

Bottled sunbeams forwarded by express.

One should read the hundreds of happy letters that go to Burlington every week from all over the country, where Paine's celery compound has been sent to cure the ills of sleeplessness and indigestion, and other ailments that arise from weakened nerves and impure blood.

And years of splendid results have so

nnected Paine's celery compound with success that the name itself has become a perpetual letter of recommendation.

Every year, as it adds to the oak a ring of growth, adds a new circle to those who tell their friends their faith in this wonderful remedy, the product of the most advanced scientific study of this generation.

It is good not only for the old, but for the young and middle-aged, who now, after their fall and winter's labors, closely confined to business, are too often overdosed with work and worry. James W. Foster, writing from Bath, N. H., where he is one of the best known men in town, says:

"I have been one of the many sufferers from indigestion, sick headache, costiveness of the worst kind, weak nerves and nervous affections. No one who has not had these troubles can appreciate my sufferings. I tried sarsaparillas, nervines and physicians' prescriptions, but could not get cured. I commenced taking Paine's celery compound. One bottle completely cured me! My nerves are strong, and I am better than I have been for years. The compound is a wonderful medicine, and I recommend it to every one I meet."

Mr. E. Dwyer, a well-known young druggist of Cambridge, Mass., had been sick for six months when he began to use Paine's celery compound, and it "made him well," he says, "as ever he was in his life." To quote his own words, "I have used Paine's celery compound, and it has entirely cured me"—a statement that thousands before him have made and thousands more will make.

For Paine's celery compound is not a patent medicine, a sarsaparilla or an ordinary tonic. It is as superior to them all as the diamond is to cheap glass.

DELAY'S THEIR POLICY.

Messrs. Ulrich and Stillman Plead That the Uprising of the Whole City Against the Reckless Board of Education is a Great Surprise and They Will Not Be Ready to Answer Until Next Week.

As reported exclusively in THE PRESS of Tuesday last, Mayor Gilbert, Councilmanic President Sinns, Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh, ex-City Clerk O. B. Leonard, City Auditor A. S. Patterson, ex-School Trustee L. F. Wadsworth and De-Witt C. Irvins were among the Plainfielders present at the State House, Trenton, to urge the passage of the bill to abridge the dictatorial autocracy of the School Board. Lawyers Ulrich and Stillman were there opposing it.

It was not until 3:30 in the afternoon, however, that the Plainfielders had a chance to talk to the committee in whose hands the bill reposes. A half-hour was the time allowed. Corporation counsel Marsh explained the unrestricted power the board possessed. Mayor Gilbert spoke too, and ex-trustee Wadsworth described how when he was in the board, the majority did as it saw fit at all times, and spent whatever money it pleased unrestrained by anything or anybody.

Corporation counsel Walker, said that the bill proposed would not interfere with Trenton, and there was other evidence that it only applied to Plainfield because only in Plainfield had the board of education power to buy lands and erect buildings without the concurrence or approval of the "governing body" of the city.

The bill was amended, however, at the suggestion of corporation counsel Marsh, by adding this clause: "Provided that this shall not take effect in any city until this act shall have been accepted in such city as hereinafter provided". Then is added a section providing for submitting the act to a direct vote of the people.

Ex-judge Ulrich and attorney Stillman told the committee, that the whole matter had been sprung upon them. Of course they knew nothing of the unanimous action of the mayor and council weeks before, or the uprising of the whole people; and had not themselves visited Trenton some days previous and met the committee in relation to the same matter. Oh, no! Therefore they were not prepared to speak against the people's rights.

Taking their word for it, the committee adjourned the hearing until Tuesday of next week, the 28th inst., at the same place.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

A suite of rooms at The Albion has been engaged for Little Tuesday and her mother, to-morrow night.

The Dunellen Call says that the Misses Ross and Covert, of Plainfield, spent Sunday at S. R. Dayton's at New Market.

An article on "Milton's Conception of Heaven", by Prof. Edwin H. Lewis of this city, occupies the front page of this week's Sabbath Recorder.

The Rev. B. Fay Mills is now at Nashville, Tenn. He will complete his engagement there next Monday. In April he will conduct meetings on a grand scale at Milwaukee.

In his free organ recital in the First Baptist church, next Tuesday evening, W. E. MacClymont will be assisted by the Dreeden Trio and by Miss Florence A. Underwood, soprano.

The many friends of D. S. Dunavan, who for a week has been confined to his bed with diphtheretic sore throat, will rejoice to learn that he is once more able to be about the house.

The Rev. James Walker, who met with so horrible a death in the Pennsylvania Railroad accident at Philadelphia Wednesday, was a classmate of the Rev. T. Logan Murphy of North Plainfield.

The Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis has been eloquently representing the Seventh-Day Baptists of Pennsylvania before the Keystone State Legislature, asking for the total repeal of the Sunday law of 1794.

The Rev. Charles E. Herring will preach on Sunday the first of a series of character studies for young men. "Joseph, the discreet", will be his topic. "Christ and Immortality" will be the morning subject.

The Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlbut will give a lecture in the Park Place M. E. chapel to-morrow evening for the benefit of the Sunday-school. His subject will be "A Trip Through Europe", to be illustrated with the stereopticon.

At the wedding of Miss Lizzie F. Coddington to S. Kenida Bolmer, at Bound Brook, last evening, judge Coddington, a brother of the bride, with his wife was a prominent guest. The wedding was a very pretty one, the bride looking especially charming.

The Rev. L. E. Livermore has tendered his resignation as pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church of New Market. He will leave about May 1, for Alfred Centre, N. Y., where he has accepted the position of editor of the Sabbath Recorder. His salary is $800 a year.

Among the recent arrivals in Westfield is Miss Erma L. Gregory a clever and talented elocutionist. She is a native of South Norwalk, Conn., and studied with the celebrated Siebel. Miss Gregory recited last week at the entertainment given by the Union County band, and was warmly received. She possesses a pleasing presence, a well modulated voice, which coupled with rare dramatic ability perfected by long and conscientious training has placed her name well up on the list of popular entertainers. Her delineations of Irish and German characters have won for her the enthusiastic plaudits of many New York audiences. The band will repeat its entertainment March 9, and Miss Gregory will again appear.

Maybe Our County Roads Will be Lighted and Sprinkled.

The House yesterday passed the bill of Mr. Kyte, of Fanwood, empowering the Boards of Freeholders in Essex, Union and Bergen counties to make contracts for sprinkling and lighting the public highways.

A neglected cold often terminates in consumption. Take Dr. Ball's Cough Syrup in time and forestall the dreadful disease.

ANOTHER DELIGHTFUL LECTURE.

That Egyptian Series Becoming Very Popular.

The second of Prof. Goodyear's lectures at All Souls' church on Egyptian Art and Civilization, yesterday afternoon, had, if anything, a larger audience than the initial one given last week.

The lecturer began by emphasizing the importance of Egypt as the key to the route to India and the natural wealth and advantages of the country agriculturally. These statements were all given a clearer meaning by the numerous illustrations of modern Egypt and of the types of the various inhabitants. Mr. Goodyear then traced back the different races through the changes of fortune of the country—the Copts back to the ancient Egyptians—the Arabs to the followers of Mahomet, etc., showing that the present people of Egypt are in reality descendants, with very slight mixture of foreign blood, of the races that have inhabited the country for thousands of years. He then gave a brief history of the country from the beginning of the Christian era through the crusades and to the present day. The most interesting feature of the lecture was the collection of views of the specimens of sculpture and paintings belonging to the most remote period of Egyptian history; about 4,000 years before Christ. These specimens are of a much higher artistic excellence than those of later periods. The few remaining examples of this early epoch point to the fact that inhabitants of Egypt were then far more advanced in the arts than they have been in any subsequent age, and that the zenith of her civilization came before the records of hieroglyphics, or more than 6,000 years ago.

The lecture was concluded by an explanation of the nature of some of the hieroglyphics—the evolution of purely pictorial writing down to the alphabetical inscriptions of the monumetts of later date. Illustrations were given of many of the inscriptions.

There will be three more of these most interesting lectures on the successive Thursdays of March 2, 9 and 15.

AS THEY LIKED WHEN THEY PLEASED.

Ex-Trustee Wadsworth Simply Testified From Experience That the Board Always Did Whatever They Desired.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—In the issue of the Courier of last evening it is stated that Mr. Wadsworth in his statements before the legislative committee supported the Board of Education against the action taken by Mayor Gilbert.

The undersigned was called simply to show that the power given to that board was always exercised when they so desired. His statement was clear and explicit that under existing laws they exercised the power given to them, and they were answerable to no one. He further stated that such authority ought to be limited, and that no body, unless directly answerable to the people, should be clothed with such autocratic power.

LOUIS F. WADSWORTH.

HOW CAN WHAT'S RIGHT, BE CORRECTED?

Councilman Case Himself Has Indorsed the Hotel Applications.

The license applications of the proprietors of the City Hotel and the Hotel Grenada, are each indorsed as follows:

THIS APPLICATION CONFORMS TO THE ORDINANCE. R. K. Case.

But at councilman Case's suggestion the applications have been returned to Mr. Beerbower and Mr. Miller for "correction".

And, as the city clerk gleefully remarks in his paper, "This action will prevent these hotels from carrying on their bar business for fully a month's time", while the saloons will continue to florish uninterruptedly.

It seems as if Mr. Miller and Mr. Beerbower have good ground for a suit against the city for damages.

FATAL FALL.

Contractor Redfern and a Workman Swept from a Roof by an Avalanche.

Two men were badly hurt by a fall from the roof of a house at Cranford at 8:45 this morning. Contractor Redfern and workman Ditsel were clearing away the snow and ice from the top of a new building when the mass slid and went over the edge like an avalanche, carrying the two men with it.

Redfern struck on his head, and had n't regained consciousness at last report. There is no hope for him. Ditsel will probably recover.

A Runaway Horse Draws a Crowd.

A horse owned by Mr. Decker of Scotch Plains caused great excitement on Front street yesterday afternoon. The sleigh to which he was attached was upset by a careless attempt to turn out from the street car tracks, and the horse took fright and dashed upon the sidewalk in front of Werner's clothing store, clambering over a pile of dry goods boxes and upsetting a stack of coal scuttles in front of J. C. Allen's. The sleigh was lodged against a pole, and the horse ran on as far as Sandford avenue, where it was caught. No one was hurt.

A woman's aim is to look her best—but can't never reach it without perfect health. For perfect health, take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. All the functional irregularities and weaknesses that make life miserable to women, are cured by it. It's a powerful, invigorating tonic, and a soothing and strengthening nervine—purely vegetable, perfectly harmless. For ulcerations, displacements, bearing-down sensations, unnatural discharges—everything that's known as a "female complaint"—it's a positive remedy.

It's the only one that's guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case. It costs you nothing, unless it helps you. You can afford to try it, on these terms. Can you afford to neglect it?

A remedy that does cure is one that can be guaranteed. That's what the proprietors of "Favorite Prescription" think. If it fails to benefit or cure, in any case for which it's recommended, they'll refund the money. No other medicine for women is sold on such liberal terms.

CHAPS

And How to Get Rid of Them.

Nothing more annoying than chapped hands. And the more you wash the worse they chap! Soap cleans, but soap chaps. Now by neutralizing the alkali of the soap by means of a harmless acid we may prevent chapping. That is the philosophy of REYNOLDS'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE, and by using it as directed, you can get rid of the chaps. Originated and made only at

"GREASY MECHANICS."

They Are a Bigger Power in Plainfield and the World than All the Professions.

The Hon. Charles H. Ham, who is to lecture in this city on "Manual Training" next month, must have had Plainfield's mechanics especially in mind when he said:

"The young man with a mechanical trade is better equipped for the battle of life than the young man with a learned profession. The prizes may not be so dazzling, but they are more numerous, and they are within reach. The skilled mechanic, with industry and prudence, is sure of a cottage, and the cottage may grow into a mansion, while the man of letters struggles so often in vain to mount the steps of a palace. The railroad, the telegraph, and the steamship, exert a more potent influence on the destinies of mankind than do the lawyer, the doctor, and the priest. The giants, steam and electricity, which bear the great burdens of commerce, have to be harnessed to enable them to do their work; and to make this harness, the furnace, the forge, and the shops, are brought into requisition. The railroad alone taxes to the utmost nearly every department of the useful arts. To the construction of the passenger-coach, for instance, more than a hundred trades contribute the varied cunning and skill of their workmanship.

"The greasy mechanics did more to hasten the world's progress in a century —1740 to 1840—than had been accomplished up to that time by all the statesmen of all the dead ages. But those heroes of the workshop had none of the opportunities afforded by the manual training school of the present age. The world moves, and in this age it moves always towards a higher appreciation of the value of the useful arts. This country is destined to become a vast workshop, and in this workshop the best energies, the strongest vital forces of the American people, are eventually to be exerted. How necessary, then, to educate the hands as well as the brain of the youth of the country."

PLAINFIELD.

The business block in process of erection by George Babcock, would do credit to the best locations in New York City.

A glance at the beautiful residences now being built for Mrs. Gen. VanBuren, Mr. Mumford, Mr. Andrews and Mr. Abbott, will convince the most conservative that Plainfield property is a safe investment.

A number of the plots purchased last fall on the beautiful "Belvidere" will be built upon this summer.

Builders report a good prospect for work this season; not of a speculative character, but for the use of the owners.

There are many evidences of architect Fickins's genius in artistic dwellings in Plainfield, his latest design being a grand colonial residence for F. O. Herring, on Park avenue.

J. J. H. Pollon will break ground in early spring for a handsome residence on Seventh street. The location is one of the choicest in the city.

Otto Arens, Esq., late president of the N. Y. Cotton Exchange, has recently bought a fine plot on Park avenue, on which he will erect an artistic home in the spring.

The new bank building in Westfield is about completed. It is a structure that does credit to the town. A. L. C. Marsh, of New York and Plainfield, was the architect.

Plenty of Peaches in Hunterdon.

Even if the Delaware peach crop is a failure this year there will be plenty of the luscious fruit for all. Hunterdon county will send a phenomenal crop to market. There are at least a million peach trees of the choicest varities, in the county and Stacy B. Bray is authority for the statement that after a careful test he found but about one per cent. of the buds damaged by the cold. He also says the season is now too far advanced for the buds to be destroyed. Other peach growers report that there is nothing yet to indicate that the trees are damaged.

New York Envies Plainfield's Healthfulness.

Suburban New Jersey has at last a most devoted organ, in the Land Buyer and Building News published monthly at 5 Beekman street, New York. A copy of the first issue has just come to hand, and everyone in the sanctum is eagerly awaiting his turn for perusal. The Land Buyer is brimful with news of what the vast army of commuters is doing to improve the many cities of homes like Plainfield. The typography is excellently clear, the illustrating fine, the general appearance stylish. The February issue gives pictures of two of Plainfield's churches as models for the State. The Land Buyer's good sense is shown in the paragraph: "A rich mine of wealth is found in Plainfield's health-giving atmosphere. The city has well been called the 'Colorado of the East'."

Fox Drag.

There will be a three-mile fox drag at Benner's road-house, Saturday, Feb. 25, at 5 p. m. sharp. The owner of the best dog will be awarded a handsome dog collar and chain.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely with our solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren avenue, Chicago, Ill.

The Megantic Fish and Game Club, to Which Many Plainfielders Belong, Dine Together in New York.

County attorney William K. McClure of this city was one of the committee of arrangements for the Megantic Fish and Game club's sixth annual dinner at the Hoffman House, New York, last Tuesday evening. Others present from Plainfield were William H. Brower, A. V. Nolen, Randolph Stelle and J. A. Demarest. Jacob Kirkner, William B. Wadsworth, councilman E. N. Erickson and Dr. Frank Wells of this city are also members of the club, which is an interesting one, composed of lawyers, physicians and professional men. Several thousand acres of land and water are included in the club's private preserves, situated on the Dead River, in Maine, and at Spider Lake, Providence Lake, in Canada. The Boston members arrived in a special train on the day of the dinner and departed the following day.

The dinner lasted from 8 till midnight. Dr. Heber Bishop was down to open the toasts, but the illness of his mother-in-law detained him. Mr. McClure's toast was, "Fishing on Our Preserve." The following was the menu:

They Showered Money on "Little Tuesday", in Montana.

Little Tuesday, the star of the "Still Alarm" company, believes in Santa Claus, and his unceasing kindness to good little children. She believes that either Santa Claus, or his brother, are always in the audience, making notes of her performance, and if she does well and pleases the people, flowers or a present will be her reward. She always finds the present when she gets home.

At Butte, Montana, the demonstrative miners evinced their approval of Tuesday's serpentine dance by throwing money at her while she was dancing. As the shower of silver pattered on the stage, the little tot became frightened, and fled in terror and indignation to her mamma, who always stands near her in the wings. As she jumped into her mother's out-stretched arms, she exclaimed: "How dare they interfere with my dancing! They are throwing something at me! Do they take me for a monkey? How dare they!" Here the quick wit of her mother put Tuesday's faith in Santa Claus to a test, and it worked like a charm. The audience were clapping their hands and shouting a recall to the little artist who had touched that most invulnerable spot, their pocketbooks. She was indignantly protesting that she would not go on, and would not, until her mother said: "Tuesday, don't you know we noticed to-day that no flowers grow in this city? Santa Claus and his brother are throwing silver at you instead of flowers, as they would in New York. Now, go on, darling, make a bow and pick up the silver." Instantly the cloud vanished, the indignation ceased, and the happy little artist was bounding around the stage to the delight of her audience. Tuesday has charmed the greatest in the land, with her dancing, but never did the four hundred, whose pet she is, see such a rythmical romp as Tuesday gave those miners for an encore. She was sure those bearded miners were a convention of Kris Kringles.

Plainfield Society Set the Style.

(Dunellen Weekly Call.)

The West End circle gave a delightful social at the residence of Isaac T. Giddis. More than the usual number of invitations were given out to this entertainment, and about thirty couple were present. Prof. O'Reilly, of Plainfield, furnished the music. Among the out of town guests were Misses Force, DeCamp, Garretson, Fisher and Loomis, Mrs. Canfield, and Messrs. VanEmburgh, Huff, McIntyre, Crawford, Rainsford and Canfield, all of Plainfield.

WHAT WILL THE SENATE DO?

Governor Werts's Veto of the Race Track Bills Overridden in the House.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

TRENTON, Feb. 24.—Governor Werts's righteous vetoes of the three race-track bills just railroaded through the house of assembly and senate, came up in the former body, where the bills originated, this morning, and the bills were again passed by a majority vote.

To-morrow morning at 10 if the Senate takes like action, the bills will become laws.

The principal bill is No. 299 which provides that boards of chosen freeholders of any county, or the governing body of any municipal division of this State, may, for a term not exceeding five years, license the maintenance of race-tracks and the use thereof for the running, racing or trotting of horses for any purse, stake, plate or other things, and that it shall be unlawful to maintain or use a race-course in this State without such license.

The other bills merely contain parts and parcels of the main one quoted above. By their becoming laws the whole question of racing is placed in the hands of the people through the freeholders whom they may elect to represent them.

In Union county, of course, there will be no tracks allowed, while in Monmouth, where the farmers and hotel proprietors and lodging house keepers claim they lose a million of dollars by the stopping of racing, licenses will be granted.

The Tax Collector's Valentines.

Vincent W. Nash, delinquent tax collector, is sending out interesting little valentines to prominent and other citizens, of which the following is a sample:

PLAINFIELD, N. J., ...189

DEAR SIR:

The expert accountant of the City, finds in his examination of the City books, that you are a delinquent as per bill enclosed, and the Committee of the Common Council has instructed me to levy on your personal goods and sell enough to satisfy the taxes. Although very unpleasant, I will call at your residence on..... to make the levy.

Yours truly,
V. W. NASH,
Delinquent Tax Collector.

One of the Heirs Has Discovered What Other Heirs are Advertising For.

B. G. Elliott, one of the sons of Richard Elliott who died last Saturday, says his father's will is in the hands of the parties that made it, and has been there since the time it was drawn. He also says that not until this morning did he know where the will was.

Others of the heirs, however, advertise in another column of THE PRESS to-day, that they wish to communicate with any who have any knowledge of, or witnessed, any papers for him.

NEAR A DECISION.

Populists Busy and Ready to Adjourn Within Short Notice.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 24.—Arguments in the Union habeas corpus case were concluded last night, and the case has gone to the court. Both sides expect a decision to-day.

The Populists are working day and night rushing bills through, and if the decision of the court is against them they will adjourn within an hour after it is made, leaving Gov. Lewelling to shoulder the responsibility.

There is a general belief that the Governor has made up his mind to recognize the Republican House if the court decides in its favor, and that he will at once call an extra session.

BETRAYED BY A COUGH

The Noted Forger Broadwell Captured in New York.

ARRESTED WHILE SICK IN BED

His Latest Operations Were in Michigan and Ohio, Where He Managed to Beat the Perforator, the Banks' "Safeguard" —He Has Served a Term for Counterfeiting Years Ago—Is Dying of Consumption.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—The most skilful forger known to the police has been captured after a long and hard chase. He is Stephen C. Broadwell, aged 62, formerly a furrier, and residing with his daughter at No. 364 West Twenty-third street. The prisoner has been laid up in bed for four months with a combination of diseases, including kidney trouble, enlargement of the heart and asthma.

It is probable that he will never leave his bed alive. The police, however, have guarded against any chance for his escape. Five detectives divide each 24 hours into watches, and one or two of them are constantly at his bedside. If Broadwell grows well enough he will be removed to the prison ward of Bellevue Hospital, there to remain until he can be removed West.

Broadwell's method was to buy a draft payable to himself on a Cincinnati or Detroit bank and then fill in with paper pulp the holes punched after the figures, to which he proceeded to add two ciphers. The filling in of the holes and the necessary changes in the written part of the draft were done so skilfully that they could not be detected under a glass. He avoided the necessity of identification at the paying bank by forging the signature of the cashier of the other bank to a certificate of his endorsement.

Broadwell operated in Cincinnati under the name of Thomas Hunt. He was sick enough then to pass as an invalid, and he became known at the banks "as the man with the cough." In Detroit he passed Lansing bank drafts for $18 and $15 on the Third National Bank and the City Savings Bank after raising them to $1,800 and $1,500. This was last May. He there called himself Henry Lewis.

It is believed that he has made $10,000 or $15,000 by such forgeries. For the past six or eight months the country has been flooded with circulars describing him and his mode of doing business.

During the seventies the country was flooded with $50 counterfeit bills of the Spanish Bank of Havana, Cuba. So well was the work done that it could not be detected, and so widely were the bills circulated that the bank had to withdraw its issue.

Immediately after the same forger issued $25 counterfeit bills of the same institution.

He was Broadwell, and he tried to float the bills through a Spanish merchant of this city, but the latter told the police.

Broadwell was caught this time, and in 1881 was sentenced to five years in prison.

Brought to After Being in His Coffin.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 24.—Peter Johnson, an aged colored man, died a few days ago at Elkton. One of the women who were watching the corpse procured a towel and some cold water and began bathing the brow of the supposed dead man. She was startled to see signs of returning life, and all the colored people were thrown into a state of terror by the negro raising his head from the coffin pillow, and inquiring as to what was the matter. The aged darky was taken from the coffin and is rapidly regaining health.

Who Will Have This Palace Now?

It cost in the neighborhood of $50,000 and is fitted up in the most luxurious style.

OLD-TIME STATESMEN.

Reminiscences of President Lincoln's Assassination.

Incidents of the Night of the Awful Crime —The Last Note Written by the Martyr President—Exciting Scenes on the Streets.

[Special Washington Letter.]

"'At the close of every congress," says Hon. William E. Spencer, the journal clerk of the senate, "I frequently find myself in a reminiscent mood. To-day in looking over the senate I observed Senator Stewart, of Nevada, and Senator Sherman, of Ohio, in conversation near the cloak-room door, and I do not know why, but my memory ran back through the many intervening years, and I recalled the fact that those two men alone of all the members of the senate at the time of the assassination of Lincoln, in 1865, remain as members of this distinguished body.

"Senator Sherman took his seat in the senate on the 23d day of March, 1861. He had been a member of the house of representatives and was elected to the senate to take the place of Salmon P. Chase, whose election had but recently occurred, but who had accepted the position of secretary of the treasury by appointment of President Lincoln. With the exception of the few years when he was secretary of the treasury during the administration of President Hayes, Senator Sherman has been continually a member of the upper house. When the new state of Nevada was admitted to the union, Senator Stewart and Senator Nye were the first representatives of that state in the upper house, and they began their terms of service on February 1, 1863. Senator Stewart remained in the senate until March 4, 1875, and reappeared as a senator from the same state March 4, 1887.

"Previous to the civil war the sessions of the senate were held in the room which is now occupied by the supreme court. This is a very small room compared with the present senate chamber; but it was large enough at that time, because there were fewer states and consequently fewer senators. January 4, 1859, the new senate chamber and hall of the house were completed and occupied. I was in the treasury department at the time and heard of the assassination about half an hour after it occurred. I immediately went down to the theater and remember the thrilling scenes of that night as if they had occurred but yesterday. I knew many of the senators, as I was appointed to a clerkship in the senate a short time afterward. I was well acquainted with Vice President Andrew Johnson, who succeeded Mr. Lincoln in the white house. At that time suspicion of complicity in the plot for the wholesale assassination of Mr. Lincoln and his cabinet pointed to every man whose loyalty was suspected. Andrew Johnson was subjected to the unkindness and cruelty of suspicion, too. Of course there was absolutely no ground for that, and no one who knew the man entertained the idea for a moment. He was one of the ablest and most prominent men of his time. His subsequent political career became clouded, largely because of his consciousness of his own good intentions and his strong-willed determination to have his own way in carrying out a policy which he believed to be right.

"There is another member of the senate to-day who was prominent in executive life at that time, but was not a member of either house of congress. I refer to Senator William E. Chandler, of New Hampshire, who was at that time assistant secretary of the treasury. He has not been in continuous public life ever since, but has been in Washington a great deal of the time. There are other members of the senate to-day who were at that time members of the house of representatives. They are Senators Morrill, of Vermont; Dawes, of Massachusetts; Allison and Wilson, of Iowa; Sawyer, of Wisconsin, and Voorhees, of Indiana.

"I think that Congressman O'Neill, of Pennsylvania, who is now called the 'Father of the House,' is the only member of the house of representatives to-day who was a member of that body upon the occasion of the assassination. One by one they have all been retired from public service or have responded to the final summons of the grim destroyer."

While Mr. Spencer was narrating these facts and turning to official documents to give me names of prominent men whom he had known at the time, Senator Stewart entered the office of the secretary of the senate, and in response to my inquiry he said:

"I remember that night very well. I came from New York with Judge Niles Searles, of California, a gentleman of prominence on the Pacific coast, who had formerly been my partner. President Lincoln held receptions at seven o'clock in the evening and at ten o'clock in the morning. Judge Searles desired to meet the president, and I accompanied him to the white house, where we arrived at about half-past seven o'clock. I wrote the name of my friend upon my own card and sent it up to the president. The card was returned to me, and upon the back of it Mr. Lincoln had written: 'Going to the theater with my wife. Come to-morrow. A. Lincoln.' That is the last note Abraham Lincoln ever wrote, and I would give a great deal to have it to-day. As we walked slowly downstairs I tore the card into little bits in a thoughtless manner, never dreaming of course that it would be the last word I would ever receive from Mr. Lincoln. We stood upon the great portico conversing for a few moments, when President and Mrs. Lincoln came out of the door and entered their carriage to be driven to the theater. Then and there I introduced Judge Searles to the president, detaining him but a moment. When the carriage drove away my friend said that inasmuch as had seen the president he would not remain over night but would continue his journey. I accompanied him to the depot and he left on the next train. I walked along up C street to Pennsylvania avenue and then up Pennsylvania avenue to Tenth street, where I turned north intending to go to the theater, which was but a block away. Inasmuch as it was a warm night, and I had been traveling and walking and was very tired, I concluded that to go into a warm room would merely make me sleepy, so I walked up to Thirteenth street and called upon Senator Connesa, of California. In a very short time Senator Sumner, of Massachusetts, called, and we had been in conversation about half an hour when a page came in and announced that the secretary of state, William H. Seward, had been assassinated. We all three started immediately for Fifteenth street to the residence of the secretary of state, which was recently purchased and occupied by Secretary Blaine, and when we arrived there we were met at the door by Hugh McCulloch, the secretary of the treasury, who informed us that Mr. Seward was badly hurt and the surgeon in charge would permit no one to see him. We then walked over to the white house and had barely reached the door when a messenger came and announced that President Lincoln had been shot at the theater. Senator Conness turned to me and said: 'Stewart, there is a tremendous plot here to assassinate all the cabinet officers.' Then turning to two soldiers who were on guard there he directed them to go in a hurry to the residence of the secretary of war, Mr. Stanton, and they did so. When they arrived at Mr. Stanton's house a large man ran away from the door where he had been ringing the bell, and I have no doubt that the presence of those soldiers prevented the assassination of Mr. Stanton on that night. We three senators left the white house and walked down to Tenth street to the little building across from the theater into which Mr. Lincoln had been carried. Mr. Conness and I were informed that we might enter the house, but that it was very warm and that it would be better if fewer persons were there; so we turned and went away. Senator Sumner, who had been unable to keep up with us, then arrived and was admitted under protest. He remained there until the president died.

"I did not go to sleep that night, but walked the streets, going from crowd to crowd to hear the utterances and ascertain the temper of the people. The war was over and there were about 30,000 ex-confederate soldiers in the city who had been surrendered, or were on parole. It is a singular thing, but it is a fact that wherever talk of violence originated, and there was a great deal of angry demand that every rebel in town should be killed, the quiet statement from some one in the crowd, myself on several occasions, that if Mr. Lincoln were alive he would counsel peace, quieted the angry people. His recent inaugural address containing the memorable words: 'With malice towards none, and charity for all' had endeared him to the people. They knew that he was a man of peace, and, while dying at the hand of an assassin, the influence of his name was sufficient to maintain peace and order at the national capital at the most critical hour of its existence. I was standing in front of Willard's hotel when Senator Solomon Foote, of Vermont, drove up in a common, cheap hack which he had picked up on the street. He called me to him, saying that he was looking for some senator to accompany him to the residence of Chief Justice Salmon P. Chase, whom he was going to get to administer the oath to Vice President Johnson. I got in with him and rode to the residence of Mr. Chase on the corner of Sixth and E streets, and he was speedily ready to accompany us. We three then drove to the Kirkwood house, on Twelfth street and Pennsylvania avenue, and proceeded to the room of Vice President Johnson. I hammered upon the door and awakened Mr. Johnson, who had but recently fallen into a slumber from exhaustion and nervous strain. He came to the door but partly clad and admitted us. In his little parlor, which was about twelve by fourteen feet in dimensions, adjoining the bedroom which he had just left, Mr. Johnson took the oath of president of the United States, which was administered to him by Chief Justice Chase, in the presence of Senator Foote and myself. There were no other witnesses. Some other people may have entered the room, as has been stated in the newspapers, but they were not noticed by us and were not men of prominence in public life." SAMUEL D. FRY.

Traveled Down.

Householder—I'm going to move to the suburbs next Monday, and I'd like you to do the job.

Mover—How many loads, sir?

"I don't know. You moved me once, you remember."

"Yes, sir."

"I needed three vans then to get through, but that was some years ago."

"Have you moved since, sir?"

"Yes, indeed, half a dozen times."

"Hum! I should say one van will carry all you have left now, sir."—Boston Globe.

Subjected to a Great Strain.

"Yes, sir," said the tailor, "I'll guarantee that this material will not stretch out of shape, and will wear like iron."

"Then," said the anxious customer, "you may make me up a suit. But I want to be dead sure about it," he added, a slight quaver in his voice. "I am paying regular visits to a girl in Brooklyn who tips the scales at two hundred pounds, and I don't want that suit to give out on me."—Life.

About Kissing.

He—My dear cousin, I assure you I would never dare rob those sweet lips of a kiss.

She—O, you hypocrite! didn't you make an attempt of that character the other day?

He—Never. Far from having any intention of robbing you of a kiss, I was trying to give you one.—Texas Siftings.

Johnny's Scheme.

"Say, pa."

"Well, Johnny?"

"I see in this paper they say they're goin' to have a whaler at the world's fair."

"Well, what of that?"

"Nothin', only I thought you might apply for the place for ma. She'd make a good one."—Brooklyn Life.

A Hint.

"Have you got a collection of any kind," asked Uncle Mark, "that I can help you with?"

"Yes, sir," replied Ned; "I've got a collection of United States coins in my bank, but nothing larger than a dime."—Harper's Young People.

What She Needed.

The Parvenu—Ah, professor, won't you tell me what books you think I ought to get for a winter's course of reading?

The Professor—Certainly. A second reader and a spelling book.—Chicago News Record.

Willing to Oblige.

Jones (on his knees)—Oh, Maria, be considerate and put me out of my misery at once.

Maria—I will, Mr. Jones; you stay there till I get the shotgun.

Exit Jones through the window.—Texas Siftings.

One Exception.

Nippen—I tell you, revolutions never go backward!

Tuck—That's all bosh. The revolving years have brought this old dress coat of mine into fashion seven times since I first got it.—Chicago Tribune.

Another Infant Prodigy.

"This child," said the clergyman, who was about to christen Brown's baby, "may some day make a noise in the world."

And the next minute when Master Brown felt the cold water, the good man's prophecy was verified more speedily than he had expected.—Truth.

The Reason Was Plain.

Traveler—This umbrella belonged to Tennyson.

Goggle Eyes—You don't say so! How did you come to get it?

Traveler—I was having a lunch in London one day, and he dropped in to get a bite too. I left before he did.—Texas Siftings.

A Question of Eyesight.

Mrs. McGinnis—Oi b'lave Oi saw six pair av shtockin's hangin' on Mrs. Murphy's line yisterday.

Mrs. Reilley—It must be cross-eyed you're gittin', Mrs. McGinnis. She hain't got six pair in her whole repertwire.—Judge.

Another Genius Discouraged.

"So you wrote her a poem?"

"Yes," replied the young man, sadly.

"What did she say?"

"She said she admired my letter; but she didn't quite understand why every line began with a capital letter."—Boston Globe.

The City of Quick Marriages.

Visitor (in Chicago)—And are you lost, little man?

Small Boy—Yes, ma'am.

Visitor—What's your mamma's name?

Small Boy—I dunno. I've been away from home since ten o'clock this morning.—Judge.

A Considerate Cook.

"You always have a policeman in the kitchen whenever I come in," complained Mrs. Gazzam to her cook.

"Yes'm," replied that considerate domestic, "but I thought you wouldn't like me to take my company into the parlor."—Brooklyn Life.

Knew the Tribe.

Little Dick—See that young man? He's awfully in love with my sister, an' he wants to marry her.

Little Johnny—How do you know?

Little Dick—Oh! he always puts on such a lavender voice w'en he talks to mamma.—Good News.

Fashion Notes.

A young man was recently sued by a young lady because he broke one of her ribs squeezing her. The young man was not quite ready for trial and asked for a stay of proceedings. Of corset was granted.—Des Moines Argonant.

NEW JERSEY'S DISGRACE

The House Passes the Racing Bills Over Werts' Veto.

RUSHED THROUGH IN SHORT ORDER.

The Veto Message of Gov. Werts is Called Up and After One Short Speech in Support of It the Yeas and Nays Are Ordered—All Three Were Passed—Anthony Comstock on Hand—The Senate to Take Action To-day.

TRENTON, Feb. 25.—The Governor's veto of the Racing bills authorizing governing boards to license race courses, was taken up and read in the Assembly yesterday.

Mr. Hutchinson, of Mercer, made a brief speech in favor of the veto, and the question on the passage of the bill, notwithstanding the Governor's objections, was at once put. The bill was then passed, 33 to 25.

Promptly at noon Speaker Flynn called up the Governor's veto, which the clerk read. Almost every member was in his seat.

The gallery was crowded, and a host of politicians from nearly every part of the State choked the space behind the railings separating the seats of members from the front wall.

Inside the railings and lounging against the walls on either side were ranged railroad lobbyists, strikers and leading politicians.

Anthony Comstock, with half a dozen lawyers prominent in Law and Order circles, moved busily about conferring with members opposed to overriding Gov. Werts' veto.

Mr. Comstock said he knew it would be useless to attempt to create any moral impression on the members of the House, but that he hoped to accomplish something in the Senate.

He and his allies of the Law and Order and other societies held a secret meeting later in the day and mapped out a programme.

Speaker Flynn ordered bill No. 299, the first of the lot, to be taken up for passage.

The veto was rejected, and the bill was passed. Nos. 300 and 301 were then passed in short order, and the House adjourned.

The repudiated veto message and the three racing bills were then rushed over to the Senate, whose members had been dozing and dawdling for two hours awaiting their arrival. President Adrian ordered them taken up at once. After the reading of the veto Senator Stokes moved that the three bills and the Governor's message theron be referred to the Committee on Revision of Laws. Adrian declared this to be out of order. The bills were placed on the calendar and the Senate adjourned.

It is said that the Law and Order League people will, if the bills become laws, at once take steps to test their constitutionality in the courts.

DETROIT, Feb. 25.—Henry T. Thurber, of this city, one of the law partners of Hon. Don M. Dickinson, received a telegram offering him the private secretaryship to President-elect Cleveland, and has signified his intention of accepting the appointment.

The appointment came to him without solicitation on the part of himself or his friends, and was extended in recognition of his admirable equipment for the position. Mr. Cleveland has known him for years, and made the selection as a result of thorough acquaintance with Mr. Thurber's qualities and attainments.

Mr. Thurber has been with Mr. Dickinson as a law student and partner for 18 years; has accumulated a modest fortune and is in receipt of a professional income of from $10,000 to $15,000 a year.

When asked whether he could afford to go, he simply said:

"Afford to go! There is nothing to be considered but Mr. Cleveland's call. I hope he is not mistaken in his confidence and judgment of me, but he thinks that I can serve him, and I shall go."

MANGLED IN A VAT.

Awful Death of a Carpenter in a Buffalo Slaughter House.

BUFFALO, Feb. 25.—George Heintz, a carpenter, lost his life in a horrible manner yesterday at Dolde' Slaughter House.

Heintz was called upon to mend a leak in the hog scraper vat, a monster tub fitted with a sort of splasher with six arms equipped with sharp blades which, when in motion, are designed to scrape the hair from the bodies of the hogs.

Heintz concluded his work, and the engineer, supposing he had left the vat, started the machinery. Hardly had the arms began to revolve when a terrible shriek issued from the vat. The machinery was quickly stopped, and Heintz was found at the bottom of the vat with his head crushed and mangled and his neck broken.

He died almost instantly.

Almost Won by the Conservatives in October, on a New Election Being Ordered by the Courts the Gladstonian, on Home Rule Platform, Wins by a Good Majority—The Liquor Interests Aided the Conservatives.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—The Liberals have recaptured Cirencester. Harry L. W. Lawson, the Liberal candidate, has been elected by a vote of 4,687 to 4,445 for Col. Chester-Master, Conservative. In the general election in July, A. B. Winterbotham, Liberal, was elected by 4,207 votes to 4,054 cast for Col. Chester-Master.

After the death of Mr. Winterbotham, another election was held in October, which was sharply contested. Col. Chester-Master, who is descended from the first member of Parliament for Cirencester, who represented that constituency in the time of the Spanish Armada, was declared elected by a vote of 4,277 to 4,278 for Lawson.

The Liberals contested the election, both on the ground that the ballots had not been properly counted, and on charges of corruption and bribery. The court found that the charges of corruption were not sustained, but ordered a new election on the ground that a careful recount of all the ballots showed an equal number of votes cast for each candidate.

Mr. Lawson was thereupon renominated by the Liberals and Col. Chester-Master by the Conservatives and Liberal-Unionists.

The new register showed a decrease of 47 votes, the total number being 10,948.

Great interest was left in the election on account of its being held after the Irish Home Rule bill had been fully launched. Mr. Lawson declared himself in favor of Irish home rule, and also drew attention to the fact that Mr. Gladstone's government proposed to devote special attention to the interests of the rural poor and to create parish or district councils and give the laborer access to the land on fair terms and fair rent. The liquor-dealing interest made vigorous efforts in support of the Conservative candidate, who was also sustained by all the influence the landed gentry could bring to bear. The victory is therefore regarded with great satisfaction by the Liberals, as showing that the agriculturists of the West of England are true to Mr. Gladstone's policy.

MOHAMMEDANISM IN AMERICA.

A Mussulman Missionary Has Begun His Work Among Us.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Alexander Russell Webb is here. He is the American Mohammedan whom the wealthy Mussulmans of India and the East have sent to introduce the faith of Islam among the "civilized" Christians of the West. Eight weeks ago thousands of rich and influential Moslems gathered in Bombay to give the American convert a great send-off and wish him success in his mission.

Mohammed Webb's mission was undertaken in earnest, and is backed by unlimited wealth and zeal. The Mohammedans hope and expect to establish their region in the United States. Mohammed Webb's first step will be to start a high class weekly journal in English; the next step will be to establish a Mohammedan publishing house in which the Koran in English will be printed in unlimited numbers. The third and last step will be the building of a mosque, for which the rich Mohammedans of Bombay have guaranteed $150,000.

Indignant at the Report.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 25.—The friends of the Reading management were somewhat indignant this morning after reading the Chicago despatch, stating that the Pullman Company was building President McLeod a palatial private car at a cost of $50,000 to the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Company. It is stated that in the first place the car is not to cost any sum like $50,000, and in the second place, contrary to the usual practice it is paid for by Mr. McLeod's private funds and not by the company.

Viewing His Probable Death Place.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Feb. 25.—Wm. Greenwood of Germantown, Pa., who announces that he will go through the whirlpool rapids next summer in a small boat has arrived here, accompanied by a party of nine men. They hired a large hand sleigh and started over the river to look around the rapids and get an idea of how the land lay for such an undertaking.

Donoghue Gets His Medal.

For a Regulation Baseball.

TRENTON, Feb. 25.—A bill has been introduced in the House by Mr. Tine making it unlawful for any person or club to use any baseball other than those known as the Duppy curve ball under the penalty of a fine of $500.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS.

Senator McPherson Makes a Funny Remark.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—The debate in the Senate yesterday was not of an exciting or enlivening character. It was over the question presented in the Legislative Appropriation bill, whether the Utah commission which has been in existence for the last ten years, should be abolished as proposed by the House, or continued in office as recommended by the Senate Committee on Appropriations. The question was decided in favor of continuing the commission.

One flash of humor illumined the debate and provoked laughter on both sides of the chamber. It was contained in a remark by Mr. McPherson (Dem. N. J.) to the effect that after the 4th of March, the Democratic party would have the House of Representatives, the Senate, the Executive and at least a part of the Cabinet.

The anti-Option bill met with another defeat in the House. It failed to prevent the Indian Appropriation bill from being taken up and that measure was further considered but without final disposition.

Before the House took up the Indian bill there was brief flurry over the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill which Mr. Bland declared must be considered in Committee of the Whole and it was there referred.

COY MAKES A STATEMENT.

It, With a Strong Plea, May Save His Life.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Feb. 25.—Much excitement has been caused here over the recent events in the case of William Coy, the murderer, who is to be hanged next week.

He has made a statement to his spiritual adviser, the Rev. Dr. Newton, who has given it out for publication. Coy made the statement before he heard of Gov. Russell's reprieve. It is believed he was expecting death. This is the statement of [illegible] William Coy, make this my last statement in reference to the killing of John Watson. I did not premeditate the murder of John Watson. I killed him in a quarrel, as I have told before in the court room, when the judge asked me why sentence should not be passed upon me. I have to the clergyman, Dr. Newton [illegible] Christ, Dr. Newton [illegible] through Jesus Christ [illegible] and I believe in the Apostles creed as I have stated it in my cell. I am a Baptist member of the Christian church. I have received the sacrament in the Lord's Supper according to the word of the Lord Jesus Christ.

"This is in remembrance of me.

"[illegible] to all mankind, and my last words are for my fellow-prisoners, who have treated me kindly while here. WILLIAM COY."

Dr. Newton will formally appear before Governor Russell early next week and make a plea for commutation of sentence as he is thoroughly convinced that the crime was committed in self defense. Sheriff Crosby says he will let the gallows stand for the present.

MURDERED BY A HATCHET.

The Awful Discovery Made by the Daughter of Mrs. Bender.

LANCASTER, Feb. 25.—Yesterday afternoon Lizzie Bender went to her home in this city and found her mother lying on a table with her head all mashed and gashed and the skull crushed in. The woman was still living, but she cannot recover.

A bloody hatchet lying near by told a tale of attempted murder.

Henry Hildebrandt, a young man, who boarded with the Benders until recently, when they refused to allow him to remain any longer, was seen hovering around the place in the morning, and he is suspected of having committed the crime.

The police are looking for him.

Ran Away with Her Husband's Cousin.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 25.—Mrs. Viola E. Herriman, wife of Dr. W. J. Herriman, a wealthy and well known citizen of Rochester, N. Y., has been discovered in this city, living in a flat with Charles O. Herriman, cousin of her husband, as his wife. Mrs. Herriman left her home last October ostensibly to go to Europe. The couple left Kansas City Wednesday, but not before a copy of a petition for divorce had been served on Mrs. Herriman.

Baby Boiled to Death in a Kettle of Milk.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 25.—The 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Grubbs, who reside near the city limits, was boiled to death in a kettle of scalding hot milk that had been set out to cool preparatory to feeding some hogs. The mother is demented, while Mr. Grubb is on the verge of insanity.

Clyde Ship Models for the Fair.

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—The steamship Bolivia, just arrived, has brought eight cases containing models of vessels built by James & George Thompson, the famous Clyde shipbuilders, for exhibition at the World's Fair at Chicago. The models are valued at $9,750.

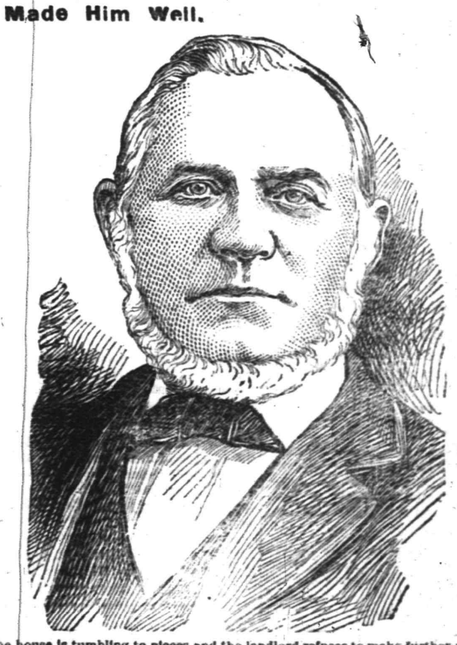
Won't Succeed Bishop Brooks.

BOSTON, Feb. 25.—It is said in high sources that Dr. Huntington has refused to allow his name to be used as a candidate for the Massachusetts Bishopric to succeed Phillips Brooks, and that if elected he would not accept the office.

HOUSE NEEDS REPAIRS.

New Supporters Will Keep the Structure Sound.

The Nerves Need Food, the Blood Needs Nourishment--Lucius Hayward's Recovery from Nervous Prostration Due to Paine's Celery Compound--Had on Two Occasions Employed Physicians--The Famous Remedy Made Him Well.



"The house is tumbling to pieces and the landlord refuses to make further repairs" says many a sick man who may be well.

The body, to be sure, is a house that is hard to repair.

But new supports, like real foods for the nerves and blood, can keep the structure sound. Such a well-seasoned prop and nerve food has Paine's celery compound proved, that but to name it is to praise it. Says Mr. Lucius Hayward of Campello, Mass., whose portrait is given above:

"About three years ago I was sick with the 'shingles.' Dr. Hammond attended me through them, but I was not cured. I was so nervous nights that I could not sleep much. I could work some, but my nerves troubled me all the time. I finally took cold and was sick again.

"I then called Dr. Freeman. He pronounced it nervous prostration. I was sick for a long time, but I finally recovered and began to gain strength, and got so that I could work some. But I was still nervous, and took bromide to make me sleep at night. At the same time my back and kidneys were sore and weak, and now and then I had to go to the doctor's and get a prescription. Whenever I took cold I went back again where I was before. My liver troubled me, and my kidneys were weak and my back lame.

"I chanced to look over the Boston Journal, and saw a notice of Paine's celery compound, and determined that I would try it. When I had used one bottle I began to feel strong, and my stomach began to feel better, and my appetite began to come back, and my kidneys and back were stronger. I told my wife that I felt more like myself than I had for a long time, and I continued taking the compound until three months ago. I have required none since, and work every day except the Sabbath. It made me well. I have recommended Paine's celery compound to my friends and to all those who have trouble with their nervous system."

Paine's celery compound is the prescription of one of the most eminent practitioners that medicine has had. It is the remedy that when work begins to be a bore and the nerves are out of order, and sleep is not easy, should be taken at once.

—The second number of Current Topics, that most admirable publication of which Prof. Edwin H. Lewis of this city is literary editor, is published, and shows improvement over even the excellent initial issue. Mr. Lewis's novelette "The Wolfsbane" grows in interest. The scenes are laid in New Jersey, and the story has strong local coloring as well as high literary merit.

—If you are depressed through any of the numerous natural causes of this life, "A tilt with your wife", loss on stocks or races, a little bilious, or, "What shall I do to pass the evening" sort of feeling, go to see the "Still Alarm", to-night. Not to have seen this most successful of all plays is to confess yourself "Behind the times". It will make you cheerful, cause you to cry a little, laugh much, resolve to be a better man or woman, thrill you to the marrow, and altogether make you feel better satisfied that there are good things in this life if you only "get on" to them.

—It is now over six years since Joseph Arthur put on the stage of the Fourteenth Street theater of New York, the first production of his famous comedy drama, "The Still Alarm", and introduced for the first time on any stage a fireman of the modern paid fire department as a stage hero. For the first time at the alarm a span of trained horses sprang into the harness and rushed off with a smoking, spark-showering, real fire engine, driven by the hero, to the rescue of the heroine of a play. It was an instantaneous hit and for months crowded this New York theater, and for six years it has delighted thousands in every city in America and England.

DR. FIELD'S A SURGEON.

He Took a Useless Crippled Hand and Made a Perfect Member of It.

A wonderful surgical operation was performed by Dr. C. M. Field, assisted by Dr. Gaston, of this city, last Saturday, on the arm, wrist and hand of Mrs. A. B. Warner, of West Second street.

Mrs. Warner on the morning of January 2, fell on the icy boardwalk in her yard and broke her arm and dislocated and fractured the bones of the wrist. A physician set the fractured arm and wrist, and in five weeks the splints were removed. It was found that the wrist and knuckles and all the joints of the hand were knotted firmly together. Dr. Field was called, and made an examination, and with the assistance of Dr. Gaston, after putting Mrs. Warner in an etherized state, performed the operation, and after the most extraordinary exertions succeeded in breaking up every joint. Dr. Field says she will with care have a good and useful hand. He also said in her case it was the worst dislocation and fracture of the hand that has ever come to his notice.

PLAINFIELD MASS-MEETING.

Citizens to Protest Against Race-Track Legislation.

The people of Plainfield will again arise in their might to-morrow and protest against race-track legislation in New Jersey.

Manager J. A. Demarest has donated the use of Music Hall, and a mass-meeting will be held there to-morrow afternoon at 4, at which Mayor Gilbert will preside, and all the clergymen will speak.

If the Senate pass the race-track bills over the Governor's veto to-day, the meeting will be to urge instant repeal of the obnoxious laws.

If the Senate defer action, the meeting will be in protest of the pending bills being passed.

The Rev. Dr. Richards has received a telegram from the Rev. Dr. Kempshall of Elizabeth urging that Plainfield show herself again as last year; and in consequence this city will probably once more send a strong delegation of influential men to Trenton to fight the race-track legislation.

Late news from Trenton is to the effect that the Senate passed the bills this afternoon, and that they now are laws.

COUNCIL SEVERELY SCORED.

Dr. Lewis Says the Plainfield City Fathers Insulted Every Christian Church.

As a prelude to his sermon this morning in the Seventh-day Baptist church, Dr. Lewis said:

When our Common Council, last Monday evening, contemptuously ignored the protests and pleadings of Christianity, notably those of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, and legalized a rum shop within 100 feet of the door of the church, every Christian church was openly and gratuitously insulted, and Christ was officially and publicly dishonored. We expected that licenses would be granted, and things had been "fixed" in caucus, but we had a faint hope that one little concession might be granted to Christianity. Well did Colonel Case say that the Council would not dare to locate a saloon within that distance of any of the strong and wealthy churches, and that if these people were poor and black they needed protection and help all the more. In the face of all this, it was pitiful and humiliating to hear Christian men answer "aye" to such a shame. Think of it! Prohibit the sewer nuisance, lest Green brook be contaminated, then establish a school of vice and crime at the door of a Christian church.

LARGELY A DOVE AFFAIR.

A Cultured Boston Woman Personally Conducts a Plainfield Audience With Booth Through Darkest England.

The first of the entertainments organized by Mrs. David P. Hall, of Scotch Plains, took place at the residence of Mrs. Rowland Cox, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Hall's sister, Mrs. Maud Howe Elliott of Boston, read a paper on the work of the Salvation Army, called "With Booth in Darkest England".

Mrs. Cox's dining room was crowded with a fashionable gathering, chiefly of Plainfield's fairest representatives of the gentler sex, eager to hear Mrs. Elliott speak on any theme. Her pleasing voice and sympathetic manner added greatly to the effect of the cleverly written paper. She was charmingly attired in a yellow gown.

Many who have previously regarded the methods of the Salvation Army with distrust must have had their opinions changed by Mrs. Elliott's able exposition of the principles of that institution and her interesting accounts of the almost incalculable good done in London and other large cities in the past three of four years.

The next reading of the course will be by the celebrated novelist, F. Marion Crawford, at Seminary Hall, the evening of March 4.

A Worthy Institution.

St. Joseph's Home for "living-out" girls, under the protection of St. Joseph's church, Manning avenue, has been opened this week in the old rectory near the church. It will be supported by public contributions; its object is to provide a home for worthy young women when sick or out of situation. Those ladies needing help will find it convenient and reliable for obtaining the help desired. Many —even non-Catholic ladies— have expressed their wish to contribute to the support of the Home, and have expressed their satisfaction at its establishment. It will be conducted under the general management of Mrs. Mary Reilly. A board of visitors composed of Mrs. R. A. Boyce, Mrs. B. H. McCullough, and Mrs. Shotwell, will have charge of its supervision. Ladies desiring help may apply at the home, 57 Manning avenue, or to the Rev. clergy of St. Joseph's church.

Dropped Dead in the Westfield Station.

Orrin Pearson, a wealthy farmer of Westfield, walked from his home to the Jersey Central railroad station yesterday to take a train for New York. He went to the ticket office, and as he was turning from the window he fell dead from apoplexy. He was 87 years old and had never been sick during his life. He leaves a widow and four children.

Kept up for years—the offer I now make for the proprietors of Doctor Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It's addressed to you, if you have Catarrh. It's a reward of $500, if they can't cure you, no matter how bad your case, or of how long standing—an offer that's made in good faith by responsible men.

Think what it means! Absolute confidence in their Remedy, or they couldn't afford to take the risk. A long record of perfect and permanent cures of the worst cases—or they couldn't have faith in it. It means no more catarrh—or $500. If you fail to be cured, you won't fail to be paid.

But perhaps you won't believe it. Then there's another reason for trying it. Show that you can't be cured, and you'll get $500. It's a plain business offer. The makers of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will pay you that amount if they can't cure you. They know that they can—you think that they can't. If they're wrong, you get the cash. If you're wrong, you're rid of catarrh.

A JOLLY GOOD TIME.

Plainfield's Male Population Enjoy the Crescent League Smoker.

The "Smoker" and athletic entertainment given in the rink last night under the auspices of the Crescent League was successful in every respect. By 8 five hundred men had stormed the doors and were comfortably seated inside in semi-circular rows before a huge stage on which a twenty foot ring had been erected. The entertainment was a "Smoker", 't is true, to those who brought their own tobacco to burn, but those who expected and wanted clay pipes and the seductive weed free, found it not.

In one corner of the huge building the pennant which the Crescents at last have received from A. G. Spalding was swung. It is about twenty feet long of white bunting reading in blood-hued letters a foot long, "Champions of New Jersey, 1892". From the bottom hung a picture of the pennant winning team and the placard: "We are the Crescents, give us room". Now let Somerville croak in vain. We have the pennant. It might have been worked in gold for the price we paid for it, but like the festive bird of prey that buzzes around our ears in July, We got there just the same.

As to the athletic entertainment of last night, there were present lawyers, judges, doctors, brokers, bankers, business men, sports of high and low degree, and each one enjoyed himself. Overhead hung a blue cloud of smoke, giving a sort of bohemian tinge to the show. Before the programme began the Citizens' Band played "My Sweetheart He Keeps a Saloon". For some unknown reason the quartette, which was to begin the ball and like a prayer at a political gathering give an air of respectability to it, failed to materialize, so Frank Tenelli opened with a few funny things. All of them had been heard before but the audience bore bravely with him and actually gave him some applause.

He was followed by a fencing bout between Prof. O'Kiefe and Louis Tenelli, who, after a great many bows, scrapings, and stamping of the feet, donned their masks and began to prod each other, at first easily and then harder.

By the time Mr. Kline announced the wrestling bout between Hugh Leonard and an unknown, the critical Plainfield audience had emerged out of their icy shells and were prepared to enthuse. Leonard proved to be a better man than the "Unknown", although he had hard work for a time. The "Unknown" by several cute somersaults saved a fall more than once, but in the end both of his shoulders touched the floor. The last fall Leonard made was when he threw the "Unknown" from him by a great effort.

Al Birch then sang three comic ditties which pleased the crowd, especially the one in reference to the "Gold Cure", which was quite pointed. Birch was followed by Elmer P. Ransom, who did several very clever tricks in a most mysterious manner. Then, as a Mr. Elmendorf wanted to catch the train, he was allowed to have his say, which he did in a very worthy manner.

Then came the "Pickaninnies" in their own special act. The little coons hail from Jersey City and in private life revel in the name of Bellfield. They are respectively 14 and 17 years of age and are very small. When rigged for the ring they look to be about 8 each. They marched to the center of the ring and gravely grasped hands. Then without ado they fell to hammering one another with utter disregard for features or wounds. They fought 3 2-minute rounds. In the last they were forced apart, the excitement of the occasion rather getting the better of their good nature. Without doubt they earned their $5.

Prof. O'Kiefe then gave an exhibition of sword tricks the like of which are seldom seen. By a sweep of his mighty arm he cut huge sticks in two with the sharp blade in every conceivable position, and to wind-up and convert the skeptical he severed an inch stick that rested on the noses of two men, with one sweep of the sword. After this the band again lulled the spectators into quietude, which was broken by the "Great Pendelton" doing an act in black-face magic. All of his tricks were clever though they were easily seen into when he remarked "Watch the Professor".

This was next to the last number on the programme but an unexpected pleasure awaited the audience. Mr. Wilshire of the Westfield Standard was present, and as a friend of Mr. Thomas of Courier fame, he was permitted to address a few remarks. He proved to be quite facetious.

The wind-up set-to between Louis Tenelli and Harry Brown was awfully tame. Tenelli was the better man from the start and banged Brown all around the ring. Biff! Bang! and against the ropes Mr. Brown would go. Three rounds of three minutes each were enough for Brown who puffed and blowed like a whale, while Tenelli was as fresh as a daisy. This closed the show and the crowd went home well pleased.

The League will net about $150 by the entertainment. Two of Plainfield's finest stood in the back of the rink and enjoyed the show with the rest. It is presumed that they were on duty to prevent any blood being spilled by any of the contestants.

The gentlemen who engineered the show are to be praised and congratulated. They are Messrs. Kline, Reed, Leggett, Stevens and Sangston.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely with out solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren avenue, Chicago, Ill.

FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE PEOPLE OF PLAINFIELD.

The Law the Mayor and Common Council Propose as a Safeguard Against the Board of Education's Autocratic Authority.

Following is the full text of the bill now before the New Jersey legislature, intended to deprive the Plainfield Board of Education of the power it recently abused:

An Act concerning the purchase of lands and the providing of buildings for school purposes in cities.

1. BE IT ENACTED by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no municipal board of any city other than the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body of said city shall have power to purchase land or to erect or alter any building for school purposes, the expense of which shall exceed one thousand dollars, without the concurrence and approval first obtained of the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body of said city. Provided that this section shall not take effect in any city until this act shall have been accepted in such city as hereinafter provided.

2. And be it enacted, that the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body of any city may by resolution submit the question of the acceptance or rejection of this act to the voters of said city at any annual charter or general election held after the approval of this act, or said resolution may provide for the holding of a special election which is hereby authorized to be held for the purpose. Notice of any election to be held under the provisions of this act shall be published at least once in each week for two weeks next preceding such election in the official newspapers of the city in which said election is to be held; all such elections shall be held under the same regulations as now are or may be prescribed by law for holding the elections for members of the general assembly of this State, except as herein otherwise provided; and if a majority of those who shall vote for the acceptance or rejection of the act, shall vote for its acceptance, then this act shall go into effect immediately in said city, and shall be deemed to be accepted by said city, and said city shall be bound by the terms of this act; persons entitled to vote at such election shall express their acceptance or rejection of this act by depositing their ballots in a separate box which shall be provided for depositing such ballots at such election in the election precincts or wards of such city; and those who are in favor of the acceptance of this act shall each deposit a ballot containing the words, "In favor of the act limiting expenditures for school-houses" written or printed there on, and those who are opposed shall each deposit a ballot with the words "Against the act limiting expenditures for school-houses", written or printed thereon. Said ballots shall contain no party designation or any other words than those specified above, and together with official envelopes which shall be indorsed with the words "school question" in addition to the other necessary indorsements on said envelopes, shall be supplied by the city clerk of said city, who is hereby directed to furnish the same without further prerequisite, in case the common council, board of aldermen or other governing body of such city shall by resolution order such election as aforesaid; there shall be a canvass on the return of the votes upon this question of such acceptance or rejection made by the election officers in the same way and manner as for officers voted for at any general or charter election; and if a majority of the ballots on which there shall be found the words "In favor of the act limiting expenditures for school-houses", or "Against the act limiting expenditures for school-houses", shall be found for the acceptance of this act, it shall immediately go into effect, and be binding upon said city wherein said vote shall have been taken.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts, general or special, so far as they are inconsistent with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

OBITUARY.

Edward Miller.

Edward Miller, a prominent citizen of Fanwood township and brother of Lewis W. Miller, for some years past the treasurer of the township of Fanwood, died at his residence on the old Miller farm at Scotch Plains on Sunday evening last after a short illness, leaving a widow and a son about nine years old. It is seldom that we are called upon to record the death of anyone whose place will be so difficult to fill in the affections of his townspeople.

Residing in Scotch Plains for more than 35 years, and during a large part of that time filling various township offices to which he was elected by the votes of friends in both parties, his extreme amiability, affectionate disposition, absolute unselfishness and unswerving honesty and integrity contributed to endear Mr. Miller to all with whom he had business or social relations. To no one could Halleck's beautiful lines be more appropriately applied:

"None knew thee but to love thee,
None named thee but to praise."

The funeral obsequies were held at the Baptist church at Scotch Plains Thursday afternoon at 3. The sermon was preached by the pastor, the Rev. J. H. Parks, D. D., and bore strong testimony to the virtues of the deceased.

The Still Alarm This Evening.

This play comes here with all the accessories, including Little Tuesday, that have made it famous and a great favorite in all large cities for many seasons. A good play, well played, never grows old with the people. Such an entertainment is Joseph Arthur's "Still Alarm". The story is interesting and well told; in it are tears, smiles, laughter and exciting episodes that start the blood running faster through the veins; just such a play as the witnessing of sends the audience out of the house fully satisfied with the entertainment. A play that is all laughter may be enjoyed, but the audience leave the house with the feeling that they have laughed too much, while a play in which the tears have welled into the eyes and been driven away by a smile, this followed by hearty laughter, and these sensations by excitement, is a satisfactory entertainment, and one that leaves the feeling that you have really had an evening of enjoyment. A fine quartette of male singers are a pleasing feature of the "Still Alarm".

Mr. Roome in Luck Through Mr. Hooley's Pluck.

Thursday eve ing as Edward S. Hooley, the New York stock broker, was returning to his home in this city from the residence of his father-in-law, J. B Brooks, of Washington Park, he met a man with a suspicious looking bundle under his arm. Mr. Hooley hailed the man, who at once dropped the bundle and ran away in the darkness. The bundle when picked up proved to be a costly fur robe.

Driving along in the direction from from which the man came, Mr. Hooley reached the stable of William J. Roome, inside of which the coachman was at work. Outside stood Mr. Roome's cutter. Mr. Hooley inquired if a robe was missing, and the coachman after examining the interior of the sleigh said yes. He identified the one Mr. Hooley had recovered. It cost $50.

Farm Festivities.

On the way to the "pink tea" at Sam Allen's "farm", Thursday night, Fred. Bloom, Sam Allen, Frank Vermeule and Frank Vosseler, came near being wrecked while driving with a sleigh on East Front street. The runners caught in the railway track, and one of the runners became disjointed. The entire party alighted and after liquordating at a saloon the party went on and reached the farm.

The festivities were continued last night, when another delegation paid a visit to the place, and kept up the cotillion until morning.

A large number of dolls in evening costume, will grace the occasion. Wedding cake in boxes, and refreshments at little tables, with toy tea-sets, will be offered for sale. This entertainment is for the benefit of the centennial fund for foreign missions.

FOR MOTHERS.

Stories of Children to Touch the Heart.

Parents Who Read These Lines Will Find Food For Thought.

There Can Be Nothing More Interesting Than That Concerning Children.

"It affords me greatest pleasure," said the noted scholar, Prof. J. M. Elwood, of 43 Cornelia street, Brooklyn, N. Y., "to state that my daughter, who was a sufferer from St. Vitus' dance, and who was treated for it by prominent physicians in Brooklyn without result, was completely cured by using two bottles of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy."

Mrs. J. A. Ferre, who resides at No. 905 Main street, Hartford, Conn., says: "My daughter became very ill with St. Vitus' dance over a year ago. She became so bad that she lost the use of her right arm and side, and we thought at one time she would lose her speech. Her tongue was almost paralyzed. She was so bad that she could not feed herself, and at night she would get so nervous I had to sit and hold her; I tried several doctors but they did not do her any good; I did not find anything that would hold her until I tried Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy; she is now entirely over the St. Vitus' dance and her health is improving."

"My little daughter, Ethel May," said Mrs. H. H. Watson, of 153 Bloomingdale street, Worcester, Mass., "was terribly and alarmingly sick; she had twenty-six convulsions in two years; her nerves were very weak, her appetite very bad; she could not sleep nights, her limbs would draw up, and she suffered, oh, so much! She was as yellow as saffron, and weak and delicate; our local doctors gave her up, saying she could not be cured.

"But thanks to a wonderful medicine, she is now perfectly well and healthy. This remedy is Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and it has completely cured my little girl."

Mrs. Henry Fry, who lives at 4 Flint place, South Boston, Mass., states:

"My daughter, 12 years old, became affected with St. Vitus' dance; I at once placed her under the care of physicians at the Boston Dispensary, where she was treated for three months; she grew worse until she entirely lost her speech, and the right arm became useless; I tried other remedies without benefit; finally I began the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and before finishing one bottle she could talk; she has now used six bottles and she talks as well as ever, has perfect use of her arm and is wonderfully improved in all respects.

"The effects of this wonderful medicine in her case has excited great interest in many neighbors and friends who are acquainted with the facts."

"My little girl," said Mr. C. H. Bemis, Esq., of Granby, Mass., "had been taking medicines for a severe nervous trouble for nearly two years, receiving no benefit; I then bought a bottle of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and her recovery by its use has been remarkable; others of the family have also received benefit from its use."

Mrs. E. J. Emigh, who resides at 318 Delaware avenue, Pittston, Pa., says: "My daughter at the age of 14 years was suffering with a nervous disease, at times unable to walk or talk, and was constantly in motion night and day.

"After trying all the physicians at home and all failing to benefit her, I tried Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and it worked like magic; she has taken three bottles, and is now a strong, healthy girl. I can truly say that this wonderful remedy is the best thing for nervous diseases."

There is no mistaking the fact that this is the true children's medicine and that it occupies in the household the position of the best and surest family remedy; it is perfectly harmless to give to nervous, restless, sleepless and sick infants and children of any age, being made from pure and health-giving vegetable medicines.

If your child is sick, send instantly to your druggist for a bottle of this wonderful curer of disease, and when you see your darling gain steadily in health and strength day by day, you, like thousands of other parents, will bless the day you learned of its marvellous curative properties. It is recommended by doctors, indeed, it is the discovery of an eminent physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14 st., New York, the successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, and he can in all cases be consulted free, personally or by letter.

A Successful Parent.

A clerk from one of the government departments was in Detroit recently visiting a friend.

"Who's the party I saw with you yesterday?" asked a citizen of the host.

"He's from Washington," was the rather indefinite reply.

"What does he do there?"

"He's an artist."

"Why, some one told me he was a government employe."

"He is."

"He isn't much of an artist, is he?"

"Of course; why not?"

"Because if he were he wouldn't be in the government employ."

"He is, just the same, and a first-class artist, too."

"What does he do?"

"He draws."

"Draws what?"

"Eighteen hundred dollars every year."—Detroit Free Press.

A BONANZA KING SHOT

John W. Mackay Wounded by a Mad Man.

FATALLY SHOOTS HIMSELF.

The Bullet Entered Mackay's Back—An Intervening Wagon Probably Saves His Life—The Millionaire Cable Owner Does Not Know His Assailant—The Wound Not Serious.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 25.—John W. Mackay, the famous Bonanza mining man and financier, was shot through the back shortly after noon yesterday by a man by the name of Patrick J. Lynch, an old State Senator, and narrowly escaped death.

Lynch, after firing one shot at Mackay, shot himself through the left breast and will die.

Owing to the great excitement, it was some time after the shooting occurred before the shooter's name was ascertained. It was Lynch instead of Ratcliffe or Dunn, as was reported soon after the affair.

So far Mackey's wound is not serious, and there is no danger of a fatal termination.

The shooting occurred in the paved court back of the Lick House, which runs from Sutter to Post streets, between Montgomery and Kearney.

A white haired man was noticed walking around Sutter street acting very nervously during the early portion of the morning, throwing his hand back toward his hip pocket.

It is the custom of John W. Mackay to come about noon time every day to the jewelry store at the corner of Sutter street and Lick alley to compare the time of day, and he is always very prompt. As Mackay reached the end of the alley nearest Sutter street and a few feet away from where the old man was standing, the latter pulled out his revolver and fired one shot. The bullet struck Mackay in the middle of the back.

After firing the shot the would-be murderer then supplemented his crime by turning the pistol on himself firing a shot into his own body. The self-inflicted wound was serious, but as long as he could walk he followed Mackay up trying to fire at him again, but he was so weak that he could not pull the trigger. He then threw up his hands, exclaiming: "My God, I am satisfied!"

Mackay put his hand behind his back, and some one raised his coat. As he drew his hand out it was covered with blood. He exclaimed to one of his friends that the shot had taken effect in the middle of his back.

Mackay was placed in a buggy and taken to the Palace Hotel, where medical attendance was rendered him.

His assailant was taken to the City receiving hospital.

John Bonner, who was an eye witness to the shooting, said that probably the only thing that saved Mr. Mackay's life was the fact that a wagon was in the street, and in crossing over Mr. Mackay got the vehicle between himself and the shooter.

Mr. Mackay made the following statement:

"I was walking down Sutter street bound for my room to pack my valise, as I intended to go to Virginia City.

"I had hardly taken two steps into Lick alley when I heard a pistol shot. I paused for a moment, rather startled, for I had not seen any one in the alley when I entered it, and did not at first know from which direction the report of the pistol came.

"Suddenly a voice exclaimed, 'Mr. Mackay, you have been shot!' and looking up I saw the gentleman who brought me to my room.

"'No, I am not shot,' I replied.

"'Yes you are,' he insisted, 'for I saw the dust fly from your coat when the bullet struck you.'

"I put my hand around under my coat, and, sure enough, when I looked my hand was covered with blood. I then felt pain in my back. Mr. Bonner brought me to the hotel."

When Mr. Mackay was asked if he knew the man who had shot him, he replied:

"I had a good look at the old man who shot me and I am certain that I never knew him. I cannot give any reason for the assault."

Soon after being taken to the hotel physicians extracted the bullet. It had entered below the right shoulder blade and, ranging slightly to the right, struck the vertebræ and lodged in one of the spinous processes. The wound is not necessarily fatal, but the patient will by no means be out of danger for some time.

Richard V. Dey telegraphed Mrs. Mackay in London and to young Mr. Mackay that Mr. Mackay had been shot, but that the wound was not considered dangerous.

The would-be murderer was well known to old timers in San Francisco and was a familiar figure. Everybody knew him and considered him to be harmless.

The old man has been very despondent of late, and nearly all of his means has been swallowed up in stock speculations. He was born in Cincinnati, and has a wife and family there. At one time he was worth over $100,000, and made about $50,000 on Comstock. He came to San Francisco and began gambling in stocks. His money soon began to go, and he has resorted to different means to support himself.

Latterly he was almost without means and was in a very despondent frame of mind.

Notwithstanding Mr. Mackay's loss of from $40,000,000 to $15,000,000 by the great wheat deal of 1887, he still ranks as one of the wealthiest men on the Pacific coast. His fortune is rated at from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000. He was at one time a poor newsboy on Park row, New York. He came from Ireland when a mere lad and of his early history very little is known. He early developed the taste of the wanderer and speculator and emigrated westward. A few years before the discovery of gold he was a saloon keeper in Louisville. In 1845 he discovered the great Comstock lode and sprang from a poor prospector into fifty times a millionaire.

He is well known in the East as a large stockholder in the Mackay-Bennett Cable or Comercial Cable company.

Mrs. Mackay, who is well known on account of her unsuccessful law suits against persons who, she alleged, slandered her, during late years has lived altogether in Paris, where she has moved in the most brilliant society of that gay capital, giving entertainments, which, in expense and elegance, have never been equaled.

Had Him There.

A rather seedy-looking individual, one of the large army who live on their wits, was working the smaller towns of the Fort Worth and Denver city railway as a phrenologist and was waiting at the depot for his train to come. He was walking up and down the platform with his plaster cast head in a bag under his arm. A young farmer who had been making fun of him said sotto voce:

"I don't have to make my living by carrying a plaster head under my arm."

"No," replied the seedy phrenologist; "you carry your plaster head on your shoulders."—Judge.

LAST WEEK OF CONGRESS

Much Important Work to be Done in a Very Short Time.

HAWAIIAN TREATY TO GO OVER

The Appropriations Committee Will Have the Right of Way—Pension, Navy, Postoffice and Agriculture Bills on in the Senate—Judge Hanchett Not to be Confirmed—The House on Minor Bills.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The closing week of the Fifty-second Congress will be characterized by a rush of legislation that has seldom been equalled. As there is not time enough for all the many public and private measures near completion to pass, they must antagonize each other and opposed to them all in both Houses will stand the Appropriation Committee urging immediate action upon the great measures in their charge. The present condition of these bills is as follows:

The Fortifications bill is a law; the Army bill is before the President for signature; the Military Academy and District of Columbia bills are in conference; the Sundry Civil, the Diplomatic and Consular and the Legislative bills have passed both Houses, but have not reached the conference stage. The Pension bill has passed the house and been reported to the Senate and the Naval, Agricultural, Postoffice and deficiency bills are awaiting action at the hands of the Senate Committee on Appropriations.

In the Senate the Naval bill is being discussed to-day. The Agricultural and Postoffice bills are expected to be reported to-morrow and the deficiency bill about the middle of the week. They will be taken up for action as fast as reported. Meantime consideration of these bills and of other pending measures will be suspended from time to time to allow the disposition of conference reports.

In this condition of affairs matters of general legislation can hardly receive much attention, but if opportunity offers Mr. Carey may make another effort to secure consideration for his Omnibus State hood bill, and Senator Blackburn will probably strive to secure the passage of the New York and New Jersey Bridge bill as it came from the House.

There seems to be a set purpose to prevent any further executive session of the Senate if possible.

This will serve a three-fold purpose—defeat action on the nomination of Judge Hanchett; prevent reconsideration of the vote by which the nomination of ex-Congressman Findlay, of Maryland, was ejected, and shelve the Hawaiian treaty of annexation for this session of Congress.

In the House advantage will be taken of the rule permitting action during the last six days of a session under suspension of the rules to rush forward business of an urgent nature. A number of measures of comparatively little interest may be thus passed.

Unless an amicable understanding can be privately reached with reference to the course to be taken with the Sherman bond amendment to the Sundry Civil bill it is probable that it will be moved under suspension of the rules to send all the amendments to conference with formal non-concurrence recommended. It is believed that a two-thirds vote can be secured for this motion. By the adoption of this course the long delays over the numerous amendments of no special interest in themselves would be avoided, leaving only the bond amendment to be fought out in the House.

It is not anticipated that any serious trouble will occur in conference sufficient to endanger the passage of the appropriation bills and compel an extra session of Congress.

A SAD DOUBLE FUNERAL.

Heartrending Scene in Atlanta's Second Tragedy.

ATLANTA, Feb. 27.—The funeral of the Misses Force, who were murdered by their sister, Saturday, took place from their late residence yesterday afternoon. It was probably the largest ever attended in Atlanta's history. The Episcopal and Presbyterian ministers officiated, one of the dead women being an ardent worker in the Episcopal church and the other in the Presbyterian church.

This is one of the saddest tragedies that has ever happened in this part of the country. Miss Julia Force, who did the shooting is supposed to be insane. The direct cause of the tragedy is thought to have been a quarrel.

Miss Force has been considered irresponsible at times and has frequently threatened to kill members of her family. She says that she has for a year been writing out a statement of the family trouble and just completed it. When her mother was absent from the house, she sent the servants out on errands, then going to the room where her sister Florence was sick in bed, she placed a pistol to her right temple and shot her dead. Then going to the kitchen, where her other sister was, she shot her in the same manner. None of the neighbors heard the shots.

Miss Force calmly locked the door and went to the police station as described. The bodies of the women were found by a brother, to whom she had sent a message to the effect that her sister Florence was worse. In response he went home to find the bodies of his dead sisters.

KANSAS REPUBLICANS JOYFUL.

Court Decided the Test Case in Favor of Their House.

TOPEKA, Feb. 27.—Chief Justice Horton has announced his decision in the Gunn case as in favor of the legality of the Republican House.

Judge Johnson, Republican, concurred with the Chief Justice.

This makes the Republican the legal Legislature, and puts the Populist Assembly out in the cold.

Justice Allen, Populist, dissented from the opinion of his brother Justices.

Immediately after the decision of the Supreme Court sustaining the Republican house as the legal body, the Populists went into caucus to decide what course they were to pursue. The meeting lasted into the night and was addressed by Clemens, Webb, Doster and other Populist leaders. Clemens and Webb were for disregarding the mandate of the court and maintaining the Populist house organization by force, if necessary, but Doster spoke in a more temperate vein and advised acquiescence in the decision, the meeting finally appointed a committee of three members of the House to call on Governor Lewelling and obtain his views.

No matter what the House as a body decides to do it is settled that a number of members will take their seats in the Republican House.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 27.—Miss Alice Atkinson, of Converse, this State, has been fined $10 by Judge Baker, of the Federal Court, for alleged violation of the postal laws.

These words are said to reflect on the characters of John Wanamaker, Postmaster-General; A. D. Hazen, Third Assistant Postmaster-General; George Holden, Chief Inspector; and A. L. Lasche, postmaster at Converse.

Mrs. Harris then went to Jersey City, where the druggist's affidavits were prepared and sworn to.

An Interesting Exhibition of Printers and Printing.

The Typotheta, which is now preparing to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the setting up of the first printing press by William Bradford in this city, is expected to co-operate with the Press club in the great exhibition.

The oldest presses will be shown in actual operation alongside of the leviathan machines which print the great daily newspapers.

The great presses will be running night and day during the open hours of the fair, and a daily newspaper, whose staff will include the leading newspaper workers of the metropolis, will be published in the building during the month.

In the composing room a series of contests of typesetting by hand will engage the efforts of the fastest newspaper compositors in the metropolitan district, and the prizes to be offered will probably attract rapid craftsmen from all sections of the country.

Arrangements will be perfected for caring for 500,000 visitors during the progress of the Press club fair.

A series of excursions from near-by towns on all the railroads running into New York is contemplated.

NEW JERSEY SHAKEN UP

Great Mass Meetings Held All Over the State.

WANT THE RACING BILLS REPEALED

Although the Bills Have Become Laws the Indignation of the People May Result in Their Repeal—Bitter Words Said Against Gamblers and Race Track Legislators—Reports of Meetings in the Principal Cities of the State.

TRENTON, Feb. 27.—The passing of the three race track bills by the Senate on Saturday by a vote of 11 to 9, thus completing the act which makes them laws without the consent of the Governor, has stirred up the good people of the "Garden State."

The scene in the Senate Chamber was one long to be remembered. The race track men carried through their programme in great style, though they had not an hour to spare, and not one vote more than enough when the final test came.

They knew that nearly everything depended upon getting them through every stage inside of six days, and they did it. What the end will be, can only be surmised.

Public indignation over the affair is growing, and the introduction of repealing bills in the Legislature to-night is highly probable.

Throughout the State yesterday mass meetings were held, resolutions adopted and committees appointed.

TABERNACLE CROWDED.

Pastor Scudder Gives the Legislature a Roasting.

JERSEY CITY, Feb. 27.—The Rev. John L. Scudder's Tabernacle Church in this city was crowded last night at an indignation meeting to protest against the Race Track laws enacted at Trenton last week. Pastor Scudder presided.

Upon the left of the wall above the platform were the names of the Senators who voted for the bills on a broad piece of canvas under the heading "The Gamblers' Friends in the Senate." At the right on a similar piece of canvas were the names of the Assemblymen who supported the bills.

Pastor Scudder said another infamy had been perpetrated upon the State and New Jersey stood disgraced and humiliated. The gathering before him was irrespective of party, and had come to brand with scorching contempt the black sheep which had crept into the legislative halls.

The people of Trenton, Dr. Scudder thought, should have ridden the legislators on a rail and then dumped them into the Delaware.

He declared that the record of the introduction and passage of the bills beat all others. Speaker Flynn had acted as starter and Thompson had piled the whip. Money made the mare go. The newspapers declared that it took a quarter of a million to make this particular mare go.

Dr. Scudder roundly denounced the bills and the men who had passed them. Governor Werts came in for criticism by the speaker for not having held the bills longer and for not having made his veto message warmer. Ex-Mayor Gilbert Collins and other spoke in a similar strain.

Indignant in the State.

NEWARK, Feb. 27.—The race track legislation at Trenton last week occupied the attention of nearly every clergyman in this city yesterday. Dr. Aylesworth, of the Degrost Methodist Episcopal church, said that Senator Barrett and Assemblymen Lane and Hutchinson should have their names handed down to futher generations for opposing measures which steep New Jersey in crime. The Rev. James Boyd Brady was very bitter in his remarks. At the South Park church last night a mass meeting was held, and resolutions condemning the legislation were passed.

Orange is Up in Arms.

ORANGE, Feb. 27.—In almost every church in this city yesterday the ministers had something to say relative to the passage of the race track bills by the Legislature. The Rev. Dr. Henry M. Storrs, of the First Presbyterian church, said that the passage of the three bills was the greatest outrage upon the people since the dawn of the century. At the Munn Avenue Presbyterian church, of which the Rev. Dr. Ludlow is pastor, the congregation unanimously passed resolutions demanding that the bills be repealed.

Indignant in Elizabeth.

ELIZABETH, Feb. 27.—Mass meetings to denounce the passage of the race track bills were held last night in this city. The crowds were so large that it was necessary to hold overflow meetings. The sentiments of the remarks was that the citizens throughout the State should rise in a body and insist upon an immediate repeal of the obnoxious law.

Want the Laws Repealed.

FREEHOLD, Feb. 27.—A large indignation meeting was held here last night. Strong speeches were made against the race track bills. Resolutions were adopted to appoint a committee to wait on the Senator and Assemblymen from the county and urge them to take steps to have the laws repealed.

Manager Ward's Deal.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Manager Ward made a deal by which Geo. Davis, the general player of last year's Cleveland Club, has been exchanged for Buck Ewing.

CUT THE BODY DOWN.

Miss Cecil Asked the Privilege and It Was Granted Her.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 27.—The lynching at Jellico of the negro Joe Payne for assaulting Miss Fannie Cecil was in itself a very tame affair. He confessed the crime and was swung up to the nearest tree without any noise.

The mob pinned a placard on his back vowing death to anybody who should disturb the body until 10 o'clock during the day. At that hour fully 5,000 people had gathered from neighboring towns.

Miss Cecil sent word that she would take pleasure in cutting down the body. Her wishes were granted, and with a sharp knife she severed the rope, and the body fell to the ground. She smiled as she cut the rope, and the act was greeted with cheers from the vast crowd.

The negroes of that locality are greatly wrought up over the affair.

IT MAKES PEOPLE WELL.

Best Spring Remedy in the World—It is Not a Patent Nostrum.

There is one true specific for diseases arising from a debilitated nervous system and that is Paine's celery compound, so generally prescribed by physicians. It is probably the most remarkable remedy that scientific research of this country has produced. Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M.D., LL. D., of Dartmouth college, first prescribed what is not known the world over as Paine's celery compound, a positive cure for dyspepsia, biliousness, liver complaint, neuralgia, rheumatism, all nervous diseases, and kidney troubles. For the latter, Paine's celery compound has succeeded again and again where everything else has failed.

Washington correspondents have recently given it a great deal of attention since the most wonderful cure effected in the case of General Hamilton.

The medical journals of this country have given more space in the last few years to the many remarkable cases where the use of Paine's celery compound has made people well than to any other one subject.

MACKAY RECOVERING FAST.

The Assailant's Letter Telling Why He Attempted Murder.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 27.—Unless some unexpected complications arise, John W. Mackay, who was shot by Wesley C. Rippey, an aged crank, will have almost entirely recovered in a few days.

Rippey, it would appear, is a humorist as well as a stock gambler. Two women claim him as their husband. One lives in Cincinnati with two sons. The other keeps a lodging house in Seattle, Wash. She, however, obtained a divorce from him some years ago.

A dispatch from Virginia City was received stating that the shooting of Mr. Mackay had caused intense excitement among the Comstock miners. At a meeting of mine superintendents the following was adopted:

"Your old friends of the Comstock, which include a large majority of the population, congratulate you on your providential escape from the bullet of the assassin and hope for your speedy recovery.

One of the curious features of the tragedy was the letter which Rippey left addressed to a morning newspaper. It showed plainly that he had carefully planned his work. After dwelling on the fact that he had always paid his debts and that he had lost $35,000 in mining stock he added:

"I have sowed my corn and have reaped tares, but the man that sowed the tares I reaped, if he don't harvest a whirlwind, it will simply be because I have neither nerve nor strength to pull a trigger. These men in Bine street have driven me to desperation and had I power to-day I would wipe them all off the face of the same city. They have been the cause of more destitution, more demented men, more suicides and the direct cause of separation and destruction of more happy homes than anybody of perjured villains that God ever suffered to live."

SHE PLAYS A SHARP GAME.

Hawaiian Envoy Marsden Says England is Ready to Grasp the Islands.

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—W. C. Wilde, one of the Hawaiian commissioners, left here for San Francisco last night, L. A. Thurston returns to Washington, where he will remain until the new administration takes final action on the matter of annexation, and J. Marsden left for Hawaii yesterday.

Mr. Marsden said: "If the Democrats fail to make speedy action towards annexing the Hawaiian islands, it will be the last chance the United States will ever have to get them.

"England is playing a smart diplomatic game. She knows that to enter a protest would precipitate annexation only, but England stands ready to act at a moment's notice. Warships are on the way and if Minister Woodhouse, the English representative on the islands, has occasion to call troops ashore those troops will never be removed until the English flag is raised over the islands."

THEY HELPED BERKMAN.

Bauer and Knold Sent to a Penitentiary for Five Years.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 27.—Henry B. Bauer and Carl Knold, the Anarchists convicted accessories of Berkman in the shooting of Chairman H. C. Frick of the Carnegie Steel Company, were sentenced Saturday to five years imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary. The Anarchists did not appear at all concerned, and left the court room smiling.

It was expected that sentence would also be be passed upon Dempsey and Beatty, reconvicted of the Homestead poisonings, but the judge postponed their cases till Thursday to further consider the application for a new trial.

Detroiters on a Junket.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—A municipal delegation from Detroit, which is visiting different cities to investigate systems of franchises and local taxation, arrived here yesterday. They go next to Boston and thence to Baltimore, where they will be entertained on board the cruiser Detroit, to which they will present a silver punch bowl. Before they came to New York they had visited Chicago, Pittsburg and Washington.

Is He the Man Who Hacked Her?

LANCASTER, Pa., Feb. 27.—Mrs. Lena Bender, who was hacked with a hatchet, regained consciousness for a brief period Saturday, and said that Henry Hildebrandt, who is accused of the crime, was the only person in the house when she started to the cellar for coal. She remembers getting into the cellar after which all is a blank to her.

—William D. Muckey, of Dog Corners, has twenty acres of unhusked corn now standing in the fields near his home. He was unable to have it husked before cold weather set in.

—It is to be hoped that the council will not drive the good quiet people who now patronize the hotel bars, into the saloons by refusing licenses to Mr. Beerbower and Mr. Miller.

—The case of Rafferty vs. Higgins, for the trial of which constable Mattox drew a jury to act with justice Hetfield this morning, was settled, Higgins promising to vacate Rafferty's premises and pay up the claims.

—Johanna Haley, Mag Bunworth, and others of the Pruden alley tribe, had their usual Sunday racket yesterday and got more or less under the influence. Johanna, in frisking about, fell on the ice in front of Martin Stevens's, and fractured a wrist. The fracture was dressed by Dr. Jenkins, and the patient has been removed to Muhlenberg Hospital.

—A disreputable scene was that on Park avenue, near the Baptist church, Saturday afternoon. A number of young men ranging around 14 years of age, belonging to the best families of the city, "amused" themselves snowballing the turnouts of the ladies who drove by, frightening their horses and greatly alarming them. These young "gentlemen" were not choice in their language, either.

—The borough sidewalks have been kept in unusually good condition, and comparatively free from snow and ice, this winter, but there are still some walks about which complaint is made. Mayor Saunders, when spoken to this morning on the subject, said that the walks east of Somerset street were in charge of Councilman Connolly of the committee on streets, and those west of Somerset in charge of Councilman Hegeman. To them, all complaints should be made, and they will have the street commissioner attend to each walk.

WOULDNT THANK WERTS

UNPLEASANT FEATURE OF THE ANTI-RACE-TRACK MEETING.

Everyone Unanimous That the Jockey Legislation Was an Outrage, But Republican Plainfield Would Not Give Credit to the Stalwart Democrat Who Did All in His Power to Stop It.

The indignation meeting in Music Hall yesterday broke up in disorder over the question whether or not Governor Werts should be given credit by the citizens assembled for his courageous veto of the race-track bills which were subsequently passed over his veto.

The hall contained a large number of representative citizens, such as noted in the following list:

F. H. Andrews,	Martin I. Cooley,
C. F. Affbott,	L. N. Lovell,
H. B. Newhall,	Charles Schermerhorn,
Morgan Taylor,	Dr. Kimball,
A. B. Beers,	Charles Wadsworth,
W. R. Codington,	George Cornwall,
Andrew Vanderbeek,	E. C. Perkins,
Charles Horn,	B. A. Hegeman, sr.,
Townsend Rushmore,	B. A. Hegeman, jr.,
Henry Howland,	John Ulrich,
Charles Fisk,	Dr. H. H. Lowrie,
Frank Marsh,	Stephen Cahoone,
J. H. Brown,	E. R. Pope,
John Doane,	B. F. Day,
W. E. Lowe,	H. E. Bowen,
T. S. Armstrong,	Frank Curtis,
Roger Murray,	George A. Frost,
Henry Squires,	Prof. Frank Smith,
H. K. Newell,	A. M. Runyon,
W. H. Sampson,	Dr. Tomlinson,
G. R. K. Smith,	Robert Mecker,
Ephraim Miller,	T. O. Doane,
Col. R. K. Case,	A. Slauson,
C. W. McCutchen,	Major D. W. Miller,
John Ross,	J. M. Burnett,
C. M. Field,	Lemuel Serrell,
M. S. Ackerman,	Deuse VanVliet,
Andrew Gavett,	J. Gavett,
	George Grant.

The stage was occupied by Mayor Gilbert, who presided, Mayor Saunders, who was overlooked in the call for speeches because he had lost his mustache and was n't recognized, and various of the local clergy.

The speech-makers besides Mayor Gilbert were the Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, ex-Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, the Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlbut, the Rev. W. E. Honeyman, School Superintendent Henry Maxson, the Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, and Editor A. M. Powell of The Philanthropist. They all emphatically denounced the legislators who rushed the race-track bills through. Mr. Randolph was especially bitter, and denounced the bills as designed in the interests of criminal and vagabonds. Mr. Maxson said he was tempted to revise his school definition of a State capital as a place where the people's representatives met to enact good laws, and call it a place where the people were misrepresented and gamblers' interests were conserved.

All agreed that a strong and unceasing fight should be begun, the race-track legislators black-listed and turned down at the polls, and the race-track business made a paramount issue at the polls. Politics, it was urged, should be cast aside. The primaries should be attended and only such men nominated as were pledged in advance for law, order and good government. A letter in this same strain was read from Corporation Counsel Marsh, and supplication for Divine help and guidance was made by the Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes.

When the speechmaking was ended, Mayor Gilbert presented the following resolutions, which he said had been prepared by "the committee":

Be it resolved, By citizens of Plainfield, in mass meeting assembled, on this Sunday, February 26, 1893,

First. That we denounce the said statutes to which our Legislators have sought to commit us as indecent recognitions of the worst influences and elements of our society. By the enactment of said statutes, the State of New Jersey has been humiliated and disgraced, and made to be a promoter of crime to the profit of the criminal classes.

Second. That the said statutes have been passed in violation of the undivided protest of all right minded citizens in defiance of a unanimous expression of disapproval by the respectable classes of society, and at the direct solicitation and procurement of men whose business is a system of cheating and false pretences. The people who pay the taxes and support the State have been made to stand aside and the racetrack "sport" and book-maker led up into the Capitol and commanded over the great seal of the State.

Third. That the said statutes are baldly immoral and indecent, not only because they are based upon a recognition of the criminal classes, but because they serve to foster gambling in pool-rooms and places of resort outside of the State whereby New Jersey is made to first plant the miserable wrong, and then to spread it like a contagious disease. The corruption of her own people is not more to be deplored than that of the people of her sister States into which the telegraph carries each day the results of her moral turpitude.

Fourth. That we desire to express our sense of gratitude and obligation to those members of the legislature who resisted the passage of the said statutes. They will return to their constituents to receive assurances that they have earned the grateful commendation of the men and women whose lives and labors make their commendation of the largest place and value.

Fifth. That we believe it to be true that while debasing influences have again prevailed, the moral sense of the State has been so greatly wronged and outraged that the repeal of the obnoxious statutes cannot be permanently delayed. And we call on all good citizens to do whatever may be done to rescue the State from the great shame that has fallen upon her. Let this race-track abomination be made an issue at the polls—there is nothing more important to the State—and let all good men who deprecate the corruption of our youth, and of what Abraham Lincoln called "the common people" vote and work for the candidate who is for an unqualified reform.

Sixth. That we demand the repeal of these infamous laws. We demand their repeal in the name of all that is of good repute in the past and present of the State of New Jersey; in the name of her churches, her schools and the homes of her people; in the name of the duty she owes to herself; in the name of the purity of her institutions and the preservation of her fair fame before mankind. We demand the repeal of these laws because we have the right as tax-payers and voters to demand that the real voice of the people, speaking always for what is right and honorable before God and man, shall be respected and observed.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted without discussion. Then Dr. Yerkes suggested an amendment to thank Gov. Werts for his veto of the measures before they were adopted over his veto. Ex-Mayor Randolph seconded the amendment. Henry E. Bowen, editor of the Brooklyn edition of The Mail and Express, called for a rising vote. He is a red-hot Republican, and his evident object was to defeat the amendment. But John Ulrich from a box accomplished such defeat by moving to adjourn. Mr. Gilbert put the motion for adjournment, and though the vote seemed fairly divided declared it carried. The people began to leave the hall, while various angry voices were heard above the confusion.

"It 's a shame"—exclaimed Mr. Randolph emphatically.—"The act of Gov. Werts was a fearless one, honestly performed; it should have the commendation of all honest men, and the Governor's motives should not be impugned."

But Republican Plainfield could not be sincere enough to give praise to Democratic Governer Werts, though he had by his brave action imperilled his future chance of political preferment at the hands of the powerful race-track schemers.

All this unjust partisan feeling, following so closely after the appeals for a casting aside of politics, showed how little effect those appeals had made.

The resolutions as adopted were ordered presented to Senator Marsh and Assemblyman Kyte with the request that they be read before the Legislature.

The newspaper reporters present were made the official secretaries. At the suggestion of Mr. Gilbert, a hearty vote of thanks was given to Manager Demarest for his contributing the free use of Music Hall for the meeting.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Force returned yesterday from their southern trip.

A Vanderbeek received a large box of beautiful flowers from his wife in the South Saturday.

D. S. Dunavan is able to be out again after being confined to his home for two weeks with diphtheretic sore throat.

Lieutenant Shano, of the Salvation Army, is confined to the house by a severe attack of ulcerated sore throat.

The venerable Peter See of North Plainfield had a slight stroke of paralysis, Saturday night. He has, however, entirely recovered.

Joseph W. Blake died yesterday at the age of 54. The funeral will be from 9 Manson place, to-morrow afternoon at 3, with interment in Hillside.

Mrs. G. D. Galphin and two children were South when they received news that their home at 93 Richmond street had been burned. They returned by the Clyde steamer Iroquois yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Muckey of Dog Corners will celebrate their twentieth wedding anniversary on the 10th of May. It will be a china wedding, and about seventy-five people will be present.

Paderewski, who was at one time a pupil of Leschetizky, who also numbered among his scholars Mr. Venino of this city, has become so interested in the latter's book on Pedal Methods that he asked Mr. Venino to grant him a personal interview on March 10. Mr. Venino has signified to Mr. Paderewski his sincere appreciation of the honor and his cordial acceptance of the favor accorded him.

BY THE WAY.

—You can have a good time and help a deserving cause by patronizing the rink to-morrow.

—The Salvation army is expecting foreign talent for the entertainment this evening.

—The North Plainfield Republican primaries will be held in the school-house Wednesday evening at 8.

—A team of horses attached to a cutter ran away on West Front street, Sunday, but fortunately no one was injured.

—Laborers were at work Saturday clearing the snow from the driveways between this city and South Plainfield.

—The safes of the city clerk were removed by truckman Frank Randolph this morning from the Courier office to the city offices in the Coward building.

—Every available horse and sleigh was on duty, yesterday, but during the afternoon the sleighing was poor. The liverymen reaped a big benefit, all the same.

—The great attraction in town yesterday was the new truck, which had arrived during the night and was visited in the freight yard by hundreds of admirers It 's a dandy.

—Ex-Mayor Randolph got in some sly hits and hot shot against local evils, such as the memorable hasty water-works legislation, in his speech in Music Hall yesterday.

—Walking was slippery and dangerous in many places, this morning, and many pedestrians slipped and fell. There are still Plainfield sidewalks needing police attention.

—Some person, whose name was not ascertained, slipped on the ice and fell at the corner of Park avenue and Second street, and in doing so plunged through a large pane of glass.

—A horse attached to a sleigh started to run away yesterday afternoon on Park place, but was bravely caught on Jackson avenue by Corra Ryno of THE PRESS office. There was no damage.

—Terrill road, Cooper road, and what is known as "Wheelbarrow lane", all near the Jackson school-house, out Rahway way, have been blocked by snow drifts for the past ten days. These roads are still blockaded.

Dilutions, imitations, and counterfeits of Dr. Pierce's medicines, though sold at lower prices than the genuine medicines, are dear at any price. Beware of them. Old bottles are refilled, new ones tampered with, all sorts of substitutes offered at "cut prices," by unscrupulous dealers, who are not authorized to sell Dr. Pierce's genuine medicines. Don't be deceived by them.

These genuine, world-famed remedies are now sold only through regularly authorized agents, and under a positive guarantee of benefit or cure, or money refunded. The makers take all the risk. Practically, they sell them to you on trial. On these liberal terms, the genuine guaranteed medicines can be sold only at these long-established prices:

Golden Medical Discovery, $1.00 per bottle.
Favorite Prescription, $1.00 per bottle.
Pleasant Pellets, . . . 25 cents per vial.

But, sold in this way and at these prices, they're the cheapest medicine that you can buy, for you pay only for the good you get.

CHAPS

And How to Get Rid of Them.

Nothing more annoying than chapped hands. And the more you wash the worse they chap! Soap cleans, but soap chaps. "BOB" INGERSOLL A VICTIM OF "NED" HALL.

The Late Manager of the Second Street Opera House Skips With the Advance Sales of a Lecture.

Some time ago before it was turned into that notorious resort "The Elkwood", Hand's opera house on Second street was managed by J. Edwin Hall, who became well-known in the city and to some extent popular. He left here to take the management of a larger house. Now, Charles Hendricks, who owns the Fifth Avenue opera house at Mount Vernon, wants to know what has become of him. Hall, until half past 9 on Friday night, was the manager of Mr. Hendrick's theater.

Col. Robert G. Ingersoll is also interested in Hall's whereabouts. The Colonel lectured on Friday evening on "Lincoln" at the Fifth Avenue opera house, and the advance sale of seats for the lecture amounted to about $110.

This money was collected by Hall, who left Mount Vernon on Friday night, taking his 11-year-old child, who is also well-known in this city, with him.

The box office sales for the lecture after Hall's disappearance amounted to about $100, 70 per cent. of which went to Col. Ingersoll. This is all he received for the entertainment he afforded the people of Mount Vernon, and naturally the Colonel is displeased with Mr. Hall's conduct.

A Marvelous Addition to the Great Sights of New York.

There has been a notable and magnificent addition to the great sights of New York City. The New York World is authority for the statement, for on the morning after the first performance of William Gillette's new spectacular drama, "Ninety Days", it dignified the production with this sweeping and complimentary declaration. Other of the leading newspapers in their notices of the new play gave it as their opinion that the splendid scenic features would become town talk.

New York theater-goers have since endorsed and vindicated these judgments, for since the opening night the immense auditorium of the handsome Broadway theater has been crowded to the doors by enthusiastic audiences. It is beyond question the most ingenious and novel spectacular play ever presented in this country. The originality of its mechanical effects has never before been equalled. Equally noteworthy is the fact that this wealth of scenic gorgeousness is involved in a story of exceptional and stirring dramatic interest. Forty thousand dollars is said to have been expended upon the production before its first public performance, and the magnificent stage settings and small army of people employed in the representation prove that the financial statement is not excessive. There are forty-four speaking parts in the play and over two hundred and and fifty people in all are employed in the production.

Plainfield Red Men Honored.

At the session of the Great Council of the Improved Order of Red Men, held in Trenton Wednesday and Thursday of last week, the veteran Past Sachem, Norman C. Magee, of this city, was elected as Great Representative to the Supreme Council of the United States by a very flattering vote. At the same session, Miantonomo Tribe of this city was again highly honored by Great Sachem-elect Abram A. Cunningham, who conferred the honor on Miantonomo by appointing that popular Past Sachem, Andrew J. Stiglitz, as District Deputy Great Sachem of District 31. The appointment meets the entire approval of the district. The high esteem in which Mr. Stiglitz is held by the order is a sufficient guarantee that he is thoroughly competent to fulfill the duties of so important an office.

Stricken on His Visit Home.

Theodore Dunlap, who was employed for some time at the gas works, came back to this city a few days ago, and has been confined to his home ever since. He is suffering from lumbago, and his relatives have been notified of his condition. Secretary Manning of the Y. M. C. A., and others, are attending him during his illness. To-day he has greatly increased in strength.

Lots of Work, and He's the Man to Do It.

(From The Engineering News.)

William C. Saunders, M. Am. Soc. C. E., engineer and secretary of the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Co., of New York, will in all probability be re-elected to his present position of mayor of North Plainfield, N. J., as the unanimous choice of both political parties. By his engineering knowledge he has already well served the citizens of North Plainfield in many ways, notably in prescribing the rail section of the new electric railway, before a franchise was granted, and as the subject of sewerage is now a prominent issue there is evidently more good work to be done by the engineer mayor.

A WOMAN ROBS A WAR VETERAN.

Said She Was a Soldier's Widow, and Made Herself Useful in the House.

Some weeks ago a woman called at the residence on the county road between Plainfield and Linden, of Clement Schwartz, an old soldier, and told him she was destitute. She gave him a letter which recommended her as the widow of a veteran of the war and worthy of aid.

Schwartz is 73 years old, and gets a pension of $12 a month. His only companion is his wife, aged 65, who is blind and lame. He took a fancy to the widow, and invited her to call again after entertaining her in a hospitable manner. Friday she made another visit, and offered to do some mending for the aged couple, and Schwartz gladly accepted her services. She sent him to Roselle to get some spools of thread, and when he got back he found the woman had disappeared, taking with her all his savings, $600, which was kept in a pocketbook in his trunk. The lid of the trunk was smashed.

The thief had ransacked the entire house in his absence. She took the letter of recommendation she gave him on her first visit. He implored the police of this city and Elizabeth to help him recover his money. The only one clue to work on was that the thief had said she knew a woman named Annie Wright, who lived in Rahway. The latter was found to be finishing a 90-day term for vagrancy in the Essex county jail. She was brought to Elizabeth Saturday evening, but denied any acquaintance with the thief.

"The Sportsman" Provokes a Season of Laughter.

The celebrated comedy company, known as Charles Frohman's Comedians, have inaugurated a season of comedy at the Standard theater, New York City. They opened their engagement on the 14th inst. in a new comedy called "The Sportsman". It made a hit of the most pronounced character, judged from the artistic standpoint, and started a fit of laughter which is not likely to end until the theater closes for the summer months. All the New York papers, without exception, declare it to be the best play of the farce-comedy type ever seen in the metropolis, not even excepting such uproarious successes as "Mr. Wilkinson's Widows", "Jane", "Gloriana" and others of the admirable mirth-provoking plays that have been produced under the direction of manager Charles Frohman during the last few years. One of the leading metropolitan writers in commenting on the successful opening of the play said he did not believe that five people of the large audience present could remember anything definite the next morning about the farcical piece set before them by Charles Frohman's comedians, except that they laughed and roared almost continuously from act to act, until with aching sides they oozed out of the theater and went on their way home.

The New Fire Truck.

That model new fire truck is being given a public exhibition trial this afternoon. The truck is most complete in every respect. It contains a 65-foot extension aerial ladder, a 45-foot ground extension ladder, more single ladders than the old truck, double the amount of equipments in the way of door openers, axes, insulated wire cutters, extinguishers, and all other modern improvements, and a 24-foot and a 26-foot ladder placed at the side so as to be unusually handy for quick use. These were never put on a truck before, and constitute a decided improvement. The idea was original with Chief Doane.

Killed by a Wreck on the Central.

A freight train was wrecked just west of the North Branch station on the Jersey Central last evening. A brakeman was killed, and several were injured. The accident was caused by a broken axle, and the two tracks were so badly blocked that the milk train due here at 10:02 p. m. did not arrive until about 3 this morning. In order to accommodate way passengers going east, a special train was sent out from Somerville.

The Freight-House Wouldn't Move, So He Did.

A horse owned by Brokaw & Cain, carpenters, ran away from the freight-house this morning. The horse dashed into Park avenue and under the Park avenue bridge. Two of grocer Rockfellow's men were on the alert, and caught the horse near Park and North avenues. No great damage was done.

Fell From a Barn.

John Tracy, of South Plainfield, was at work tearing down M. Higgins's barn and outsheds on East Fourth street, Saturday, when he slipped and fell about twenty feet. He was cut on the face and nose, and after the wounds were dressed was taken home in a carriage.

CARLYLE HARRIS'S CASE.

The Argument for a New Trial.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—The application of Carlyle W. Harris for a new trial, which has for a month been postponed from week to week, came up at last before Recorder Smyth, in Part II. of the Court of General Sessions, at 11 this morning. The ground upon which Harris's counsel relies for the success of the application is new evidence, alleged to have been discovered since the trial, proving that Harris's dead wife, Helen Potts-Harris, was addicted to the use of morphine. Present in court were Mrs. Francis McCready Harris, mother of the condemned man, and Mr. Potts, the father of the dead girl.

Before counsel for Harris made his motion for a new trial, District Attorney Nicoll enumerated a number of the affidavits upon which the motion was to be based, and contended that it could not be considered by the Recorder because in one case the original affidavit was not presented and in the others they were not authenticated as the statutes required. Counsel for the prisoner admitted these allegations, but asked for permission to read them and to secure afterwards their proper authentication. Seemingly to the surprise of Mr. Theall, the Recorder readily acceded to this proposition, after telling counsel for the prisoner in very plain words that the affidavits would be worthless unless his promise of authenticating them is fulfilled. The counsel volubly promised, and proceeded to make his motion.

He began by saying that in the clamor raised against the prisoner at the time of the trial many people who could have given important evidence in Harris's behalf failed to come forward. In the reaction following the conviction of Harris this testimony had become accessible, and would be presented to the court. There was the evidence of Harris himself, who, acting under the advice of his former counsel but contrary to his own judgment and desire, had not testified at the trial. "I say, and Harris says," declared the counsel, "that if granted a new trial his innocence will be made apparent."

—A three-year-old colt belonging to a Mt. Pleasant milkman ran away on West Front street, near Evona, Saturday. The driver was thrown out and the wagon wrecked. The man's right hand was badly cut by broken glass.

—Constable Mattox to-day levied on the chattels of Andre M. Seguine for two judgments, one of William Schwartz for $24.46, and one of the Plainfield Produce company for $124.60. The goods will be advertised for sale to meet the debts.

—The regular rehearsals of the Melopoia society will be resumed on Tuesday evening, the 28th instant, and will be held every Tuesday evening until May 2, the date of the last concert. Active members desiring to take part in that concert are expected to attend all the rehearsals.

—There was an after-meeting at the Salvation Army barracks last evening, when, it is alleged, an attempt was made to forcibly part a husband and wife. The latter, it is said, was prevailed on to part from her husband because he refused to permit her to accompany her sister home. There were unpleasant scenes, but the whole difficulty was amicably adjusted.

—Fulper & Bingham, the proprietors of the United Tea and Coffee Growers' association, have secured for Plainfield and vicinity the exclusive continuous control of the premiums and punch card system issued by the Manufacturers' Book company, of Philadelphia. They say that the merchants of this city can only receive these books through their firm.

Although many remedies are pushed into the market by spicy advertisements, Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup still takes the lead.

The well-known financier, writes:

"506 FIFTH AVENUE,
NEW YORK CITY, Dec. 20, 1890.

"For the last twenty years I have been using ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. They have repeatedly cured me of rheumatic pains and pains in my side and back. Whenever I have a cold, one on my chest and one on my back speedily relieve me. m "My family are never without them."
RUSSELL SAGE.

I am an old man and have been a constant sufferer with catarrh for the last ten years. I am entirely cured by the use of Ely's Cream Balm: It is strange that so simple a remedy will cure such a stubborn disease. Henry Billings, U. S. Pension Att'y, Washington, D. C.

I suffered for more than ten years with that dreadful disease, catarrh, and used every available medicine which was recommended to me. I cannot thank you enough for the relief which Ely's Cream Balm has afforded me. Emanuel Meyers, Winfield, L. I., N. Y.

The American Catarrh Cure

Is the result of twenty-six years' study and treatment of the disease. One bottle convinces the most skeptical. It is always ready for use, needing neither douche nor atomizer. It restores the hearing, cures the hawking cough and expectorating, removes the headache and nose bleeding, increases the appetite, produces sound sleep, invigorates the whole system and increases the vitality. Prepared only by W. B. Jones, M. D., No. 1336 South Eighth street, Philadelphia. For sale by L. W. Randolph, 21 West Front street. Price $1.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely with out solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren avenue, Chicago, Ill.

The children's health must not be neglected. Cold in the head causes catarrh. Ely's Cream Balm cures at once. It is perfectly safe and is easily applied into the nostrils. The worst cases yield to it. Price 50c.

ESCAPED A FIERY DEATH

Captain Sinks His Schooner on a Shoal.

HAD TO RUN AGAINST TIDE AND WIND

Scuttled the Vessel on Watch Hill Flats After a Four Hours' Fight With the Elements to Reach a Known Spot—The Struggle Witnessed from Shore, But No Help Could be Given.

New London, Conn., Feb. 27.—The skipper of the handsome 160-ton schooner Menunctatuck of Dennisport, Mass., at risk of his life and that of his crew beat his vessel two miles to the windward with a head tide while she was on fire. When shoal water was reached, where she could be readily raised, he scuttled and sunk her, thus saving her.

The Menunctatuck scudded bravely before the stiff northwest gale past Watch Hill Lighthouse yesterday at 9:30 a. m. Half an hour later the life-saving crew at the light were surprised to see a cloud of black smoke envelop the entire top of the vessel. The smoke increased until it obscured the vessel completely.

A moment later the schooner emerged from the cloud of smoke. She had tacked, and was working to the windward, heading to the southwest. Her crew could be seen hard at work, with buckets, sheets of water-soaked canvass and brooms, fighting the fire. The vessel worked into the wind as well as her crew could force her and fight fire at the same time. As she moved along she left a train of sparks and smoke in her wake. The life saving men made an effort to board the vessel to render assistance, but were unable to do so, as the schooner was kept well out to sea.

The schooner was about two miles east of Watch Hill when the blaze was first discovered. She was loaded with blue stone from New York for Fall River, and skipper, Capt. Albert Ellis, had just reached down into the cabin for a match to light his pipe when he discovered flames shooting out from under the cabin floor. There was no time to undertake to discover their origin or to save the ship's papers and contents of the cabin. The captain decided at once that he must turn his vessel about and beat her in by Watch Hill to a shoal he knew and there sink her in order to put out the fire. If he could sink her where the water was shallow she could be raised, and hence the vessel, in which the whole of his savings were invested, might not prove a total loss.

The race with head winds and adverse tides and the hot fight with the fire lasted just four hours.

The sailors fought the fire in a frenzy born of fear. If the vessel was lost there chances in a small boat in the heavy sea running would be none of the best. The flames gained such headway that there progress could not be stayed, and there finally shot out of the companionway, a crackling red column, driving Captain Ellis from the wheel and the men to the bow.

The fire was again corked into the cabin, however, and did not burst out again until the men were chopping holes in the vessel's bottom to let her sink on the Watch Hill flats.

As the vessel settled in the water fire burst out of various parts of her cabin and darted up the mainsail, swallowing it at one mouthful.

But the vessel was soon comparatively safe, with only ten feet of water covering her.

The captain and the crew ran into the rigging, from which they were taken soon afterward by the life savers. Wrecker Scott brought the crew of the scuttled schooner here on the tug Alert last night.

He will make an effort to raise the vessel to-day, and will succeed if heavy weather does not set in.

The Menunctatuck was built in New London in 1880.

OUR COTTAGE HOMES.

Story-and-a-Half House for Four-teen Hundred Dollars.

Artistic in Conception and Remarkably Neat in Appearance—Arrangement of the Rooms—Material to Be Used in Construction.

[Special Architectural Letter.]

This very complete story-and-a-half house will cost $1,400 built upon a stone foundation. It contains six rooms, pantry, bathroom, closets and front hall.

There is a stairway leading from the kitchen to the attic, where there can be three rooms furnished at any future time.

The parlor is 14x14 feet, and one of its pleasing features is the very large landscape window in the front part of the room. The fireplace is located in one corner to accommodate a stove that can be placed in the sitting-room. The parlor and hall open into one another and have a plaster beam as shown by the dotted lines on plans.

The sitting-room is the same size as the parlor, with the exception of the bay, which makes the sitting-room 2½x10 feet larger. This bay has three windows, the center being a large landscape window. Along the front of this bay there is a plaster beam as shown by the dotted lines on the plan. The sitting-room is separated from the parlor and from the dining-room by sliding doors. The dining-room is 10x14 and is provided with a fireplace and china-closet, the china-closet having drawers that push and pull both ways into the dining-room and into the pantry.

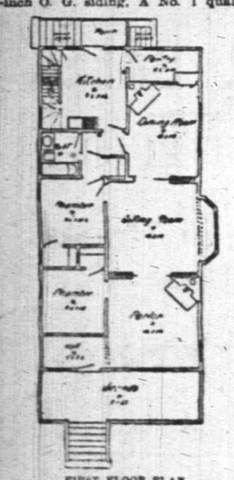
The front chamber off the parlor is 9½x10 feet, and the chamber off the sitting-room is 9½x10½ feet. Both chambers are provided with closets, and from the middle chamber one can go to the bathroom without passing through other rooms. The kitchen is 9½x12 feet and has doors leading to rear hall, cellar, attic, rear porch and to pantry, which is 4½x10 feet. The toilet room is 5½x7 feet, and will have fixtures as shown by plan. The rear porch is 4x7 feet, front hall 4x9½ and front veranda 8x23. The front hall floor will be red oak; kitchen floor, maple; pantry, maple; toilet and rear hall floors, red oak. The trim throughout the house will be of a neat block and plain 4-inch face casing. The wood will be Georgia pine, freed from defects of any kind. The veranda floor will be double, with tar paper between, using tongued and grooved flooring 4 inches face, leading all grooves before driving together. All doors will be solid. All glass used will be American, double strength, except in the front door, which will be beveled plate. Each closet will be provided with at least three shelves and strips for hooks. The sink in kitchen will be of gray enamel.

The entire exterior of this house will be sheathed with matched flooring, B quality, over which lay one thickness of tar paper lapping all joints at least 2 inches. For finishing the house use 4-inch O. G. siding, A No. 1 quality.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN.

Use extra Star A Star shingles for the roof, and for the gables use red wood, round-butt dimension shingles.

The apex of gables will be ornamented with composition carving. Execute all tin work in the best way possible, such as tin work valleys, gutters, hips, chimneys, windows, etc.

The height of the first story ceiling will be 10 feet in the clear, and of the basement 7 feet. Studding 2x4 16 inches on centers; rafters, 2x6; ridge rafters, 2x10, valley rafters, 2x8; wall plates, 2x12; beam through center of house, 8x10, resting upon 12x12 brick piers. The chimneys will be built from the basement up, and where they show above the roof they will be laid with pressed brick, red, and capped with a smooth stone. The fireplaces will be provided with ash chutes and ash pits. The entire first floor will be plastered two coats.

The first floor will be double with tar paper between. The attic floor will be single, five-inch matched face. The basement wall be of rubble sixteen inches thick, laid in good cement mortar, with joints raked and properly tuck pointed; and when mason work goes below the ground the exterior side of the wall must be cemented with good hard cement.

The hall and parlor ceilings will look well tinted or painted a light blue, above the picture molding to the ceiling a dark peacock blue, and below the picture molding down to the base the color should be at least six shades lighter and of the same color as the frieze.

This same treatment will hold good throughout the sitting and dining rooms with the exception of the color.

The parlor being blue, the sitting-room should be a pink and marvel, while the dining room could be light yellow and old gold shades.

The exterior should be painted 3 coats, finishing coat for the body of the house white and for trimmings gray. It would be well for the owner to see that this last coat contained a certain amount of ordinary varnish as it will give the finish a luster not often seen and very desirable to look upon. The shingles will look well coated with creosote stain a dark red or a blue slate color.

This house will be piped for gas and will be wired for an electric bell leading from the front door to the kitchen.

The above price does not include the finishing of the attic or the basement, walks, fence, art glass, bathroom fixtures, shelf hardware, mantels, decorations or sheds. GEORGE A. W. KINTZ.

THE KINDERGARTEN.

A Movement Unrivaled in the History of National Education.

Of the sixteen American cities with a population of over 200,000 in 1890, only four—Philadelphia, Boston, Milwaukee and St. Louis—have incorporated the kindergarten on any large scale in their public-school systems, writes Talcott Williams in the Century. Four more—New York, Chicago, Brooklyn and Buffalo—have kindergarten associations organized to introduce the new method as a part of free public education. In San Francisco kindergartens are maintained with no apparent expectation of uniting them to the free school system. Only Baltimore, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Detroit, among the seven cities left—the other three being Pittsburgh, Washington and New Orleans—are returned as having charitable or religious associations supporting kindergartens. In 1887-88, forty-six lesser places were named as having "one or more kindergartens, mostly experimental," connected with public schools. The entire work of providing a special education for children from three to six years of age is still in this stage in this country. Contrast this with France, where the ecoles maternelles, begun by Oberlin in 1771, and given new life in 1826 by Mme. Millet, have substantially adopted the Frobelian principle and practice, and had in 1887-88 an attendance of 741,224 between the ages of three and six in a population only two-thirds that of the United States, and having a far smaller proportion of young children.

FRIEDRICH FROEBEL,
Founder of the Kindergarten System.

Compared, however, with like movements to secure the education of a class, or the adoption of a new system of teaching, the kindergarten movement may fairly be considered unrivaled in the history of national education. "The good Lord could not be everywhere, therefore He made mothers," said the Jewish rabbi, familiar with the type of Jewish motherhood which in its supreme manifestation at Nazareth has transfigured the office, estimate and influence of womanhood throughout the civilized world. The cause of these schools, rounding out the work and supplementing the responsibility of mothers, rich or poor, has appealed to the maternal instinct of women, wherever it has been presented. The movement has been constantly taken [illegible] have led it, supported its schools, organized its associations and urged its agitation. The same work remains to be done throughout the land. There is not a city, a village or a hamlet which will not be the better for a kindergarten association. Experience has [illegible] proved that these schools will never be introduced or established save by self-sacrificing pressure. Difficulties have vanished. Teachers have multiplied. Expenses have been reduced. There is needed only the personal effort indispensable for general success and universal adoption.

agers of the national home for disabled volunteer soldiers, president of the Wisconsin Fire and Marine bank, of Milwaukee, and president of the Milwaukee Gas company. He is also interested in agricultural pursuits. Mr. Mitchell was elected to the Fifty-second congress as a democrat. He has been twice married and has five children. House Heated by Sunshine.

Prof. Morse, of Salem, Mass., has solved the problem of house heating in a curious fashion. He has built a house with all its rooms fronting southward, and only a passage on the north. Almost the whole southern front of the house is made of glass, and by means of reflectors Prof. Morse is enabled on sunny days to heat his whole house with sunshine alone. At night and on cloudy days he has hearth fires going. He believes that by this contrivance he has the most wholesome heat that is attainable.

A Friendly Call.

Little Tommy—Mamma, may I go over and play with Mrs. Nexdoor's children?

Mother—You have never cared to play with them.

Little Tommy—But my ball went over into their yard, and they threw it back to me, and it was all sticky. I guess they've got some candy.—Good News.

Accounted For.

In a company of novel writers the conversation turned upon Z., a brother novelist.

"A very decent fellow," said one of the party, "I never heard him say a bad word about anyone."

"Parbleu!" replied S., "he never talks about anybody but himself."—La France.

Too Late.

He—And so you refuse me?

She—I do.

He—Then, proud beauty, know the truth. I am the inventor of a successful dishwashing machine. Only one will ever be made, and the woman who marries me will have it. Ah, ha! Farewell!—N. Y. Weekly.

A Superstition Confirmed.

"I was born on Friday," said Mrs. Witherup.

"Friday always was my unlucky day," said Mr. Witherup.—Jury.

Extreme Poverty.

"How poor is the family next door?"

"Well, they keep six dogs and the man of the house writes poetry."—Life.

"I Owe my Life to You."

That is a strong statement.

Yet exactly what Miss Gertrude Sickler, of Wilton, N. J., has written to Mrs. Pinkham. She says:—

"I suffered terribly with suppressed and painful menstruations. Doctors could only keep me from having fits each month by giving me morphine. This continued until I was completely prostrated.

"My father at last got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which at once gave me relief. It did what the doctors could not—cured me. I never have any trouble now, and have no dread of the coming month.

"I owe my life to you. Oh! if other suffering women would try your valuable medicine they would bless you as I do."

He Was Pushing On.

Fond Mother—Well, Harold, how are you succeeding at college?

Harold—The professor says I'm getting up in figures.

"Indeed?"

"Yes; I used to be seventh in my class, and now I stand sixteenth. I'm pushing on."—Texas Siftings.

Quite a Relief.

Husband—What do you do when you hit your thumb with a hammer? You can't swear.

Wife—No, but I can think, with all my might and main, what a perfectly horrid, mean, inconsiderate, selfish brute you are not to drive the nails yourself.—N. Y. Weekly.

He Had Several.

The Voice from the Telephone—Is this Mr. Titters?

Titters—Yes; who are you?

The Voice from the Telephone (sweetly)—Your fiancee, love.

Titters—Er—can't you be a little more explicit?—Chicago News Record.

Realism.

Little Ethel—Mamma, Mrs. Nexdoor's children are playin' house in their yard. Mayn't we play house in ours?

Mamma—Certainly.

Little Ethel—That'll be just lovely. Then we can quarrel over the back fence, just like real neighbors.—Good News.

Bunco Again.

Station-master—What are you sitting here for? You've been around the station for three days.

Uncle Silas—I loaned a man four dollars in here las' Tuesday an' he tol' me to sit here, until he brought it back.—

HARRIS HIMSELF PLEADS

He Tells Recorder Smyth That He Is Innocent.

MOTION FOR A NEW TRIAL ARGUED.

The Question Seems to Hinge on Whether or Not Helen Potts Was Addicted to the Use of Morphine, and the Affidavits of Each Are Directly Contradictory—Harris Creates Sympathy.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—After hearing arguments in favor of granting a new trial to Carlyle W. Harris yesterday, the court adjourned until to-day, and District-Attorney Nicoll was given a week to produce other rebutting evidence. Mr. Howe will by that time have his Pennsylvania and New Jersey affidavits certified.

The court room was crowded, and when at the close of the District-Attorney's remarks Harris asked the privilege of speaking in his own behalf the spectators evinced the deepest and most intense interest.

The Recorder granted his request. Harris spoke in a low voice, and said that he had never defamed his wife's name, and that he was not instrumental in securing the affidavits that his counsel had submitted.

"I am innocent," he continued, "and if so, I should walk the streets a free citizen, and not be sent to prison until I die."

When he resumed his seat his mother fell upon his breast, threw her arms about his neck, and wept bitterly.

Harris was brought from the Tombs handcuffed to Michael P. Fallon, the park policeman, on trial for perjury before the Recorder.

Shortly after 11 o'clock Lawyer William F. Howe began his argument in support of the action for a new trial. Harris, who sat near his counsel, rested his mother's head upon his breast.

District Attorney Nicoll asked his Honor not to allow the affidavits to be read as they were not authenticated. Those swearing to them were all in Pennsylvania, he said, and, therefore, he objected. The court, however, allowed Mr. Howe to read the affidavits.

Counsel began argument by a touching appeal. He dwelt upon the testimony of several witnesses at the trial of Harris. He said that Harris desired to go upon the stand at his trial, but his counsel refused to allow him to testify.

Mr. Howe said he had affidavits to show that the morphine was self-administered, and not by the hand of the defendant.

Mrs. Jackson, principal of the school the deceased attended, will testify, if a new trial be granted, that Helen's conduct was not of the best and that she told her she would have to go home. Helen, in turn, said that she would not as her home was a perfect hell, and she would kill herself first.

The first affidavit was that of Mrs. Mary Fraser, formerly a Mrs. Harris. It is stated that in 1889 she resided at 136 West 26th street. Helen Potts often called there on a visit to her daughter, Ethel. That in January, 1889, she visited her daughter's room and found her asleep and breathing heavily. When she had awakened, she at first refused to state the cause of her second sleep but afterwards admitted taking a pill that Helen Potts had given her.

Ethel M. Harris, 19 years old, of 413 Lexington Avenue, swears to an affidavit in which she says that in 1889 she complained to Helen Potts of passing sleepless nights and that Helen gave her a pill which she told her to take before retiring. She cautioned her against speaking of the pill. She further states that Helen told her she was in the habit of taking these pills. Miss Harris says that she took the pill and slept for twenty-three hours. In July, 1889, she says she went to visit Helen at Asbury Park and when she complained of a headache Helen offered her another pill.

Mrs. F. R. Jackson, principal of the seminary which the deceased attended, says that Helen told her she was in the habit of taking morphine which was prescribed by her physician.

Dr. William S. Searl, of Brooklyn, deposes that at various times he prescribed for Helen Potts morphine in small quantities.

Mary A. Lewis of Scranton, Pa., in an affidavit, swears that she worked for Dr. Treverton of Scranton, and that she saw Helen Potts there almost daily and conversed with her, and that Helen told her she used morphine.

Other affidavits allege that the actions of the deceased indicated that she was addicted to the morphine habit.

A deposition from Joseph H. Leffert, a druggist of Asbury Park, N. J., states that on several occasions he sold Helen Potts a grain of morphine.

With the reading of an affidavit from the defendant, in which he prayed the Recorder to grant him a new trial, Mr. Howe closed his argument.

After a brief speech by District-Attorney Nicoll, in which he opposed the application of counsel, he said that while the case was one that occasioned much sympathy, the requests for a new trial should be denied from a point of law.

Affidavits from the mother and father of the deceased were read in which they denied that their child was in the habit of using morphine.

Mr. and Mrs. Potts swear that during the last three years there have been two families of the name of George Potts. They contend that the effort now being made by Harris to escape the consequence of his alleged crime by imputing to their daughter the habit of eating morphine is a dastardly attack upon her character.

Both counsel made their closing arguments. Harris kissed his mother two or three times, and was then handcuffed and taken to the Tombs.

Gov. Flower Will Hear Them.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—The members of the Welsh Colony who are exerting themselves to get a reprieve for their countryman, Thomas Jones, who was sentenced to death for the murder of William Weston, have received notification from Governor Flower that he will give them a hearing on the afternoon of Wednesday, March 1. The execution is fixed to take place during the week beginning March 13.

A DIFFERENT PLACE NOW.

The Election at Asbury Park Will Open the Gates on Sundays Hereafter.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Feb. 28.—It is probable that next summer the restrictions surrounding Asbury Park will have been removed, and it will have become an ordinary New Jersey town. It is possible that liquor may be sold within its precincts, and that the paragraphists will lose a fruitful theme through the repeal of the regulations regarding sea bathing.

Carriages and wagons will probably be allowed within the gates on Sunday, and another distinguishing features of the place be wiped out.

This is the result of the election held here yesterday to decide whether Asbury Park should be incorporated as a borough. The election was quiet, and only about half the usual vote was polled, the result showing that the popular feeling was in favor of incorporation, as 342 of those who voted favored incorporating, and but 32 were against it.

CALLS HIM A DUFFER.

John L. Sullivan Again Expresses His Opinion of Corbett.

ST LOUIS, Feb. 28.—John L. Sullivan arrived here yesterday. In speaking of his defeat by Corbett, he said:

"I tell you that duffer (referring to Corbett) will never be popular with the sporting people of this country.

"He is an iceberg that will not thaw out in exposed to a tropical sun for six months.

"He whipped me, but I was not myself when I entered that ring that night. Nature gave way. The rapid life I had been leading for the past ten years undermined my constitution, and I was not able to make a hard fight.

"The fellow is a clever sparrer, but if you put us in a room I'll kill him in fifteen minutes."

Speaking of the coming fight between Mitchell and Corbett, Sullivan said:

"Mitchell is a clever man, and I predict that he will lower Corbett's colors."

CORBETT INTERVIEWED.

Says He Is Sick of Sullivan—Brady Arrives at Duluth.

DULUTH, Minn., Feb. 28.—James J. Corbett has arrived here from Minneapolis and is nearly recovered from his recent illness. A. Brady also arrived shortly after.

A reporter saw Corbett, and when shown the St. Louis interview with Sullivan, he said: "I do not care to talk about Sullivan. I am sick of him and he is beneath my notice. I thought, when I whipped him fairly and squarely that he would take his medicine like a square sportsman, but he has turned out differently and I am through with him."

Mitchell and Corbett to Fight.

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—William A. Brady passed through this city yesterday en route to Duluth where he will meet Corbett. Brady says articles for the fight with Mitchell have been signed. If he finds Corbett's health seriously impaired he will lay off his theatrical company until the champion is entirely recovered.

Saved His Own Head Off.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., Feb. 28.—A horrible suicide has been committed by a man named Lee Taylor five miles southwest of this place. He had become financially embarrassed and had been brooding over his troubles. While no one was around he deliberately lay down on the log carriage in the sawmill where he worked, grasped the framework with one hand and the shaft with the other, and pulled himself up to the rapidly revolving saw. His head was instantly severed from his body and rolled down into the dust pit.

Annexation Appeal From Seattle.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Senator Squire submitted to the Senate a petition from the Chamber of Commerce of Seattle, Wash., setting forth the value of commerce to the Pacific Coast from these islands and praying that the Government adopt measures in its relations with the Hawaiian Islands to guard against foreign domination of these islands and of European interference. They also pray Congress to establish a coaling station there for our naval and commercial vessels.

Another Quiet Lynching.

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Feb. 28.—A burly negro from Cincinnati named Abner Anthony, caught Mrs. Newton C. Williams on a lonely road near here and attempted to assault her. Her cries brought assistance and the negro fled. He was pursued, arrested, jailed and quietly lynched last night by 40 men, who hanged him to a tree not 40 yards from the jail.

$1.96 a Word to Telegraph to China.

CLEVELAND'S MESSAGE

The Cabinet is Being Consulted in Regard to It.

HAWAIIAN QUESTION NEEDS TIME

Ex-Senator Carlisle and Col. Lamont at Lakewood—Hoke Smith Expected but Did Not Come—The Next President Wants to Talk Up Pension Legislation With Him.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Feb. 28.—Mr. Carlisle and Col. Lamont were at Mr. Cleveland's cottage yesterday to talk over matters which must be attended to at the opening of the new administration. It is said that much of the time was spent in going over Mr. Cleveland's inaugural address and Mr. Cleveland's special message to Congress.

The inaugural address is said to be ready for the printers. It contains about 1,500 words, and will touch in a general way on the more important public questions. The main part of the address is said to be in reference to the tariff, on which subject Mr. Cleveland makes no specific recommendations.

On account of the Silver Compromise bill now before Congress this matter is left to itself. It is said that the silver question was gone over at great length at this conference and also at Saturday's meeting of the Cabinet-elect. Mr. Cleveland favors the cessation of silver coinage, but in his address he does not say this in so many words. The financial situation will be treated in a separate message should an extra session be called.

Mr. Cleveland devotes some space in his address to the annexation of Hawaii. He is very emphatic here and says that time and investigation should be had before doing anyting in this direction. He does not approve of doing anything rashly. He advises annexation only in case an examination of both sides of the question shows that such a course is desirable and expedient. The address, however, is said to have a leaning toward annexation.

The Pension Office gets a share of Mr. Cleveland's attention. The pension system as it now exists is denounced, and a radical reform is recommended without further delay.

Mr. Cleveland expected Hoke Smith, who, as Secretary of the Interior, will have charge of the Pension Bureau, to arrive yesterday so as to go over this matter, but as he did not show up the matter had to go without his approval.

While Mr. Cleveland was busy with Col. Lamont, Senator Carlisle joined Mrs. Cleveland and Baby Ruth in an hour's drive through the pines.

Yesterday was Mrs. Cleveland's regular at home, so she was kept quite busy the early forenoon receiving many callers who came to bid her good-bye.

DID NOT SEE GRESHAM.

The Hawaiian Commissioners Are Doing Nothing More for Ratification.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Mr. C. L. Carter, one of the Hawaiian annexation commissioners, has returned to Washington from New York, where he spent Saturday and Sunday. Mr. Carter said that he had not been in conference with Judge Gresham while in New York and had not expected to.

Mr. Carter and his fellow commissioners, Messrs. Castle and Thurston, will remain in Washington until the annexation treaty is disposed of by adjournment of the Senate if not otherwise, but say they will do nothing to further its consideration or ratification.

Getting the Cruisers Ready for the Parade.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The cruiser Baltimore and the gunboat Yorktown, now en route from Hampton Roads to New York, will probably remain at the Brooklyn Navy Yard for a month undergoing a thorough overhauling to fit them for taking part in the Columbus naval display. The cruisers San Francisco and Charleston are at Norfolk, also undergoing repairs preliminary to the naval display.

Another Strike in Carnegie's Pittsburg Mill.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 28.—Another strike has been inaugurated at Carnegie's 29th street mill, the strikers this time being the machinists, who refuse to work 10 hours a day for nine hours' pay. The strike involves about 50 skilled workmen. Supt. Dillon says there will be no trouble in filling the vacancies.

McAuliffe and Abbott to Fight.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Richard K. Fox has sent a cable to Stanton Abbott informing him that Jack McAuliffe, the lightweight champion, has accepted the challenge he recently cabled to America, and that on Abbott's arrival McAuliffe or his backer will arrange a match. Abbott is the lightweight champion of England.

President Harrison Not to Lecture.

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—Any knowledge of a foundation for the report that President Harrison is to lecture on constitutional law at the University of Chicago is denied by President Harper, of that institution.

No Signs of a Break at Olympia.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 28.—The eighty-third senatorial ballot which was cast yesterday, stood: Allen, 40; Turner, 20; Griggs, 20; remainder scattering. No choice.

Reading to Pay Interest.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 28.—The court has ordered Treasurer Church, of the Reading company, to resume interest payments on the coupons on first and second preference bonds.

THE DAY IN CONGRESS.

House Non-Concurs in the Senate Amendments—Coupler Bill Passed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—There was a good deal of interest manifested when the House yesterday entered upon the last legislative week of the 52d Congress. Many important measures were yet awaiting action.

Mr. Peel, of Arkansas, was the first gentleman to catch the Speaker's eye, and he moved the passage of the Indian Appropriation bill under suspension of the rules.

There was no objection to the measure, but it was made a pivot around which circled a general discussion of the Anti-option bill.

Mr. Peel's motion having been agreed to, a discussion of the Sherman bond amendment to the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill was carried on with some warmth, but finally all the Senate amendments to the measure were non-concurred in, and the bill was sent to conference.

When the Speaker of the House even indirectly refers to that body as a "beer garden" as Speaker Crisp did yesterday, the provocation must be very great; and it was. A dozen members were on their feet speaking at the top of their voices which were rendered shrill through their efforts to outvie each other.

The trouble occurred over the motion made by Mr. Wise of Virginia to suspend the rules and concur in Senate amendment to the Car Coupler bill which amendment was finally concurred in—yeas, 184; nays, 85. The friends of the measure burst into hearty applause.

The Pension Appropriation bill was passed by the Senate without any amendment. It appropriates for army and navy pensions, including widows and orphan children, $165,000,000 and about a million and a half dollars, in addition, for fees of examining surgeons, clerk hire at pension agencies and some small items. Mr. Gorman (Dem., Md.) commented upon the magnitude of pension appropriations and gave it as his opinion that it would be necessary to appropriate $200,000,000 for next session.

Senator Colquitt of Georgia made his appearance in the Senate Chamber for the first time this season and he was the object of sympathetic attention on the part of his fellow Senators. The day closed with the delivery of eulogies upon the late Senator Kenna of West Virginia.

A Lynched Man's Wife Sues the Sheriff.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Feb. 28.—The widow of Alfred Blount, the negro assaulter who was lynched here some days ago, has instituted civil proceedings against the sheriff of the county. She seeks to recover $25,000 damages, alleging her husband was not properly protected from a mob and that he was not guilty of the assault with which he was charged.

To Shoot Niagara in a Barrel.

WARSAW, Ind., Feb. 28.—George Hazelett of this city, who has twice passed through the Niagara whirlpool in a cask, left here last night for Niagara Falls, where he will immediately make his preparations for shooting over the Falls. He proposes to use an egg-shaped barrel. He is confident that the drop of 155 feet can be made without fatal results.

WEST VIRGINIANS SCARED.

Maryland May Take Away About Half of the Panhandle State.

GRAFTON, W. Va., Feb. 28.—Considerable excitement has been caused throughout the western panhandle of this State by a statement of the conditions of the suit brought by the State of Maryland against the State of West Virginia.

Maryland sues to recover the entire territory lying between the north and south branches of the Potomac river.

Six large counties, with a population of nearly 200,000, are involved, and in addition, if Maryland wins the suit, five other counties will be cut off from the rest of the State.

The matter is considered very grave by West Virginia lawyers and politicians, and the State has appropriated a large amount of money to fight the case.

Triple Collision Within Three Minutes.

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 28.—Travel on the Shore line, Air line, Northampton and Hartford divisions of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad was blocked for several hours last night by a triple collision in the railroad cut between Court street and Grand avenue, this city. A northbound freight on the Northampton division ran into the rear of a preceding freight. Several freight cars were thrown upon the Shore line tracks, and the Shore line express coming along dashed into the wreck, shaking the passengers up badly. Charles Bedell, of this city, engineer of the Shore line express, was fatally injured.

Dakota Re-Submissionists Obstructed.

PIERRE, S. D., Feb. 28.—The Prohibitionists have made a skilful move to outwit the Re-submissionists. Hooper moved to make the Appropriation bill the special order in the House for the afternoon, and continuing the order from day to day until disposed of. The Re-Submissionists had arranged to pass the bill yesterday afternoon and had all their men ready. This continuing order will hold two or three days, and as the Legislature will adjourn Friday the prospects for re-submission are slight.

No More Prize Fighting in California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 28.—The California, the Pacific, the Palo Alto and other professional athletic clubs have closed their doors and declared all pending contests off. Boxing is now practically dead in San Francisco. All that remains to completely stamp it out is the Governor's signature, which, it is expected, will be attached to the anti-prize fighting bill very shortly.

To Raise the Sunken Revenue Cutter.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Secretary of the Treasury Foster has authorized an expenditure of not more than $500 for raising the revenue cutter Washington, which was run into and sunk in her slip off the Battery yesterday.

A Newark Woman Roasted Alive.

NEWARK, Feb. 28.—Mrs. Bridget Condron, aged 45, went too near a red hot stove at her residence yesterday and in an instant her clothes were in flames. Before the fire was extinguished the poor woman was very nearly roasted alive.

"Feels Like a New Woman."

Oh, would I were dead now,
Or up in my bed now,
To cover up my head now,
And have a good cry!

Nerves jangled and out of tune wring this cry from a tired woman.

Many a one feels this wish for a good cry after the dinner is over and the guests gone. There are many trials that beset the faithful housewife and relax her nervous system.

"Four weeks ago," says Mrs. F. F. Vickery of East Auburn, Me., "I was suffering from one of those awful bad headaches which have been my companion for the past year, only worse at times. My back ached. I did not sleep well, and I had those frightened nights which only those who are nervous can understand. I did not care whether I ate anything or not—rather not. I felt so tired and had that all-gone feeling, with no strength to do my easiest home duties. One short flight of stairs took all of the breath and strength I had, and then I could just sit down and cry.

"Every little noise made me jump and my head snap. My eyes felt as though they were being drawn in through the top of my head. I must confess I was feeling sick. A friend, who had only taken a few doses of Paine's celery compound herself and had received much benefit from it, said to me: 'Won't you please try some of my compound?' Well, I took some; in three days I was feeling like a new person, got me a bottle, and when that was gone I could take a full dose.

"I have gained strength every day, and can eat three or four times a day. I sleep like a log, and my head must be a new one, as I have not had a bad headache since I began taking the compound. I can get up two flights of stairs all right now, and feel so much better that I wish every one in the world who ever had these feelings would just try one bottle of Paine's celery compound and be convinced of its worth. I cannot say too much in its praise."

And Mrs. S. C. Perkins of the same place, whose portrait is given above, says: "For three years I was in a very weak and debilitated condition; I tried many physicians, but could get no relief from any of them.

"I tried Paine's celery compound and to that I owe my complete restoration to health; my nervous system was a total wreck, and I was unable to do my work much of the time, but now I am doing my own work and can sleep well nights—the result of taking three bottles of the compound. I recommend it to all who are suffering from dyspepsia or are 'run down.' I do not think that I could say too much in favor it.

Thousands of such letters from every state in the Union might be printed, but these years of splendid results have so connected Paine's celery compound with success that the name itself has become a perpetual letter of recommendation.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

For New Jersey: Clearing and Colder To-Morrow.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The Y. M. C. A. lectures will be given in the First Baptist church.

—A regular meeting of the Hillside Tennis club will be held to-morrow evening at the club-house. A full attendance is desired.

—The Plainfield Water Supply company has rented as an office of ex-judge Ulrich, the premises formerly occupied by pharmacist Mallinson.

—It is understood that Andrew Lutkins has purchased a plot of ground on Park avenue with a frontage of 250 feet and a depth of 200 feet.

—The Independent Order of Odd Ladies held a meeting in the Stelle building, last evening, but only routine business was transacted.

—A stage-load of sporting men from this city went to Springfield this morning to take part in a series of sweepstake shoots under the auspices of the Springfield Gun club.

—The Salvationists expected from England on Sunday have not yet arrived. The vessel on which they are coming is over due, but it is expected to reach this port at any time.

—Charles Hart and James Cullen of Bound Brook, and Charles H. Smith of Somerville, will give a sociable at John Smalley's, Greenbrook, this evening. Plainfielders will attend.

—The cock fight which was to have taken place at Scotch Plains last evening did not eventuate, on account of the contesting parties being unable to pay for a man to heal and handle the birds.

—The novelty of seeing a man's face washed by a dog was witnessed by half a dozen persons in a certain licensed place, this morning. Dave Williams, colored, was the victim, and the dog was a friend of his.

—W. H. Miner, the expert instructor on piano and organ, takes especial care with children, and announces himself ready to give musical education to boys in exchange for services rendered the church.

—The engine on a West bound fast freight train broke down between Westfield and Cranford, last evening, and the train due in Plainfield at 12:48 was obliged to take a side track, reaching here late.

—Theodore Dunlap, who has been reported as ill, is a pretty healthy specimen of a sick man. He says people have been confusing him with someone else. He has n't been away, he is n't ill, and no outsiders are caring for him.

—The Plainfield Gas and Electric Light company sued John French of the Acme Tailoring company for a $47 gas bill. Attorney George DeMeza conducted the case so effectively for the Gas Light company that Mr. French settled by paying the claim.

—Two big lighted lamps were accidentally knocked down by workmen carrying in meat in Abbott's market, 41 West Front street, last night, and a serious blaze was threatened. The fire was smothered, however, without calling the department.

—The office of city treasurer Alexander Titsworth will soon be removed to what may be termed the "City Hall", in the Coward building on Park avenue. He will give up the tailoring business, and the United State Express company will occupy his vacant store.

—While a freight car was being switched into the Pond Tool Works, yesterday morning, in some unaccountable manner the car ran off the track, breaking the gate at the end of the shop. One of the brakemen of the switch engine came very near being thrown off the car at the sudden collapse.

—Experiments to show the nature of fire will be made at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Thursday evening by Franklin S. Smith, of the High school. Phosphorous will be made to burn under water. Iron will be made to burn, and many other illustrations of combustion will be shown. The admission will be free to all men.

—The public exhibition of the new aerial ladder, yesterday afternoon, outside of the City Hotel, was in every way satisfactory, and interested a large crowd. The ladder was cleverly manipulated in spite of the tangle of overhead wires, and fireman Frank Bonner, of baseball fame, performed great midair feats on top of the 65-foot extension.

—Sherwin is doing a big business. His special sale of boots, shoes and rubbers at reduced prices draws the crowds. It requires quite a nerve to sell goods almost without profit for four weeks, but Sherwin says its the best paying advertisement that he has—except his advertisement in THE PRESS—and like the PRESS advertisement its good effects are felt the entire year.

—The residents at the western part of the city feel very grateful to Thomas Hoonan, one of the faithful employes at the Pond Tool Works, for the manner in which he has cleared the sidewalk of snow from the shop to Grant avenue. People have been complaining very much about the condition it had been left for the previous three weeks, when it was almost impossible to walk, pedestrians having to take to the roadway.

Oh, What a Cough!

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by A. D. Mallinson, 65 North Ave., opposite railroad station. 5-16-7

ALL HAIL TO H. P. BALDWIN.

He Provides a Special Train for the Anti-Race Track People.

Thanks to the public-spirited H. P. Baldwin, the Jersey Central railroad will run a special train from Elizabeth to Trenton and return, to-morrow, to convey the people interested in the race-track matter. It will leave Elizabeth at 10 a. m., and Plainfield at 10:26. For the convenience of those attending the anti-race-track demonstration, special excursion tickets will be sold good to go on any regular or special train March 1 and to return either March 1 or March 2.

Mr. Baldwin deserves every credit for his thoughtfulness in looking out for the interests of the people. H. P. Baldwin and the Jersey Central are ever watchful to provide whatever will add to the convenience and accommodation of the public.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Byrdee Randolph of 18 Westervelt avenue is home from a two years' tour abroad.

Miss A. DeCamp of Chester, Morris county, is a guest of Miss Force of Duer street.

A. Veglard, of Rochester, is visiting his son, J. T. Veglard, and will remain for a few weeks.

The Rt. Rev. Wm. F. Adams, Bishop of Easton, is expected to preach in Grace church this evening at 8.

C. S. Davis, of Jersey City, will be the guest of W. Underwood's family on Rockview terrace, Washington Park, this evening.

The friends of Peter Weaver, and the people whom he serves so faithfully as letter carrier, are rejoiced to see him out again after his illness.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Murray are registered at the Ponce De Leon, St. Augustine, Florida. They are looking well and feeling first class.

Adam Mantz, who had all four of his hands and feet amputated, some ten days ago, is fast recovering, and there is every reason to believe that he will be entirely well again.

W. B. Arnold with the "Still Alarm" Co., spent Saturday and Sunday with his niece, Mrs. J. T. Veglard, of 49 North avenue, leaving yesterday for Baltimore to join his company.

Miss Florence Dodge of North Plainfield entertained her young friends with a delightful progressive euchre party at the home of her aunt, Mrs. T. H. Keller, East Front street, last evening.

At the MacClymont recital in the First Baptist church this evening the popular Dresden Trio will sing two of Dr. Callcott's best compositions, "Peace to the Souls of the Heroes" and "Who Comes So Dark".

President Cleveland and party will pass through this city on the way from Lakewood to Washington, on Thursday at exactly 2:04 p. m. providing the train is on time. It is scheduled to arrive at Bound Brook at 2:11.

The opponents of the bill to clip the nails of the board of education, have now a spokesman worthy of corporation counsel Marsh's attention. Mason W. Tyler is before the committee in Trenton to-day arguing against the passage of the law for the protection of the people.

Judge Beach, of the Supreme court, New York, yesterday signed an order for the discontinuance of the divorce action brought by Thomas O. Bullock against Lydia L. Bullock of this city. Both parties consented to the discontinuance and both assure THE PRESS that they have become reconciled.

Two Prizes Come to Plainfield.

To-day the names of two of Plainfield's good women are being published to the world at large and the citizens of Boston in particular, as among the most tasteful, talented and artistic people in the World. Barbour Bros., the celebrated linen thread makers, whose main office in this country is located at Boston, and with which Harley B. Nichols of this city is connected, offered $3,000 in cash prizes for the finest specimens of hand work with their flax embroidery floss, crochet work, lace making, netting and tatting. These prizes have just been awarded by a committee consisting of five of Boston's highest cultured women.

Mrs. W. L. Gavett of Sandford avenue gets $50, the first prize in one department, for a lace parasol cover; and Mrs. H. W. Rankin receives a third prize of $10.

Forged a Check and Skipped.

A young man, seventeen years old, and the son of respectable parents living in North Plainfield, is alleged to have forged a $5 check upon a reputable citizen of the borough, yesterday, and passed the same on Sigmund Frucht of East Front street, receiving in return a $3 revolver and the balance in money.

Frucht presented the check to one of the banks for payment, but it was not honored, and ever since he has been looking for the maker of it.

Totten's Case Off This Term.

A telegram was received this morning by Judge William A. Coddington, attorney for Fulper & Bingham, stating that prosecutor Marsh could not to-day dispose of the case of the State vs. Totten on account of his legislature duties at Trenton. Therefore the case will not be tried this term of court.

The Notorious Nick Again.

Marshal Pangborn is on the warpath after Nick Kelly, who once was a Plainfield policeman. The marshal says that last night Kelly went to the home of his deserted and hard-working wife on Emily street, abused her with vile language, and struck and choked her. A warrant is out.

Russell Sage

The well-known financier, writes:

"506 FIFTH AVENUE,
NEW YORK CITY, Dec. 20, 1890.

"For the last twenty years I have been using ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS. They have repeatedly cured me of rheumatic pains and pains in my side and back. Whenever I have a cold, one on my chest and one on my back speedily relieve me. My family are never without them."

A WAR SERIES.

Lectures of Absorbing Interest Arranged for by the Y. M. C. A.

The announcement was made in THE PRESS of last Thursday that something of interest in connection with the Young Men's Christian association might be expected in to-day's issue, and now the board of directors takes pleasure in stating that a course of lectures will be given under the auspices of the association between March 16 and April 4.

Major-General O. O. Howard, U. S. A., who is widely known throughout the country, and popular in Plainfield, will deliver the first of the course. His subject will be Major-General Geo. H. Thomas. Those who have heard this lecture pronounce it exceedingly interesting and instructive. Gen. Thomas enjoyed the unique distinction of being the only General of the North or South who in the War of the Rebellion succeeded in destroying his opponents army. This he did when he met Gen. Hood at the battle of Nashville. After that battle Hood was never able to get his army together again.

The second lecture will be delivered by Major-General Wager Swayne, U. S. A., Commander of the Royal Legion of the State of New York. He enlisted in August, 1861, as Major of the 43d Ohio Vols., serving through the war with great distinction. After the war Gen. Swayne was assigned to duty in the South during the reconstruction period. He will give some interesting facts in connection with his experience during those exciting days.

The third lecture will be given by Sergeant Charles E. Sprague, who enlisted in May, 1861, with Ellsworth in the 44th N. Y. Vols. His father became prominent as the fighting chaplain of the 119th N.Y., in which he had enlisted as a private.

Sergeant Sprague will present a description of army life from the soldiers' standpoint.

THE POWER OF THE TRAINED HAND.

The Legend of Adam and the Stick, the Symbol of Power.

The Hon. Charles H. Ham, who is to lecture on Manual Training in All Souls' church, the eve of March 16, tells the following interesting story, illustrative of the stick as the symbol of power, which only the hand can wield—that hand which imprisons streams and electricity and keeps them applied at hard labor:

"It has been remarked that man is the wisest of animals because he has hands. It is equally true that he is the most powerful of animals because he has hands. It is with the hand that man has subdued all the animals. There is a legend to the effect that on the day when Adam revolted against his Maker, the animals in their turn revolted against him and ceased to obey him. 'Adam called on the Lord for help, and the Lord commanded him to take a branch from the nearest tree and make of it a weapon, and strike with it the first animal that should refuse to obey him. Adam seized the branch, the leaves fell from it of their own accord, and he found himself furnished with a stick proportioned to his weight. When the animals saw this weapon in the hands of the man they were seized with an instinctive fear mingled with wonder, and they did not dare to attack him. A lion alone, bolder than the rest, leaped upon him to down him, but Adam, who stood upon his guard, swift as lightning whirled his stick and felled him to the earth with a single blow! At this sight the terror of the other animals was so great that they approached him trembling and in token of their submission licked the stick that he held in his hand.'

"The hand no longer grasps the stick; it no longer menaces mankind. It wields the mechanical powers. It makes ploughs, planters, harvesters, sewing machines, locomotives and steamship. It digs canals, opens mines, builds bridges, makes roads, erects mills and factories, constructs harbors and docks, reclaims waste lands, and covers the globe with tracks of steel over which the commerce of the world is borne."

A Committee of the Whole City Appointed.

PLAINFIELD, Feb. 28, 1893.

A mass meeting of citizens from all parts of the State has been called to meet at the State House, Trenton, on Wednesday, March 1, at noon, to demand of our legislators the repeal of the race-track bills. A large delegation is expected from Plainfield. All citizens interested in the movement who can make it convenient to attend are requested to do so as representatives from this city. Those who respond to this call are hereby constituted members of the committee which I, as chairman of Sunday's meeting, was authorized to appoint.

A. GILBERT, Chairman.

Plainfield Snap Shots Delight New York.

George H. Babcock, of the Plainfield Camera club, interested a large gathering at the rooms of the New York Camera club, 314 Fifth avenue, last evening, with an exhibition of lantern slides. He called his entertainment "Random Shots at Home and Abroad". His fellow photographers pronounced his work excellent. He first showed some views of this city and its vicinity and then some of England, Spain and other foreign lands.

The explosion of a bomb is not more sudden or unlooked for than the attack of some malignant disease which would not occur were the blood in perfect order. To impure blood is due a great variety of ills that make life a burden. Purify your blood, and you have it.

All the year round, you may rely upon Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to purify the blood and invigorate the system. It's not like the sarsaparillas, that are said to be good for the blood in March, April and May. The "Discovery" works equally well at all times, and in all cases of blood-taints, or humors, no matter what their name or nature.

It's the cheapest blood-purifier, sold through druggists, because you only pay for the good you get.

Your money is returned if it doesn't benefit or cure you.

CHAPS

And How to Get Rid of Them.

Nothing more annoying than chapped hands. And the more you wash the worse they chap! Soap cleans, but soap chaps. Now by neutralizing the alkali of the soap by means of a harmless acid we may prevent chapping. That is the philosophy of REYNOLDS'S LEMON JUICE AND GLYCERINE, and by using it as directed, you can get rid of the chaps. Originated and made only at HELPED BY A 'CRAZE".

HOW PLAINFIELD ONCE FLOURISHED AS A POPULAR WATER CURE RESORT.

All Owing to Its Springs—Credited with Extraordinary Virtues, Invalids Sought to Benefit by Them, Built Houses, Spent Money, and Gave Plainfield Its Boom—The Great and Pure Water Supply of To-Day—That Underground River Hypothesis.

THE belief of all America, fifty years ago, was that the water which flowed so plentifully from many springs in the neighborhood of Plainfield had wonderful medicinal qualities and possessed certain salts that were beneficial to sufferers from bronchitis, asthma, consumption, and similar troubles.

The present handsome and flourishing settlement of 18,000 inhabitants is said by the New York Herald to date its growth from the time when the news of its wonderful water supply and healthful climate became generally known.

Overworked New York merchants, who could not go abroad or to the Far West—very far in those days, 1835-55—were sent by their physicians to Plainfield, "the Colorado of the East". The name was given to the place by Dr. Loomis of New York, long ago, and still continues to be used.

Invalids from everywhere journeyed to this locality. There were no railroads in those days, and a dreary five-hour stage ride from New York was necessary. Many miles of the road were across the "terrible big swamps", near Newark Bay, which, bad enough now, were far worse in the old times. After such a ride, Plainfield, with its fragrant pine trees, balmy air and peaceful scenery, was most gladly welcomed by the weary travelers as a place of rest.

Several enterprising capitalists had built large water-cure establishments in carefully selected locations and spent much money in laying out parks which extended over many acres of ground. There were winding paths, trim shrubbery and artificial lakes on which floated dainty boats. Rustic seats and pleasant summer houses were scattered about the extensive lawns, giving a restful and fairyland aspect to the scene.

INCREASED PROSPERITY.

The plain country folks whose farms adjoined these places were bewildered by the gorgeousness of the improvements, but sharp enough to know that the value of their property was increased. Invalids, who had made long journeys to much talked of places, wished to remain forever. They bought land from the farmers at high prices and built handsome homes. This building of homes became so general that soon the expensive water cure establishments no longer paid the interest on the capital invested. Had the springs contained mineral salts as reported the capitalists could no doubt have controlled the output, but investigation proved that it was only the rare purity of the water and air that made invalids improve so greatly in health. The building "boom" increased and the place began forthwith to grow. Plainfield in this way was built up by an educated and intelligent class of people and has continued in that way ever since, so that the city is not only called "The Colorado of the East", but also the "Queen City of New Jersey", being second only to Newark in the wealth, pro rata, of its inhabitants.

About a mile west of the boundary line of North Plainfield and near the old Sebring homestead at Greenbrook are the ruins of one of these water cure establishments. The place was in the height of its glory about 1855. It was patronized by some of the most prominent and wealthy people of the United States and also, it is said, by princes, princesses and other foreigners of noble blood.

Of this grand resort for invalids only ruins are how left. The once beautiful park, handsome summer houses, rustic seats, paths and more pretentious house which were built over the springs are almost entirely obliterated by the ravages of time. The ruins are overgrown and hidden among wild shrubbery and rank weeds. The once well trimmed young trees now form what looks like any ordinary country wood.

Some vestiges of the former grandness of the place are still visible, however, though not generally known to the generation which makes up the present population of Plainfield.

Another of the old time estates, more homelike than the others, planned on a smaller scale and picturesquely located, was called the "Water Cure Retreat" and was built in 1835. It was very well patronized and was for many years in charge of Dr. Utter, who, now retired, still lives in Plainfield.

A PICTURESQUE SITE.

The interior of the large, rambling house has been remodelled. It originally contained about fifty ordinary sized rooms, but now has thirty very large ones. The building and grounds are situated on the side of the Watchung Mountain, about a mile northwest of the city, and near the Wetumpka Falls a most picturesque spot at the beginning of a narrow valley, along which is a well kept road leading to Morristown and the rolling country beyond.

The grounds connected with this establishment extended over several acres of the terraced mountain side. The place, long ago abandoned as a water cure, is now the home of R. F. M. Chase, a wealthy English gentleman. It is called "Edgewood".

There is but one "water cure establishment" in existence here now. It is run by ex-Mayor Justus H. Cooley.

For more than fifty years the wonderful water supply found under Plainfield has been the subject of much comment and conjecture regarding its source. The water possesses great purity and the supply is apparently inexhaustible. It has long been claimed that the abundant supply was caused by a bottomless river which flowed from north to south, with great force, under the entire city. In connection therewith strange stories have been told of oil having been poured down a well and reappearing in springs several miles away, and likewise with aniline coloring matter, which it is said was plainly visible seven miles from where it was applied.

Well drivers have said that they have at times lost their tools in wells which had suddenly become bottomless. About a year ago a New York engineer, with the aid of a divining rod, verified the stories which had been current, and in a recent issue a scientific publication also contains similar statements about the great underground river under Plainfield, which, however, no one has ever seen.

Geologists claim that the underground river does not exist. They say that the great amount of water is received from superficial earth, twenty-five to seventy-five feet deep, lying on basement rock, consisting of loam, sand and gravel, which is saturated its whole depth from about eighteen feet below the surface.

NATURAL FILTERING.

The peculiar soil which geologists call mordin or glacial drift, placed thousands of years ago, has been shown by recent experiments to be the best kind of purifier. As a result of experiment they claim that there is a compact mass through which there can be no rushing river, as has been described, but only the steady movement of water among the interstices of consolidated sand and stones which, being natures perfect filter, give to Plainfield its pure water and healthy atmosphere. The supply of drinking water stored beneath the city, they claim, is wholly rain water and mountain springs which have percolated into the lower strata. The depth of rainfall on Plainfield every year, the geologists say, amounts to from forty-eight to fifty-two inches, or more than twenty-five gallons to the square foot.

Until about a year ago the water was brought to the surface by means of driven wells and hand pumps, there being one or more of these wells in every Plainfield home. The water is still drawn in this manner by many of the residents, though a water-works company, which now holds the city franchise, supplies the water throughout the city, pumping it from driven wells with great steam pumps.

Having an inexhaustible supply of the clear, sparkling liquid, the company extended it pipes more than thirty-three miles, and now supplies Netherwood, Fanwood, Westfield, Cranford, Roselle and even Elizabeth, the county seat of Union county. The water from this city thus supplies a population of nearly one hundred thousand, for which purpose two million gallons are pumped every day. It is said that some of the villages to the south of the city are also contemplating using Plainfield water.

It is apropos to add that Plainfield also relies upon its peculiar soil to carry off its drainage, and therefore has never adopted any system of sewerage, though the city is getting somewhat large to be without it.

CRUSHED BY A FALLING WALL.

Two Houses and Their Inmates Buried in Chicago—Eight Persons Dead—Outbreak of Fire in the Ruins.

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—By the falling of the north wall of the burned-out John York's dry-goods store, at 765 to 781 Halsted street, at 1:15 this morning, the two-story frame building adjoining was crushed and three entire families were buried in the ruins. Eight persons were instantly killed, and four persons were seriously injured.

The killed are:
John Smith, forty-five years old.
Dollie Smith, aged thirteen years.
Baby Smith, nine years.
Hattie Smith, four years.
Paulina Reutich, nineteen years.
F. Kunze, forty-eight years.
George Mesterle, bartender.
Mrs. Mary Kunze, forty-five years.
The injured are:
F. Kunze, jr.
Patrol-Sergeant Loughran.
Mrs. Amelia Smith, probably fatal.
William Smith, policeman.

The wall was shaken by the high winds last night, but no danger was felt until after midnight, when the cracking was heard by persons on the street, but no alarm was given. When the fall came the frame buildings were crushed and covered by the masses of brick, stone, and iron. The crash roused every one on the block. The ruins took fire at once.

MUNRO'S PAPER BURNED OUT.

A Well-Fought Fire in a Large Publishing House—Three Floors Gutted, Causing a Loss of $80,000.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Normam L. Munro's big publishing house at Nos. 24 and 26 Vandewater street, was on fire early this morning, and the three upper floors of the eight-story building were completely gutted, causing a loss of about $80,000, $20,000 of which was damage to the building. The firemen had a hard fight with the flames but succeeded in saving the lower floors from destruction, although considerable damage was done there by water.

Norman L. Munro, the owner and principal occupant of the building, arrived on the scene soon after 8:30, and said he had been informed of the fire at 7. He made an attempt to then inspect his flooded offices but was discouraged by the streams of water running down the stairs. He said that the building was worth about $160,000, while the whole publishing plant together with the stock was worth much more. He was insured for $40,000, but it was impossible to a certain yet just how much injury had been done. The Family Story Paper, which is published on Saturdays, was already issued, so that there would be no delay this week, and if the safe on the top floor was uninjured there would be no interruption to next week's paper. If that was destroyed, however, new manuscript would have to be procured, which would cause a delay.

INJURED IN A HOBOKEN FIRE.

Two Firemen Caught by a Falling Wall.

HOBOKEN, Feb. 28.—At 3:30 this morning fire broke out in the extensive kindling wood establishment of Isaac Ingleson, on Jefferson, between First and Second streets, at which the entire Fire Department was called out, the entire concern was burned out, and Mr. Ingleson estimates his loss at $40,000.

One side of the four-story frame tenement house adjoining the yard was burned away. William McGrath, foreman, and Simon Nodyne, driver of No. 3 Engine, were injured by a falling wall. Fire is supposed to have originated in the boiler room.

—John Payne knocked "Gamey" Nelson down in one of the city saloons, last evening, and in falling Nelson knocked two other men down.

RECTOR JENNINGS'S CASE.

The Church Committee Takes Testimony and Reserves Decision.

The trouble between the Rev. J. B. Jennings, pastor of Grace Episcopal church, at Westfield, and his vestry and congregation was discussed yesterday in Elizabeth, in the lecture room of Christ church. The general standing committee of the Episcopal church in New Jersey had been appealed to by the Rev. Mr. Jennings for a final hearing when Bishop Scarborough informed the rector he would have to go, and the hearing was fixed for yesterday.

Bishop Scarborough was present. Rector Jennings and the vestrymen with whom he is at sword's point were also there. The committee, composed of ministers from different parts of the State, was likewise prompt in arriving.

Seven members of the committee were present. The Rev. A. B. Baker, of Princeton, was in the chair. Vestrymen Elliott, Forster and Gale represented the Westfield church.

The hearing was secret says the New York World. Several witnesses were examined and Rector Jennings was heard in his own defense, while Bishop Scarborough related the complaints lodged with him against the rector, whose alleged drinking habits seem to be his greatest fault.

The session lasted nearly two hours. The committee reserved its decision.

One of the clergymen told the World reporter afterwards that the question of deposing the Rev. Mr. Jennings was not discussed. There were unfortunate differences existing between the pastor and the vestry of Grace church which, he said, was the subject under consideration. The committee had heard all the testimony and would advise the Bishop on what action to take. The Bishop would announce his decision publicly in due time.

Others who were at the meeting are confident the committee will decide against Rector Jennings, and will advise the Bishop to remove him from Grace church. The feeling, it is said, is too bitter against Mr. Jennings among his flock for any hope of reconciliation, and the only way peace can be restored and the church saved, it is claimed, is by removing Mr. Jennings as soon as possible.

If the decision is adverse to the rector it is said he will appeal to the General Conference, which convenes in May.

The rector's wife, who is divorced from him, is in Elizabeth, at her sister's in Murray street. She is pleased at the turn affairs have taken.

CHINESE NEW YEAR.

How It Is Observed by the Pigtails in America.

They Call on Each Other, Exchange Presents, and Eat and Drink Rare Dishes Imported from the Flowery Kingdom.

[Special Los Angles (Cal.) Letter.]

THE Chinese New Year begins on February 16. The New Year will contain thirteen months; two of the months will be equivalent to our June. Ordinarily a year is twelve months, except "leap year," which has thirteen months. Every third year is leap year. The year has 365 days, but the different reckoning of the time makes the odd month. The Chinese month is shorter, each having either twenty-nine or thirty days—none longer nor shorter. For instance, February has 29, March 30, April 29, May 29, June 30, second June 29, July 30, August 30, September 29, October 30, November 30, December 30, January 29. The New Year begins with the first new moon in February.

The calendar months are so notated that the days of each month correspond with the moon—the first day of the new moon is the first day of the month, and the last day of the moon is the last day of the month. The calculation is made for three years and the "extra month," or interlactory month, is in the "leap year," as our extra day, "which gives February twenty-nine"—according to the schoolboy's rhyme. The notations are made in Pekin by the officials, and there printed and sent out by the officials to all countries, something in the manner that our almanacs are sent out. But the vermifuge and febrifuge advertisements are omitted. Instead there are sketches of history of the present Chinese dynasty. George Lem, a leading Chinese merchant of this city, has just received a copy of the Chinese almanac for the next year, beginning February 16. It is about eight inches long and the pages are about three inches in width, and it is replete with select reading matter—astrological and historical. The month is not divided into weeks, and there are no Sundays.

Their equivalent to our Christmas is the feast in honor to the sun entering the winter solstice, on December 22. It is observed by a feast on the previous evening, a general bursting of fire-crackers, and an extra high service at the josshouse, at which the joss is bedecked in unusual finery, and numerous offerings are made.

The celebration of the New Year lasts from one or two days to a week, or longer—according to inclination and means. With the wealthy and high officials in China it is a continual feast for about two weeks. The wealthy merchants of this city continue the feast about a week. Business is practically suspended so far as they are concerned, leaving their clerks in charge, who keep open shop merely to take in what comes along, something like the Caucasian who keeps his place of business open on Sunday from the force of habit.

On the evening of the New Year, Chinatown is illuminated by Chinese lanterns of various sizes and all colors swinging from every door, in every window, and on the roofs of the joss house, theater and restaurant. The main joss is glittering with regalia, and the various other gods—even those of pestilence, famine and war—are dressed in the most gorgeous manner. During the holiday season every sinner visits the joss house, sprawls down upon all fours and prays in turn to each of the gods whom he has offended, which almost invariably includes all of them. He also prays for what he most wants for the coming year. He "forgives" everybody who has done him an injury during the past year—or, is supposed to—and in turn, is also forgiven his "trespasses." Every Chinaman pays his pecuniary liabilities, and begins the New Year free of debt, and with no enemies, or enmity toward others. This is the obligation: If a Chinese merchant does not pay his debts by the first of the year, his creditors are permitted to go to his store and post up on his door copies of their bills, or blackliating statements of his refusal to pay, and under their ethics the merchant cannot open his store and begin business until he has paid his creditors. Other debtors, who cannot be thus reached by snap judgment, are ostracized by public opinion until their debts are paid. If they hold a position they are discharged, and no one will employ them—they are regarded as outcasts, or frauds, and any Chinaman who assists such a fraudulent debtor is himself ostracized and boycotted. It is a splendid example for the Caucasian to follow.

Their amusement during the New Year's celebration is feasting, praying, visiting each other and attending the theater. No "grand balls"—the Chinaman does not dance; and there are no "evening parties." On the eve of the New Year the aristocratic business men of the Chinese quarter give a "grand dinner" at the leading Chinese restaurant, which is brilliantly illuminated for the occasion. The dinner is given in a large room, the guests seated at o'clock and lasts until after midnight, or the appearance of the New Year. On a dais in one end of the room are the musicians, who play at intervals during the feast.

Others give private dinners and invite their most intimate friends, and the poorer classes have their holiday dinner also—that being the main feature, as with the Caucasian. The restaurants make special "spreads" during the season, importing the choicest edibles from China, and lay in an extra supply of chickens and ducks from the local market. The Chinaman is especially fond of chicken and duck, roasted, also of fish.

On New Year's morning about daylight the New Year's calling begins among the men. The young men call upon the young men; the elder upon the elder; and then the young call upon the aged men.

The New Year's card is a small sheet of book paper about seven inches in length and about four inches in width. The side on which the name of the caller is printed, or marked, is blood red. The recipient of the card files it away for future reference, but usually pastes it on the wall, where it serves both as a reminder of friendship and as wall paper, and if the calls are numerous he can get along without a wall paper decorator. The initial to this article represents the New Year's card of George Lem, leader of the Celestial Four Hundred of this city.

The costume is of the richest silk, and the ends of the wide sleeves are beautifully embroidered. The fan is inlaid and hand-painted. To his right is his opium pipe, or "pipe of state," which he uses only on feast days.

The women are dressed in the richest silks and satins specially imported from China by their husbands, and there is the same rivalry of dress that exists between their Caucasian sisters. During the interchange of New Year's calls they indulge in social smokes. The opium pipes are beautifully decorated with silken strings, pendant, as seen to the right of the hostess. Her little children are also richly dressed, with prettily-decorated caps.

HAWARDEN CASTLE.

Where and How Mr. Gladstone Keeps His Famous Library.

Hawarden castle is very historical. The old castle ruins, which still remain, is, according to the best authorities, the work of one period, and that, probably, the close of the reign of Henry III., or the early part of Edward I. But the photograph is of the modern castle, situated in a most beautiful natural park of about 250 acres in extent, and its banks and glades richly timbered and overgrown with bracken afford, from various points, most lovely views over the plains of Chester. The castle was built in 1752, originally a brick house; it was afterwards, 1809, extended by the addition of the library on the west side and the kitchen and offices on the east, the whole being cased in stone and castellated. The steps on the shadow side in the photograph lead up to Mr. Gladstone's study, or, as he calls it, "The Temple of Peace." The most striking feature about this room is that it is built about with bookcases, and, instead of their being ranged along the wall, they stand out in the room at right angles, each to hold a double row facing either way. Intervals are left sufficient to give access to the books, and Mr. Gladstone prides himself upon the economy of space obtained by the arrangement. His library numbers nearly 20,000 volumes, many of which have overflowed into adjoining rooms, where they are similarly stored.

Taste in Ants.

H. Devaux has been making experiments with the sense of taste in ants, in course of which he found that while fond of sugar they disliked saccharin, and even refused sugar when mixed with saccharin.

Unselfish.

Sweet Girl—Is your love for me absolutely unselfish?

Adorer—Absolutely.

Sweet Girl—Then I wish you'd go somewhere else to-night. Jack Hansom promised to call.—N. Y. Weekly.

Indulgent Papa—Why, my dear, you had a party last month. How often do you wish to entertain your friends?

She—This one is not to entertain my friends, papa, but to snub my enemies.—Brooklyn Life.

A Reasonable Objection.

Boarder—We are raising a subscription to get a rocking chair for that poor boarder. Won't you give something?

Landlady—Not much. His room is right over mine.—Texas Siftings.

Fountain of Youth.

Death Rate of the Earth.

An insurance journal published the following statistics of the death rate of the entire globe: It is fair to assume that all told 88,000,000 people die annually. This is equal to 91,554 deaths per day, 3,780 per hour, and sixty-two per minute, or one in less than every second of time. One-fourth of all people born die before arriving at the age of seven years; one-half die before the age of seventeen. The average duration of human life is thirty-eight years. Of 10,000 persons one attains the age of 101 years; one out of 500 attains the age of ninety-one years, and out of every 100 only one will live to be sixty years old. Of 1,000 persons having attained the age of seventy years, forty-three were clergymen or politicians, forty agriculturists, thirty-three workingmen, thirty-two soldiers, twenty-nine lawyers and civil engineers, twenty-seven professors and twenty-four physicians.

The Falls of Niagara.

According to the most recent calculations 100,000,000 tons of water pour over Niagara every hour. This represents 16,000,000 horse power. The total coal production of the world, either daily, weekly, monthly or yearly, would not furnish steam sufficient to pump it back again.

A List of Calamities.

"This bell," said a well-meaning sexton, when showing the belfry of an interesting village church to a party of visitors, "is only rung in case of a visit from the lord bishop of the diocese, a fire, a flood, or any other such calamities."—Demorest's Magazine.

What Hurt Him.

Doctor—You mustn't stay out late at night.

Patient (a married man)—Is the night air bad for me?

Doctor—No, it's the excitement after getting home that hurts you.—Town Topics.

GOOD REASON WHY.

Stout Party—Why, why, I'm astonished to see a young man of your size crying like that!

Young Man—I guess you'd cry too, if you'd a' loved as I have, and then a' had your best girl took from you by a man yer hated!—Jury.

His Position.

The father had gone away and left his only son in charge.

"Are you the head of the firm?" asked a man with a sample case.

"No sir," replied the young man. "I'm only the heir of the head."—Demorest's Magazine.

A Big Jump.

De Ville—You say that Whipple's horse jumped that ditch! That was a wonderful jump.

Fellowes—Yes; but still it was nothing to the one Whipple made. He landed at least a rod farther on than the horse did.—Puck.

A New Idea for Hubby.

Mrs. Youngwife—Jack, why don't you ever invite your friends in to break bread with us?

Jack—By Jove, I never thought of getting rid of it that way.—N. Y. Sun.

How Things Have Changed.

Tourist (from the north)—Uncle, can you get us up a real typical southern dinner?

Mr. Milledge—Bless yo' heart, suttin'ly, sah. Mammy, jes' tippicle a can ob dem Bost'n bake-beans, on ter de fish an' slice off a hunk ob dat Sheecago dried beef. We sen's all our chick'ns an' hawgs an' hominy down t' Bo'nokes way, sah.—Judge.
